JACKSON CHAPEL PLAN IS WORKING

Many Farmers Have Reported Work They Will Give And Pay With Eats

It was announced last week that County Agent Stapp has undertaken to put the Jackson Chapel relief plan to work in the several communities of the county. Many letters have been sent out to farmers urging them to report to the county agent such work as they can give the unemployed on their farms, and stating in what commodities they can pay for the work.

Quite a number of replies have been received, and more are coming in every day. Below we list a few of the offers that have been made to people who want work:

J. A. Headley, Beat 4, Mt. Pleasant school district; will give 5 days work, will pay in syrup, meat, lard, potatoes, or peas.

PRIVATE SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY

Clanton Grammar School Will Carry On With Regular Program of Work

Prof. I. J. Quinn announces that plans have been worked out whereby the Clanton Grammar School will open as a private school next Monday morning at eight o'clock. Tuition for pupils will be $3.00 per pupil per month, payable in advance.

Mr. Quinn states that the pupils will take up their work where they left off for Christmas holidays, and will be carried right on with instruction from the same teachers and in pursuance with the same program as originally outlined for the school year.

The teachers offer an unconditional guarantee that the school will be carried on, and a full opportunity provided for all students who attend.

Next Friday, January 6, Mr. Quinn will be at the office of County Superintendent Lawrence, ready to receive tuition fees, and to give to anyone the necessary information about the plans for carrying on the school.

C. R. Moates of Verbena Route 2 was in Clanton Wednesday.

W. A. Gulledge of Verbena was in Clanton Tuesday.

MARRIAGE OF MR. SAMUEL MARTIN AND MISS RUTH SESSIONS

The marriage of Mr. Samuel Martin and Miss Ruth Sessions was solemnized at the home of the bride in Clanton last Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The ceremony was pronounced by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of Clanton Baptist church.

The bride is the lovely and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Sessions. For the past two years she has been teaching in the Clanton Grammar School, since her graduation at the Florence Teachers College.

Mr. Martin is a well-known young business man of Clanton, being a member of the firm of J. Mell Martin & Sons, Funeral Directors.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin will make their home in Clanton. Mrs. Martin will continue her work at the Grammar School.

The many friends of these popular young people unite in wishing them a life of happiness together.

SPECIAL SESSION AND THE SCHOOLS

The Problem That Faces Legislature When It Convenes January 31

The call by Governor Miller of an extraordinary session of the Legislature on January 31 gives a prominent place to the plight of our public schools, and focuses anew the attention of the State on the practical breakdown of our public school system.

In considering the school situation it should be understood definitely that it involves two distinct and separate problems, each of vital importance to public education

The first problem is to get enough money to pay the new appropriations for education—very much reduced though they are—which were authorized by the recent special session of the Legislature. The second is to fund the state debt of $20,000,000, three-fourths of which is for education.

A solution of the first problem must be found if our schools are to operate during the next few years on the reduced appropriations recently set up. A solution of the second problem is necessary if the State is to pay its just debt for services rendered and for capital outlay spent for property now owned by the State.

Up to October 1, last, the Legislature appropriated annually approximately $6,716,000 for education. This does not include the constitutional funds which total $3,729,000. At the recent special session of the Legislature these statutory appropriations were reduced to approximately $5,643,000. Without additional revenue for schools these reductions will be further increased by the operation of the Budget and Finance Control Act which authorizes the Governor to lower them to the level of revenue available for their payment.

According to the estimated revenue for the current year recently announced by Comptroller Hard, and as a possible result of the operation of the Budget and Finance Control Act, the money available for education will lack about $1,600,000 of being enough to pay the reduced appropriations for education. This means that though the State should receive every cent anticipated for education during the current year, the treasury will lack approximately $1,600,000 of having enough money to meet its obligation to schools.

As has been frequently stated, the State's debt for education at the present time approximates $15,500,000. Other debts added to this amount will yield a total indebtedness of about $20,000,000. Warrants for this amount, some of which have been outstanding for nearly two years, are now in the hands of teachers, bankers, and business men throughout the State.

Since it is generally agreed that the state cannot afford to repudiate this debt, the funding of the indebtedness will be a problem of major importance for the legislators when they convene on January 31. However, it is to be understood that the payment of the debt will not in itself enable Alabama to operate its schools.

WELFARE WORK GOING FORWARD

Our people will be interested to know that the county's program of child welfare work and relief for the needy is going forward with systematic organization.

Miss Denton, in charge of the work, says plans are bing shaped for a very extensive and effective program, and within a few days a lot of good results will be accomplished.

Dr. R. B. McNeill of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

Commissioners Court Will Not Supply Money For Public Schools

Final Action Announced In Meeting Last Friday After A Long Session In Which A Full Discussion of the County School Situation Was Made By Citizens of County

At the request of Rev. S. J. Ezell, chairman of a citizens committee in the interest of the schools of the county, Judge Reynolds called the Commissioners Court into session last Friday morning at ten o'clock to make final disposition of the proposal that the Commissioners render financial aid to keep the schools open. Present at the meeting were Judge Reynolds, members of the Commissioners Court, and several trustees, teachers, and interested citizens.

When the meeting was declared ready for consideration of business, by Judge Reynolds, Rev. Ezell was the first speaker. He briefly stated the matter that the citizens wished the Commissioners to consider, that of finding some way to extend financial aid to keep the schools running. He said we can keep the schools running, if we want them to keep running, and referred to statements in his published letter of last week, concerning financial conditions of the county. Hope was expressed by Rev. Ezell that some aid for the schools would come out of the special session of the legislature that has been called by Governor Miller to convene on January 31st.

Ezell asked the Commissioners to provide sufficient money to pay the teachers month by month until the legislature does something to relieve the situation. Finally he reduced his request to the definite proposition that the Commissioners take care of teachers' salaries until March 1st. The County School Board, he said, would provide transportation costs; and if the commissioners would pay the teachers for that time, he believed it would gurantee our schools to continue open for the full term as originally planned for this year.

Prof. J. A. Peterson, chairman of the teachers association of Chilton County, had a few words to say. He said he believed if the commissioners would take care of the teachers salaries for a month or so, the legislature would do something by that time.

P. H. Knox, a citizen who is much interested in the continuation of our schools, said he believes that the people of the county would endorse the action of the commissioners in helping to keep our schools open and that the special session of the legislature will bring some means of relief.

Marion W. Mims, a teacher, spoke to the subject in the interest of the school children. As a teacher, he said he had already gotten accustomed to doing without things. He expressed the hope that the commissioners would find some way to come to the rescue of the schools, not for the sake of the teachers, but for the future interest of the school children.

G. C. Armstrong, trustee of the Clanton schools said, "There is no use to continue speech-making. Trustees surely are all interested in finding a way to keep the schools running. As for myself, I am willing to make my soup a little thinner in order to keep my children in school. This appeal is for the children of our county, and not for us grown folks."

L. C. Warr, principal of Chilton County High School, said, "The seven and one-half thousand children of Chilton County do not comprehend what they are facing in the closing of our schools. Teachers of Chilton County are not declaring dividends in money and material things. Money spent for education of the youth of our county is the best investment possible, and at the same time will percolate through all business channels.

Rev. E. W. Butler, of Thorsby, appealed to the court and to all citizens to think of the interest of the boys and girls of the county. He said, "I am not directly or personally concerned about the operation of the public schools; but if I had a boy or girl depending upon the public schools for education, I would be willing to sacrafice to the limit in order to keep him or her in school."

Rev. Ezell spoke briefly again, saying, "The highest privilege that has ever come before this court is to grant this request to help keep open the public schools of our county. We realize that it is not mandatory upon this court to help the schools; but you will never have an opportunity to do anything that will mean as much to the present and future of our county."

Prof. I. J. Quinn, principal of Clanton Grammar School, appealed to the court to come to the rescue of the school children. The teachers, he said, have been sacrificing for the public interest for many months. "We are willing to keep on sacrificing, and we hope the commissioners court can find a plan to meet us in this critical time in the lives of our children."

Toy Williams Has Hard Time Finding School

(J. T. Williams)

Some weeks ago a friend of ours was in Shanghai and wanted to go out to see Kiangwan Bible Training School. My wife called a taxi and went out with this friend and suggested that I call for them after I left the office.

Kiangwan is one of the suberbs of Shanghai, that was almost completely destroyed by the Japanese during the late unpleasantness between Japan and China in and around Shanghai. I had never visited this school, even before the war. However, I was given instructions how to find the place and thought it would be fairly easy.

When I reached Kiangwan, it was almost dark and my land marks were missed. I was told that the place was very near the railway station, but was not told that the railway station had been completely destroyed. I passed the place and wandered around for a while until I was sure I was lost. I asked a policeman to direct me to a woman's school that was conducted by some foreign women. He scratched his head a little and said he did not know, but if I would go to police headquarters, they might be able to tell me. I went up and asked another policeman, with like results. Finally I reached the police headquarters and inquired as before. After seeming puzzled for a bit, the man pointed up the dark street to where a light was shining and said, "There is a school which I think is what you are hunting." So off I went again.

Having arrived at the gate of the school grounds, I inquired of the gate keeper whether "have got one school for women." "Shih" (yes), was his reply. "Have got, no have got foreign women teachers." "Pu shih" (no), "Chinese women which is managed by American women." There was a pause and some thinking and talking between the gate-keeper and his friend, who was standing by, listening. Neither of them knew. I had about reached the end of my row. There must have been on my face a look of disappointment, or perhaps despair.

As I was turning slowly to retrace my steps, I noticed the gateman's face begin to light up as though he had thought of something. Then he said, "Oh, perhaps you are looking for the school where they teach about Jesus?" "That is exactly what I am looking for," was my response. The Jesus Teaching School is just over there across the railroad. Then I thanked him most cordially and turned around and headed back for the crossing.

As I approached the police station, the guard out on duty, got out in the street and motioned for me to stop. I stopped and asked him what he wanted. He said, "Perhaps you are looking for the school where they teach the Jesus doctrine." I assured him also that that was the place, and was directed to cross the railroad and stop at the first house on the right. "Hsieh, Hesieh, Hesieh Sheng" I said as I hastened on to where my wife and friend were wondering what had become of me.

It pays sometimes to describe carefully what one is hunting.

Around Kiangwan there are several schools, but there is no one that stands out from all the others as the one which teaches about Jesus. These "Teach Jesus Doctrine Schools" in China are having a great influence in bringing many people to know "Him". Everyone who gives and prays for Missions is helping to make Jesus known where there are millions who dod not know Him.

The car which I drove on this trip out was the same old "Chevvy" that the good people of the Clanton Baptist Church helped to send across the ocean to China. It is still running fine and giving good service.

New Years Greetings to all my friends in old Chilton.

MEETING OF CLANTON BERRY GROWERS ASSOCIATION JAN. 6

The annual meeting of the Clanton Berry Growers Association is hereby called to meet at the courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on Friday, January 6th, at 1:00 o'clock p.m., 1933.

All members and prospective berry growers are requested to attend this meeting. Officers for 1933 are to be elected and other matters of importance will be taken up. Come and tell all new members near you to come, as we do not want to miss any berry grower in our territory.—J. N. Dennis, Secretary Clanton Berry Growers Association.

REV. D. S. MARTIN HERE

Rev. D. S. Martin of Equality was in Clanton Wednesday on his way to Brother Nelson's birthday party. Rev. Nelson and Rev. Martin are old friends, having lived close together in Coosa County for many years.

Rev. Martin expects to spend a few days here with his son, J. Mell Martin, before returning home.

CAN GET CLOTHES FOR THE NEEDY

Adjutant General Explains The Proposition To Probate Judge Reynolds

Judge Reynolds has received the following letter from Col. Hartley A. Moon, Adjutant General of Alabama, concerning clothing that may be secured for distribution to the needy:

The congress by joint resolution No. 500 has authorized the secretary of the Navy, "under such regulations as he may prescribe, to sell, at nominal prices to recognized charity Organizations, to states and subdivisions thereof, and to municipalities, the following listed non-regulation and excess navy clothing provided the purchasing agency signs a certificate that the articles shall be given absolutely free to the needy and destitute unemployed." This clothing is stored at the Naval Supply Depot, Brooklyn, N. Y. Alabama's allotment is as follows, with the price of each article as shown opposite the name of the article:

330 drawers, heavy, cotton and wool, white, 10c pair.

286 pairs gloves, wool, winterfield shade, 5c pair.

1,650 jerseys, wool, dark blue, 25c pair.

836 jumpers, dungaree, blue denim, 10c each

1,859 overalls, 30 oz., blue cloth, double breasted, knee length and short, 75c each.

198 shirts, chambray, cotton, blue, 5c each.

1,034 pairs shoes, leather, black, high, 25c each

220 pairs shoes, leather, black, low, 25c pair.

660 pairs trousers, dungaree, blue denim, 10c pair.

154 undershirts, heavy, cotton and wool, white, 10c each.

If your county, or any municipality within your county or any recognized charity agency within your county, wishes to purchase any of these articles, please have them write at once what articles and what quantities they want. On request of this department (The Adjutant General's Office, State Capitol, Montgomery, Alabama) will promptly place in the hands of the agency within your county making the request a form, of which the navy has given us a supply, for them to fill out and mail to this office for approval by the governor.

The navy's requirements are that the orders from all states must be in the hands of the naval authorities within a fixed time limit, otherwise the allotment will be withdrawn. With the foregoing in mind, please have those interested in these purchases for purposes authorized to make requests promptly on this department for necessary forms on which to make their formal order. This formal order must bear the postmark of the 15th of January, or earlier, otherwise it will not be considered in this office.

Your state military department is anxious to help you in this service to the needy and destitute unemployed of your county, and you are assured of prompt action in this department.

Judge Reynolds requests publication of the above letter of Col. Moon in full, in order that municipalities in Chilton County may know of their opportunity to secure these goods for distribution to the needy.

Any municipality or relief agency interested in this matter may secure from Judge Reynolds further information about how to secure these goods. List of other items in addition to those above are in the hands of the probate judge.

The county has ordered a quantity of clothing that will be distributed to the needy through the child welfare department.

"MACK'S" PLACE READY TO SERVE

New Business Will Meet A Popular Demand Of People of Clanton

After spending several weeks in remodeling, rearranging, and installing new fixtures, J. W. McEathern and Alex Callen announce ready for business at "Mack's" in the building formerly occupied by Jones Place.

The business of Mack's will cater to the public with delicious and popular priced sandwiches, hot and cold drinks, cigars, cigaretts, magazines, newspapers, candies, and fruits.

They have arranged a series of semi-private dining booths where their patrons may drink and dine with all the comfort and convenience of the finest dining rooms. The management makes a special announcement of specialties for Sunday afternoons and Sunday nights.

In addition to the comfort and convenience that is provided inside this delightful place, they will give special attention to outside trade, offering jam up curb service as well as free delivery of anything in their line to any place in the business section of the city any time.

Mack's will continue to be the bus station in Clanton, and as such it will serve to make a very wholesome and delightful impression on the many travelers who will have occasion to stop there.

We congratulate Mack and Alex upon the excellence of the ideas which they have incorporated into an actual physical fact at what is destined to be the most popular place in Clanton.

EXCHANGE BARBER SHOP MOVED

The Exchange Barber Shop has been moved to the place formerly occupied by the Dixie Barber Shop, in the Walker building. A complete renovation of the fixtures and arrangements makes the Exchange a very neat and well appointed place.

Dick Bean, Walter Sanford, George Wyatt and Webb Parrish constitute the force that will be on hand to continue to serve their trade in the most approved and courteous manner.

These boys start out the new year in the new location, wishing that everybody's whiskers will continue to grow at a normal rate during 1933, and that they may have the pleasure of amputating their share of them.

FOUND A TRUCK TAG

Steve Holley brought to The Union-Banner last week a truck tag which he found in the public road. It is number 9-504. The owner of the tag may get it at The Union-Banner office by producing the proper proff that he is the rightful owner of same.

February 1st is the Last Day on Which to Pay your Poll Tax. Attend to this Important Matter Now Without Fail!

NOTICE

On account of ill health I have been forced to take a vacation for rest and recuperation.

I want to ask that those who owe me on either open accounts or notes, please see Mrs. Gragg at my office in town or at home, and pay all or part of such accounts.

I ask you to please remember that I have answered your calls in the past when you needed my services. Now, I hope you will answer my call, as I need your response as badly as you needed mine.

I hope to be back again in a few weeks ready and able to take care of my patients.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT CORP.

Editor Union-Banner:

The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Jackson, Miss., has been set up with a branch office at Montgomery, Alabama, for the purpose of making livestock and agricultural loans, the livestock loans to enable farmers to keep their herds intact and to expand livestock operations as well as to assist the "feeder" and dairy farmers.

With the new year, "crop production" loans and " barnyard" loans will be made. The crop production loan will enable the farmer to produce their crops, but this loan will be made for the exclusive purpose of crop production, the money being released as needed for production purposes, and not being used to pay any debts or obligations other than those incident to crop production.

The barnyard loan is a general loan, implying just what the name indicates—that is, a loan for the small farmers who have work stock, a few cattle, hogs, poultry and other barnyard livestock, and who need a small loan for the purpose of carrying on.

Al loans will be made at the rate of sven per cent interest for the time the money is actually used and no loans can extend beyond a period of twelve months.

Applications for barnyard and crop production loans will be handled by a local committee in your county, the application forms to be secured from this committee, and forwarded directly to the Montgomery office. Under no circumstances, should the application be forwarded directly to the Montgomery office.

In your county the following public spirited citizens have agreed to serve as an advisory committee for crop production and barnyard loans. As already stated, they will be prepared to furnish applications and assist the borrower in preparing these applications and after the application has been properly prepared it will be forwarded to the Montgomery office. Inspectors will then be assigned to make proper investigations. The agricultural county agent will assist the applicant, working with the county committee. Your agent is C. E. Stapp of Clanton, and your county committee consists of the following:

W. A. Gulledge, Chairman, Verbena; C. F. Jones of Clanton, Judge L. H. Reynolds of Clanton, W. H. Conway of Jemison, H. M. Nix of Maplesville, H. S. Shaw of Clanton, H. Grady Reynolds of Clanton.

The attorney for your county is H. Grady Reynolds of Clanton.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Everybody is about well around here now, and the new year seems to have brought a change in the weather.

We wish to congratulate Mr. Clifton Parrish and Miss Lucile Kelley, who were married Christmas day. They both live near here and we all join in wishing them much happiness in the future.

Miss Gertie Wilson was the guest of Miss Kathleen Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kelley Sunday.

Services were rained out on Christmas day, but many attended Sunday school Sunday morning.

The program was not rendered so well Sunday night, as the books were not distributed until Sunday, and no one had time to study their parts. But everybody come back next Sunday night and we will assure you a better program.

The singing was good both Sunday morning and Sunday night. The chairman was absent but services and we are giving him a special invitation to come back next Sunday. All visitors are welcome at all times. —Secretary-Treasurer.

THE TIME FOR SUMMING UP

Three years of depression have ended and we can begin to sum up.

Hard times have brought ill winds —but they have also brought some beautiful breezes.

Businesses and individuals have been forced to "write down" fictitious valuations and standards. This has naturally caused a great deal of hardship and a long black list of bankruptcies. But real readjustments had to occur to put a sound foundation under family and business life.

Those who expanded and operated on the principle that that which goes up need never come down, and that boom prosperity would continue unabted forever, had to be deflated.

The individual has found that it is posibsle to live happily and comfortably on a pre-war basis. He found that the arbiter of wages is what the dollar will buy. He's come down to earth.

These are the "healthful breezes' of depression. The decks have been cleared for action, and the way to recovery is open.

As for the problems of depression, they are still vital and intense. Writing in the Yale Review, Sir Arthur Salter observed that 1933 will be one of the most crucial years in modern history.

The pressing and increasing weight of taxation stifles the capital (industry) of the world, creating unemployment and preventing industrial expansion and the further investment of money.

The burden of armaments, with their drain on national incomes and their constant threat to world peace, grows greater. In every important country the cost of wars, past, present and future, is the major item in the national budget.

The question of foreign trade looms large on the economic horizon. In normal times, foreign sales amount to ten per cent of the gross in this country—and ten per cent is the margin between profit and loss in the average business. Today foreign trade is almost non-existent, due largely to a new and intense spirit of economic nationalism which finds its expression in tariff wars and embargoes. Almost every economist of distinction here and abroad stress the need for revitalizing foreign trade as a factor in the work of recovery. Tied up with this is the problem of silver, which affects the purchasing power of half the world's people. When silver is depressed, as at present, the silver standard countries are unable to buy the gold standard markets.

The picture at home in undoubtedly more encouraging than the world picture. We have the finest industrial organism in existance—we have the factories and the machines and the farms that are adequate to our needs. Our utilities, our railroads, our oil companies, our insurance institutions, are the harbingers of American progress. They represent honest national assets, as against the fictitious assets we counted on in the boom days. Because the machinery of distribution has slowed, it does not mean that the machinery of production is lacking or faulty.

Our greatest single problem is unemployment. Ten million of our working population is at present out of a job, and its buying has come to a stop. Much of this unemployment is temporary—part of it is the result of machine displacement of labor. Today the foremost industrialists are working toward plans to shorten the working day and the working week, and to provide some means of unemployment insurance that will assure the able and willing worker a livelihood in bad times as well as good. It is difficult to believe that their efforts will end in failure. The weight of taxation, which forces retrenchment, is preventing the emploment of many of those now seeking jobs.

This is America at the opening of 1933—a vast and incalculably rich land which is gradually emerging from depression and entering a new era. It is still a land of promise, as it was in the days of the Argonauts. It has lost nothing that it really possessed. Its earth is still fruitful, its mines are still filled with metals, its factories are ready to make the necessities and luxuries its people want. Its people are couragious, and they still have faith. Its leaders retain those vital qualities, intelligence, vision. America will pull out of the depresion, and from the lessons that depression has taught, it may find a means of preventing both extreme rise and extreme drops in the economic and social cycle, and of creating genuine, permanent and sound prosperity.

Let the people curb the tax bill and the first great step will be taken toward industrial recovery and employment.

Mrs. Floyd Little, of the Jackson's Chapel community was carried to a hospital in Birmingham last week, where she will remain for treatment a few days.

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

When the readers of The Union-Banner see this, the new year of 1933, will be only about five or six days old. I wish for each of you a happy, prosperous year; that the dark clouds of want and bewilderment will be lifted and the bright sunshine of plenty and contentment may come again to our benighted land.

My text for this, the first sermon of the new year, is found in Acts, 27:31. "Paul said to the centurion and to the soldiers, except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved." Paul appealed his case to Ceaser, as we read in Acts 25:11. King Agrippa and Bernice on arriving at Caesarea to salute Festus, expressed a desire to hear Paul. So Festus had Paul brought forth. In the 26th chapter of the Acts we read of Paul's defiance before Agrippa. At the conclusion of that great speech, the great king, Agrippa, was almost persuaded to be a Christian and said to Festus, "This man might have been set at liberty if he had not appealed unto Ceaser."

In the 27th chapter of Acts we find Paul with two hundred-three-score and sixteen souls on board ship, bound for Rome. A great wind arose against them and they were driven on a certain island called Melita. But before they escaped to land from their stranded ship, some soldiers pretended to be casting another anchor out of the foreship, but really were letting a lifebat down to try to escape to land, and when Paul discovered their ruse he said in the language of my text, "Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved."

I wish, in this sermon, to use this ship as a picture of the saving power of Christ. We are passengers on the sea of life, every one born into this world launches fourth upon this sea at birth. But everyone on arriving at the age when they know right and wrong persist in selecting for themselves the kind of craft they think will ultimately land them safely on the other side. So many of our otherwise intellegent people persist in thinking that their little boats are just as good as "the old ship of Zion." I am going to name just a few of the many kinds of boats that people have constructed for themselves. We have lots of young people today who profess to believe that just because their parents are Christians that God will save them, or in other words, God will not damn the child of His own children. Young man, if you are sailing life's sea in that kind of boat, I must tell you that it will sink just at the time when you will need it most. Because you are responsible to God for your own sins, your father's and mother's religion will not save you.

Another class have a different kind of boat, and I find more and more who are depending upon this kind. Those in this kind of boat have allowed satan to put it into their hearts that God is so good that He won't make a man and put him in a world and then make a devil that is stronger than the man and then punish the man for doing like the devil wants him to do. In other words, God loves His children too much to punish them for their sins. These all profess to believe that everybody is a child of God just because God made them. My friends, if you are in that kind of boat, let me call your attention to John 8:44. "Ye are of your father, the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do." This should be sufficient to convince you.

Just one more boat is all that I will have time to describe. And to my mind, there are thousands sailing life's sea in this kind. I will name it "Church membership." So many of our church people have for one reason or another, joined church without conversion, and are depending on that alone to save them. It is a fact that the church never saved anyone. It was not intended to save, but was instituted and set up for saved people. That is, after we are saved, then, and not until then, should we join the church.

The sea of life is dotted here and there with those different kinds of craft, their occupants seemingly satisfied drifting toward eternity. Friends, your boat is going to spring a leak and it might be just at the time when you will not have time to get another Just now, while you are in good health and all is well with you, is the time for you to discover the frailty of your boat and get out of it and get in one that can stand the buffeting of the waves and will ultimately land you safely on the other side.

Jesus has promised to save all who will entrust their souls to Him. He can steer the old ship of Zion to that happy land, where there will be no more troubles, but where all who love Him will be forever happy in His presence. May He abundantly bless all of you.—Elder Blossom.

SHEIK OF THE NORTH IS SHOWN IN "IGLOO" FILM

Chee-Ak, a full blooded Eskimo, and a veritable Sheik of the North, makes his first bow to local theatregoers Tuesday and Wednesday, January 10 and 11 at the Wadesonian Theatre, in the leading role of "Igloo," Ewing Scott's Universal drama production at the top of the world.

The entire cast of "Igloo" is composed of Eskimos living in the desolate settlement of Point Barrow, Alaska, and the picture is said to be at once the most intimate and the most startling ever filmed in the snowy wastes of the far North.

The earlier sequences of the story show the home life of the Eskimos, facing sarvation in their ice igloos because the terrific blizzards of winter have driven all game out of the country. Finally they begin a trek across the snow swept wastes in search of the open sea, and excitement and real danger develop when they attempt to make their way across the melting ice which blankets the ocean, frantically endeavoring to escape the grinding fury of the polar ice pack.

Thrilling sequences in "Igloo" show the Eskimos engaged in hunts for whale, walrus and polar bears, with Cee-Ak weilding a native spear with deadly aim and demonstrating to his doubting followers his prowess as a hunter. These scenes are said to be filled with exciting events and to aid greatly in making "Igloo" what is described as the most novel screen drama of the season.

Ewing Scott, author and director of the picture, spent seven months in the icebound Arctic regions in the production of "Igloo" living in a rude hut among the Eskimos, and subsisting on the all-meat diet of seal and walrus. In addition to Chee-Ak, the cast of natives appearing in the picture includes such strange names as Kyatuk, Toyuk, Lanak and Nah Shuk.

DANCERS IN THE DARK

Transition in character is the only requisite which Mariam Hopkins places upon a part which she plays.

If the character she portrays does something interesting instead of just being present at events, she is satisfied no matter how small it is.

In her latest picture, "Dancers in the Dark," which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre Saturday and Monday, January 7th and 9th of this week and next, Miss Hopkins progresses from a sophisticated, wise-cracking, loose-minded dance hall hostess, to a contemplative, determined, self-respecting woman, hopeful of meriting the affection of the man she loves.

"Any character which shows a definite change is interesting," Miriam explains.

To date, all of Miss Hopkins' parts have met this requirement.

Her role in "Fast and Loose" came nearest to being a straight part. In "The Smiling Lieutenant," "24 Hours," and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" she really has been a stellar character actress.

However, she points out to explain her point, that in "Fast and Loose" she was a wild, selfish, spoiled girl who later was jarred into seeing the errors of her ways. In "The Smiling Lieutenant," she turned from a shy, unattractive princess into a lively, desirable one. In "24 Hours," her transition was from the gay songbird of a night club into a troubled, frightened girl of drama. The same, in part, holds true of her part as Ivy in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," where she is an alluring girl who nearly causes Jekyll to lose his head, and later finds herself bedraggled, fearridden and tragic as the victim of Hyde's cruelty.

ALABAMA HARNESS & SHOE SHOP MOVED

The Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop has been moved to a new location in the first building south of Dixie Cafe, on the highway. The job of moving all the stock and equipment, including the heavy machinery, has been done this week without interrupting the schedule of work necessary to take care of their trade.

"By the time you read this in the paper," said Mr. Jesse Teel, manager, "we will be completely established in our new place. When you are in Clanton we will appreciate a friendly call, and better still, we will appreciate it if you will bring along those old shoes or that piece of harnes that needs fixing, and leave it with us. It might not be necessary for you to leave it, however, for our high-speed equipment and trained workmen make us able to turn out work in a hurry, and no doubt we can deliver your finished job to you before you leave town to go back home."

Jesse Teel has developed his business into one of the most serviceable institutions in Clanton. He is a jolly good fellow, who always is in a good humor, and makes everybody welcome at his place any time. Associated with him is Tom Frank Teel, one of the popular young men of Clanton. Tom Frank is a worker, when it comes to work; and when he dresses up to go places, he is one of the most handsome looking fellows you ever saw, so the girls say.

Don't forget the new location, next door south of Dixie Cafe, and be sure you visit the Teel boys when you are in Clanton.

REV. NELSON CELEBRATES HIS ONE HUNDREDTH BIRTHDAY

Rev. J. T. Nelson celebrated his one hundredth birthday at his home near Clanton on Wednesday, January 4th. His guests for the occasion included many people from different parts of Chilton County, as well as several old friends from Coosa, Elmore and other places. We will have a detailed account of the celebration in next week's paper.

CHESTNUT CREEK

Last Saturday and Sunday being our regular preaching days, the Sunday service was attended by a large crowd. Everybody enjoying new year's beautiful sunshine.

Our pastor, Rev. J. S. Hand, delivered a wonderful message to all present Sunday. We were sorry he did not get there for the Saturday service.

Our S. S. and B. Y. P. U. are just doing nicely, although we have had some awful weather.

We have begun on a new year's work, and hope we can make some improvements over our last year's work.

We hope every member of our church will take the time to come and take the S. S. study course to be taught by Rev. V. C. Kincaid, of Birmingham, some time soon.

Our W. M. S. meets next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, and I hope we will have all members present.

We are planning for the quarterly W. M. U. meeting to meet with us in January. Look for the correct date in the county papers.

MEMORY OF OLIVER D. COOLEY

On December 20th the death agnel visited my dear auntie and called our loving cousin and son to a better home. All was done for him that loving hands could do, but all in vain. But understand, he is not dead in reality, but just passed over to that sweet home to await our coming, where there will be no more partings nor sad farewells. We shall miss him to testify in loving reference to the place he held in our hearts.

God called him to with Him on high. Dear Oliver's place can never be filled. But Aunt Mat and Josie, live with joy and gladness in your hearts, we will meet him some sweet day. We all loved dear Oliver, but Jesus loved him more and has called him to yonder shining shore, where the golden gate was open and a gentle voice calling, come, and with the farewell unspoken, he calmly entered home.

Oliver D. Cooley leaves to mourn his loss on this earth and gain in heaven, his mother, Mrs. M. O. Cooley; one sister, Miss Jessie Cooley, and a host of relatives and friends. Weep not, dear mother and sister, the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away to that home where no farewell tears will be shed. It is God's will that we must die to make us fit for that home on high. For when God calleth we must go; so let us look to him, who is able to soothe our sorrows and heart aches.

Our heavenly father who is too wise to make any mistake, too great to be unkind, grant us the spirit of reconciliation and submission and enable us to say "Thy will be done." Let all of us honor our blessed savior to the best of our ability, knowing our time is short and we must go when our father in heaven calleth.

It was such a schock to us all as he passed away suddenly. He was ready to go, for God calleth and we must go. And when his purpose is all completed, then we shall meet God there with Jesus forever.

Let the joy of our hearts return by trusting in the Lord. That is the only way we will meet the precious one, who has gone on before us. He is peacefully sleeping now in the silent city of the dead, awaiting the resurrection morning when all loved ones and friends shall again be united to part no more.—Written by his cousin, Mrs. Ellen Tyndall.

RAILROAD MEN VISIT HERE

Mr. Walter D. Shepard and Mr. S. W. Ferrell, of the traffic department L. & N. Realroad, came up from Montgomery Tuesday afternoon for a short visit to Clanton.

As is the business of these gentlemen, they made inquiry of a few citizens and business men concerning the interests of shipping over the L. & N.

They interviewed Dief, and he hauled them over the coals about fixing up a suitable place for shipping strawberries. They went to the freight yards and cussed and discussed the whole affair from beginning to end.

Dief has an unanswerable point in his argument that the railroad should provide a better place here for shipping berries. The many growers in this territory feel the same way about it.

It is hoped that Mr. Shepard and Mr. Ferrell will be able to move somebody in the high councils of the railroads to meet the needs of the Clanton berry growers with proper loading facilities.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

10 a.m., Bible study for all.
11 a.m., preaching and worship.
6:45 p.m., preaching,

Subject for 11 a.m. "Contrast between law of Moses and law of Christ, and the Purpose of each." It answers the following questions: (1). Do we find what to do to be saved in the Old Testament? (2). Is the worship in New Testament different from the Old Testament? (3). Are we keeping the Old or New? (4). Can we keep both?

6:45 p.m. Subject, "Church Government." (Continued from last Sunday p. m.). And answers these questions, (1). How many pastors should one congregation have according to the New Testament? (2). Difference between pastors and preachers. (3). How are preachers called and ordained? (4). What does "laying on of hands" have to do with it? (5). How is authority transmitted by the church?

The church gives a hearty welcome to all visitors. Come.

PATES CHAPEL

This community has quite a bit of sickness. Those who are on the sick list now are as follows, Mrs. B. O. Blow, Archie Cleckler.

The W. M. U. of Pates Chapel will hold a meeting Wednesday at the home of Miss Hazel Maddox. New officers will be elected.

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days at Pates Chapel, but it was so bad, and our pastor's wife was sick, so we were disappointed Saturday night. But he was with us Sunday, and preached a sermon that everyone enjoyed.

We are very glad to report that our Sunday school has grown quite a bit. We have eighty on roll, and hope to increase the number if we can. We are trying hard to organize a B. Y. P. U. We hope to reach the goal before the end of this new year, 1933.

Miss Hazel Maddox and brother, S. E., and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes and Little daughters, Evelyn and Rubye, visited Mrs. Hesteranne Merchant and daughter, Helen, Wednesday of last week. A good time was reported by all.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes and little daughter, Evelyn, and Mr. Alex Maddox and daughter, Hazel, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Maddox of Pleasant Grove Monday of last week.

Misses Maude Wallis and Rubye and Roscoe Maddox spent Friday and Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Maddox of Pleasant Grove.

This is to the correspondent of Pleasant Grove Rte 1. Old boy, you have been asleep long enough. It's time you are waking up and getting on your job. We have been looking for your news every week and it's never there. Please write to dear old Union-Banner.

Zelma Hayes spent Saturday with Rubye Maddox and Rubye accompanied her home and spent Saturday night with Zelma.

Miss Zemma Hayes spent last week in Tallassee with her uncle, Mr. Mose Maddox.

Misses Mildred and Martha Hayes and Maude Wallis and Clara Smith of Thorsby were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Carrie Bolton.

Miss Zelma Hayes and Mr. Eve Dawson had dinner with Misses Lucille and Helene Cleckler Sunday.

Miss Lucile Cleckler has returned to Birmingham to go to work after shpending Christmas holidays with her parents.

Mr. Walter Maddox returned home Sunday from an extended visit to her daughters, who live at Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Maddox are paying a visit to Mr. Alex Maddox and daughter, Hazel, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox had dinner with Mr. Alex Maddox and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott of Mars Hill visited Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pate Sunday.

Mr. Charlie Mobbin Pitchford of Birmingham is visiting his uncle in this community, Mr. Arthur Pitchford.

BAKER SCHOOL

Our pupils are doing some real work, as this is our last month of school.

The P.-T. A. will meet January 6, 1933. All members are urged to be present.

Last Monday and Monday night, Miss Pauline Sisk had as her guest Miss Gladys Wyatt.

Quite a number attended the singing given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pate Parrish Wednesday night.

We are very sorry to learn that Miss Monnie Baker is still on the sick list.

Next Sunday is our singing afternoon at Liberty Hill. Everybody is invited.

Miss Mildred Coe is visiting her cousin, Miss Rubye Weldon, of New Cedron Community.

We are expecting to play both the girl's and boy's basket ball teams from Cooper next Friday afternoon. Both games should be very interesting. We will play on Baker's court.

CHESTER PAYTON CLECKLER

Rev. E. W. Butler, of Thorsby, was in Clanton attending to business last Tuesday. While here he left with The Union-Banner an advertisement for Thorsby Institute. Turn to it on the Thorsby page and read it.

Chas. Cooper Views Our School Situation

Editor Union-Banner:

In a recent issue of your paper we read quite a lengthy letter from Bro. Ezell, wherein he made a strong appeal to the Commissioners Court to come to the rescue of the deplorable school situation.

The writer has obtained some first hand information to the effect that our Commissioners Court felt inclined to lend a helping hand in the present school crisis, but they are not willing to jump into it in an extravagant manner.

I have been informed that one teacher, together with two other members of his family have been drawing a salary of three hundred and sixty-three dollars for twenty days service, and further, only about six hours a day was in this school service.

We have been further advised that this teacher in question refused to proceed with his work unless the commissioners would fork over to him the three hundred and sixty-three bucks for each twenty days put in.

Now, folks, our commissioners, like myself, are not over-burdened with this "animal" that is called "higher education," consequently it is hard for them to understand that this family of three is worth the price of a bale of cotton a day for about six hours sitting in the school room.

Our commissioners know exactly how much work is required to produce a bale of cotton, and they are also conscious of the fact that it is the working people who pay all this school expense along with all the other expenses necessary in the operation of our government.

Some one will say that the power company pays most of the taxes. Yes, we will admit that the power company turns in quite a lot of tax money, but the real facts in the case are the power company is only the tax collector.

The power company collects this money from the people who buy their power. The power company passed this recent federal tax right on to the consumers. We paid six cents federal tax yesterday to the power company's collector.

Back to the school situation. If the teacher of Chilton County who has an interest of the children at heart, and who know the value of a dollar at the present time, will notify the commissioners that they are willing to go ahead with the school work, if the commissioners will advance them one-half or one-third of their former salary, I feel confident that our commissioners will lend a helping hand.

Our teacher here is perfectly willing to proceed if she can draw one-half or one-third of her salary.

To those that are not willing to a deal of that kind should drop out of the picture, as they can be replaced with teachers from Autauga County, or elsewhere.

One teacher affirms that she was not in any coalition with any agent, representative or any other teacher in asking the county commissioners to advance her full salary in the present crisis.

We have what we think is the best school in the state, and we hereby appeal to the commissioners court to lend us some little help as suggested above.

If the commissioners will advance our teacher anywhere from twenty to thirty dollars per month, our school will complete its term.—Yours very truly.

CHAS. COOPER.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

With his usual faculty for getting at the core of a situation, Will H. Hays, in a recent address at the annual dinner of the Indiana State Bar Association, at Indianapolis, with the terse topic, "Where Do We Go From Here?" pointed out the importance played in our present difficuties by the ever mounting cost of government, through activities which we could well do without. In part, Mr. Hays said: * * *

"The problem of mounting taxes—city, county, State and federal—is of primary importance. Before we can basically aid our situation, we need to tear down the superstructure of unnecessary taxation that municipal, state and federal governments have erected; and that means that we must drastically alter the superstructure of bureaucracy which municipal, state and federal governments have erected on the taxpayers' back.

"Figures published during the past year tell the story more eloquently for the present period. In 1929, the cost of government, we are told, was $14,000,000,000 and interest charges on debts, commercial and otherwise, was $6,000,000,000. Time and again the warning has been sounded against the dangers of mounting governmental costs imposed by legislation which assumed an inexhaustible source of revenue for the United States Treasury.

"In 1932 the cast of government is again $14,000,000,000 and interest charges again amount to $6,000,000,000. However, national income has shrunk from $85,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000.

"Therefore this year, only $30,000,000,000 is left for all of us to apply to commerce and to our living costs.

"Thus the depression, alone, reducing our gross national income from $85,000,000,000 in 1929 to $50,000,000,000 in 1932 cuts $35,000,000,000 or 41 per cent from gross national income.

"But because the high cost of government and our fixed interest charges stayed static in the face of the declining gross income, our net national income has declined from $65,000,000,000 in 1929 to $30,000,000,000 in 1932, a reduction of 54 per cent in what we actually have and can use. * * *

"The road to tax reduction is the elimination of governmental waste; it is for government to remain as far as possible in the business of government, rather than in the business of industry or finance, through further experiments in our bureaucratic control."

There can be no successful controverting of the statement quoted from the former Postmaster General. The question of the reduction of cost of government, and a curtailing of unnecessary activity and unnecessary government is vital to our future welfare. We have now reached the point where budgets, national, state and local, can no longer be balanced by increased taxation. The tax burden now has our people and our industry at the breaking point. Prices of commodities, and wages, are approaching the pre-war level and profits have in many cases disappeared. Rents are falling—too slowly in many instances. If we are to get on a solid foundation and start to build our prosperity over again, it will be necessary that our taxes be brought back to fit the changed conditions of the present. This can only be done by governmental economy. New sources of taxation are disappearing. Only rigid economy and governmental efficiency will save the day, in nation, in state, in city, and town and village.

Failing adjustment, the United States appears to be confronted with the question of whether it shall cancel the debts owed by other nations or permit them to default. In such an alternative, the latter would be better. It appears now as if the United States may have blundered in going to the defense of its own participation and asked no indemnities. The debts owed to the United States are for loans to the allies. If it comes to forgiving the debts or default on the part of our debtors let them default, and let their defaultation stand as a practical demonstration of the folly and moral wrong of war.—Presbyterian Advance.

Our idea of an affluent citizen nowadays is the fellow who can save a little money by paying his taxes in advance.

The cost of medical care in the United States is put at $3,650,000,000 a year without counting time spent in doctors' waiting rooms.—New York Sun.

Recently there was published a list of movements headed up under the League of Nations which included the International Bobsleighing and Tobogaining Federation, International Union of Proletarian Freethinkers and numerous others.

Our attention has now been called to the fact that recently there was organized the Nude Internationalists, officially to be known as "The International Sun-bathing and Back to Nature Movement." One wonders how the League of Nations happened to ovrlook it? Certainly this group comes within the realm of "peace and good will" if the others already mentioned do, but if it is to be regarded as a promoter of social discord at least it would certainly give the League an opportunity to get down to bare facts.

Senator McKellar has introduced a bill requiring all Americans going abroad to pay a fee of $5,000 for passport into a country which has defaulted on its debt payment to Uncle Sam. At that most of them would get more good out of $5,000 donated to Uncle Sam than they would in spending it in Europe.

The American people have short memories Let's see, who was that fellow Jimmy Walker, anyhow?

THE MEDFORD PROPOSAL

The application of Medford, Mass., to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a ten-year loan of $2,500,000 for the purpose of meeting its general debt payments for 1933 and thus making it possible to cut the city tax rate $3 is, as far as we know, unique in municipal financing, although it may have precedents.

The issuance of bonds for the funding of short-term indebtedness incurred through the construction of public works is an accepted practice among municipalities, and on occasion a city or town whose short-term borrowings represent an accumulation of operating deficits follows this same procedure, meanwhile usually resolving to balance its budgets in the future.

But for a city to borrow in order to relieve its budget temporarily of debt charges and in turn cut its tax rate is a horse of another color. This action would make it possible to cut the rate for the next year, but in the year following the normal debt charges would be back in the budget, plus the interest and principal payments on the new debt thus incurred, presumably forcing the adoption in this second year of an even higher tax rate than would ordinarily have been necessary if the money had not been borrowed. In a situaton like the present, when it is haxardous for anyone to predict the return of prosperity to cities as well as individuals, the Medford proposal would seem not only unwise, but positively dangerous.

A suggestion of this kind for the pyramiding of debt in order to provide temporary relief for taxpayers at the cost of excessive future burdens arouses speculation as to why cities which cannot balance their budgets on the basis of tax rates which property owners are unable or unwillfng to pay do not slash their budgets.

Slashing the budget in such a case would probably involve the elimination of some services which the municipality provides as well as the curtailment of others—in short, the acceptance of a lower standard of municipal living. But it is better to restrict one's diet to food that can be paid for than to continue living high and later have the grocer attach the dining-room table.

The tendency in municipal taxation, when rates approach execessive levels, is for the very land and structures which are the foundation of the whole system to become untenable by their private owners and unsaleable at real values. The soundest way to combat this tendency is not by borrowing, but by influencing property owners and others to accept less complete and expensive service from the municipality than they have been accustomed to demand and receive. Public revenues pour from no golden horn. They must be extracted, and not painlessly either, from the pockets of citizens. The latter will do well to get the process straight in their minds.—Providence Journal.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

Happy and Prosperous New Year!

Here's hoping you, each of you, a happy and prosperous New Year! That comes from the heart, too. You know, folks, this old depression MUST break some time, and I'm hoping 1933 sees this happen. Wouldn't it be nice, this time next year, to be able to hear people say, "Gee, but wasn't old 1932 a bad one—lots worse than 1933. But now we're all getting back on our feet again." Now, that's beginning the new year building air castles, but that variety is better than none of any kind. So, again, Happy and Prosperous New Year to everyone!

Roosevelt's Turkey

A newspaper report says President-elect Roosevelt had Alabama turkey for his Christmas dinner, and somebody voices the hope that he liked his Christmas dinner, and will remember where the turkey came from. But don't fool yourself. Roosevelt has heard all he wants to hear from Alabama for the next four years. He'll probably hear lots more from down this way during that time, but he isn't forced to pay any attention to that. He expected to hear that Alabama supported him in November—that's all he wanted—now ye can go jump in the lake for all he cares.

A Radio Station for Clanton

Wouldn't it be nice if Clanton had a broadcasting station, and we could roll out of bed every morning to the tune of some ditty rendered by local talent. We have lots of local performers — quartets, harmonica players, whistlers, fiddlers, etc., who might gain recognition through a local radio station. According to some information, the cost to build a station here would not be prohibitive, and I believe that enough advertising contracts could be closed to pay all expenses, and maybe show some profit. I am a firm believer in advertising, and I believe Clanton would be well advertised by such an enterprise. That's something tangible for the Kiwanis and Pilot Clubs to get busy and consider. What do you think about it?

We See Them Early

Every once in a while I hear somebody griping about the shows that Mr. Wade puts on at the Wadesonian, in Clanton. Sometimes they have a kick coming at the mechanical part of the business, claiming poor projection work, poor sound control, etc. And then, I have heard people say that we never get pictures until they are old and stale. Now, I will admit that, at times, the projection has been a bit jumpy; and, too, the sound control end of the shows might be improved upon. But there is one part of this criticism which is unwarranted, untrue, and unfair to Mr. Wade, and that is that he never gets any new pictures. For some time I have been comparing Mr. Wade's program of pictures with those of some of the big theatres in Birmingham and Montgomery. Time after time I have seen pictures right here in Clanton several days ahead of their showings in the larger cities and towns in Alabama—sometimes weeks ahead. It is not often that we are very far behind these larger cities in getting a look at the new pictures. Too, there are other things to consider in this connection. It costs the Wadesonian just as much to put on a picture as it does a theatre in a large city, and yet the pictures show here for just about half the rate in these other cities. In addition, it must be considered that in a small town the attendance is far below that in the larger towns and cities.

Uncle Tom Ogletree

Uncle Tom Ogletree just dropped in to see the force, and I got a chance to joke with the old boy a bit, too. "Old boy" is a good name for Uncle Tom. He's been here quite a while, but the genial old fellow is yet just an overgrown boy at heart. He'll argue about anything under the sun, but he's right hard to make mad. His hobby is checkers—how he likes to win a game of checkers—and he's plenty good at it, too. Uncle Tom expects to be around Clanton only a few days, but I'll bet he finds time to haul Claude Calloway, or Harvie Chandler, or Uncle John Robinson over into a corner somewhere and have a checker game or two with them. While Uncle Tom was here he was reminded that Winston County went for Roosevelt by one lonesome vote. "Now, ain't that scandalous," he said; "I knew I ought to have sent in that absentee ballot. I just felt I ought to do it, but somehow, I didn't. But I promise here and now that such a thing won't happen again."

Can Cats Count?

Maybe you think they can't, but a recent instance in New York would tend to prove that there is at least one kitty which can count. Fire was raging in the building, and the mother cat brought out her young brood, one at a time, by the nape of the neck, until she had three kittens safe out on the sidewalk. About that time a newspaper reporter noticed her life-saving trick, and began making preparations to photograph her, with her family. But mother kitty wasn't ready yet—she had more work to do. Just as the reporter got her and her brood all lined up for the picture, she took a look at her family and plunged back into the blazing ruins of the building, returning a few minutes later with a fourth kitten, and then purred happily as cameras clicked. Maybe cats can count, after all.

$4.00 License Plates

And now comes word that the legislature of Alabama will be asked to pass a bill, whereby the State of Alabama will charge a flat rate of $4.00 for license plates for automobiles. Sponsors of the bill claim that there are at least 20,000 cars which have been taken out of service on account of the high license plate charge; they contend that the major portion of these cars would be put back into use under such a new ruling, and that the state would get back more from tax on the gas these cars would use than it would lose by cutting the plate charge. That is a sensible view to take of the matter, and I believe these men are right in such assumption. The cost of making and distributing the plates would be well taken care of by the $4.00 charge; then the cost of upkeep of roads would automatically be placed where it belongs—on the shoulders of those who use the roads. Let's hope this one passes.

They're All Alike

Yep, I guess fishermen are all alike—in a few most important characteristics, any way. The big one always gets away, and reports of their fishing trips always contain a great many "ifs" and the like. Now here's a good one, and it's giving you the low-down on the high-ups too. President Hoover and a bunch of his friends, senators, cabinet members, etc., are at present on a big fishing trip down around Florida somewhere. And I just read where they had struck a streak of great luck—they ran into the big school of hungry sail-fish, and the party took in ten of the big fellows. The president, himself, hooked and captured three of these, one of them measuring some seven feet in length. The report says the catch would have been eleven "if" a shark hadn't come up and snatched away a big one from Senator Austin, of Vermont, just as he was about to take him into his boat. Oh, yeah,! Well, we've heard of such happenings before. Chances are that baby would have been the biggest one of the whole lot, too.

Let's Move To Jemison

Dr. A. A. Conway, of Jemison, was down to see us a few days ago. Dr. Conway is one of the city fathers up Jemison way, and looks out for the town's wants, in the way of job printing, from time to time. Realizing that 1933 was just coming in, and that the Town of Jemison might be in the market for new license blanks, etc., we hit him up for the work. "Well," he said, "not yet. We've about decided to let the merchants and busines men of Jemison down light this year, by not charging them for licenses." If that's the case, maybe we had all better move to Jemison. Sounds interesting, if true.

Almost Missed It

J. J. Mims, rural leter carrier on Clanton Route 5, tells a good one. On Saturday of last week he took up a money order on his regular round. It was the last order he took in 1932, on the last day of the last week of the last month of the year, and was taken at the last box on the route. "In fact," he said, "I came very near not getting that one at all." The order was for $3.98, and was taken at the box of Mr. G. G. Gray.—Man in the Moon.

JACKSON'S CHAPEL PLAN IS GOOD

What is known as the Jackson's Chapel plan for helping out the unemployed situation appears to be the best idea yet advanced for a rural agricultural section like we have here in Chilton County.

Doubtless most everyone has already become acquainted with the plan. But it will take only a few words to tell it again.

The farmers of Jackson's Chapel community hit upon the idea that they would give to those in the community who needed food, work to do on their farms, as much as they could, and pay them off in things they and their families could eat. Accordingly, they got together and made a list of every man in the community who had work to be done, and what he would give for pay.

This plan was found to be so effective in Jackson's Chapel community that it has been sanctioned by our County Farm Agent, and he is seeking to get every community in the county to adopt it.

It is a certain fact that many farmers have at least a few days work which they need somebody to do. Maybe they have not hired any body to do it because they could not pay for it in cash. But they perhaps have corn, meat, potatoes, or some other commodities which they could give for pay.

There is somebody somewhere who would like to do the work and get pay in those commodities. The Jackson's Chapel plan, applied and carried out in Chilton County, will bring the unemployed who are willing to work in touch with the work that is available.

What better answer could we hope to get in our efforts to solve the unemployment problem and help the needy?

Every person in Chilton County should get busy at once and see that the plan is put into operation in his community. It is indeed a good one, and will get results.

Yes, We Have No Bakery

Again Clanton has no bakery. It was a brave effort made last year to establish the business. But somehow the venture was not able to get its bearings. I would not attempt to point out the reason for its failure; but I would guess that lack of patronage from our home people had a lot to do with it. When you think of the money we send out of Clanton, you will wonder how any local business can get hold of enough money to run on. We send away the money we spend for gasoline, automobiles, bread and many other things. Of course, those things for which we send our money away are things we cannot produce at home. I am sure no one would think of sending to distant places to buy groceries, feed stuff, clothing, etc.

Thorsby Institute

It is encouraging to note that Thorsby Institute is ready to take care of some of the high school students who may be affected by the probable closing of our county high schools. Of course all cannot go to Thorsby for more reasons than one. The Institute cannot take care of all; and many cannot pay the expenses. But with those who can be accommodated and those who can pay, it means that Thorsby will be the means of saving some students from losing their place in the years work. "How many can you take care of," I asked Dr. Butler. "We have not come to ask that question yet," he replied. "We are going to extend our facilities to the limit of our capacity." Fine. Thorsby Institute is a good school.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Starting the New Year

The new year has started with a few shiftings of locations and other minor changes in the business institutions of Clanton. But most of the fellows are staying in the same place. They only paused long enough to bid 1932 a fond farewell, spit on their hands and grab a new hold for the scuffle of 1933. Various opinions, predictions, hopes and fears are held, if not expressed, for the future. Dief says in a few years we may look backward and wish for a return of the good old days of 1932. Frank Callen projected himself into the future, when he would sit by the fire, stroke his whiskers, and tell his sons and daughters, "If you think things are not panning out to suit you, you ought to have seen what I saw in 1932."

A Barber Shop Change

The beginning of 1933 brings the end of the Dixie Barber Shop in Clanton. George Tippett retires from the trade. Dick Bean, Walter Sanford and George Wyatt, constituting the Exchange Barber Shop, move into the place occupied by the Dixie Barber Shop. Webb Parrish, of the old Dixie Shop, stays and becomes a part of the Exchange force. Now, that is plain enough isn't it? All of the Exchange boys are popular in their trade. Walter Sanford, I regard somehow as the main cog in the wheel. He is about like the big "back-log" you put on to make sure the fire keeps going a long time. Walter has been barbering in Clanton longer than many present-day tonsorial artists can remember. Like those things that grow sweeter with age, Mr. Sanford improves with experience. How many times have I wished some other barbers would take a leaf out of Walter's book and learn to cut one's whiskers instead of talking them off.

The Jackson's Chapel Plan

"If a fellow is hungry, give him some work to do and then feed him," is the doctrine that has been put into practice by the people of Jackson's Chapel community. "There are too many folks who are sponging upon charity," said one man, "and our plan will soon separate the honest unfortunate from the ordinary common bum." There is much merit in the plan. Every farmer give all the employment he can and pay for it with something the worker can eat. Many an unemployed man would prefer aid that way in preference to outright charity. Most of them are in that class. But some would not work for bread. They would rather go to the next place and risk getting somethink for nothing. People of the towns might well apply the Jackson's Chapel plan. Give the beggar some work to pay for his bread and it will make him a better beggar.

Jesse Teel Moving Shop

In all my experience, the biggest mess I ever got into was moving a printing plant. I saw one that matches it this week when Jesse Teel was in the middle of moving his shoe shop. But it will all come out in the wash, as Leo would say. By this time Mr. Teel is all set for business in his new location on the highway, next door south of Dixie Cafe. It is a much better location than his old place. When I thought about all of Jesse's shoe fixing machinery I looked back to the days when Uncle Billy McDaniel was the undisputed and recognized "shoemaker" of Clanton, and the only tools he had were his last, hammer and pegging awl. By the way, I went to a store a few weeks ago to buy a pegging awl, and there was not a clerk in the place who knew what I wanted.

Planning For Strawberry Business

Looking across a field of strawberry plants, I wondered what secrets are held there to be revealed to the anxious and hopeful growers this spring. Will it be a harvest that will bring a stimulating and profitable business value; or will it be a disappointment that shall not help us out of our slump? No one can tell. It is reassuring to see the growers going forward with plans built on hope. Our association members have a meeting here Friday to make final plans for the marketing of the crop. Dief says we should ship a minimum of 80 cars from Clanton, if conditions are fair. He is having his regular round of fussing with railroad officials about a shed and other needed facilities for loading the crop on cars.

Evan Parrish Spreading Out

Business prospects look better for Evan Parrish, of the Southern Seed and Plant Co. He is setting his stakes deeper and wider by taking over the seed and feed business of the Chilton County Farm Bureau. The cream testing station will also be located at his place of business. The steady growth of Mr. Parrish's business furnishes a fine example of what presistent determination will do. Only a few years ago he began his business when the name was the biggest thing about it. But he hitched his wagon to a star, so to speak. He visioned the day when he would have a seed business that would be an institution serving a need among the farmers of Chilton County. With the hook-up made now, it looks like 1933 will see his dream come true in a large way.

Flashes of Hope—And Otherwise

School will open again Monday. Disappointment for many. The boys hoped school would stay closed. The dads will have to pay so much per.

The fish have begun to bite again. Some of us fool fish bite so regular there is no fun in it.

Uncle Joe Carwile wouldn't fish in Florida because it was too easy to catch 'em down there.

Well, maybe we will not have another cyclone in 1933. That is something to hope for.

"Mack's" is A Credit To Clanton

J. W. McEathern and Alex Callen have put together and worked out a few ideas that have made a place of bushiness in which Clanton may very properly take great pride. "Mack's" is the name. It takes the place of Jones's. It is the Bus Station, which fact makes the situation more fitting. Many travelers stop here. It is good advertising for our town when they step in a place like "Mack's." The successful business man of today is he who is able to see the needs and demands of the public, and is able and capable of serving those needs. Time will prove that Mack and Alex were right in their guess at what kind of a business Clanton needs at this time. If they will measure up to their opportunity with the right kind of service, their future place in this community will be secure.

75. Insurance. Foreign mutual insurance companies. On each foreign mutual insurance company who did business in the Town of Clanton, Alabama, during the years 1923 to 1933, both inclusive, there is hereby levied a license or privilege tax of two per cent of the gross premiums, less returned premiums, for each of said years on business done within the corporate limits or the police jurisdiction of the said town.
76. Insurance. On all surety and bonding companies and other insurance companies, including domestic and foreign companies, there is hereby levied the following license tax, to-wit: Ten dollars, and one dollar on each one hundred dollars and major fraction thereof, of gross premiums received during the year 1932, on all policies issued to citizens living in the Town of Clanton, Alabama.
77. Insurance. Mutual aid, benefit and industrial companies or associations. On each of the said companies or associations there is hereby levied a license or tax, to-wit: Ten dollars, and one-half of one per cent of new premiums received from business done within the Town of Clanton during the year 1932.
    The license tax required above on all insurance companies, including fire, life and marine, shall be due January 1, 1933, and delinquent sixty days thereafter, and each company shall file with the mayor of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, a statement sworn to by an officer authorized by the laws of the State of Alabama, showing the gross amount of premiums received by it from business done within the Town of Clanton, Alabama, for the year or period required to determine said tax or license tax. Any company failing to furnish said statement within said period shall forfeit to the Town of Clanton, Alabama, the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction, and said company or its agents shall also be subject to any other penalty provided in this ordinance for doing business without a license.

Section 3.—The above schedule of license shall be for the calendar year of 1933, except the license on any of the foregoing occupations to be taken out after July 1, 1933, and then one-half the license shall be charged, provided this shall not affect those subject where weekly, daily or monthly licenses are required, or where one-half year license is not permitted.

Section 4.—The adoption of this schedule of license shall not abridge the right of the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, to change, alter, increase, decrease or revoke any of the above licenses at any time, and when any increase is made unless the same is paid within thirty days, the license shall be revoked, and no further business done thereunder; nor shall it abridge the right of the town council to require a license for any business or calling not included in this schedule, and when such license is required the same shall be paid for the full year if before July 1, 1933.

Section 5.—That no license issued under this ordinance shall be transferred excpet with the consent of the town council and no transfer shall be valid until endorsed by the town clerk, and no license shall be transferred more than once and never from one business to another.

Section 6.—That any person desiring to engage in any business for which a license is required by this ordinance, shall designate the place of business and shall only be authorized to carry on the business under said license at the place so designated unless given permission to transfer to another location by the mayor of said town.

Section 7.—That any license issued hereunder shall be dated and signed by the clerk of the said town and for services rendered in issuing the license the clerk shall receive the sum of fifty cents to be paid by the person or firm procuring the license.

Section 8.—That any person, firm or corporation dealing in two or more articles or engaged in two or more businesses or callings for which a license is required of each, such person shall pay for and take out a license for each business or calling.

Section 9.—All licenses due under this schedule are due January 1, 1933, and are delinquent after February 1, 1933, and after becoming delinquent, in addition to any and all other penalties provided for in this ordinance, are subject to a penalty of 10 per cent. Provided, however, that the date of delinquency shall not apply to any weekly, monthly or daily license, which shall be delinquent when due, nor to any license taken out for one-half year after July 1, 1933, which shall be delinquent thirty-one days after one-half year license should be paid.

Section 10.—That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or association to engage in any business, vocation or profession for which a license is required herein without first paying for and taking out said license and each day during which any person or corporation engages in business without a license shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 11.—Any person, firm, corporation or association who shall violate provisions or any provision of this ordinance shall upon conviction be fined not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars, and may also be sentenced to hard labor for not more than six months, in the discretion of the court trying the case.

Section 12.—That the taking out of a license under this ordinance shall not be authority for the person obtaining same to engage in any business on the streets, sidewalks, avenues or alleys of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and no person shall use the streets, avenues, sidewalks and alleys for any other purpose than that of the usual traffic for which the same are commonly used.

Section 13.—The term "police jurisdiction," as hereinafter used in this ordinance, shall be construed to mean the territory without the corporate limits of the said Town of Clanton, Alabama, over which the municipal police power is exercised. Code 1923, Section 1954.

Each person, firm, company, corporation and association or their agents shall take out and pay for a license equivalent to half the license charged and collected as a license for like businesses, trades or professions done within the corporate limits of the said Town of Clanton, Alabama, as is provided for by an act of the legislature, approved September 6, 1927. Acts 580, p. 674. Provided, however, this shall not apply to railroads, express companies, sleeping car companies, telegraph companies, telephone companies and public utilities.

Section 14.—Should any section, schedule or paragraph of this ordinance be held invalid or void, it shall not affect the validity of any other section, schedule or provision hereof which is not itself void or invalid.

Read, adopted and approved this 6th day of December, 1932.

J. LEE SMITH, Mayor.

C. H. PIPES, Clerk.

I, C. H. Pipes, Clerk of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, hereby certify that the foregoing ordinance was published on the 6th day of December, 1932, by posting three copies of the same in three public places of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, the same being to-wit: One at the U. S. Post Office, one in front of the courthouse of Chilton County, and the other being posted in the office of the Mayor and Clerk of the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

Witness my hand and dated this the 6th day of December, 1932.

C. H. PIPES,
Clerk of the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

A very pleasant social event occurred in Thorsby Monday when the Adult Bible class of the Congregational Sunday School, with a few invited guests, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard for a dinner prepared and served by the ladies attending. It was a purely social affair and greatly enjoyed by all present, numbering about 25 persons.

Members of Thorsby Institute faculty are coming in for the reopening of the school on Wednesday, January 4th. Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Maddox, Miss Onita Klingelhoefer and V. H. Sutlive are in Thorsby, Misses Fairbank and Leech were away only a few days, and Misses McKee and Phillips are expected to be here before school opens. Miss Jenkins arrived Tuesday evening.

To correct an error which has received more or less circulation, to the effect that Thorsby Intitute would not re-open after the holidays, the trustees desire to emphatically announce such rumros have no foundation. In fact the school opens on schedule, Wednesday, January 4, and it is expected that it will continue to the end of the school year.

Rev. Wm. T. Morgan, pastor of Independent Congregationl church, Birmingham, spent Saturday night in Thorsby, in helpful attendance at a party composed mostly of young people, at the public school building. He was entertained before the party by Rev. and Mrs. Each, and later by the Nortons. He returned to Birmingham early Sunday morning

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moody, of Birmingham, spent the week end with friends in Thorsby, and took new year's dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Hansen at Lay Dam.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend, of Birmingham, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Manning.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Barnes, who spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, Mrs. Barnes' parents, left Sunday for their home in Mobile.

Mrs. Anna Phanlen and son, Thomas, left for their home in Tuscaloosa, after spending the holidays with the Howards in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive entertained on Monday Earl and Agnes Leary and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mead and little daughter, Helen Louise.

Mrs. S. E. Malone, of Selma, Alabama, celebrated her 88th birthday, Sunday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Vanderslice, also of Selma. A big turkey dinner was enjoyed by 22 guests, all being near relatives. Mrs. Malone is the mother of Mrs. Ben Davenport. Those who went from here were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Davport.

Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. Sam Pate Monday afternoon.

Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. L. H. Lowery next Tuesday afternoon. We hope all members can be present.

Regular preaching services will be held at the Thorsby Baptist schurch Sunday, both morning and evening. Everyone is invited to come and worship with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Varnie Wyatt entertained the following with a lunch: Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marcus, Mr and Mrs. C. M. Gray, and Miss Mildred Gore.

HOLCOMBE-ROBINSON MARRIAGE

A marriage event of interest to many people in Thorsby was that of Miss Era Robinson and Mr. Charlie Holcombe, formerly of Birmingham. The marriage was solemnized at the home of Rev. J. W. Jones, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Miss Era Robinson was the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Robinson of Thorsby. Mr. Charlie Holcombe came to Thorsby from Birmingham 3 years ago. Since then he has been in the furniture business. Their many friends congratulate them and wish them a long and happy life together. Mr. and Mrs. Holcombe expect to make their home for the present time above the building now occupied by Mr. Holcombe's furniture store.

Miss Dean Russell returned to her home in Wilsonville Sunday, after a few days visit with Miss Linnie Bell Reinhardt.

Mrs. Curtis Billingsley, of Clanton, Miss Lois Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Erchel Martin and Myradine Martin Sunday.

Mrs. Bob Martin is improving after being confined to her bed several days with the flu.

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Era Robinson was given at the home of Mrs. N. L Martin, Thursday afternoon. Quite a number of friends were present. Many beautiful and useful presents were received and greatly appreciated. Refreshments were served to forty-six.

Misses Edna Childress and Lola Martin spent the week end in Collins Chapel community, visiting Miss Henrietta Bean.

Mr. Paul Smith, of Clanton, spent Wednesday night and Thursday with his sister, Mrs. H. H. Sharp.

Last Saturday evening the new organization of the young people of Thorsby had a watch party at the grammar school building. Dr. Wm. T. Morgan, of Birmingham, was here to help in this "coming out" party of this organization. Cold weather and other social gatherings prevented a large attendance, but everyone present thoroughly enjoyed themselves in the games and contests that were put on. There wasn't a dull moment the entire evening. Just as the new year came in the eintire group knelt while Dr. Morgan led in a prayer of thanksgiving and dedication. This was a party that will long be remembered by those who attended. Those present were Dr. Wm. T. Morgan, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Each, Mrs. Claud Billingsley, Misses Conradine Pate, Willo Dean Bean, Loutisha Bean, Juanita Each, Lucille Each, Helen Lowery, Mary Sue Porter, Lois Thompson, Jessie Martin, Frances Wilson, Alice Simpson, Jane Billingsley, Hattie Porter, Mary Louise Bates, and Marie Each; Messrs. County Farm Agent's Notes

REPORT OF LYNCHINGS

I send you the following information concerning lynchings for the year 1932. I find according to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, that there were 8 persons lynched in 1932. This is 5 less than the number 13 for 1931; 13 less than the number 21 for 1930; 2 less than the number 10 for 1929; 3 less than the number 11 for 1928 and 8 less than the number 16 for 1927. Seven of the persons lynched were in the hands of the law; 4 were taken from jails and 3 from officers of the law outside of jails; the bodies of 2 of the victims were burned.

There were 31 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Four of these were in northern and western states and 27 in southern states. In 24 of the instances the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the 7 other instances, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchers. A total of 42 persons, 7 white men and 35 negroes, 33 men and 2 women, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 8 persons lynched, 2 were white and 6 were negro. The offenses charged were: Murder 1; attempted murder 1; rape 1; attempted rape 1; wounding officer of the law 1; dynamiting store 1; insulting woman 1; threatening men with knife 1.

The states in which lynchings occured and the number in each state are as follows: Arkansas 1; Florida 1; Kansas 1; Kentucy 1; Louisiana 1; Ohio 1; Texas 1; and Virginia -.—R. R. Watson, Principal of Tuskgee Institute.

HARDWOOD IMPORTANT

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 4.—Southern hardwoods are becoming of increasing relative importance, according to a current survey of Alabama timber conditions by J. M. Stauffer, State Forest Inspector. According to Mr. Stauffer, this trend is evidenced by the fact that many lumber manufacturers whose holdings in the past have been chiefly of pine, having started within the last two or three years to cut the hardwoods along the branches, river banks and in the swamps which are found dotted throughout the former pine lands.

Prior to the material shortage of virgin pine, hardwoods were allowed to go largely uncut, since they had little value to a pine operator. The hardwood manufacturing industry is quite different from the pine business, and most of the operators were loath to learn the new business. Sounding out the market before becoming too deeply involved, however, many adopted hardwood manufacturing as a profitable adjunct to pine sawmilling, and a considerable number of former pine operatives have become hardwood men almost exclusively.

Mrs. Bob Jones was the guest of Mrs. Emma Sweet in Montgomery last Saturday.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseales calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q. Is this a good time for the testing of seed corn? How is that best done?

A. Arrange the ears that are to be tested in a row on a board shelf, and number them by placing a tag on the butt end with a nail. On a cloth spread on the table draw lines about two inches apart parallel to each other across the cloth. Take ten kernels from the first ear and place them in a row on the first line, numbered 1. Then ten kernels from ear 2 are placed on line 2, and so on until the cloth is covered. The edges of the cloth are then folded over to hold the corn in place and the cloth is rolled up on a round stick the size of a lead pencil until the corn is all in a row. Then put a rubber band around each end and call this a rag doll. This is soaked in water over night and then squeezed a little in the morning and put in a glass jar and slightly covered until germination takes place. Then unroll the cloth and count the number of kernels in each row that did and those that did not germinate. You will soon decide which ears to eliminate from planting. In good years such as this, you should expect every kernel to germinate completely. If any fail to germinate, destroy those ears for seeding purposes. The ears saved for feed wil more than pay for the cost of testing. Replanting of the field is also avoided. A more even stand is secured. The owner may cultivate the crop earlier if no replanting is done.

Q. Do you recommend fall sowing of lespedeza or Japanese clover?

A. For common lespedeza fall sowing is quite commonly practiced successfully. For the high-priced variety, it is better to wait until the ground is better prepared and conditions for growth are more favorable. Sow the seed just before the last late frost in the spring so that when it comes up the frosts will be over.

Mark 1:12-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel. Mark 1:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' First Helpers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Winning a Victory.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making a Good Beginning.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Facing His Task.

I. The Divine Servant Meeting and Overcoming the Devil (vv. 12, 13).

The temptation in the wilderness was Messianic. It was not a preparation of Jesus for his work but the first conflict. Since he had come to destroy the devil (Heb. 2:14), he at once engaged in that struggle which was to issue in Satan's defeat.

1. The Spirit driveth him (v. 12). This shows how really Christ was under the control of the Spirit. "Driveth" is the same Greek word which is used in connection with Christ casting out devils (See Mark 1:34, 39).

2. He was in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Satan (v. 13). Not that he fasted forty days and was then tempted, but that the struggle with the devil lasted forty days.

3. He was with the wild beasts (v. 13). The clear implication is that he not only overcame the devil but had dominion over the wild beasts also.

4. The angels ministered unto him (v. 13). These superhuman messengers doubtless ministered to him all through the forty days.

II. The Divine Servant Preaching (vv. 14, 15).

Jesus does not first present himself as a miracle worker, but as a preacher, a bearer of a message. Miracles were but the credentials of the messenger.

1. Where he preached—in Galilee (v. 14). Galilee was particularly his own country. His ministry there was some distance removed from Jerusalem, and there less opposition would likely be manifest.

2. What he preached—the gospel of the Kingdom of God (v. 14). Since "gospel" means "good news," the essential content of his message was that God had sent him to announce the good news of the near approach of the Kingdom of God, or the rule of God upon the earth.

3. What he demanded—repentance and belief of the gospel (v. 15). He showed that the way to get ready for the coming of the Kingdom is to repent and believe the gospel of Christ's death for sin, and his coming to administer the affairs of righteousness upon the earth.

III. The Divine Servant Calling Associates (vv. 16-20).

Knowing that his ministry would be short, he called to definite fellowship men to continue the work after he was gone.

1. Who they were (vv. 16, 19). Simon and Andrew, James and John—two pairs of brothers. It is usually wise to engage in the Lord's service in fellowship—in pairs. This is not only necessary for effective testimony, but for protection of the witnesses. These men had become Christ's disciples, for at the word of John the Baptist they had beheld the "Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:36-42). This is always the Lord's way. He calls men and women to be his disciples and then calls them to have fellowship with him in service.

2. From what they were called (vv. 16-20). They were called from business and family connections. In looking for men worth while, we should expect to find them busily engaged. James and John left their father and his servants. The call of God involves sacrifice and separation.

3. To what they were called (v. 17). To become fishers of men. These men, no doubt, had been successful as fishers. The qualities which made them good fishermen; namely: patience, bravery which led them to face the storm at night, and perseverence which led him to toil all night though no fish were caught, would make them good fishers of men. Winning souls for Christ requires patience, bravery and perseverence.

4. Obedience of the disciples (vv. 18-20). Obedience to Christ's call meant sacrifice, painful separation. It means to give up business interests. They yielded prompt obedience. They put their trust in him who called them, believing that he was able to supply all their needs.

5. Their reward (v. 17). These four men have wielded wondrous influence in the world. Their names have become immortalized. Had they remained at their business they would only have been humble fishermen.

God Does Nothing Amiss

However bitter the cup we have to drink, we are sure it contains nothing unnecessary or unkind; and we should take it from his hand with as much meekness as we accept of eternal life with thankfulness.—William Goodell.

Dumb Christians

If you had a child that was deaf and dumb, you would think it a great misfortune. Do you ever think how many dumb children God has?—D. L. Moody.

Mr. Leon Sanford, of the Jefferson Davis Barber Shop, Montgomery, was a visitor to Clanton Sunday.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Holy men of old spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit and pictured in prophecy, not only the foundation, place, time and the close relation the church (the saved) has to Christ, who is the bridegroom of his church, but they pictured in types and shadows the system of worship that should respond from devoted hearts in honor to the crucified, resurrected, and glorified Savior.

"I will declare thy name unto my brethren; in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee." Heb. 2:12. The words of admonition instruction, and encouragement tuned to the praise of God serve to edify the understanding hearts in song service.

Paul says "I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing with understanding also." I Cor. 4:15. Vocal music leads one's mind into the very meaning and understanding or leads one's mind away from the sentiment of the words of songs sung. Paul says, "If I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian unto me." I Cor. 12:11. Paul even foretold anyone from speaking in the church in a language that the audience can not understand. I Cor. 14:28. For this reason he also forbids more than one speaker to speak to the same audience at the same time (I Cor. 14:31) that all may learn. God is not the author of the confusion of more than one speaker speaking at the same time to the same audience. I Cor. 14:31-33. That which upsets the understanding of what is spoken upsets the order of worship which was prophesied by holy of old, and which was sanctified by the blood of Christ.

The simpliciety of song service lends emphasis, understanding and melody to the praise of God, and edification of the church.

The worshipers under the Jewish economy had their law written first by the finger of God in tables of stone; but "the law of the spirit of life" should be written in the hearts or minds of those who yield to its control. Heb. 8:7-13. And it is the light of the word of God (Psa. 119:130) that leads one to be "not conformed to this world," but to be transformed by the renewing of the mind, Rom. 12:1-2. God wants a mind and heart service. Paul says, "So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin." Rom. 7:25.

The perfect law of liberty of the New Testamint is given to us to convert the soul, purify the heart, lead the mind, guide the feet, and set our lives apart to service of God in the light of heaven and liberty of Christianity.—R. L. Huffman.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

"Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." Matt. 5:17. These are the words of Jesus Himself in His famous sermon on the mount. His life surely did fulfill prophecy. It fulfilled many prophecies, a few of which we noticed last week in this corner and now we present other prophecies fulfilled in the life of the Messiah

The triumphal entry of the Savior into Jerusalem was foretold: "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold thy King cometh unto thee: He is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt, the foal of an ass." Zech. 9:9. This was fulfilled in the experiences of Jesus: "They brought him to Jesus; and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon. And as He went, they spread their clothes in the way. And when He was come nigh, even now at the descent of the Mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen; saying, "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: Peace in heaven, and glory in the highest." Luke. 38:38.

The conduct of the Messiah while on trial were set forth in advance: "He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth; he was brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth." Isa. 53:7. This prophecy was exactly fulfilled in the conduct of Jesus. "Then said Pilate unto Him, Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee. And he answered them never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly." Mat. 27:13-14.

Of the Messiah the prophecy was made: "They gave me also gall for my meat; and in my thrist they gave vinegar to drink." Ps. 69:21. And the apostle records the fullfillment: "They gave Him vinegar to drink mingled with gall, and when He had tasted thereof, He would not drink," Matt. 27:34.

In Isa. 53:9, the prophecy is that He would make His grave with the wicked, and with the rich in His death. This was fulfilled for there were "two thieves crucified with Him," Matt. 27:38, and, "a rich man of Arimathaea, named Joseph,..... went to Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus . . . He wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock." Matt. 27:57-60.

Even the triumph of the Messiah over the death was predicted: "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell; neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption." Ps. 16:10. This was fulfilled in the triumphant resurrection of Jesus from the dead. Matt. 28:1-10.

The exact time of the first coming of Christ was clearly foretold in prophecy five centuriees before His birth. Look for this remarkable prohecy in next week's Prophecy Corner.—L. A. Butterfield.

IN MEMORIAM

On December 17, 1932, Mrs. Mattie E. Gibson passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Waldrip, near Randolph, Ala.

Mrs. Gibson leaves to mourn her departure a son, Mrs. B. C. Gibson of Thorsby, two daughters, Mrs. Waldrip of Randolph and Mrs. J. A. Champion of Robertsdale, and seventeen grandchildren and great grandchildren.

She was laid to rest at the Pleasant Grove cemetery, near Jemison, in which community she lived and raised her family.

She has been a widow for almost twenty-five years, and has bravely fought the hardships and battles of life alone. B sides her husband three daughters have gone before her and are waiting to receive her on the other side.

She was sixty-seven years old and has been a member of the Baptist church since her girlhood. She has been in ill health for the past two years, but the end came quietly and without any intense pain.

She will be greatly missed by her many friends in both her old home community and the one in which she lived at the time of her death.

The family wishes to extend their many thanks to those who have been so kind and helpful during the sickness and death.—A loved one.

SQUIRREL SEASON IS "OUT"

I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, has directed the attention of the hunters of Alabama to a change in the dates governing the open season on squirrels which was authorized at the recent special session of the legislature.

The new law specifies that the squirrel hunting season opens on October 1 and close December 31, whereas the old statute provided that the season open on November 1 and close January 31.

This word of caution is issued to prevent hunters violating the new law or being misyuided by the dates pointed on the hunting licenses for the current year. These licenses, bearing the dates under the old law, were ishued to the probate judges of the state last September prior to the action of the legislature, which became effective immediately.

For economic reasons, the licenses were not reprinted and hunters of the state are cautioned to observe the new dates.

MEETING OF B. Y. P. U. OFFICERS

Farm Bureau Moved

A business move of great interest to the farmers of this section has been made in the transfer of the feed and seed business and the cream testing station of the Farm Bureau to Mr. Evan Parrish of the Southern Seed and Plant Co.

Mr. Parrish states that he will have the cream testing station set up at his place ready for testing cream that will come in next Saturday. All shippers of cream are urged to take notiice of this change.

Concerning the change in the location of the business, Mr. W. L. Popwell, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, announces that he has made a contract with Mr. Evan Parrish to handle the cream station and feed business formerly handled by the farm bureau in the Popwell building. Mr. Parrish is moving the cream station and farm bureau feed business to his place of business near the postoffice.

Mr. Popwell states that he trusts that under the new arrangements that the farm bureau members will be able to get better service than has been possible for the farm bureau to give during the past several months. Mr. Popwell further states that the members may see Miss Guy, secretary to Mr. Stapp, about any of the farm bureau business.

The farm bureau has a big program for Chilton County this year and the same will be given publicity at a later date. Members are urged to given attention to present state and national issues mentioned in the last issue of the farm bureau news.

Sanders Writes On Relief Proposition

Since I have been connected with relief work, I have met several difficult problems, which caused me to seriously consider this situation.

I find that the person who has a great deal of pride and self-respect will allow himself and family to suffer before they will eat bread that's made from Red Cross Flour.

They feel that it's right to work for themselves and family. Therefore, they will suffer and endure cold and hunger before they will beg.

This class of people has no desire to be dependent upon others, but rather be self-sustaining if possible. On the other hand, there is another class of people that would rather sit down without the sting of pride or selfsrespect and continously eat from the table of charity. Among this type of people there are big, robust, able-bodied men, that will never work as long as they are fed by charitable institutions.

Charity is all right and should exist everywhere, but not to the extent that it is dangerous. The old, aged and the afflicted, who are not able to take care of themselves should be cared for by charitable institutions, but the person that is able to work should be given a job, that he might care for himself and family.

Many will say, "I have no job to offer." So has the rich man said, he has no work to be done, but still wants all the money he can get to hoard up and make times harder.

Now if the people of Chilton County want better times among themselves, they should begin to practice what they preach and not hoard up the necessities of life from the suffering women and children, as the millionaires have done.

There are more people in a destitute condition than some would think. There are also more bums than you would imagine. This being true, it is hard for anyone to intellegently administer direct relief without having some work to offer. I trust that you will not be negligent in fulfilling out the blanks sent to the many citizens by the county agent.

Asking that you give him your best cooperation. I remain yours very truly, W. L. Sanders.

STRAWBERRY MEETING IS TO BE HELD AT MAPLESVILLE

On Monday, January 9th, at 10 o'clock, Mr. Stapp will hold a strawberry and outlook meeting at Maplesville. All strawberry growers and farmers of that section are asked to take notice and meet with Mr. Stapp.

TREASURER REPORT NEXT WEEK

The semi-annual report of the County Treasurer will be published in The Union-Banner next week. This report will show receipts and disburesements of county funds for the period of July 1, 1932 to December 31, 1932.

Rev. A. C. Duggar of Verbena was in Clanton Tuesday.

THREE ARRESTED PAST WEEK

The Sheriff's office reports three prisoners put in jail during the past week. One for public drunkenness, one for burglary and grand larceny and one for assault and battery. The jail register Wednesday morning showed 14 prisoners in confinement.

ELMORES ATTEND FUNERAL AT TROY

Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore went to Troy Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Viola Carmichael, who died in Ozark Monday morning. Mrs. Carmichael was an aunt of Mrs. Elmore.

PRIVATE SCHOOL AT VERBENA

Rev A. C. Duggar and Mrs. Duggar, at Verbena, announce that they will teach a private school, for pupils in the first to sixth grades. This action is taken for the benefit of pupils who otherwise would be out of school owing to the closing of the public school at Verbena, along with others in the county.

Produce and food stuff of various kinds will be accepted by Mr. Duggar in payment of tuition, which is an advantage that will make it possible for many pupils to attend.

Elsewhere in this paper is an advertisement setting forth details of the Duggar plan. Those who live in the Verbena territory, if interested in the matter, should confer with Mr. Duggar immediately, as the school is being started this week.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT CONCORD FRIDAY, JAN. 6TH

After having been postponed twice on account of the bad weather, it is announced again this week that the fiddlers convention at Concord Junior High school will be held Friday night, January 6th, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Admission charges will be 10 cents. Prizes will be awarded to all contestants. First prize will be a $2.50 gold piece.

Everybody is invited to come. The program will be held this time, regardless of weather conditions, it is stated. All fiddlers are especially urged to attend.

DR. GRAGG GONE TO MIAMI

Dr. V. J. Gragg left last Saturday night for a vacation trip to Miami, Florida. He has been in ill health for the past few weeks, and decided that he needs a good Florida sun-tan in order to bring him back to good physical form.

Plans announced when he left here were to go to Miami and completely relax, rest, and play for at least a couple of weeks. It goes without saying, that he will have a big time. His friends hope he will come back with plenty of sand in his craw and ready to carry on with his practice here.

JIM DOSTER DIED WEDNESDAY

Mr. Jim Doster, age about 70 years, died early Wednesday morning at the home of his daughter, in the cotton mill village of Clanton. The body was taken in charge by Martin and Sons and prepared for burial at New Salem. Funeral services will be held at two o'clock Thursday.

The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Joe Wesson. He has lived in the Mt. Pleasant community north of Clanton for the past twenty-four years.

Commissioners Court

Thorsby Public School, appealed to the court to grant a refrendum to the people on the question of appropriating money to keep the schools open. "Let the people have a voice on this question," he said, "they know what they want. Everybody will be satisfied with the result of the people's verdict." Mr. Bean vigorously attacked certain published statements that have been made relative to the teachers. "The teachers are not selfish," he declared, "and the teachers are not making any fight for their own interests."

Short statements and discussions of the question were made by Earle Thomas, of Isabella, Lee A. Popwell, of Mt. Pleasant, and Charley Cox of Jumbo.

Howard Oden, of Isabella, in discussing the question of furnishing relief to the needy through road work, said, "In Beat 3 the people who are the most able to take care of themselves are the ones who have been getting the road work." Judge Reynolds interposed the declaration that such is contrary to the intentions and purposes of the Commissioners Court. Asked by Judge Reynolds, "Who is the overseer in Beat 3?" Mr. Oden replied, "Mr. Lenior." Continuing his remarks about state affairs, Mr. Oden declared it is high time the people of Alabama were setting themselves about the all-important matter of getting something done in Montgomery.

At this time, the members of the Commissioners Court were called upon for an expression about the matter under consideration. Commissioner J. M. Mims spoke first. While his remarks did not embody a definite expression upon the proposition of appropriation of money to keep the schools running, he declared opposition to certain school policies, such as consolidation and centralization of schools. He said he favors keeping the small school in the small community.

Commissioner J. L. Burnet abbreviated his remarks on the question by declaring himself in favor of trying to work out some plan whereby the court might extend assistance in keeping the schools open.

Commissioner J. E. Cobb, said, "We want figures that will show us where we stand financially. We were elected to take care of the county's roads and other business, not including schools. The first thing, then, the commissioners must do is to take care of their own duties in running the county's business."

Commissioner A. P. Vinson expressed his hearty interest in schools. But he warned that the Commissioners have their own duties to perform, and that they must first guard themselves to properly take care of those duties. "We were elected to run the county's business, aside from the schools, and I do not believe we will find ourselves able to take care of our own business and also run the schools."

Judge Reynolds spoke to the question, beginning with a reply to the statement of Dr. Ezell that the people have been led to believe and to hope that the Commissioners would keep the schools running. "This court has not led anybody into anything about this matter," he declared. "All the leading that has been done is by you folks trying to lead the Commissionrs into this business," he said.

Continuing his discussion, Judge Reynolds said: "If it were merely a question of a road or a school, I would support the school. But I want you people to remember that there are many things within the scope of the duties and obligations of the Commissioners Court; and the schools are not among those duties. Personally, I will say that I am opposed to putting a dollar into the hands of a school board that will go behind closed doors and elect a superintendent of education without giving anybody a chance to express themselves upon the matter, or without giving anybody a chance to apply for the place.

"Upon the general principles and values of education, I of course, endorse every word that has been said here. You started out to take a vote on the commissioners appropriating $48,940.51 to keep the schools running. I told you the county could not afford to put up that amount."

Reading the resolution of the recent mass meeting, which was presented to the Commissioners Court, Judge Reynolds declared, "That is nothing upon which any definite proposition could be submitted to the people."

"I do not believe Lawrence, Conway, Webb and Yates want the schools to keep running," he said, "because they have not shown themselves in any manner disposed to assist in working out any plans toward this end. If they can arrange for operating trucks for transportation, they should be able to arrange to pay the teachers one month. I believe the Commissioners have more interest in the schools than the school board has. But the commissioners were elected to run the county's general business, and they will do that first."

Referring to the relief question Judge Reynolds said, "Mr. Stapp has delivered flour to people upon the recommendation of citizens in the community. If it were wrong to let those people have it, the blame should be placed upon the citizens who recommended it, and not upon Stapp."

"The Commissioners have one main purpose," Judge Reynolds said, "and that is to discharge the duties for which they were elected. They have in the past and will in the future, so govern the business of the county that they will be able to pay cash for every obligation. The court believes in submitting to the people any and all questions that concern the people's interests. I want the Commissioners to study this question of helping out the schools and figure on it carefully. We have passed the day for arguing about the advantages of schools and education. We all agree on that. But the question before this court is whether or not we are able to take care of the schools after we have properly provided for the other obligations of this court.

"If the court can figure we are able to extend such aid, then we might consider submitting the question to a vote of the people. But there is no use in submitting something to the people which the commissioners themselves cannot figure as workable.

"Now, I am sure the commissioners will do their best to solve this question and see if they can help the schools. I hope they can do so."

At the conclusion of the remarks of Judge Reynolds, the commissioners voted to recess for lunch until 1:30 o'clock. When they went back into session after noon, Rev. Ezell, chairman of the citizens committee again appeared before them. He presented figures on the budget of the county and the contemplated income of the county, by which he sought to prove to the commissioners that they would have ample money to take care of the county's various business obligations and also make the requested appropriations to the schools.

After all hearings upon the matter were completed, the commissioners passed the following resolution:

"A great deal of publicity and propaganda has been put forth to the effect that the court of county commissioners of Chliton County would finance the schools of the county. As much as we regret to see the school finances in the deplorable condition they are in, in view of the unusual and urgent demands on the court of county commissioners, we are not able to advance any substantial amount of funds for the relief of the school situation.

"The total sum in the county treasury to-day is $14,316.46, which includes special fiduciary funds which cannot be used, except for the purposes collected. The funds out of which the schools might be financed amounts to considerably less than $21,000, and this is needed at this time for roads and other county purposes.

"The court of county commissioners feels that the schools are not our direct responsibility, but that the health, convenience, and public necessities of the citizenship of the county should have preference in the allotment of the funds disbursed by the county commissioners."

Five Schools Closed

Five schools in Chilton County have not re-opened after the holidays, and according to the way things stand, these schools will not be able to open again this year. Something must be done by somebody somewhere to make available sufficient funds, or else they will remain closed.

The schools which have not re-opened are Clanton Grammar School, Thorsby Public School, Jemison Elementary School, Verbena Eelementary School, and Maplesville Elementary School. These schools have already completed three and one-half months, because they opened their sessions in September. This is in accordance with the program of half a seven-months term which was set up by the county board at the beginning of the year.

All other schools in the county, including the senior high schools, re-opened Monday morning and will continue until January 27, according to present arrangements. That will make a half term (three and one-half months) for the elementary schools, and a half term (four and a half months) for the senior high schools.

Thus the end of the schools of Chilton County is rapidly drawing near, unless something turns up to make available sufficient funds to keep them running.

Kiwanis Club News

"Tonight will be a big night for members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, their wives and other guests when the club will officially observe "Ladies Night." This is an annual affair and looked forward to by the Kiwanians and those fortunate to be a guest.

In connection with "Ladies Night" the club will also hold its official installation of officers recently elected to serve during the coming year. Cohen E. Stapp was reelected as secretary at a directors meeting last Thursday night. The officers to be installed tonight are Mack Wyatt, president; L. H. Reynolds, vice-pres.; E. E. Upchurch, treasurer; Cohen E. Stapp, secretary. In the report as published last week the name of Sam R. Powers, as a member of the Board of Directors was omitted. Committee chairman and members are also to be announced later. The club is anticipating a year of many achievements.

REV. J. T. NELSON'S 100TH BIRTHDAY

Oldest Citizen in County Has Old Friends with Him on January 4

The one hundreth birthday of Rev. J. T. Nelson was celebrated at his home near Clanton on last Wednesday, January 4th. On this occasion hundreds of people from far and near came to Mr. Nelson's home to extend their greetings.

Among the notable visitors was Rev. D. S. Martin, of Equality, a friend and neighbor of Rev. Nelson during the many years the latter lived in Coosa County. Rev. Martin furnishes us the following very interesting story of the life and experiences of Rev. Nelson:

J. T. Nelson was born in Butts County, Georgia, near Indian Springs, January 4, 1833. He moved with his father to Tallapoosa County, Alabama in 1842, when nine years old. He grew up to manhood in Tallapoosa County and married in 1855.

In 1860 he removed to Coosa County and settled near Bazemore's Cross Roads (Weogufka). Here he engaged in farming. After making two crops he enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1862, and served to the close of the war.

Mr. Nelson, as a Confederate Soldier. was present when General Lee surrendered at Appamattox. His story of the dramatic incidents of the surrender of General Lee and the Confederate Army is most touching.

While in Tallapoosa County Mr. Nelson had joined the Baptist Church in 1853. On his return from the war he was ordained a deacon in 1865 at old Weogufka Church. In 1875 he was ordained to the full work of the gospel ministery. During his active career as a minister he pastored the following churches; in Coosa, Talladega, and Shelby Counties: Sardis, Pine Grove, Salem, Union, Hatchett Creek, Mt. Moriah, Weogufka, Holly Springs, Mountain Springs, Shelving Rock, Bethlehem, and Coosa River.

Rev. Nelson served as Moderator of the Weogufka Baptist Association for thirteen years. He was a member of the Commissioners Court of Coosa County for seven years; Justice of the peace in his precinct for 43 years; township school trustee for 24 years; County Registrar of Coosa County for 20 years. He was made a Mason in 1867, and filled every station in old Weogufka Lodge.

Mr. Nelson was the father of six children by his first marriage. His first wife died in 1889. He was married the second time in 1890. There were four children by his second marriage.

The number of his direct descendants, including the fifth generation, is 187, of which 125, together with a large number of friends and acquaintances, gathered at his home for the celebration of his 100th birthday.

Mell Martin and B. J. Sessions went to Montgomery Tuesday to attend a Shriners "blow out."

Earle Thomas, vocational teacher at Isabella, was a business visitor to the city Tuesday afternoon.

BAPTISTS OPPOSE WET PROGRAM

The Chilton County Association Passed Resolution Opposing Repeal

The Chilton County Missionary Baptist Association is on record as unequivocally opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, or any alteration of the Volstead Law. This stand was definitely established when on October 12, 1932, the Association then in session at Sardis church, passed the following order:

"Rev. Paul Oden moved that the Chilton County Baptist Association, composed of more than 5,000 members, go on record as opposing the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States or any alteration of the Volstead Law, and that we urge our senators and representatives in the state of Alabama to use their influence and vote against such repeal or alteration of the Volstead Law, and that a copy of this resolution be furnished the Chilton county papers and that a copy be sent to each of the senators and representatives from the state of Alabama."

The above resolution was carried by an enthusiastic and unanimous vote.

SERVICE AT SAMARIA CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday is time for the regular preaching services at Samaria—the first of the new year. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, announces that his subject will be "Let's Start Over Again," at eleven o'clock; for the evening service his subject will be "Some Things I Would Like to Be and Do in 1933," at seven p.m.

Sunday school will be held at 10 o'clock a.m. Everybody is cordially invited to attend all of these services.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

The annual meeting of the Young People's Organization of Unity Association will meet at Mt. Creek Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, January 15, 1933, at 2:00 o'clock.

I urge each church in the association to have their organizations reprepersented by the young people. Be sure to bring your report if you have not already sent it in.—Mrs. J. Z. Mims, Leader.

CALVIN COOLIDGE DIED SUDDENLY

Former President Buried In Native Soil at Plymouth, Vermont, Jan. 7

Calvin Collidge, thirtieth president of the United States, died unexpectedly at his home in Northampton, Mass., shortly after noon last Thursday, January 5, 1933. Mr. Coolidge was sixty years old on July 4th, 1932.

He succeeded to the presidency of the United States upon the death of President Harding in 1923; was elected to a full term as president in 1924, and served until he was succeeded by President Herbert Hoover in March, 1929.

His body was carried back to his native town of Plymouth, Vermont, and buried with an impressive though simple ceremony, on last Saturday. The funeral in Northampton was attended by many notables of the country, among whom were President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover. Calvin Coolidge was one of the most universally loved men ever to occupy the place of chief executive of the United States.

SINGING AT PROVIDENCE

A good afternoon singing was held at Providence, Beat 16, last Sunday. It was called to order by C. H. Robinson by singing, and the chaplin led in prayer. Then J. W. Clackler sang three songs.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness shown us during the illness and recent death of our father, Mr. Jim Doster. We especially thank Mr. Martin for his kindness We are also thankful for the beautiful flowers and the kind words spoken by the ministers. May God's richest blessing shine upon them.—Ida Mae Doster, daughter; James Gilvie Henley, grandson.

MISS CARRIE FOSHEE HONORS LOVELY BRIDE

Leading the many social events of the past week was the beautiful miscellaneous sower given by Miss Carrie Foshee at her home last Friday afternoon between the hours of three and five, honoring the recent bride, Mrs. Samuel Martin, the former Miss Ruth Sessions.

The guests were received by the hostess, Mrs. M. D. Fishee, Mrs. B. J. Sessions, Mrs. J. Mell Martin and the honoree, in rooms beautifully decorated with flowers carrying out the color scheme of green and gold and illuminated with the solft glow of many candles. Guests were directed to the bride's book by Mrs. Edmund Lakeman. The book which was tastefully arranged on a table lighted with candles, was presided over by Miss Dorothy Sessions, sister of the honoree.

The many beautiful and useful gifts were shown by Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Miss Julia Hester and Mrs. Kin Vinson. Sandwiches carrying out the color scheme of green and gold were served with coffee to the guests by Mrs. Mack Wyatt. Throughout the afternoon a soft and sacred touch was added to this beautiful event by the burning tapers, and the ninety odd guests were impressed by the beauty of the occasion.

McDONALDS WILL SING AT CLANTON

Quartet Will Put On Program at Courthouse Night of January 19th

We cannot say much in way of introduction to these boys, because nearly everybody in this vicinity knows them more or less. You have either heard them in person or have been listening to them over the radio every Sunday afternoon for the past year. But we can say that they are real artists in their line. They put on a program at Jemison a few nights ago, and if you doubt their ability, just ask some of the people who heard them up there. They have got as fine harmony as can be had anywhere, and pep is no name for the way they go into their numbers. Their program will consist of mostly sacred selections—some of which you have heard—and plenty of popular pieces too. It is worth driving ten miles to hear them sing "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart," and they have several others just as good. The program will begin at 7:30 and will continue for an hour or a little over.

The main purpose of this engagement is to raise some money to pay on the community piano at the courthouse; but that is not all: There are hundreds of people around Clanton who enjoy hearing good classical quartet singing, and it is for their benefit as well as the piano fund that the McDonalds have been engaged to come here. And the admission price has been made so low that no one need stay away on account of the hard times. It will be 15 cents for grown folks and 10 cents for children under 12 years of age. It is hoped and expected that the court room will be filled to capacity by the time the singing is to begin. And remember that when this bunch agrees to sing they will be there regardless of the weather. It will likely be bad weather, but come on any way, because they will put on their program unless it is storming or something worse.

We were about to overlook mentioning that there will be a black-face comedian in the crowd, and he is as good as you ever saw on any stage. So make arrangements to be there and enjoy the fun and good singing as well as help out on your piano fund.

THE SHIPWRECKED FARMERS

If a half dozen men were marooned on a desert island they would join forces to secure food, shelter and protection. It would be folly for each to work separately. By cooperation they would achieve results obtainable in no other manner.

This illustration explains the farm cooperative movement. Farmers today are in much the same position as sailors wrecked on a desert island. Their financial existance depends on profitable and permanent markets for their produce. Each farmer working alone is powerless, for he is opposed by forces far stronger than he.

But when ten thousand farmers join forces to study production figures, marketing, transportation and like problems of agriculture, their situation has changed. Cooperation is just another name for economic salvation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kendrick and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Newton of Mitchell Dam visited friends and relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Manly Thigpen spent Sunday in Montgomery with Mr. Thigpen's father.

J. L. GORE SEEKS "INFORMATION"

Favors the Reconstruction Loan and Queries J. E. Easterling About Campaign

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me a small space in your paper to reply to an article by Mr. J. E. Easterling, of two weeks age?

In that article Mr. Easterling opposed the county getting the $50,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation to give the needy of the county work to help them during these distressing times. I do not see how anyone could oppose the county getting this money to help feed and clothe the hungry. There was about five million dollars set aside to come to the State of Alabama. If this money is to be paid back out of the funds of the State of Alabama, then Chilton County will pay their part, whether they get one penny or not. Only last week, almost one million dollars was sent to this state which was divided between 24 counties. This makes a total of about two million dollars that has come to the State of Alabama, which means that, should this money be required to be repaid out of state appropriations, that Chilton County will have to pay their part of it without receiving one dollar of the money.

Mr. Easterling seems to be the legal advisor to a certain crowd that is opposed to the county getting this money. Will he please tell the people whether he thinks the above a good proposition for Chilton County? Or is it just politics that some are opposing the county getting this money?

From the statement filed by the Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, in the last election, it would appear that very few people in this county are as fortunate as Mr. J. E. Easterling. That report shows that Mr. Easterling, et al, received $300.00 for work and information. Will Mr. Easterling please explain to the people of this county why this money was paid to him and what he did with it? Will he also explain why he can get $300.00 out of a campaign and the average Republican voter in this county gets nothing? Will he explain why the candidates did not file an affidavit showing that the statement of the campaign was true and correct, as is required by Section 594? As Mr. Easterling got pay for information, will he explain why an itemized statement of all the expenditures of the campaign was not itemized as is required by Section 593 of the Code? Will he also explain why it is that under his advice the candidates failed to comply with the law, and under Section 595 a certificate of election should have been issued to them?

Mr. Easterling spends a great deal of his time in Clanton knocking certain Republican officials and talking up for others. Will he explain if part of the $300.00 went to pay him for this work, or does he get pay from some one else for this work?

Now, Mr. Easterling, you have set yourself up to advise the people of the county what to do, and apparently have received a considerable amount of money for work and information, will you please explain to the voters of this county just what that work and information consisted of, and who, if anyone, received any part of the $300.00? If anyone else received any of it, what did they do?

When Mr. Easterling answers these questions, I want to ask him some more that I think the voters should know.—J. L. Gore, Jemison, Ala.

Another Mass Meeting Called Next Saturday

Citizens Wish to Hold Meeting With the Commissioners Court and Discuss Matters Pertaining to Continuance of Chilton County Schools

"We the undersigned citizens of Chilton County call upon the taxpayers of the county to meet with us in a meeting before the Commissioners Court next Saturday, January 14, at 2 p.m. The purpose of this meeting is two-fold. First, we wish to discuss the posibility of the Commissioners providing immediate work on the public roads for those unable to pay the taxes on their homes. We ask all that would like to work out their taxes on the public roads, and cannot pay them otherwise, to be at this meeting.

"We also expect to try to work out some plan by which our schools can be kept open. We hope that the children of the unfortunate parents will not have to sit down and grow up in ignorance, because they have not the price to pay their way into the private schools. Every parent interested in his or her children have a special invitation to this meeting. We hope that everybody will come with open mind ready to fall in line and do everything reasonable to help keep the homes from being sold and the schools from being closed."—W. H. Conway, J. M. Smith, T. J. Littlejohn, W. L. Sanders, J. D. Collins.

W. M. U. OF CHILTON COUNTY ASSOCIATION WILL MEET SOON

The annual meeting of the Womans Missionary Union of the Chilton County association will be held Thursday, January 19 at Chestnut Creek Baptist church, beginning at 10 a.m., with Mrs. J. W. Jones, superintendent, presiding. "Leader Training and Extension," is the theme for the day.

Devotional will be conducted by Miss Hazel Maddox of Pates Chapel and Miss Mae Woods of Thorsby will talk on "The High Cost of Leadership," and Mrs. S. J. Ezell of Clanton, vice president of the Eastern District, on "Kingdom Extension Through the W. M. U.

Officers for the new year will be installed by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, and all officers for 1933 are urged to be present. A solo will be a feature of the installation service, rendered by Mrs. J. W. Patton of Jemison.

A box lunch will be served at the noon hour, and in the afternoon a conference will be held for instruction of officers of the missionary socities, circles, and groups of the W. M. U. presided over by the associational officers.

Mrs. J. W. JONES, Supt.
Mrs. W. H. RAYBON Secy-Treas.

HAD A BIG TIME SATURDAY NIGHT

Local American Legion Now Ready to Entertain Disabled Veterans

The rehearsal of the entertainers who will go to the Veterans Hospital on next Friday was greeted with an overflow crowd of spectators at the courthouse last Saturday night. The group is composed of a varied collection of local musicians and artists who have been selected by the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. The numbers include old time music, fiddling, dancing, and original comedy sketches.

Arrangements have been completed to carry the entertainers to Tuscaloosa in a bus on Friday. The program will be presented to the disabled veterans in the Tuscaloosa Hospital on Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

In addition to the numbers on the Tuscaloosa program, the musicians favored the audience at the court house last Saturday night with many other popular selections, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed by everybody.

All entertainers on the program to go to Tuscaloosa are urged to be in Clanton ready to go on Friday morning, January 13, not later than eight o'clock. Those who go from Thorsby will be picked up by the truck there about 8:30.

LAMAR CALLOWAY PRAISED

Medical Pupils Commended For Work At University

University—Many of the former students in the University of Alabama Medical School who have transferred to four-year schools for their last two years of work have been praised in the highest terms in letters received by Dean Stuart Graves, of the University of Alabama.

At Washington University, Luther Davis, of Tuscaloosa, is having a successful year. In a recent letter to Dr. Graves, Registrar Parker, of Washington University, said that they would be glad to have several transfers next year "of the type of Davis."

At Tulane, all Alabama men have made good, and Dean Bass recently signified that Tulane would take at least six, probably eight, Alabama transfers for next year.

Jasper L. Calaway, a native Clanton boy who transferred from the school to Duke in the spring of 1933, has won election to the highly-prized honorary society of Alpha Omega Alpha and has just been awarded a three-year fellowship in dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania under Prof. Stokes. In connection with his fellowship, he will also assist in syphilology.

Dean Davison, of Duke, wrote Dean Graves that Callaway was "one of the best students" at Duke and that the Pennsylvania scholarship had been given him as a result of his work during an elective quarter at Pennsylvania. Dean Davison added: "All the students we have had from Alabama have done very good work."—The Birmingham News.

BASKET BALL GAME FRI. NIGHT

There will be a basket ball game at the high school gymnasium in Clanton on Friday night of this week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The team from Holtville will come here to engage the Chilton Tigers on this occasion. Admission charges will be 10 cents and 15 cents.

LADIES GUESTS OF KIWANIS CLUB

Annual Ladies Night Held Last Week With Impressive Program

Last Thursday night, one of the most brilliant affairs held in Clanton in some time, took place in the dining room of the Exchange Hotel, when the Kiwanis club of Clanton held its annual "Ladies Night" and installation of new officers.

There were approximately one hundred present at this affair. Guests included wives and friends of members of the club, speakers from out of town and several entertainers from Selma. All together, it made a most enjoyable occasion. Among the out of town guests were District Governor Lewis of Selma, Ed Norton and Dean Gilbert Meade of the Birmingham club and Mr. Salter of Selma. The latter held a most attentive audience as he told of a vagabonding trip through many foreign countries. Several young ladies from Selma rendered numbers on the program.

In a most impressive manner Kiwanian John Hollis, who served as president of the local club during 1932 presented the president's button and gavel to Mack Wyatt, who was elected to serve as president during 1933. In turn Mack Wyatt presented John with the past president's button of Kiwanis. Mr. Wyatt in making his acceptance speech paid tribute to Kiwanians John Hollis, Earle Thomas and Sam Powers for their faithfulness to the club. These three live several miles from Clanton.

The program which lasted for two hours was kept moving in the best of style for two hours by Mack Wyatt who acted as toastmaster.

PREVENTABLE FIRES

In extremely cold weather it is a temptation to force fires in heating systems in order to keep warm. Records of the National Board of Fire Underwriters indicate that overheated stoves cause numerous fires during winter—thoughtlessness in tending the fires, radiated heat which chars beams placed too close to hot metal, defective or soot-clogged equipment or chimneys.

All these dangers can be eliminated. When attempting to obtain maximum heat from a stove or furnace, it is important to keep close watch over the unit—do not stay away from it too long. If this is done there is little likelihood of overheating.

The second item is urgent. Make an inspection of all smoke pipes and exposed metal parts of heating units that become hot, to ascertain if wood or other burnable materials is located too near. Continued proximity to the hot metal may cause fire, particularly if an extra amount of heat is generated—it happens daily. If combustible materials cannot be moved to a safe distance, protect it with layers of sheet asbestos.

One more precaution: Do not place hot ashes in wooden boxes or cartons: this is like a slow fuse to gun powder. Put ashes in metal containers.

Fires take a heavy toll of life every year. Surely each of us should be willing to practice such simple precautions as these to aid the cause of safety.

OUTLOOK FARM MEETING HERE

Farmers of County Asked to Meet at Court House On Tuesday Afternoon

County agent Stapp announces that an outlook meeting will be held at the courthouse in Clanton Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, January 17. Mr. Stapp further states that this meeting will be similar to the two meetings held in January for the past two years in that representatives from Washington and Auburn will be here to present the facts pertaining to agricultural conditions for the next twelve months.

Last year the courthouse was filled to capacity and a second meeting was held for those who did not get in the courtroom for the first meeting. Mr. Stapp states that under present conditions there should be a thousand to fifteen hundred farmers and other business men interested in the current facts and attend this meeting on the 17th.

Mr. Stapp states that the meeting on the 17th will be little different from the meetings he is holding at present and that those who are attending his meetings should make an effort to attend the meetings at the courthouse on the 17th.

IN MEMORIAM

On December 17, 1932, Mrs. Mattie E. Gibson passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Waldrip, near Randolph, Ala.

Mrs. Gibson leaves to mourn her departure a son, Mrs. B. C. Gibson of Thorsby, two daughters, Mrs. Waldrip of Randolph and Mrs. J. A. Champion of Robertsdale, and seventeen grandchildren and great grandchildren.

She was laid to rest at the Pleasant Grove cemetery, near Jemison, in which community she lived and raised her family.

She has been a widow for almost twenty-five years, and has bravely fought the hardships and battles of life alone. B sides her husband three daughters have gone before her and are waiting to receive her on the other side.

She was sixty-seven years old and has been a member of the Baptist church since her girlhood. She has been in ill health for the past two years, but the end came quietly and without any intense pain.

She will be greatly missed by her many friends in both her old home community and the one in which she lived at the time of her death.

The family wishes to extend their many thanks to those who have been so kind and helpful during the sickness and death.—A loved one.

SQUIRREL SEASON IS "OUT"

I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, has directed the attention of the hunters of Alabama to a change in the dates governing the open season on squirrels which was authorized at the recent special session of the legislature.

The new law specifies that the squirrel hunting season opens on October 1 and close December 31, whereas the old statute provided that the season open on November 1 and close January 31.

This word of caution is issued to prevent hunters violating the new law or being misyuided by the dates pointed on the hunting licenses for the current year. These licenses, bearing the dates under the old law, were isshued to the probate judges of the state last September prior to the action of the legislature, which became effective immediately.

For economic reasons, the licenses were not reprinted and hunters of the state are cautioned to observe the new dates.

MEETING OF B. Y. P. U. OFFICERS

A meeting of the B. Y. P. U. officers of the Shelby, Chilton and Unity Associations will be held at the Clanton Baptists church Friday night of this week, beginning at 7:15. All B. Y. P. U. officers and members are urged to attend.

CIRCLE DRAWINGS ON MONDAY

Mrs. Ezell announces that the Circle drawings for membership in the Baptist W. M. U. will be held at the church next Monday afternoon, beginning at 2:30. A special program will be carried out, and all women of the church are urgently requested to attend.

MRS. PEARLIE M. PATTON

Mrs. Pearlie M. Patton, age 88 years, died at her home in Jemison December 31. Burial was at Pine Hill January 2, with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones. The deceased was the widow of the late J. H. Patton.

MRS. GEORGIA L. ROBINSON

Mrs. Georgia L. Robinson, age 68, wife of Dolby N. Robinson, died at her home in Clanton December 30. Burial was at Lomax January 1, with Martin in charge. Funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

Farm Bureau Moved

A business move of great interest to the farmers of this section has been made in the transfer of the feed and seed business and the cream testing station of the Farm Bureau to Mr. Evan Parrish of the Southern Seed and Plant Co.

Mr. Parrish states that he will have the cream testing station set up at his place ready for testing cream that will come in next Saturday. All shippers of cream are urged to take notlice of this change.

Concerning the change in the location of the business, Mr. W. L. Popwell, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, announces that he has made a contract with Mr. Evan Parrish to handle the cream station and feed business formerly handled by the farm bureau in the Popwell building. Mr. Parrish is moving the cream station and farm bureau feed business to his place of business near the postoffice.

Mr. Popwell states that he trusts that under the new arrangements that the farm bureau members will be able to get better service than has been possible for the farm bureau to give during the past several months. Mr. Popwell further states that the members may see Miss Guy, secretary to Mr. Stapp, about any of the farm bureau business.

The farm bureau has a big program for Chilton County this year and the same will be given publicity at a later date. Members are urged to given attention to present state and national issues mentioned in the last issue of the farm bureau news.

Sanders Writes On Relief Proposition

Since I have been connected with relief work, I have met several difficult problems, which caused me to seriously consider this situation.

I find that the person who has a great deal of pride and self-respect will allow himself and family to suffer before they will eat bread that's made from Red Cross Flour.

They feel that it's right to work for themselves and family. Therefore, they will suffer and endure cold and hunger before they will beg.

This class of people has no desire to be dependent upon others, but rather be self-sustaining if possible. On the other hand, there is another class of people that would rather sit down without the sting of pride or selfsrespect and continously eat from the table of charity. Among this type of people there are big, robust, able-bodied men, that will never work as long as they are fed by charitable institutions.

Charity is all right and should exist everywhere, but not to the extent that it is dangerous. The old, aged and the afflicted, who are not able to take care of themselves should be cared for by charitable institutions, but the person that is able to work should be given a job, that he might care for himself and family.

Many will say, "I have no job to offer." So has the rich man said, he has no work to be done, but still wants all the money he can get to hoard up and make times harder.

Now if the people of Chilton County want better times among themselves, they should begin to practice what they preach and not hoard up the necessities of life from the suffering women and children, as the millionaires have done.

There are more people in a destitute condition than some would think. There are also more bums than you would imagine. This being true, it is hard for anyone to intellegently administer direct relief without having some work to offer. I trust that you will not be negligent in fulfilling out the blanks sent to the many citizens by the county agent.

Asking that you give him your best cooperation. I remain yours very truly, W. L. Sanders.

STRAWBERRY MEETING IS TO BE HELD AT MAPLESVILLE

On Monday, January 9th, at 10 o'clock, Mr. Stapp will hold a strawberry and outlook meeting at Maplesville. All strawberry growers and farmers of that section are asked to take notice and meet with Mr. Stapp.

TREASURER REPORT NEXT WEEK

The semi-annual report of the County Treasurer will be published in The Union-Banner next week. This report will show receipts and disburesements of county funds for the period of July 1, 1932 to December 31, 1932.

Rev. A. C. Duggar of Verbena was in Clanton Tuesday.

THREE ARRESTED PAST WEEK

The Sheriff's office reports three prisoners put in jail during the past week. One for public drunkenness, one for burglary and grand larceny and one for assault and battery. The jail register Wednesday morning showed 14 prisoners in confinement.

ELMORES ATTEND FUNERAL AT TROY

Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore went to Troy Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Viola Carmichael, who died in Ozark Monday morning. Mrs. Carmichael was an aunt of Mrs. Elmore.

PRIVATE SCHOOL AT VERBENA

Rev A. C. Duggar and Mrs. Duggar, at Verbena, announce that they will teach a private school, for pupils in the first to sixth grades. This action is taken for the benefit of pupils who otherwise would be out of school owing to the closing of the public school at Verbena, along with others in the county.

Produce and food stuff of various kinds will be accepted by Mr. Duggar in payment of tuition, which is an advantage that will make it possible for many pupils to attend.

Elsewhere in this paper is an advertisement setting forth details of the Duggar plan. Those who live in the Verbena territory, if interested in the matter, should confer with Mr. Duggar immediately, as the school is being started this week.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT CONCORD FRIDAY, JAN. 6TH

After having been postponed twice on account of the bad weather, it is announced again this week that the fiddlers convention at Concord Junior High school will be held Friday night, January 6th, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Admission charges will be 10 cents. Prizes will be awarded to all contestants. First prize will be a $2.50 gold piece.

Everybody is invited to come. The program will be held this time, regardless of weather conditions, it is stated. All fiddlers are especially urged to attend.

DR. GRAGG GONE TO MIAMI

Dr. V. J. Gragg left last Saturday night for a vacation trip to Miami, Florida. He has been in ill health for the past few weeks, and decided that he needs a good Florida sun-tan in order to bring him back to good physical form.

Plans announced when he left here were to go to Miami and completely relax, rest, and play for at least a couple of weeks. It goes without saying, that he will have a big time. His friends hope he will come back with plenty of sand in his craw and ready to carry on with his practice here.

JIM DOSTER DIED WEDNESDAY

Mr. Jim Doster, age about 70 years, died early Wednesday morning at the home of his daughter, in the cotton mill village of Clanton. The body was taken in charge by Martin and Sons and prepared for burial at New Salem. Funeral services will be held at two o'clock Thursday.

The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Joe Wesson. He has lived in the Mt. Pleasant community north of Clanton for the past twenty-four years.

Thorsby Public School, appealed to the court to grant a refrendum to the people on the question of appropriating money to keep the schools open. "Let the people have a voice on this question," he said, "they know what they want. Everybody will be satisfied with the result of the people's verdict." Mr. Bean vigorously attacked certain published statements that have been made relative to the teachers. "The teachers are not selfish," he declared, "and the teachers are not making any fight for their own interests."

Short statements and discussions of the question were made by Earle Thomas, of Isabella, Lee A. Popwell, of Mt. Pleasant, and Charley Cox of Jumbo.

Howard Oden, of Isabella, in discussing the question of furnishing relief to the needy through road work, said, "In Beat 3 the people who are the most able to take care of themselves are the ones who have been getting the road work." Judge Reynolds interposed the declaration that such is contrary to the intentions and purposes of the Commissioners Court. Asked by Judge Reynolds, "Who is the overseer in Beat 3?" Mr. Oden replied, "Mr. Lenior." Continuing his remarks about state affairs, Mr. Oden declared it is high time the people of Alabama were setting themselves about the all-important matter of getting something done in Montgomery.

At this time, the members of the Commissioners Court were called upon for an expression about the matter under consideration. Commissioner J. M. Mims spoke first. While his remarks did not embody a definite expression upon the proposition of appropriation of money to keep the schools running, he declared opposition to certain school policies, such as consolidation and centralization of schools. He said he favors keeping the small school in the small community.

Commissioner J. L. Burnet abbreviated his remarks on the question by declaring himself in favor of trying to work out some plan whereby the court might extend assistance in keeping the schools open.

Commissioner J. E. Cobb, said, "We want figures that will show us where we stand financially. We were elected to take care of the county's roads and other business, not including schools. The first thing, then, the commissioners must do is to take care of their own duties in running the county's business."

Commissioner A. P. Vinson expressed his hearty interest in schools. But he warned that the Commissioners have their own duties to perform, and that they must first guard themselves to properly take care of those duties. "We were elected to run the county's business, aside from the schools, and I do not believe we will find ourselves able to take care of our own business and also run the schools."

Judge Reynolds spoke to the question, beginning with a reply to the statement of Dr. Ezell that the people have been led to believe and to hope that the Commissioners would keep the schools running. "This court has not led anybody into anything about this matter," he declared. "All the leading that has been done is by you folks trying to lead the Commissionrs into this business," he said.

Continuing his discussion, Judge Reynolds said: "If it were merely a question of a road or a school, I would support the school. But I want you people to remember that there are many things within the scope of the duties and obligations of the Commissioners Court; and the schools are not among those duties. Personally, I will say that I am opposed to putting a dollar into the hands of a school board that will go behind closed doors and elect a superintendent of education without giving anybody a chance to express themselves upon the matter, or without giving anybody a chance to apply for the place.

"Upon the general principles and values of education, I of course, endorse every word that has been said here. You started out to take a vote on the commissioners appropriating $48,940.51 to keep the schools running. I told you the county could not afford to put up that amount."

Reading the resolution of the recent mass meeting, which was presented to the Commissioners Court, Judge Reynolds declared, "That is nothing upon which any definite proposition could be submitted to the people."

"I do not believe Lawrence, Conway, Webb and Yates want the schools to keep running," he said, "because they have not shown themselves in any manner disposed to assist in working out any plans toward this end. If they can arrange for operating trucks for transportation, they should be able to arrange to pay the teachers one month. I believe the Commissioners have more interest in the schools than the school board has. But the commissioners were elected to run the county's general business, and they will do that first."

Referring to the relief question Judge Reynolds said, "Mr. Stapp has delivered flour to people upon the recommendation of citizens in the community. If it were wrong to let those people have it, the blame should be placed upon the citizens who recommended it, and not upon Stapp."

"The Commissioners have one main purpose," Judge Reynolds said, "and that is to discharge the duties for which they were elected. They have in the past and will in the future, so govern the business of the county that they will be able to pay cash for every obligation. The court believes in submitting to the people any and all questions that concern the people's interests. I want the Commissioners to study this question of helping out the schools and figure on it carefully. We have passed the day for arguing about the advantages of schools and education. We all agree on that. But the question before this court is whether or not we are able to take care of the schools after we have properly provided for the other obligations of this court.

"If the court can figure we are able to extend such aid, then we might consider submitting the question to a vote of the people. But there is no use in submitting something to the people which the commissioners themselves cannot figure as workable.

"Now, I am sure the commissioners will do their best to solve this question and see if they can help the schools. I hope they can do so."

At the conclusion of the remarks of Judge Reynolds, the commissioners voted to recess for lunch until 1:30 o'clock. When they went back into session after noon, Rev. Ezell, chairman of the citizens committee again appeared before them. He presented figures on the budget of the county and the contemplated income of the county, by which he sought to prove to the commissioners that they would have ample money to take care of the county's various business obligations and also make the requested appropriations to the schools.

After all hearings upon the matter were completed, the commissioners passed the following resolution:

"A great deal of publicity and propaganda has been put forth to the effect that the court of county commissioners of Chliton County would finance the schools of the county. As much as we regret to see the school finances in the deplorable condition they are in, in view of the unusual and urgent demands on the court of county commissioners, we are not able to advance any substantial amount of funds for the relief of the school situation.

"The total sum in the county treasury to-day is $14,316.46, which includes special fiduciary funds which cannot be used, except for the purposes collected. The funds out of which the schools might be financed amounts to considerably less than $21,000, and this is needed at this time for roads and other county purposes.

"The court of county commissioners feels that the schools are not our direct responsibility, but that the health, convenience, and public necessities of the citizenship of the county should have preference in the allotment of the funds disbursed by the county commissioners."

Five Schools Closed

Five schools in Chilton County have not re-opened after the holidays, and according to the way things stand, these schools will not be able to open again this year. Something must be done by somebody somewhere to make available sufficient funds, or else they will remain closed.

The schools which have not re-opened are Clanton Grammar School, Thorsby Public School, Jemison Elementary School, Verbena Eelementary School, and Maplesville Elementary School. These schools have already completed three and one-half months, because they opened their sessions in September. This is in accordance with the program of half a seven-months term which was set up by the county board at the beginning of the year.

All other schools in the county, including the senior high schools, reopened Monday morning and will continue until January 27, according to present arrangements. That will make a half term (three and one-half months) for the elementary schools, and a half term (four and a half months) for the senior high schools.

Thus the end of the schools of Chilton County is rapidly drawing near, unless something turns up to make available sufficient funds to keep them running.

Kiwanis Club News

"Tonight will be a big night for members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, their wives and other guests when the club will officially observe "Ladies Night." This is an annual affair and looked forward to by the Kiwanians and those fortunate to be a guest.

In connection with "Ladies Night" the club will also hold its official installation of officers recently elected to serve during the coming year. Cohen E. Stapp was reelected as secretary at a directors meeting last Thursday night. The officers to be installed tonight are Mack Wyatt, president; L. H. Reynolds, vice-pres.; E. E. Upchurch, treasurer; Cohen E. Stapp, secretary. In the report as published last week the name of Sam R. Powers, as a member of the Board of Directors was omitted. Committee chairman and members are also to be announced later. The club is anticipating a year of many achievements.

REV. J. T. NELSON'S 100TH BIRTHDAY

Oldest Citizen in County Has Old Friends with Him on January 4

The one hundreth birthday of Rev. J. T. Nelson was celebrated at his home near Clanton on last Wednesday, January 4th. On this occasion hundreds of people from far and near came to Mr. Nelson's home to extend their greetings.

Among the notable visitors was Rev. D. S. Martin, of Equality, a friend and neighbor of Rev. Nelson during the many years the latter lived in Coosa County. Rev. Martin furnishes us the following very interesting story of the life and experiences of Rev. Nelson:

J. T. Nelson was born in Butts County, Georgia, near Indian Springs, January 4, 1833. He moved with his father to Tallapoosa County, Alabama in 1842, when nine years old. He grew up to manhood in Tallapoosa County and married in 1855.

In 1860 he removed to Coosa County and settled near Bazemore's Cross Roads (Weogufka). Here he engaged in farming. After making two crops he enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1862, and served to the close of the war.

Mr. Nelson, as a Confederate Soldier. was present when General Lee surrendered at Appamattox. His story of the dramatic incidents of the surrender of General Lee and the Confederate Army is most touching.

While in Tallapoosa County Mr. Nelson had joined the Baptist Church in 1853. On his return from the war he was ordained a deacon in 1865 at old Weogufka Church. In 1875 he was ordained to the full work of the gospel ministery. During his active career as a minister he pastored the following churches; in Coosa, Talladega, and Shelby Counties: Sardis, Pine Grove, Salem, Union, Hatchett Creek, Mt. Moriah, Weogufka, Holly Springs, Mountain Springs, Shelving Rock, Bethlehem, and Coosa River.

Rev. Nelson served as Moderator of the Weogufka Baptist Association for thirteen years. He was a member of the Commissioners Court of Coosa County for seven years; Justice of the peace in his precinct for 43 years; township school trustee for 24 years; County Registrar of Coosa County for 20 years. He was made a Mason in 1867, and filled every station in old Weogufka Lodge.

Mr. Nelson was the father of six children by his first marriage. His first wife died in 1889. He was married the second time in 1890. There were four children by his second marriage.

The number of his direct descendants, including the fifth generation, is 187, of which 125, together with a large number of friends and acquaintances, gathered at his home for the celebration of his 100th birthday.

Mell Martin and B. J. Sessions went to Montgomery Tuesday to attend a Shriners "blow out."

Earle Thomas, vocational teacher at Isabella, was a business visitor to the city Tuesday afternoon.

BAPTISTS OPPOSE WET PROGRAM

The Chilton County Association Passed Resolution Opposing Repeal

The Chilton County Missionary Baptist Association is on record as unequivocally opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, or any alteration of the Volstead Law. This stand was definitely established when on October 12, 1932, the Association then in session at Sardis church, passed the following order:

"Rev. Paul Oden moved that the Chilton County Baptist Association, composed of more than 5,000 members, go on record as opposing the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States or any alteration of the Volstead Law, and that we urge our senators and representatives in the state of Alabama to use their influence and vote against such repeal or alteration of the Volstead Law, and that a copy of this resolution be furnished the Chilton county papers and that a copy be sent to each of the senators and representatives from the state of Alabama."

The above resolution was carried by an enthusiastic and unanimous vote.

SERVICE AT SAMARIA CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday is time for the regular preaching services at Samaria—the first of the new year. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, announces that his subject will be "Let's Start Over Again," at eleven o'clock; for the evening service his subject will be "Some Things I Would Like to Be and Do in 1933," at seven p.m.

Sunday school will be held at 10 o'clock a.m. Everybody is cordially invited to attend all of these services.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

The annual meeting of the Young People's Organization of Unity Association will meet at Mt. Creek Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, January 15, 1933, at 2:00 o'clock.

I urge each church in the association to have their organizations repersented by the young people. Be sure to bring your report if you have not already sent it in.—Mrs. J. Z. Mims, Leader.

CALVIN COOLIDGE DIED SUDDENLY

Former President Buried In Native Soil at Plymouth, Vermont, Jan. 7

Calvin Collidge, thirtieth president of the United States, died unexpectedly at his home in Northampton, Mass., shortly after noon last Thursday, January 5, 1933. Mr. Coolidge was sixty years old on July 4th, 1932.

He succeeded to the presidency of the United States upon the death of President Harding in 1923; was elected to a full term as president in 1924, and served until he was succeeded by President Herbert Hoover in March, 1929.

His body was carried back to his native town of Plymouth, Vermont, and buried with an impressive though simple ceremony, on last Saturday. The funeral in Northampton was attended by many notables of the country, among whom were President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover. Calvin Coolidge was one of the most universally loved men ever to occupy the place of chief executive of the United States.

SINGING AT PROVIDENCE

A good afternoon singing was held at Providence, Beat 16, last Sunday. It was called to order by C. H. Robinson by singing, and the chaplin led in prayer. Then J. W. Clackler sang three songs.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness shown us during the illness and recent death of our father, Mr. Jim Doster. We especially thank Mr. Martin for his kindness We are also thankful for the beautiful flowers and the kind words spoken by the ministers. May God's richest blessing shine upon them.—Ida Mae Doster, daughter; James Gilvie Henley, grandson.

MISS CARRIE FOSHEE HONORS LOVELY BRIDE

Leading the many social events of the past week was the beautiful miscellaneous sower given by Miss Carrie Foshee at her home last Friday afternoon between the hours of three and five, honoring the recent bride, Mrs. Samuel Martin, the former Miss Ruth Sessions.

The guests were received by the hostess, Mrs. M. D. Fishee, Mrs. B. J. Sessions, Mrs. J. Mell Martin and the honoree, in rooms beautifully decorated with flowers carrying out the color scheme of green and gold and illuminated with the solft glow of many candles. Guests were directed to the bride's book by Mrs. Edmund Lakeman. The book which was tastefully arranged on a table lighted with candles, was presided over by Miss Dorothy Sessions, sister of the honoree.

The many beautiful and useful gifts were shown by Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Miss Julia Hester and Mrs. Kin Vinson. Sandwiches carrying out the color scheme of green and gold were served with coffee to the guests by Mrs. Mack Wyatt. Throughout the afternoon a soft and sacred touch was added to this beautiful event by the burning tapers, and the ninety odd guests were impressed by the beauty of the occasion.

McDONALDS WILL SING AT CLANTON

Quartet Will Put On Program at Courthouse Night of January 19th

We cannot say much in way of introduction to these boys, because nearly everybody in this vicinity knows them more or less. You have either heard them in person or have been listening to them over the radio every Sunday afternoon for the past year. But we can say that they are real artists in their line. They put on a program at Jemison a few nights ago, and if you doubt their ability, just ask some of the people who heard them up there. They have got as fine harmony as can be had anywhere, and pep is no name for the way they go into their numbers. Their program will consist of mostly sacred selections—some of which you have heard—and plenty of popular pieces too. It is worth driving ten miles to hear them sing "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart," and they have several others just as good. The program will begin at 7:30 and will continue for an hour or a little over.

The main purpose of this engagement is to raise some money to pay on the community piano at the courthouse; but that is not all: There are hundreds of people around Clanton who enjoy hearing good classical quartet singing, and it is for their benefit as well as the piano fund that the McDonalds have been engaged to come here. And the admission price has been made so low that no one need stay away on account of the hard times. It will be 15 cents for grown folks and 10 cents for children under 12 years of age. It is hoped and expected that the court room will be filled to capacity by the time the singing is to begin. And remember that when this bunch agrees to sing they will be there regardless of the weather. It will likely be bad weather, but come on any way, because they will put on their program unless it is storming or something worse.

We were about to overlook mentioning that there will be a black-face comedian in the crowd, and he is as good as you ever saw on any stage. So make arrangements to be there and enjoy the fun and good singing as well as help out on your piano fund.

THE SHIPWRECKED FARMERS

If a half dozen men were marooned on a desert island they would join forces to secure food, shelter and protection. It would be folly for each to work separately. By cooperation they would achieve results obtainable in no other manner.

This illustration explains the farm cooperative movement. Farmers today are in much the same position as sailors wrecked on a desert island. Their financial existance depends on profitable and permanent markets for their produce. Each farmer working alone is powerless, for he is opposed by forces far stronger than he.

But when ten thousand farmers join forces to study production figures, marketing, transportation and like problems of agriculture, their situation has changed. Cooperation is just another name for economic salvation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kendrick and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Newton of Mitchell Dam visited friends and relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Manly Thigpen spent Sunday in Montgomery with Mr. Thigpen's father.

J. L. GORE SEEKS "INFORMATION"

Favors the Reconstruction Loan and Queries J. E. Easterling About Campaign

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me a small space in your paper to reply to an article by Mr. J. E. Easterling, of two weeks age?

In that article Mr. Easterling opposed the county getting the $50,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation to give the needy of the county work to help them during these distressing times. I do not see how anyone could oppose the county getting this money to help feed and clothe the hungry. There was about five million dollars set aside to come to the State of Alabama. If this money is to be paid back out of the funds of the State of Alabama, then Chilton County will pay their part, whether they get one penny or not. Only last week, almost one million dollars was sent to this state which was divided between 24 counties. This makes a total of about two million dollars that has come to the State of Alabama, which means that, should this money be required to be repaid out of state appropriations, that Chilton County will have to pay their part of it without receiving one dollar of the money.

Mr. Easterling seems to be the legal advisor to a certain crowd that is opposed to the county getting this money. Will he please tell the people whether he thinks the above a good proposition for Chilton County? Or is it just politics that some are opposing the county getting this money?

From the statement filed by the Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, in the last election, it would appear that very few people in this county are as fortunate as Mr. J. E. Easterling. That report shows that Mr. Easterling, et al, received $300.00 for work and information. Will Mr. Easterling please explain to the people of this county why this money was paid to him and what he did with it? Will he also explain why he can get $300.00 out of a campaign and the average Republican voter in this county gets nothing? Will he explain why the candidates did not file an affidavit showing that the statement of the campaign was true and correct, as is required by Section 594? As Mr. Easterling got pay for information, will he explain why an itemized statement of all the expenditures of the campaign was not itemized as is required by Section 593 of the Code? Will he also explain why it is that under his advice the candidates failed to comply with the law, and under Section 595 a certificate of election should have been issued to them?

Mr. Easterling spends a great deal of his time in Clanton knocking certain Republican officials and talking up for others. Will he explain if part of the $300.00 went to pay him for this work, or does he get pay from some one else for this work?

Now, Mr. Easterling, you have set yourself up to advise the people of the county what to do, and apparently have received a considerable amount of money for work and information, will you please explain to the voters of this county just what that work and information consisted of, and who, if anyone, received any part of the $300.00? If anyone else received any of it, what did they do?

When Mr. Easterling answers these questions, I want to ask him some more that I think the voters should know.—J. L. Gore, Jemison, Ala.

Another Mass Meeting Called Next Saturday

Citizens Wish to Hold Meeting With the Commissioners Court and Discuss Matters Pertaining to Continuance of Chilton County Schools

"We the undersigned citizens of Chilton County call upon the taxpayers of the county to meet with us in a meeting before the Commissioners Court next Saturday, January 14, at 2 p.m. The purpose of this meeting is two-fold. First, we wish to discuss the posibility of the Commissioners providing immediate work on the public roads for those unable to pay the taxes on their homes. We ask all that would like to work out their taxes on the public roads, and cannot pay them otherwise, to be at this meeting.

"We also expect to try to work out some plan by which our schools can be kept open. We hope that the children of the unfortunate parents will not have to sit down and grow up in ignorance, because they have not the price to pay their way into the private schools. Every parent interested in his or her children have a special invitation to this meeting. We hope that everybody will come with open mind ready to fall in line and do everything reasonable to help keep the homes from being sold and the schools from being closed."—W. H. Conway, J. M. Smith, T. J. Littlejohn, W. L. Sanders, J. D. Collins.

W. M. U. OF CHILTON COUNTY ASSOCIATION WILL MEET SOON

The annual meeting of the Womans Missionary Union of the Chilton County association will be held Thursday, January 19 at Chestnut Creek Baptist church, beginning at 10 a.m., with Mrs. J. W. Jones, superintendent, presiding. "Leader Training and Extension," is the theme for the day.

Devotional will be conducted by Miss Hazel Maddox of Pates Chapel and Miss Mae Woods of Thorsby will talk on "The High Cost of Leadership," and Mrs. S. J. Ezell of Clanton, vice president of the Eastern District, on "Kingdom Extension Through the W. M. U.

Officers for the new year will be installed by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, and all officers for 1933 are urged to be present. A solo will be a feature of the installation service, rendered by Mrs. J. W. Patton of Jemison.

A box lunch will be served at the noon hour, and in the afternoon a conference will be held for instruction of officers of the missionary societies, circles, and groups of the W. M. U. presided over by the associational officers.

Mrs. J. W. JONES, Supt.
Mrs. W. H. RAYBON Secy-Treas.

HAD A BIG TIME SATURDAY NIGHT

Local American Legion Now Ready to Entertain Disabled Veterans

The rehearsal of the entertainers who will go to the Veterans Hospital on next Friday was greeted with an overflow crowd of spectators at the courthouse last Saturday night. The group is composed of a varied collection of local musicians and artists who have been selected by the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. The numbers include old time music, fiddling, dancing, and original comedy sketches.

Arrangements have been completed to carry the entertainers to Tuscaloosa in a bus on Friday. The program will be presented to the disabled veterans in the Tuscaloosa Hospital on Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

In addition to the numbers on the Tuscaloosa program, the musicians favored the audience at the court house last Saturday night with many other popular selections, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed by everybody.

All entertainers on the program to go to Tuscaloosa are urged to be in Clanton ready to go on Friday morning, January 13, not later than eight o'clock. Those who go from Thorsby will be picked up by the truck there about 8:30.

LAMAR CALLOWAY PRAISED

Medical Pupils Commended For Work At University

University—Many of the former students in the University of Alabama Medical School who have transferred to four-year schools for their last two years of work have been praised in the highest terms in letters received by Dean Stuart Graves, of the University of Alabama.

At Washington University, Luther Davis, of Tuscaloosa, is having a successful year. In a recent letter to Dr. Graves, Registrar Parker, of Washington University, said that they would be glad to have several transfers next year "of the type of Davis."

At Tulane, all Alabama men have made good, and Dean Bass recently signified that Tulane would take at least six, probably eight, Alabama transfers for next year.

Jasper L. Calaway, a native Clanton boy who transferred from the school to Duke in the spring of 1933, has won election to the highly-prized honorary society of Alpha Omega Alpha and has just been awarded a three-year fellowship in dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania under Prof. Stokes. In connection with his fellowship, he will also assist in syphilology.

Dean Davison, of Duke, wrote Dean Graves that Callaway was "one of the best students" at Duke and that the Pennsylvania scholarship had been given him as a result of his work during an elective quarter at Pennsylvania. Dean Davison added: "All the students we have had from Alabama have done very good work."—The Birmingham News.

BASKET BALL GAME FRI. NIGHT

There will be a basket ball game at the high school gymnasium in Clanton on Friday night of this week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The team from Holtville will come here to engage the Chilton Tigers on this occasion. Admission charges will be 10 cents and 15 cents.

LADIES GUESTS OF KIWANIS CLUB

Annual Ladies Night Held Last Week With Impressive Program

Last Thursday night, one of the most brilliant affairs held in Clanton in some time, took place in the dining room of the Exchange Hotel, when the Kiwanis club of Clanton held its annual "Ladies Night" and installation of new officers.

There were approximately one hundred present at this affair. Guests included wives and friends of members of the club, speakers from out of town and several entertainers from Selma. All together, it made a most enjoyable occasion. Among the out of town guests were District Governor Lewis of Selma, Ed Norton and Dean Gilbert Meade of the Birmingham club and Mr. Salter of Selma. The latter held a most attentive audience as he told of a vagabonding trip through many foreign countries. Several young ladies from Selma rendered numbers on the program.

In a most impressive manner Kiwanian John Hollis, who served as president of the local club during 1932 presented the president's button and gavel to Mack Wyatt, who was elected to serve as president during 1933. In turn Mack Wyatt presented John with the past president's button of Kiwanis. Mr. Wyatt in making his acceptance speech paid tribute to Kiwanians John Hollis, Earle Thomas and Sam Powers for their faithfulness to the club. These three live several miles from Clanton.

The program which lasted for two hours was kept moving in the best of style for two hours by Mack Wyatt who acted as toastmaster.

PREVENTABLE FIRES

In extremely cold weather it is a temptation to force fires in heating systems in order to keep warm. Records of the National Board of Fire Underwriters indicate that overheated stoves cause numerous fires during winter—thoughtlessness in tending the fires, radiated heat which chars beams placed too close to hot metal, defective or soot-clogged equipment or chimneys.

All these dangers can be eliminated. When attempting to obtain maximum heat from a stove or furnace, it is important to keep close watch over the unit—do not stay away from it too long. If this is done there is little likelihood of overheating.

The second item is urgent. Make an inspection of all smoke pipes and exposed metal parts of heating units that become hot, to ascertain if wood or other burnable materials is located too near. Continued proximity to the hot metal may cause fire, particularly if an extra amount of heat is generated—it happens daily. If combustible materials cannot be moved to a safe distance, protect it with layers of sheet asbestos.

One more precaution: Do not place hot ashes in wooden boxes or cartons: this is like a slow fuse to gun powder. Put ashes in metal containers.

Fires take a heavy toll of life every year. Surely each of us should be willing to practice such simple precautions as these to aid the cause of safety.

OUTLOOK FARM MEETING HERE

Farmers of County Asked to Meet at Court House On Tuesday Afternoon

County agent Stapp announces that an outlook meeting will be held at the courthouse in Clanton Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, January 17. Mr. Stapp further states that this meeting will be similar to the two meetings held in January for the past two years in that representatives from Washington and Auburn will be here to present the facts pertaining to agricultural conditions for the next twelve months.

Last year the courthouse was filled to capacity and a second meeting was held for those who did not get in the courtroom for the first meeting. Mr. Stapp states that under present conditions there should be a thousand to fifteen hundred farmers and other business men interested in the current facts and attend this meeting on the 17th.

Mr. Stapp states that the meeting on the 17th will be little different from the meetings he is holding at present and that those who are attending his meetings should make an effort to attend the meetings at the courthouse on the 17th.

OFFICERS CATCH TWO WILD CATS

Six Men Arrested For Making Whiskey During The Past Week

During the past week Sheriff Gillespie and his deputies have captured two distilling outfits in the county and arrested a total of six men for operating the same.

The first raid was conducted in the western part of the county near Maplesville last Friday. Two men were arrested in connection with this raid.

The second capture was made in Stumps Hills Tuesday of this week, about three miles north of Smith schoolhouse. There were four men at the still. Two were caught and two got away. The men who escaped are known to the officers. This was a 120-gallon galvanized outfit, with 360 gallons of beer ready to run. Officers engaged in the raid were Sheriff Gillespie, with deputies James and Lewis Gillespie and Loss Robinson.

During the past week the total of arrests includes three for violating the prohibition law; one for driving a car while intoxicated; six for making liquor; one for obtaining money under false pretense; one for assault and battery; one for grand larceny.

The jail register Wednesday morning showed 21 prisoners in confinement.

STAPP ANNOUNCES MEETINGS

County Agent Stapp announces that he will hold three meetnigs for farmers as follows:

Alpine, Monday, January 16, at 3 p.m.; Stanton, Thursday, January 19, at 3 p.m.; Shoults, Thursday, January 19, at 1 p.m.

The meetings at Stanton and Shoults will take the place of former engagements at those places which he was not able to meet.

Ed Norton and Mr. Mead, of Birmingham, were guests of the Clanton Kiwanis Club last Thursday night. Mr. Norton is past president of the Birmingham club, and Mr. Mead is present Secretary.

BIG SALE STARTS FRIDAY A.M.

Mr. A. R. Clarkson, in charge of a big sale at Chicago Sales Company, has everything ready to "shoot the works" at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning. Clarkson is well-known in Clanton and among the people of Chilton County. When folks see him in Clanton for a day or two, they know something is fixing to happen.

"I have orders to sell everything in Reedie Taylor's store," said Clarkson, "and, by Heck, I am going to do it or bust a button off my shirt. I just want you folks to read my circular and my double page advertisement in The Union-Banner. Then if you don't think I mean business, well you just don't know me."

The big sale starts Friday morning at 8:30. There is no telling what kind of a performance Clarkson will start with. He is getting his clown suit all fixed up, and he will show you some fun. But the best of the whole show is going to be the extremely low prices he is offering on this great array of high class merchandise.

RELIEF DIRECTOR ALLOCATES CASH TO 23 ALABAMA COUNTIES

Preliminary allocation to 23 counties and one city in Alabama, of relief funds borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, through Governor Miller, was announced yesterday by the Alabama relief administration, following a meeting in the executive offices at the capitol, during which Thad Holt, relief director, cooperated with the Administration's personnel in the carrying out of its official duties.

The preliminary allocations follow: $2,500 each to the following counties: Autauga, Bullock, Butler, Clarke, Coffee, Covington, Crenshaw, Cullman, Dale, Etowah, Franklin, Geneva, Hale, Houston, Jackson, Marengo, Pike, Russell, Walker and Washington. To the counties of Montgomery and Mobile, $10,000 each, and to Jefferson County and the city of Birmingham $74,000.

These are merely preliminary allocations, it was specifically stated, to meet immediate needs and serve as a means toward getting work under way in the various counties concerned.—Montgomery Advertiser.

BROADCAST FROM THE DECK OF A FISHING BOAT AT SEA

LISTENERS on Our Daily Food program had a real thrill on Friday, the 23rd, when they heard over the NEC chain a broadcast from the ice covered trawler "Flow."

The Steam Trawler "Flow" started from Boston Wednesday, and by Friday was fishing on the Georges Banks fishing grounds, more than 200 miles from Boston.

This fishing boat is equipped with the newly perfected ship to shore wireless telephone, enabling Bob Stevens, assistant to Judge Gordon, to broadcast right from the deck, the first nation wide program from a fishing trawler.

He had great difficulty keeping his stance on the rolling deck and to quote Stevens "It is pretty rough out here, and so cold that my face is almost frozen to the microphone." By cold he meant 10 above zero.

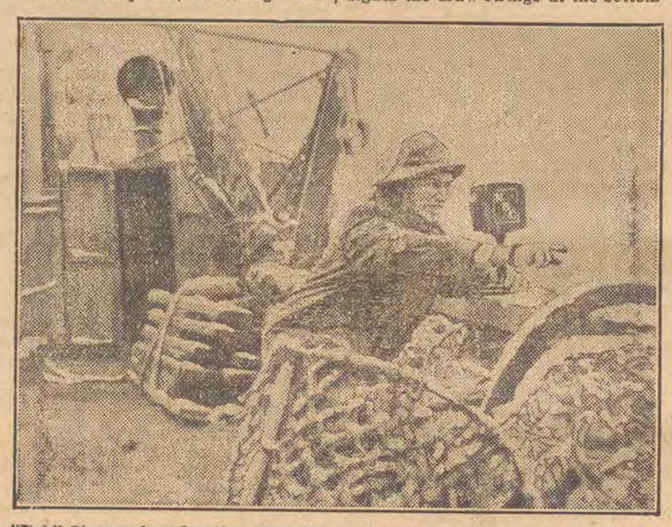
Stevens gave a graphic description of the process of dragging in the net with one and a half ton of fish in tow. The three blasts of the whistle, the orders of the skipper and first mate all formed the background for Stevens' narrative. A listener could even hear the winch rumbling and growling as it heaved in on the hawsers, along with the hissing steam as the winch spool revolved. After pulling in fathom after fathom of wet gleaming cable a shout of "She's in" echoes in the ears of the audiences.

They fastened the big steel hooks suspended from the mast head into the meshes of the net. Stevens continued "All hands are down on the deck now and with much heaving and struggling they are dragging the net on deck. But the bulging bag with the fish in it is still in the sea. One of the men is tying a masthead rope around the middle of the net. They then heave the whole net up into the air over the deck so they can empty the fish out at the bottom. At a signal the draw strings at the bottom of the net are loosened. One of the crew stands right underneath the net, jerking at the draw string and lo and behold down on top of him comes two tons of squirming, struggling fish." A whale of an avalanche of fish! An order from the Captain, and the net is overboard again and ready for a new catch.

Stevens then explained how they spent their time between hauls in cleaning the tons of fish in the deck pens and storing them in the refrigerator rooms below deck.

Captain Schwartz the skipper, was of the opinion that the best fish buys the week-end are Cod and Haddock. The Danish cook's method of cooking Haddock fillets is as follows:

Put them in cold water, and bring to a boil, remove immediately and serve with a cream sauce. He said that the principal fault with people cooking fish is that they cook it too long.



"Bob" Stevens broadcasting from the snow-covered deck of a fishing boat.

PENSION WARRANTS ARE COMING

Judge Reynolds received a letter Tuesday from State Auditor, John Brandon, stating that Confederate pension warrants for January are being sent out from the State capitol.

Mr. Brandon says sufficient funds for cashing these warrants are now available. It is perhaps safe to say that the warrants will be at the Probate office ready for distribution by Monday of next week.

DUGGAR SCHOOL—VERBENA

Sixty-five pupils have enrolled in Duggar School in Verbena. The hours have been extended to three p.m., and the school has been moved to the building formerly used by the grammar school. Mrs. J. C. Pattillo has been secured as one of the teachers and is now teaching the fourth and fifth grades.

MILLER PREPARES FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Picks Committee Of Four To Arrange Reception In Montgomery January 21st

Mayor William A. Gunter, Judge Leon McCord, W. W. Hill and Mrs. Charles A. Thigpen were appointed by Gov. Miller Tuesday to compose the official committee to look after the reception of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt when he visits Montgomery on Saturday, January 21. Details of the program for the visit of the distinguished guest to the city and State, will be announced later.

Though the hour of the President-elect's arrival here from Muscle Shoals, where he will make his first stop in Alabama, is not definitely known, it is understood he will reach the city in the afternoon, and leave some time that night. Exact information as to the time of his arrival and departure is expected to be received by Gov. Miller within a few days.

Mr. Roosevelt will be the ninth President, prospective President or former President to visit Alabama in this State's history. The first was James Monroe, who was here in 1819, when the temporary capitol was located at Huntsville. His visit was just prior to Alabama's admission to the Union as a state.

Next was Martin Van Buren, who came to Montgomery in 1842. He arrived on Sunday and attended service at the Court Street Methodist Church, which formerly stood on the site now occupied by the new postoffice building. The following day he delivered an address before a large assemblage of citizens.

James K. Polk was here in 1849. Millard Fillmore visited Alabama after he was President.

Andrew Jackson, prior to becoming the nation's chief executive, was here in command of the forces that destroyed the power of the Creek Indian Nation, at the battle of Horseshoe Bend. Thereafter, before he became President, he revisited Alabama at various times.

Abraham Lincoln, so it is said, once visited Huntsville in connection with trial of a case in which he was interested—long before he became a national political figure.

In 1893, Grover Cleveland paid a formal visit to Montgomery, bringing with him his bride of a few weeks. Together, they attended the State fair here.

Theodore Roosevelt was here in 1912, and Warren G. Harding visited Birmingham in 1920.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Concord-Billingsley

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Everybody is invited to come and bring somebody with you. Rev. J. S. Johnson will be with us. Sunday school at 10 a.m. and preaching at 11 a.m. C. E. at 6 p.m., and preaching at 7 p.m. Let us make this a real service for the Lord.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Williams of Haynes spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams at this place. They will make their home in this community. Everybody is wishing them a prosperous year.

Miss Alice Williams spent Thursday with her brother, Mr. T. L. Williams.

Mr. J. P. Williams spent Tuesday and Wednesday with his son, Mr. Carson Williams of Haynes.

Mr. Charlie Williams visited his cousin, Mr. Porter Williams, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gentry of Pletcher visited Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dickinson last week.

Mrs. Edna Gentry of Pletcher visited Miss Ella Williams Friday of last week.

Miss Kate Dickinson had as her guests last week Miss Mary Etta Gentry of Pletcher.

Messrs. Clarence and Allen Williams visited Mr. T. L. Williams Saturday of last week.

Mr. Keith Dickinson spent the week end with his cousin, Miss Ethel Harrell last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Williams of New Cedron spent Monday night with his mother, Mrs. Emma Williams, of this place.

The next period of American life ought to be one of self reliance.

Mother—Mary, come upstairs immediately.

Mary—But I'm all wrapped up in my problem.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Next Sunday there will be the usual service at 11 a.m. and a song service at 7:15 p.m. at the Thorsby Congregational church.

On Wednesday night of this week the annual business meeting of the Thorsby Congregational church will be held at the church. The Ladies Aid Society of this church will serve their annual church dinner at 6:00 o'clock p.m. to which they invite all members of this church and Sunday school and all others who consider this church as their church home.

We are pleased to announce that Thorsby Grammar School opened last Monday with arrangements made by which it is expected the school will be able to complete a full school year.

Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Ekblad were entertained at dinner last week by Mrs. Frank Nelson.

At a meeting last Saturday in the Thorsby city hall, a local branch of the Socialist party was organized, with 14 charter members. Mr. Rascoe Maddox was elected secretary. It was announced at this meeting that the forming of this local was a part of a state-wide movement to build an active organization of the Socialist party in Alabama.

One after another of our Thorsby boys take unto themselves a wife. The latest we know of is Mr. Lester Pate, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate. Lester is one of Thorsby's young business men, of a good reputation. He did not select a Thorsby girl for his life mate, although he came very near doing so, by selecting Miss Eva Varden of Jemison. Last Wednesday evening they went to the home of Rev. Albert Foshee, who performed the ceremony. For the present the couple are at home with Lester's parents in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson had as guests last Monday Mr. and Mrs. David Mitchell and children of Bessemer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howard entertained at dinner last Saturday Mrs. Nels Peterson and her sister, Miss Sadie Shannon.

Mr. Arthur Gentry returned to his home in Autaugaville after spending several days with his brother, Dolphus Gentry.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute will be held Thursday, January 12th at 9:30 a.m. in the dining hall living room.

Mrs. Nels Peterson and son, Norman, went to Atlanta last week to visit Mr. and Mrs. Willingham and their twin babies. Mrs. Willingham is a sister of Mrs. Peterson, who for a time lived in Thorsby. She was known here as Nell Shannon, who was an office assistant at Thosby Institute.

Mrs. T. A. Shannon and her daughter, Sadie, returned to their home in Atlanta Sunday after making a visit for the holidays at the home of Mrs. Nels Peterson.

Mrs. Tilda Grenn entertained at dinner last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson and family, Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Ekblad and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olson and little daughter.

Mr. Orton of Minneapolis is located for the present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lowery and daughters spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Riley Pate.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray and Mrs. Earl Marcus were dinner guests Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mixson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith.

Messrs. Arthur Littleton and Emmett Billingsley spent Saturday in Birmingham. On returning they brought with them Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Littleton and Miss Bertha Littleton. Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Little will remain several days as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Littleton.

The Eastern Star lodge of Thorsby has had charge of relief work in Thorsby public school for a month. This work has been taken for one week by the A. T. Clarke (adult) Bible class of Thorsby Congregational Sunday school.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. W. H. Wilson were shoppers in Clanton on Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Biolus and son, Bobby and Howard of Clanton, were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Thorsby Institute reopened January 4 after the Christmas holidays with no absentees and five more enrolled.

On January 21 an open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will take place at 7:30 p.m. A French play "Beauty and Beast," will be presented by the French pupils of whom Mr. Maddox is the teacher. If one does not understand French he will be able to understand the play from the action. Admission ten cents.

Miss Edna Raybon is making an extended visit in Birmingham with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raybon.

Miss Hilda Mae Smith of Birmingham was a week end visitor of Miss Letha Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish and Billy Ann spent Sunday in Selma with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Maddox are spending a few days in Birmingham while Mr. Maddox is working there.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadus Connatser of Clanton visited Mrs. William Each of Thorsby Friday night.

The Thorsby P.-T. A. has been called to meet at the school building on Friday p.m., January 13 at 3 o'clock to discuss some very important business. All members are urged to attend. Patrons of the school are also invited to attend.

The executive committee of the W. M. U. of Thorsby Baptist church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. R. Piper. Those present were Mrs. E. R. Piper, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. G. F. Harper, Mrs. Martha Simpson, Mrs. S. J. Davenport, Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Mrs. Leonard Lowery and Miss Mae Wood.

Circle No. II of the W. M. U. of Thorsby Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Leonard Lowery.

The only time the average small boy likes to use soap is on Hallowe'en.

But alas, the lame ducks aren't the only quacks there.—Atlanta Constitution.

One of the easiest things to do that we know of is to run up an electric light bill.

In China it is said that the law requires everyone to pay his debts on the first of the year. Happy new year, la belle France!

Another effort is to be made to get Uncle Sam into the World Court during this session of Congress. Wouldn't it be just as effective and a lot less expensive to refer all of these international questions to Santa Claus?

According to a traveler returning to London from Africa the elephants are getting so thick in the jungles they are beginning to raid the smaller settlements in isolated districts. Maybe it would be a good idea for the G. O. P. to import a few before 1936.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Already there are evidences that the political peace which descended upon the country after the election on November 8, is about to be dispelled. That it was anything more than an armed truce, was of course not to have been expected. Now that the echoes of the French debt disagreement have begun to die away, leaders in Congress are beginning to do a little arms brandishing on domestic issues with the evident purpose of reaping whatever political advantage there is to be reaped.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the present senate, opened the attack the other day by inferring that the Republicans were already using obstructive tactics with the evident purpose of forcing an extra session of the new congress which comes into being with the new administration on March 4. The senator even went so far as to express the fear that President Hoover himself might veto some of the legislation to be passed by the present congress for the purpose of forcing an extra session, and interfering with the Rooseveltian program.

Republican leaders were not long in coming back at the gentleman from Arkansas. Representative Snell, the Republican leader in the House, charged in very unkindly fashion that the Democrats in the present congress have no program and have never had any except that which was encompassed in the slogan "beer by Christmas." Congressman Treadway of Massacheusetts was even more specific when he said:

"The Democratic party controls the house and with its coalition vote also controls the senate. In what way, therefore, can it be said that the Republican party is today defeating the legislation? Since the night of November 8 it has been known that the next administration will be Democratic. Has any announcement come either through the President-elect or the Democratic leaders of congress of any fixed program which that party has in prospect?

"President Hoover has shown his good offices in endeavoring to cooperate with president-elect Roosevelt in the question of international debts, but his efforts toward cooperation have been declined. The Democratic leaders of the senate have announced that under no circumstances will any nominations of the present administration be confirmed. This attitude has cost the government the expert services of such a man as Charles R. Crisp of Georgia, on the U. S. Tariff Commission and undoubtedly other non-partisan appointments. This enormous Democratic political appetite for everything possible from elevator boys at the capitol to international arbiters makes for crippling the efficiency of the government and continued delay."

And so it will continue to go from now on. There will of course be a deceided change in strategy when the new administration comes in. The Democrats will then for the first time in twelve years be on the defensive. Their unprecedented victory has given them entire control of the government. The mantle of responsibility has been taken from the shoulders of the Republicans and placed squarely on the shoulders of the Democrats.

During the past twelve years it has been the pleasure, if not the duty, of the Democrats to attack, to plague the Republican majority in every way possible. The Republicans with an administration to defend, and with the responsibility of putting through platform measures, have been under a serious handicap, when it came to the matter of handing out political barbed shafts and keen and cutting criticisms. A great many Republican partisans have complained that during the past few years the Republican leaders have not been aggressive in attack. But now that the situation has changed completely and the Republicans have little to do except to go out with their freshly sharpened harpoons the situation is going to be reversed and the Democrats will occupy the uncomfortable seats.

This is the way it always turns out in the arena of American politics. Political students who do not think the Republicans can or will take advantake of the opportunity to be offered them in the coming months have evidently forgotten the closing months of the Wilson administration and the tremendous Republican fight made against the League of Nations, the treaty of Versailles and government control of railroads and other great utilities. The Republicans could do this because they were in the minority. They are again in the minority.

CANST THOU BEAT IT?

Consider the editor! A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in town. The physician getteth twenty plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yet, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremo.

Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in the paper a swell piece. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman and of the exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she, and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor gets a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate.

And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picketh one and lo! she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold the bids are fashioned in a far city.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth his bit.

The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the dead and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and canceleth their subscriptions, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

WHAT EVERY SENATOR OUGHT TO ASK

Before any senator votes to put the United States into the permanent court of international justice, commonly known as the League Court, he should first discover the answer to an important question: Through what channel would the American government deal with the court if it were a member?

The statute of the court gives it jurisdiction over the interpretation of treaties. Under the constitution of the United States treaties are made by the executive, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. Once the interpretation of a treaty was handed over to the League Court how much would the Senate have to say about the fate of the treaty?

The Root protocol now before the Senate declares that the court "shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest." Who would give that consent—the President, through the state department, or the president plus the senate? Who would decide and say whether the United States has or claims an interest?

The protocol refers to the "exercise of the powers of withdrawal" by the United States from the Court under certain unpleasant circumstances. Who would exercise these powers? Would it be the president, or the president and the senate, or the president and congress?

The constitution contains no answer to these questions for the reason that the framers of the constitution never dreamed of such a surrender of sovereignty as is proposed by the proponents of adherence to the League of Nations. None of the court propagandists has answered them for the reason that they suggest trouble of the sort that is certain to follow American entry into the court.

But they ought to be answered, if there are answers, before the protocol comes to a vote.—New York Sun.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—

Calvin Coolidge

The death of ex-President Coolidge on last Thursday came as a distinct shock to the whole nation. While there was nothing sensational about him, yet his administration will go down in history as an era during which a feeling of security was the experience of the whole country. During his term of office, all America—business of all kinds—farming, industry, labor, capital, everything went its way in even tenor, seeming to sense that the leadership of our country was in able hands. Not awe-inspiring, yet brilliantly able, Mr. Coolidge went about his duties of directing the affairs of this nation in a manner which engendered confidence. He was a man of few words and fewer promises, yet be it said to his credit that his word could always be depended upon as the result of much sensible, reasonable thought, and his promises were always fulfilled. America has lost a great man and a great leader in the passing of Calvin Coolidge.

The Greatest Joker

In the article below I expect to give you 1932's "best joke," but right now we want to discuss the greatest joker of all time, without doubt. I heard him talking on the street one day last week, and here's a little of what he had to say: "What this country needs, and the only thing that will ever put it back on its feet again is repeal of the prohibition law. Why, Jesus Christ, Himself, drank wine, and the Bible says He did no wrong." In the last few months I have heard lots of people speak in like manner. It is almost inconceivable that anyone—any sane person—could really believe that the repeal of the prohibition law and the return of the open saloon could perform the miracle of lifting a nation from the throes of depression into which this one has fallen. We have had the prohi law for several years—we have had the depression only two or three years. I just wonder if there really is any person who honestly and conscientiously believes that the return of open liquor, beer and wine would solve the many troubles of this country. I can't believe there is. People who speak so must surely be having their little joke. It's all a big joke, any way. And so far as bringing in the name of the Savior in such connection—that is nothing but rank blasphemy.

1932's Best Joke

Well, folks, here's the best joke of the year 1932, according to a vote from the "radio audience" of the United States. An insurance solicitor was bearing down on a prospect—putting everything he had into his argument. Finally he reached that part of his spiel which concerned the promptness with which his company paid all claims. "Mister," he finished, "the company's office in Boston is on the sixth floor of a building. One of our client's had an office on the tenth floor of the same building. A few weeks ago this client fell out of the window of his office on the tenth floor, and as he passed our window on the sixth floor, a clerk handed him a check for his insurance. How is that for promptness?"

Saving Millions With Miller

"Save millions with Miller"—I heard that several times during the last state campaign. We're saving them, all right—at least, we're not spending them. We don't have them to spend. That surely is a neat little system Mr. Miller has worked out to save millons by. I believe we have all been saving millions for years, though, if the present system is what the governor had in mind. Come to think of it, maybe I've saved a few cool million myself if this is the way to "save" them. But why be pikers about this saving business? Why save a few paltry "millions" when we can just as easily save billions and billions and billions—by the Miller Saving System? It's easy—all you have to do is just not spend 'em. And, you can't spent 'em when you don't have 'em, can you? There you are, folks. Step up and save a few million or so—we're all doing it. I reckon one might say we're saving automatically.

Red Ink

Met Dewey Rockett on the street not long ago, with a new bottle of red ink in his hand. Dewey says his books contain more figures in red than in black. I reminded him that eye specialists say that red is hard on the eyes, but Dewey comes back and says: "Yep, and eyes aren't the only thing red is hard on. It hurts my stomach, my feet, and all over for that matter. And if I don't get to where I can write some black figures in my books pretty soon, there ain't gonna be no books to write in." Dewey says he can't get near enough sorghum syrup to fill his needs, though, and he asked me to remind all my friends to "bring on the 'lasses." He'll buy 'em.

The Beaver Stick

Not long ago some fellow dropped in and looked at the stick we have here in the office, which is said to have been cut by beavers, and said the stick was not cut by the little animals. The Man on the Corner told you about "doubting Thomas" at the time. Since then, though we have had numerous people tell us that beavers do leave the kind of sign this stick bears. Last week our good friend Uncle John S. Dennis dropped in to renew his subscription and have a little jawfest with us. He noticed the stick, and remembering what someone had said about it. He said: "Yes, I am sure that stick was cut by beavers. They leave that kind of sign all right. I've seen the like many times." That settles it. Uncle John ought to know if anyone does.

Our Negro Problem

Once again up north, and even in other countries, people are getting hot under the collar about the way negroes are being treated in Alabama. Nearly every day some kind of "society" sends down some kind of "appeal" or "demand" to our state officials concerning this. Most of these come from Communistic societies, and the knowledge that such bosh receives any consideration can do nothing but put harmful ideas in negroes' heads. What our officials should do is promptly drop these letters and messages in the waste basket on receipt, without letting their contents get into the papers. If the "reds" will only attend to their own business, we can attend to ours, and our negroes can attend to theirs. One good old-time negri put forth some pretty good logic along this line a few days ago. He said: "I wish dem fellers 'ud shet up ' bout us niggers down heah. We're satisfied and dey otta be. Dey's gwine keep writin' and telfomin' roun' down heah 'tell dey gits a big bunch o' dese niggers wid foolish ideas in dey haids, and den dey's gwine git a bunch uv 'em kilt." Seemed like pretty good reasoning, eh?

Rats

Here's my last shot. A few days ago a lady told me that she had been bothered quite a bit by mice cutting quilts, books, etc., so she decided to set a trap for them. Taking a mouse trap, she set it in a pantry, on the floor, and even as she moved her hand from the trap, (before she had time to straighten her back, mind you), a mouse ran over the trap and was caught. What about that, now? Think that one will hold water? I've heard lots of yarns, fishtales, etc., but I must say that one will hold its own in the fastest company. Oh rats!—Man in the Moon.

JOB INSURANCE FAILS

Among the various object lessons that European nations have provided in recent years is the collapse of the ambitious scheme of work insurance in Germany. According to an independent investigation by the National Industrial Conference Board of the United States the system set up in Germany five years ago for mass unemployment relief and insurance has failed completely. Coming at a time when similar projects are being urged in this country, the miscarriage of the carefully planned German insurance measure so earnestly supported by both labor and government leaders should be carefully studied.

Inaugurated in October, 1927, German unemployment insurance by March, 1931, had called upon the government for advances that will never be repaid, amounting to $364,000,000. During the remainder of 1931 the drain upon the national treasury became so heavy that its support had to be suspended. Drastic measures of economy were inaugurated by the directors of the insurance fund, but the conference report shows that in spite of all efforts the final collapse of the unemployment insurance plan came in June of this year.

Thus was ended the most extensive experiment in social insurance ever undertaken. Its failure is charged to the fact that depressional unemployment is not an actuarial risk and that unemployment insurance can not be placed on a sound financial basis. The theory of the German plan was similar to those proposed here. Contributions from workers and employers were to provide the funds for unemployment insurance. The original law of 1927 divided the levy of 3 per cent equally between employees and employers. Within two years the assessment was found to be inadequate and successive increases finally raised the levy by 1931 to 6.5 per cent, or more than double the original contributions.

Even the increase of more than 100 per cent in the assessments was not sufficient to meet insurance demands, and while the levy rates were being raised insurance benefits and the duration of benefit periods were both being curtailed. In this manner the heavy losses of the early years were reduced, but the fund was only able to balance its budget by throwing out of the unemployment scheme more htan half of the beneficiaries. Those ejected added to the burden of the government dile system, already overtaxed.

Within certain limitations unemployment relief funds established in times of prosperity have definite fields of usefulness. In times orf depression, with reduced industrial activity and protracted unemployment, such insurance apparently can not be counted upon to support beneficiaries indefinitely in idleness.—Washington Post.

WHERE IS THE IMPETUS TO PROSPERITY

The lending of money to financial institutions, the creation of public works and the providing of adequate charity have not brought back prosperity. We may better face that fact than to hide from it. To be sure, the things we have done in an effort to end the depressiin have been valuable. They have prevented the situation from becoming worse than it was and is and they have placed us in a position to go forward if the impetus is given, but where is the impetus?

The impetus can only come through a resumption of production. The eight or ten millions of unemployed would supply that impetus if they had work and wages. And right here we come against one of the fallacies of argument—that the major cause of our difficulties is overproduction. There cannot be overproduction as long as there is underconsumption and no economist, business leader or statesman would have the hardihood to say that consumption has reached its limit.

There can be no overproduction in this country or in the world at large so long as there is a single person who needs and should have some article that he is unable to buy. That is worth repeating: There can be no overproduction in the world so long as there is a single person who needs and should have some article that he is unable to buy.

The great obstacle in the way of prosperity's returning is the inability so to adjust our affairs that the consumer will be placed in a position to buy the things he needs and should have, and this condition will not improve until some method is found to give employment to those who wish to work and who cannot now find productive labor.

One who can devise a way to get the millions back on their pobs at good wages who are working occasionally at low wages or not at all, will have solved the entire problem. And it is a problem for America to solve for Americans. We need not worrk much about our foreign trade if we can keep all our domestic trade and see to it that Americans themselves are able to purchase the goods they need and can produce and would produce if given the opportunity.

With Walter Johnson out of the picture, Washington is going to look as strange next year as it would if something were to happen to the Washington monument.

It is said that president-elect Roosevelt's hobby is stamp collecting. Let's hope that when he gets into office all the stamps he collects from France won't be precancelled ones.

Wets in Washington complain bitterly because the so-called "lame ducks" defeated the prohibition repeal resolution. But who ever heard of a duck liking anything but water?

Those statesmen down at Washington who are worrying about what the percentage of alcohol should be in beer, might take a hint from the Washington naval treaty and adopt the 5-5-3 percentage.

Afraid of Water? Not Exactly. But—

Under certain arrangements in strict accordance with their faith and practice of their denomination, it may be said that Baptists are not afraid of water, although they may diligently avoid a "sprinkling" now and then. A Baptist will take a "ducking" any time rather than a "sprinkling." They may figure by ducking and sprinkling like the fellow (whoever he was) who said one wetting is worth two greasings. Truth of the business is the Baptist idea is to take the "ducking" when it is in order, but do not take chances in water when it is not "in the book" to do so.

Here's What I am Getting To

Last week Rev. D. S. Martin, of Equality, was over here to attend the one-hundredth birthday of his friend and former neighbor, Rev. J. T. Nelson. While here his son, J. Mell Martin, took him down to his camp on the river for a few hours. On the way down they picked up Uncle Webb Parrish. When they got to the river the two venerable Baptist preachers prowled around the place and talked in that intimate and understanding way which is the particular pleasure of men of their experience. They were admiring the beautiful waters of Lake Mitchell stretched out in peacefulness before them. Mell rigged up his motor boat and invited them to take a ride. They very promptly declined the invitation, saying they preferred to keep their feet on solid ground. Afraid of water? Not exactly. But—

Postoffice Applicants a Plenty

From what I can learn, there is quite a crop of "deserving" Democrats who expect to "measure poles" with each other in trying to knock down a certain juicy plum known as the Clanton postmastership. They are bobbing up on every hand. First thing you know they will have to wear badges so they can identify each other. One thing I am proud of—you Democratic brethren will have to go some if you ever furnish us a postmaster better than Wiley Bean.

My Annual Possum Dinner

I have often been in places where I mentioned being fond of possum, and felt that somebody else felt I ought to apoligize for saying such a horrible thing, or for eating such a horrible thing. I have never apoligized, and what's more, I keep right on eating possum when I can get it. I have a buddy, too, in the possum eating business. Mell Martin and I have an annual possum dinner together. The occasion for 1933 was last Friday.

It cost the Republican National Committee $250,000.00 to elect General Grant president of the United States in 1872. Eight years later, it cost $100,100,000 to land Garfield in the presidential chair. The Republican campaign expense has not fallen below the million mark since that time, although the Democratic war chest has lacked considerable of reaching a million on five occasions since 1880.

Earth eating, a very peculiar custom, is confined to savages, but is found among the people of every country. Those who indulge this habit explain it as do the users of alcohol, tobacco, etc. They eat earth because they like it.

When your gas tank registers half, is it half full or half empty.

Don't use public towels, and keep your fingers out of your eyes. There are germs everywhere.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

Calvin Coolidge's life shows how useful the Ten Commandments are to those who follow after them. His character was molded to the virtues of the tables of stone. Right was right to him, and wrong was wrong—a philosophy that simplifies things wonderfully and that often makes for material success as well as for the most accurate moral bookkeeping. For though it lack the warmth and winsomeness of a faith that will sit down with publicans and sinners and give saintliness a fetching smile, still it treads true to its light and its light is always trimmed.

The career of the ex-president, at whose passing the country bows today, is striking in its difference from those preceding and those following him. Most presidents of our republic have come to the office if not with laurels already won, either in war or in statecraft or in the world of affairs, at least with a personality that thrilled or pleased the popular imagination. And not a few of these have left it with their light eclipsed and their favor gone. Calvin Coolidge came trailing no clouds of glory and with as impersonal an air as it is humanly possible to possess. Yet, rarely since Washington bade his countrymen farewell has a president retired so completely intrenched in the confidence of his day and generation. Had he chosen to run for a third term, tradition undoubtedly would have been smashed by an electorate that envisaged him as the prophet of prosperity.

How was it that this quiet American, who wore no plume and lifted no lance, who never courted the crowd and yet was its idol, who grew, one might almost say, popular without popularity and famous without fame—how was it that he wrought such a miracle of politics? Sturdy abalities were his, beyond question; practical judgment, tireless industry, resolute thrift, Plymouth Rock honesty, and that rare gift of the discreet gods—capacity for saying nothing when there is nothing to say. But of all the explanations of his career and of all the tributes to his worth, this, we think, strikes nearest home: "He believed in the old American copybook maxims." He believed in them simply, utterly, sincerely. It was Calvin Coolidge himself who said: "The success which is made in any walk of life is measured almost exactly by the amount of hard work that is put into it. . . . If society lacks learning and virtue, it will perish. . . . There is only one form of political strategy in which I have any confidence, and that is to try to do the right thing and sometimes be able to succeed. . . . The nation with the greatest moral power will win." If this be not the faith that moves mountains, it is certainly the creed for success.

The Journal joins with its contemporaries throughout the South and the nation in extending to Mrs. Coolidge and those who share her bereavement our deep condolence, and in offering our profound respect to the memory of one who honored America by his rectitude.—Atlanta Journal.

MARKET HIGHER: DEMAND FOR SPOTS IMPROVED

The cotton market during the period December 31-January 6 advanced about three sixteenths cents and demand both foreign and domestic was stated as somewhat improved. It was generally said holders of spot cotton continue indifferent sellers with the result that the basis in the south still continues comparatively high. According to the weather bureau for the week ending January 3, except in the southwest and extreme southeast the soil continued saturated in most of the southern half of the country and very little field operations were possible. According to the New York Cotton Exchange service, fertilizer tags for December in the states of North and South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisana, Arkansas and Texas, presumably for use of nineteen thirty three crops, totaled thirty three thousand tons compared with sixteen thousand in December last year, twenty-four thousand two years ago and twenty-eight thousand three years ago. Practically all of the reported tag sales were from North and South Carolina, and there is some reason to question whether the fertilizer for which these tags and fertilizer that will be used or on truck crops and tobacco. According to the same source, tag sales reported this early are seldom a reliable guide as to the total number of tags and fertilizer that will be used for the new cotton crop. Average price middling seven eigths ten markets January sixth 6.03 cents, compared 5.83 December thirty and 5.99 a year ago. Sales of spot cotton, according to the reports of the ton markets, showed considerable increase during the past week, compared with past few weeks. The apparent supply of American cotton remaining in the United States on December one was 17.3 million bales based on the December one production estimate of the American crop of 12.7 million bales. The apparent supply in the United States on December one year ago was 18.6 million bales or eight per cent larger than this year's figure. Exports to January six, this season amounted to about 4.3 million bales, against about 4.2 million a year ago for the corresponding period.

Grade differences were unchanged during the past week, with the average of the ton markets for strict middling 27 points on middling and for strict low and low middling 29 and 58 points off middling, respectively.

Premium staple cottons were said to have witnessed a spotted demand with some little interest prevailing in the Memphis market for bright strict low middling and low middling in the lengths one and one-eighths and one and five thirty-seconds inch, with offerings of such cottons rather limited. Inquiries for these cottons appeared to be coming mostly for export.

Southern mill centers said there were more small orders for immediate shipments in evidence than for some time, but that those for forward business continue unimportant. Inquiries seemed to be confined largely to white middling seven eighths inch. It was said also that offerings of raw cotton in the southern mill territories showed some increase during the past week.

Now England said there was very little doing the past week in all of the New England raw cotton centers, with business nearly a stand-still.

Dry goods centers stated the cotton cloth markets were more or less quiet, but prices continued strong, with quotations for certain constructions higher than those prevailing.

Foreign Markets

Bremen said a moderate demand prevailed in that market, particularly for medium grades and shorter staples of American cotton. Mill orders have decreased but are still better than during the worst period of last year. The inquiries for American low grades were stated as being brought about by the present disparity between American and East Indian cottons. Spinners were fixing rather freely.

Manchester stated demand was fair and spinners were more inclined to keep fully covered. Inquiries for cloth were stated as larger, with freer buying for India. Yarns were firmer with production weel absorbed.

Liverpool said demand for actual cotton is rapidly improving, with American favored. More confidence was in evidence in the general situation, with home trade much more optimistic.

From W. L. Sanders

I wish to say to the people that you will notice elsewhere in this paper the announcement of a meeting of the citizens and taxpayers of this county next Saturday, before the Commissioners Court.

The question to be discussed is of great importance and should be seriously considered by all who are interested in the saving of our homes and the education of our children.

From the information I have secured I have all reason to believe that the commisioners will do everything possible to help the taxpayers save their homes. There are many tax payers who are not only unable to pay their taxes, but are unable to get the real necesseties of life. These unfortunate people, we know, our Commissioners are not going to forget now, for the closing down of our schools seems almost unreasonable; but it will be actual after the 27th of this month if something doesn't happen. I have reason to believe the Commissioners are going to help the schools to the extent that they will not have to close in the face of our children.

I hope to see a large delegation of citizens at this meeting, to express their views upon the questions. We hope everybody will leave their prejudices and politics at home and come for the purpose of helping all concerned. For the interest of all, I remain yours very truly, W. L. Sanders.

Quinn Urges Boys Spare Song Birds

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 11.—Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the Alabama game and fisheries department, has addressed an appeal to the school teachers of Alabama to devote as much time as possible to instructtion of pupils as to the importance of protecting the song and insectivorous birds.

This communication is particularly timely in view of the 1932-33 conservation program of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs among the high school pupils of the state designed to make "every town and city a bird sanctuary."

The appeal was prompted by reports that boys in various parts of the state were killing a large number of song birds and other useful birds with their rifles and small guns. Col. E. F. Allison, one of the state's outstanding conservationists, has posted notices near his home at Bellamy calling attention to state laws prohibiting the shooting of intersectivorous birds.

"The ornithologists tell us, and it has been demonstrated in more than one instance in various parts of the world, that if all insectivorous birds were destroyed in a given time, insect pests would destroy the foliage and subsequently the entire forest growth of such an area," said Commissioner Quinn.

"How important then it is for us to protect our song and insectivorous birds. I am appealing to the teachers of the state to give as much of their time as possible to instruction of the pupils as to the importance of protection of our song and insectivorous birds. The laws of the state throw the mantle of protection around these species of wild life and seek to afford the same amount of protection to them as the game birds and game animals."

The Federation of Women's Clubs has requested high school pupils of the state to write essays on "Song and Insectivorous Birds," in Alabama. The contest is under the direction of Mrs. Elwyn Ballard of Coal Valley, chairman of conservation for the federation, and closes on March 1.

Coordinating its conservation activities with the work of the state game and fisheries department, the federation is sponsoring a program for protection of birds by arousing interest in the safety of migratory birds during the autumn, winter and spring and in the great variety of nesting birds in the summer.

The organization also is prompting bird house contests and encouraging a study of song birds and their habits.

Judge F. Loyd Tate, of the Circuit Court, was here Tuesday attending to some business on the Equity Court docket.

MT. PLEASANT DEFEATS WILSONVILLE PLAYERS

The Shelby County Junior High champions from Wilsonville were subdued last Saturday night at Calera when the Mt. Pleasant Junior High won over them by the count of 21 to 15.

This was the first defeat for the Wilsonville team in two years. Both teams were in good physical condition and the game was unusually swift and exciting. Each school had a large group of supporters to accompany them and plenty of exciting cheering took place.

The Shelby County boys were off to a 7 point lead during the first 3 minutes of play, but after this the Chilton County champions tightened their defense, holding their opponents at bay and then proceeded to uncork some brisk pass work, and ran up a 12 to 7 lead at the half. The second half found Wilsonville running guard ready to unloose some long range shooting. He shot two field goals, pulling the count up to 11, one point of a tie.

At this point of the game the Mt. Pleasant offense broke through their opponents defense and looped a 3 point lead by the end of the third quarter. The Shelby Countians again netted a field goal which ended their scoring, while the Chilton team rang up 2 shots from the field and one foul shot for 21 points of the game. Curtis Traywick and Leonard Burnett led their mates from Mt. Pleasant in scoring. The former made 10 points and the latter 7. Burnett fouled out of the game during the third quarter after turning in one of the best games he has ever played. Julius Traywick, younger brother of Curtis, took his place and gave a very good account of himself. Collins, the rangy center for Mt. Pleasant performed creditably while Cecil Traywick and Childress worked the guard position in nice style.

The Wilsonville team was larger and taller and are clever players. They are worthy of special commendation, for the clean way they play their game. The writer was unable to get their names, but regardless of this, those Wilsonville players are sure enough fast with a basketball.

Another game of special importance which Mt. Plesant will play, will be on next Friday evening at 3:00 o'clock, when the husky players from Enterprise Junior High will visit our court. These two teams are arch-rivals of each other and you can wager your best that this will be one of those wind-splitting, "nip and tuck" affairs. Enterprise presents a clever little team, and it takes good ball playing to set them down. We hope to be the first this season to accomplish this task. Everybody, who are interested in seeing these staunch, yet friendly rivals display their atheletic skill, don't miss this game. It will be one of our feature games of the season. Remember, it will be played next Friday evening at 3:00 o'clock at Mt. Pleasant. Arnold Littleton from Thorsby will call the game.

ATTACKER SAYS LORD LED HIM

C. B. Norrell, 41, of near Huffman, was in a critical condition at Hillman hospital Monday suffering from an attack made on him by his neighbor, D. M. Kunkle, 50.

Kunkle, held in th ecounty jail pending the outcome of Norrell's injuries, told officers his attack was "ordered by the Lord." Kunkle claims to be a preacher of the Church of God.

"Norrell had not been treating me right," Kunkle told Charlie Parrish, DeWitt Truss and Bill Snow, sheriff's deputies, who investigated the attack. "The Lord ordered me to kill him, and I obeyed His command."

"He had been defrauding me and had been treating me awful all summer," Kunkle declared. "He owed me a debt and when I asked him for it he would not even give me a receipt. The Lord settled it."

Kunkle said he had been in an insane asylum in Ohio for 66 days in 1921. He came here last winter from Dayton, O.

A letter from Kunkle to Norrell was found in the duplex house in which the two men lived.

In this letter Kunkle cited scripture for his attack on Norrell.

Mrs. Daisy Moncrief, housekeeper for Norrell, told the deputies that Kunkle came into Norrell's part of the house about 7 a.m., Sunday and struck Norrell with an axe. After knocking Norrell unconscious Kunkle cut his troat, according to the housekeeper.

PATES CHAPEL

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Maddox, of Thorsby, spent Saturday night of this week with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes, of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cleckler and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox.

Misses Martha Hayes and Carrie Bolton spent Saturday night of this week with Mildred Hayes.

Miss Zemma Hayes spent the week end with Miss Jewel Wilson, of near Thorsby.

Mr. Raymond Hand, of Chestnut Creek spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and family.

Miss Lorene Cleckler spent Sunday with Miss Maude Wallis.

We are very glad to report that we have some new neighbors in our community, Mr. and Mrs. Glelley and three children.

Miss Jewel Wilson, of Thorsby, spent Thursday night with Zemma Hayes.

We are very glad to report that we had a good Sunday School last Sunday. We hope to have another one next Sunday.

Next Sunday, January 15th, will be our regular singing evening at Pates chapel. We especially invite all singers who like to sing to attend.

ENTERPRISE SCHOOL NEWS

The pupils of the Junior II and III classes have been doing some real work during the past two weeks.

A debate was held between the Jr. II and Jr. III classes Monday afternoon. The subject was, Resolved, "County Life is More Healthful than City Life." Each side gave some good points. The judges decided in favor of the negative side.

The Enterprise basket ball team played the Billingsley High School team. The game was led in the first half by Enterprise. The second half was played with a very close margin. The final score was 17 to 16 in favor of Enteprise.

Enterprise expects to play Mt. Pleasant Friday afternoon, January 13th, on Mt. Pleasant court. We are expecting a very interesting game. Everybody be sure to come.

Miss Mary Sue Smith and her friend, Dot, were visitors from the Thorsby Institute last week. Also Miss Willo Dean Collins, Emily Jones, Louise Johnson and Cordelia Arant.

Miss Von Dell Penton spent the week end with Miss Lee Silas.

Miss Claudia Eiland spent the week end in this community.

Miss Zora Mae Tucker attended services at Bethel church Sunday.

Miss Oda Wilkins, of Billingsley, is visiting relatives here this week.

From the beginners room Monday was "doll day" for the beginners. There were large and small dolls. Everybody had a good time and many interesting things were learned.

Tuesday the beginners "A" class had a party and made balloons. This group is very excited over the news that they will finish "playfellows" this week if they work hard.

THE TREE OF KNOWLEDGE

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 10. — The idea of the tree of knowledge appears in many diversified forms, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, Alabama state forester. One of the most interesting beliefs of this kind is that held by the Buddhists of India, according to Colonel Bunker. The Bo tree or tree of Buddha is held to personify Buddha or universal wisdom. The name "bo" is a contraction of Bohdi, which means wisdom embodied in the tree, that is the tree of knowledge.

One of these trees stands in the sacred city of Anuradhopura, the fallen capital of the ancient kings of Ceylon, and is believed to be one of the oldest trees in existence. A European visiting the site in 1875 found that this sacred tree was the most venerated object in all Ceylon. It was believed by the inhabitants that it grew from a branch of the identical tree under which Buddha had meditated.

THOMAS JR. SCHOOL MEETING

We are asking all patrons of the Thomas Jr. High School to meet with us at said schoolhouse Friday night, January 13th, at 6:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing teachers for the 1933-34 school term, to be recommended to the County School Board of Education. And also to attend to any other matters that may be presented pertaining to the interest of the school.—Respectfully, O. L. Devaughn, J. M. Kelley, G. B. Jones, Trustees.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Summing up briefly the items of prophecy which holy men of old foretold, should apply to the church which Jesus died to save, we notice the following:

The foundation of this church is Jesus Christ, as the chief cornerstone; Isa. 28:16; Eph. 2:19-22. This foundation was laid at Jerusalem (Isa. 2:2-4; Acts 2nd chapter) where this church began to function.

The holy spirit guided the apostles in setting in order the divine system of salvation. The church in reality is constituted only of those whom God sees fit to save. They who do His will. Matt. 7:21-28 The real records are kept in heaven. Rev. 20: 12-15. Rev. 21:27.

The "law of the spirit of life (Rom. 8:1-2) was given as the seed of the kingdom of heaven (Luke 8:11-12) to perpetuate the divine system. It is the perfect law of liberty (Jas. 1:25) the word of God and nothing can be added to it; and nothing can be taken from it without doing violence to God's will. Man cannot improve upon it. II John 9:11. God forbids anything to be done in His church service that drowns out the meaning, understanding, or sentiment of His word. Vocal music leads one's mind of the words of spirituals songs. ofof the words of spiritual songs. The Savior and His apostles practiced and commended vocal music in worship.

All things should be done in the name of and by the authority of Christ. Col. 3:17.—R. L. Huffman.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

10:00 a.m.—Bible study for all.
11 a.m.—Preaching and worship.
6:45 p.m.—Preaching.

At 11 a.m., Murphy Bratton will preach. The church is glad to have him preach again before he leaves for the University. Everybody is invited to attend all services.

John J. Sigwald, Scout Executive, was in Clanton Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, putting on a special training course for members of the different troops of the county.

Lesson for January 15

JESUS AT WORK

Mark 1:21-45.

GOLDEN TEXT—But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. John 5:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Making a Sick Mother Well.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Spent His Time.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Busy at Great Tasks.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

Mark's purpose in writing his treatise should steadily be borne in mind; namely: the presentation of Jesus Christ as the divine Servant energetically performing the will of God. The purpose in this section is to show the divine Servant bearing God's message to, and clothed with power to save, lost souls. Coupled with his superhuman strength is the unwearied sympathy, giving itself out in helpful and saving service.

I. Jesus Teaching With Authority (vv. 21, 22).

1. The place (v. 21). It was in the synagogue in Capernaum to which he with four disciples repaired "straightway" upon his entrance into the village. He availed himself of the regular channel of instruction. Though many abuses had crept into the synagogue service, he chose to associate the new with the old order.

2. The time (v. 21). It was on the Sabbath day. His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded. He came not to destroy but to fulfill the law, even the law of the Sabbath day.

3. The impression made (v. 22). The people were astonished. Two things about his teaching impressed his hearers.

a. The substance of his message.

b. The authority of its deliverance. The scribes, the professional teachers of the law, merely quoted the authorities, but Jesus with first hand knowledge set forth the truth with the enthusiasm of freshness and personal conviction.

II. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv 23-28).

1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23). When the power of God is manifested in the presence of evil spirits, there is bound to be an outcry from them.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24). "Thou art the Holy One of God." The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ, and yet was forced to confess him as the Holy One.

3. Christ's attitude toward the demon (v. 25). Christ neither asked for nor accepted testimony from the demon, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit. Christ is not only himself pure, but is also able to deliver others from impurity.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 26). The evil spirit was reluctant to leave the man and displayed his maliciousness to the very end, for he tore the man whom he was forced to leave.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28). The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

a. The new doctrine which he brought.

b. The authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law of Fever (vv. 29-31).

Jesus went home with Simon and Andrew. While in that home he learned of the condition of Peter's mother-in-law. He came at once and lifted her up and the fever departed. Divine healing is characterized by completeness and immediacy. Divine healing is, in this respect, to be contrasted with so-called faith healing, which is merely the exercise of the power of mind over the body.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34).

Though the day was strenuous in its labors, he came unwearied even when the sun had set, to meet the needs of the multitudes who had gathered from all parts of the city. He healed many of diseases, and cast out many demons. The demons knew him, but the poor blind people knew him not.

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-45).

As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, his power became widely known. A leper therefore came to him saying, "If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth his hand and touched him saying, "I will, be thou clean," and immediately the leprosy departed and he was cleansed.

Look for His Leading

As a general rule, those truths which we highly relish, and which shed a degree of practical light upon the things which we are required to give up for God, are leadings of Divine grace, which we should follow without hesitation.—Fenelon.

Thy Kingdom Come

If you do not wish his kingdom, don't pray for it. But if you do, you must do more than pray for it, you must work for it.—John Ruskin.

CATTLEMAN VOWS REVENGE ON CUT-THROATS WHO KILL HIS FATHER AND LOOT RANCH

"Renegades of the West" Stars Tom Keene; Roscoe Ates Also In Cast

Avenging the murderous death of his father by treacherous range desperadoes, and seeking out the merciless culprits who looted the family ranch and demolished a homestead, Tom Keene matches wits and two-gun dexterity for whiz-bang action thrills amid the scenic splendor of the western plains and plateaus in "Renegades of the West," an RKO-Radio Picture coming to the Wadesonian Theatre.

Keene enacts a man-of-action cattleman who vows dire revenge on the murderers. To secure evidence, he contrives to be sentenced to jail in order to associate with several members of the band who are imprisoned. He learns the ramifications of the gang, and when released, approaches its leader for a job. He furthers his hazardous exploits in the enemy camp, and finally obtains sufficient information to indict the guilty persons.

Tom Keene, as the vengeance-seeker, surmounts his fighting, shooting and riding of previous films. His speed and nerve supply rapid-fire machine-gun action in "Renegades of the West." He manipulates his six-shooters like chain lightening. He fights viciously; his combatants are fierce and his hand-to-hand fisticuffs are furious. He flashes across the screen when he rides, lashing the wind as his horse smites the sod.

Although Betty Furness, sixteen-year-old RKO starlet, who makes her debut with Keene in "Renegades," is an unknown, she has been awarded a term contract. An RKO executive saw her photograph in the year book of an exclusive Millbrook, New York school, and signed her up.

Roscoe Ates supplies the picture's laughs. As a country doctor, he injects each scene in which he appears with voluminous hilarity with his comic stuttering. Others in the cast are Jack Pennick, Rockliffe Fellows, Carl Miller, James Mason and Max Wagner.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We are still having plenty of rain. There was no B. Y. P. U. Sunday night on account of the weather. Though there were enough there to give out the program for next Sunday night, and we urge everyone to prepare their parts and if the weather permits, come and let's have a good program next Sunday night.

Many attended Sunday School last Sunday morning and the singing class did some good siging. The directors were Floy Devaughn, Lawton McDowell and W. F. Gilliland. We were glad to have the visitors and invite them back.

Miss Edna Barnes was the week end guest of Miss Myrtice Smith.

Miss Lois Hand and two brothers and a friend from Hueytown were the guest of Miss Lena Downs last week.

Miss Gertie Wilson is visiting in Birmingham this week.

Everybody come next Sunday, the singing begins at nine thirty o'clock and Sunday School at ten o'clock in the morning and singing at six o'clock and B. Y. P. U. at six thirty at night. Don't forget.—Sec'y-treas.

Judge L. H. Reynolds and C. E. Stapp went to Montgomery Tuesday to attend a Kiwanis meeting. Reynolds and Stapp are vice president and secretary, respectively, of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

NUDIST CULT FOR "HALF-NAKED TRUTH"

RKO's location department was stumped when asked to find a nudist colony.

After much scouting, an isolated spot at Sherwood Forest in Santa Barbara County, which appeared like a novice's idea of a first rate nudist paradise, sloved the problem. "The Half-Naked Truth" company, headed by Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez, Director Gregory La Cava and eight supple young ladies proceeded to Sherwood Forest for the simple life and a few hundred feet of film.

"The Half-Naked Truth," which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre, Thursday and Friday, January 12 and 13, features several shots of a nudist colony. Lee Tracy, as a press agent, selects the colony's leader, Eve, as "Mrs. America" potential mother of a super-race, played by Shirley Chambers, and elevates her to fame overnight via high-pressure methods. Miss Velez portrays another protegee of this matseh ballyhooer, whose role in the film follows the life of the late Harry Reichenbach, ace press agent.

IN MEMORY OF MR. JIM DOSTER

On January 4th the death angel visited the home of W. J. Henley and wafted away the sweet spirit of their dear loving father. All was done for him that loving hands could do, but all in vain. We understand he is not dead but just begun life in that mansion prepared above, to await the great resurrection day.

We shall miss him in loving reference to the place he held in our hearts. God called him to be with Him on high. His place can never be filled. We loved him but God loved him more and has called him to yonder shining shore, where the golden gate was open and he calmly entered in.

Our Father who is too wise to make any mistake, too great to be unkind, grant us the spirit and reconciliation and submission and enable us to say Thy will be done. Let us honor our blessed sevior to the best of our ability, knowing our time is short and we must go when He calleth.

It was a shock to us when he passed away. But he had so often said he was ready to go and those were such comforting words.

Mr. Jim Doster, age 70 years, leaves to mourn his loss three daughters, Mrs. Tommy Hand, Mrs. W. T. Henley. and Miss Ida Mae Doster; one grandson, James Gilvie Henley; one sister, Mrs. J. O. Wesson.

Pallbearers were Sam Wilson, O. C. Hanson, Bob Varden, Wardner Crow, William Johnson and Elzie Kelley.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Daniel and Rev. Martin at New Salem church at 2:30 o'clock. He was laid to rest by his wife and three children in New Salem cemetary on Thursday afternoon, January 5th with Martin in charge.—Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Carroll.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, In Equity: Marie Hollon, Complainant, vs. Floyd Hollon, Defendant:

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Marie Hollon that the defendant is a non-resident and that his place of residence and post office address is unknown and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Floyd Hollon to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 6th day of February, 1933, or in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 5th day of January, 1933.

W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

The fifth chapter of the book of Nehemiah is too long to print here, so I ask that the readers turn to this chapter and read it before proceeding with the sermon. The text is the last part of the 15th verse, "So did not I, because of the fear of my God."

Nehemiah, during the exile of his people, about 536 B.C., had been elevated to the position of cup bearer to the king of Babylon, Artaxerxes, and while holding this position and in the twentieth year of the captivity, a friend named Hamani, with other certain men of Judah, visited him and told him how the walls of Jerusalem were broken down and what great affliction and reproach were upon the remnant that were left of the captivity. And upon hearing this sad news, Nehemiah sat down and wept and mourned certain days, and fasted and prayed unto the God of heaven.

The revival under Nehemiah after his return to his own country is one of the bright spots in the history of the Jews. The rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem, the putting away of their wives and other reforms inaugerated by him was the result of that great revival, the effect of which was felt for a long period of time. We should bear in mind as we consider this subject, that the captivity of the Jewish nation was suffered by their God, because of their doings and not because God willed it.

Do you believe that our God wills upon us of America this awful calamity? Do you feel that God is pleased to have men and women and chilren suffer for the necessary things of this life?

All of the above is to get your minds ready for what is to follow. Our country is to day in a worse condition than at any time within my recollection. As many as one hundred thousand men and boys are "floating" about the country looking for work or something to eat and a place to sleep. Mothers today are in agony of mind and heart, and are spending sleepless, tearful nights because of the absence of their young sons. Fathers are worried almost to distraction today by the pitiable cry of their children for something to eat. It is enough to drive a man to his knees in a complete confession of his sins, but will it do it?

The whole verse in which my text is found reads this way, "But the former governors that had been before me were chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver; yea, even their servants bare over the people: but so did not I, because of the fear of God." Unscroupulous men, bent upon accumulating to themselves the wealth of this world are willing for the people who really earned the wealth, to starve. The fear of God does not enter their thoughts. Office-holders, those men elected by the people, care absolutely nothing about the suffering and want of those who, by their votes, placed them in office, to "feather their own nests is the height of their ambition."

Mortgages on homes and farms are being foreclosed or sold for taxes, turning hundreds of women and children out in the cold without a place to call home. To my way of seeing, there is but one way to remedy the awful plight that we are in. There was but one way to remedy the condition in Nehemiah's day and that was a great revivals of religion among the people. I cannot hope for a brighter day for our people until things get so bad that everybody will be driven down into the dust of humility and the "fear of God" come upon them. We, as a nation of people, have wandered so far away from God, seeking our own pleasures and fulfilling our own desires that He has decided to let us go into bondage of want and despair until we are willing to turn again to Him in fear.

This is the day of satan's triumph and you may be sure that he will not suffer a change for the better without putting up the greatest fight within his power. He loves to hear the cries of hungry children. He chuckles with satanic glee when a father, driven to insanity by the weak, starving, whimper of his children, takes a gun and ends their misery and then turns the weapon on himself and ends it all as a great many have done already. He dances with delight when a mother, rather than watch her children die of starvtion drowns herself and them.

Brother, look around you and examine your self, see if you are pleasing the Lord with your life. Is any of our troubles chargeable to you? Are we blaming it all on someone else? Children of God, we have tried every things else, we have looked to the government, We have appealed to our lawmakers, we have tried to go it alone, leaving God out of it, and we see just the plight we are in. Now, let's turn to God and begin to fear Him and trust our all into His hands, then perhaps our God will give us a great revival and cause these dark, threatening clouds to be lifted. Great God of our fathers, turn our hearts to thee and cause us to fear to walk in the paths of sin and selfishness; fill our hearts with love to Thee and our fellowmen. Amen.—Elder Blossom.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

POULTRY OUTLOOK GOOD

Auburn, Ala. — Poultry constitutes the brightest spot in the Alabama agricultural outlook for 1933, in the opinon of J. D. Pope, economist at Auburn. In making this conclusion, he considered prices and probable prices for eggs and poultry and also production costs.

H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman at Auburn, said that farmers who will provide good houses which are inexpensive, produce as much of the feed as they can, feed properly, and take good care of hens should make money on them this year. He emphasized the value of home-grown feed, good housing, and proper management. County agents and home demonstration agents are encouraging and directing poultry production for best results.

FARM SUGGESTIONS FOR 1933 OFFERED

Auburn, Ala.—In making plans for farming this year the paramount fact to consider is that low-cost production is essential to net profit. It is always desirable but it is absolutely essential to succeed when farm prices are low as at present. They are expected to continue on a low level through 1933.

In addition to low costs or economies in production of crops, livestock and livestock products the overhead operations should be conducted in such a way as to reduce cash expenditures to the lowest minimum. This is why it is so imperative for farmers to produce food for themselves and feed for their animals.

With a view to low-cost production and minimum cash expenditures Alabama county agents are suggesting:

(1) That each farm family have a good garden and keep it producing throughout the year.

(2) Two cows to supply milk for the family. Five or six cows may be added to this for supplying milk or cream for sale.

(3) Fifty or more hens comfortably housed, wisely managed, and properly fed for eggs and meat.

(4) Potatoes, fruits and other things to supply food for the family.

In addition to the above the farm itself should be operated on a strict economy basis. Cotton, for example should be produced at the lowest cost within economy. An abundant supply of corn, hay and other feed should be produced.

Add to these plenty of pasture, for pasture is the cheapest feed which a farmer can provide for his animals.

The population of the City of Chicago remained virtually stationary in 1932 at about 3,400,000. Ordinarily Chicago gains about 50,000 a year but this gain failed to occur in 1932 because many families left the city and returned to farms.

The American Medical Association calls attention again to the fact that families whose diet consists mainly of highly milled cereals, sweets, and lard or soft pork are very susceptible to pellagra. Milk, lean meat, fish and vegetables tend to prevent this disease.

Farmers in North Carolina have initiated another community practice by assembling and cutting the supply of fuel wood for the winter just as they rolled logs, shucked corn, and did other things in years gone by. In doing so they select trees to be cut for fuel, leaving standing the desirable trees, thus improving the forest, said Lyle Brown, extension forester at Auburn.

Dewey Rockett, a hardware merchant of Clanton, Ala., has rendered a big service to Chilton County farmers by finding a market for surplus syrup. Most of it went to Birmingham. Mr. Rockett did this service without profit to himself other than increasing the circulation of cash in Chilton County.

HEAVEN AND EARTH SHALL PASS AWAY

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you give me space to write a few words on this subject?

We find in the Bible of two heavens and two earths, Mechion and one of these. Earth and heaven shall pass away with a great noise. This earth that shall pass away is spoken of in II Peter 3:10, and the earth that will abide is spoken of in Eccl. 1-4. We have been taught that our little earth is going to be burned up and a new one created.

We are going to have to give up that false doctrine for the promise was to Abraham that he should have that land of common for an everlasting possession. Also in the 27 chapter of Psalms tells us that the meek shall inherit the earth, so we see our natural earth will be an everlasting home for the meek, and shall not pass away neither burn up.

Now, what does Peter mean when he says the elements and heaven shall be burned and after it is all burned up, a new heaven and earth shall be created that shall not pass away. Isaiah 6:5 tells us of the same new heaven. Now our Lord said in Mat. 24:35 that the heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away, for his word is:

The earth abide forever, as this earth abides forever. What earth and heaven is it that's going to pass away? It is satan's kingdom, and it's earth part are it's foundation, and it's elements of laws and what little heaven it has got shall all pass away, which means satan government shall pass away. Then after this the Lord will set up a new earth, new element of laws, which will give the people a heaven that's worth something. The earth that is mentioned here is symbolic.

It means a foundation for all of the Lord's laws to stand on; so it seems that satan's earth or his foundation that he has built all of his lying and deceiving and appraising of the poor is now being seen by many people that satan and all of his host is soon going down and it's now on hand, and the Armagedian war is close by for the Lord has taken to himself his power to bind satan and set up his kingdom on the abiding earth and rule the people in righteousness.

MT. PLEASANT

Our P.-T. A. will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday p.m., January 17, at 2 o'clock. A program is being arranged for the occasion. We urge all parents to be present. Inclement weather and much sickness over the community caused our last meeting to be postponed.

Misses Virginia and Burene Edwards, members of our Jr. I class, spent the past week end with their sister, Mrs. Luther Culpepper, in Clanton.

Quite an interest is being developed in volley ball playing. Mrs. Wright has organized the play and most of the large girls are learning the art of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Vester Oaks have moved from this community to Talladega.

Our attendance has been exceptionally good since Christmas holidays. Very little sickness is reported in the community.

Mrs. Frank E. Mastin, president of our P.-T. A., was a visitor to our school last Thursday. She was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Orville Mastin.

Miss Lera Bean, our primary teacher, was absent from school last Friday. Miss Ottis Merchant supplied for her. We are proud to know that Miss Bean's throat is better and she is again with us.

Mr. Johnson spent last Saturday hunting with Mr. J. W. Lowery and two sons. Fairly good luck was reported.

Miss Erlice Riggins was the guest of Miss Louise Jones Saturday night and Sunday.

The Jr. III social which was to have been given before the holidays was postponed on account of the weather. It will be given at an early date. Plans have not yet been completed.

Coach Glasscock is whipping his basket ball team into shape for the game with Enterprise next Friday.

Miss Rose Mary Bruce was a recent visitor of Miss Myrtice Cost.

A real nice time was had by many attendants who were present at the singing given last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Littlejohn.

Quite a few of the members of our community went to Calera last Saturaday night to see the ball game. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Culp, Mr. V. B. Edwards, J. P. Culp, Lawrence Edwards, Welby Cooper, Dewey Oats and Miss Gertie Lee Lowery.

Misses Gertie Lee Lowery and Annie Chambers are spending this week with Miss Lucile Williams of Pleasant Grove.

Mr. Cecil and Miss Ruth Horton spent last week with Mrs. Emma Foshee.

Miss Ruth Kate Smith made a pleasant visit to the home of Mrs. Mary Smith last Saturday night.

Enterprise Jr. High School basket ball team will invade our court next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Everybody come and root for your home team.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Make your new year's resolutions and then add three more for the dairy—better feeding, breeding, and management.

Tonight after supper make a list of each animal, amount of feed on hand, and each item of dairy equipment. Place a fair value on these items for the January inventory.

This date in January is an ideal time in which to get rid of a few low-producing cows.

The dairy farmer should set aside at least one hour during these nights for reading. Dairy books, papers, and bulletins will help in the new year's work.

Seventy-five people in the United States had an income of a million dollars or more a year in 1931, says the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This figure compares with 531 in 1929 and 150 in 1930. Approximately one million individuals had dropped from the federal income tax list by 1932. The total 1931 income of all individuals reporting was $13,000,000,000 against $18,000,000,000 in 1930 and $25,000,000,000 in 1929.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their kindness and comforting words of sympathy in the recent bereavement of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. D. N. Robinson. We especially thank Dr. S. J. Ezell, Polk Brothers and Mr. J. Mell Martin.—D. N. Robinson and Children.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

Five hundred years before the birth of Jesus the exact time of His first coming was clerly foretold in prophecy. To Daniel was given this definite message: "Seventh weeks are determined upon thy people . . . Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks." Dan. 9:24-25.

The commandment to restore and build Jerusalem, you will find recorded in the seventh chapter of Ezra. It went forth in 547 B. C. There is abundant proof of the accuracy of this date which space will not permit us to give here. From that time to "the Messiah the Prince" there were to be exactly sixty-nine weeks. There are 483 day in sixty-nine weeks. Each of these days depresent a year of actual time according to the general rule for lal Bible time prophecy which we find in Ezekial 4:6. The decree went forth in the autumn of the year 457 B. C. Thus there were but 456½ years of actual time to the beginning of the Christian Era. Subtracting 456½ years from the 483 year would leave 26½ years of actual time which would bring us to the year 27 A. D., the precise time when Jesus was baptized by John in Jordan, when the Holy spirit descended upon Him in the form of a dove, and the voice of God was heard, declaring, "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." It was at this time that Jesus became the "Messiah," the "Christ." Both words "Messiah" and "Christ" mean "the anointed one," "Messiah," being the Hebrew form and "Christ" the Greek.

It was not until after this anointing that He began His public ministry. A part of the message He bore to the world was, "The time is fulfilled." Mark 1:5. What time?—evidently He must have referred to the sixty-nine week prophecy we are studying. Hence the very time of His comng as the Messiah and the Christ was foretold.

The prophecy continues in Dan. 9:27. "He shall confirm the covenant with many for one week; and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease." One half of seven prophetic days would be 3½ literal years. It would be 3½ prophetic days, which was exactly three and a half years from the baptism and anointing of Jesus to His death on Calvary's cross. At the very instant when Jesus yielded up the ghost, "the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom." Matt. 27:51. Type had met anti-type. The sacrificial system, which had pointed forward to the death of Jesus, was no longer to be continued so the Lord had sent an angel to rend the veil of the temple when Jesus died on the cross.

Nothing could be a more positive proof of the inspiration of the Bible than the exact time prophecies extending hundreds of years into the future. Surely it is the voice of God that speaks in the scriptures.—L. A. Butterfield.

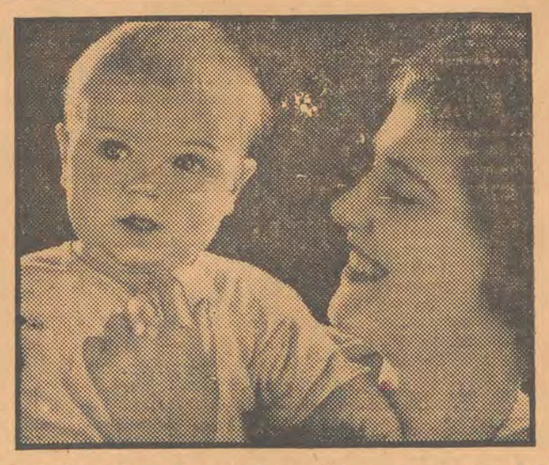
A World's Record



MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Piatt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practise in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin!

If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up.

It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready; in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

A FINE PROGRAM AT VET HOSPITAL

"Chilton County Hill Billies" Had Fine Time At Tuscaloosa

According to previous plans, the entertainment program provided by the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary was carried to Tuscaloosa last Friday and presented to the disabled World War Veterans in the government hospital.

About fifteen local musicians and other entertainers constituted the troup. They were carried to Tuscaloosa on a school bus provided by the Legion Auxiliary, under direction of J. E. Gore.

Reception of the program by the disabled soldiers was with much pleasure and amusement. They expressed great delight with the various numbers, and insisted that the Chilton County bunch come back again at an early date.

The Program

The following constituted the program that was presented:

1. Ruby Chasteen's Old Time Band, playing "Turkey in the Straw and "All Night."
2. Dewey Blalock with Hawaiian guitar, playing, "Hi-Lo-Hawaii."
3. Odis Ellison, yodler, singing Blue Yodle No. 5.
4. Allen Smith, doing old fashioned clog dance.
5. Lloyd Howard, presenting a number with accordion.
6. Tug Willis doing an old fashioned buck dance.
7. Percy Pitts, singing "Old Man River."
8. Marvin Davenport in a presentation of jokes and humorous songs.
9. Percy Pitts, singing "Mother."
10. Selection by Herman Lowery's Old Time Band.
11. Patriotic song, "I Lived a Hundred Years Ago," by Jesse Culp.
12. Dewey Blalock's old time band, playing "Alabama Jubilee," and "Walking My Baby Back Home."
13. The concluding item was "Sweet Bunch of Daisies," played by Archie Deloach and Dewey Blalock.

A large gathering of hospital patients witnessed the program in the auditorium of the hospital. A broadcasting system carried the program to all rooms of the buildings, and many of the soldiers who could not get out of bed were thereby privileged to hear the music.

Percy Pitts was announcer for the program, which he did in a very fitting and interesting manner.

The Chilton County Unit of the Auxiliary wishes to express their thanks to all parties who performed on the program. It was the splendid response and cooperation of the entertainers in carrying out their parts that made the event an outstanding success.

EVANGELISTIC SCHOOL, COOPER

During the week of January 29th, to February 5th, Rev. V. C. Kincaid, widely known state evangelist, of Birmingham, will teach the Sunday school manual to daily classes, the hours will be 7 to 9 o'clock p.m. each day.

The people of Cooper consider themselves fortunate in securing the service of such a distinguished teacher of the Baptist faith. They had the pleasure of having him to conduct their revival last summer.

The Sunday school of Cooper extends a hearty welcome to its neighboring schools to avail themselves of this rare opportunity to increase their efficiency in their work. Not only those of the Baptist faith are invited to attend, but many others are welcome to attend.

Bro. Kincaid will preach at eleven o'clock on Sunday, January 29th. Come and hear him.

PINE NEEDLES TWO FEET LONG

Did the storm stretch them out to that length? Well, we wont say about that, but if we did express our belief we would say no. Nevertheless, we have a bunch of the needles in our office and they came from a tree that was blown down in the storm last spring.

They were brought into our office last week by John W. Caton, who lives a mile north of Collins Chapel church on Jemison Route 1. The pine from which the needles came was a normal looking long-leaf pine about six inches in diameter. It was about 20 feet tall. Mr. Caton stated that all the needles on the tree were exceptionally long; he found some of them to be 25 inches long. This was really a long-leaf pine.

KIWANIANS HEAR TALK ON "SAFETY" THURSDAY

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton held its regular weekly meeting last Thursday night at the Exchange Hotel.

After several matters of business were attended to, and a short talk by President Mack Wyatt, the club sang a few songs directed by Miss Mary Ellis, pianist for the club for this year.

The club had as its guest, Perkins J. Prewitt, director of the Birmingham Safety Council, and Mr. Wilson also of Birmingham. Mr. Prewitt delivered an address on "Safety" giving interesting facts and figures regarding accidents, injuries and deaths in the United States during 1932. He also told of methods used in Birmingham to attempt to keep down accidents.

The club will meet again tonight at the Exchange Hotel. Kiwanian John Hollis, immedaite past president has charge of the program arrangements for several weeks.

MOTHER SHOT BY SON AGE 5 YEARS

Mrs. W. D. Dkyes of Enterprise Wounded By Accidental Shot

S. B. Williams, of Enterprise community, brought to The Union-Banner office Monday morning account of an accidental shooting Sunday evening about 6 o'clock in which Billy, the 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dykes of that community shot and painfully injured his mother with a 12-guage shot gun.

Mr. Dkyes was sitting by the fire, and without his knowledge the little boy had gotten the gun and was playing with it near by. There was said to be only one shell on the place, loaded with No. 6 shot. The gun went off, passing through the open door and into the kitchen where Mrs. Dykes was building a fire in the stove. The load took off three fingers from the lady's left hand and part of the load tore through her left side. Two holes were shot through the coffee pot on the stove, and the load went out through the wall of the kitchen. The boy was playing about 8 or ten feet from his mother when the gun went off.

Mr. Williams said that he and his wife had been left the Dykes home only a few minutes when they were called back and told of the near tragedy. Mrs. Dykes was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton where immediate treatment was given. She did not rest much Sunday night, but Monday morning attendants said that the wounds were not serious and that she had a good chance of recovery.

SEVEN ARRESTS IN PAST WEEK

According to reports from the Sheriff's office, seven persons have been arrested and put in jail during the past week, as follows: Three for manufacturing whiskey; one for assault and battery; two for violating prohibition law; one for desertion.

The jail register Wednesday morning showed fourteen prisoners in confinement. This number approaches the low record of 13, which is the smallest number in jail at any one time in many months.

LAY DAM SCOUTS WIN SILVER CUP

Trophy Awarded For Efficiency In Scout Work For the Year 1932

Troop 51 of the Boy Scouts at Lay Dam reached the achievement of winning the efficiency contest for the Central Alabama Area in 1932. This award was made to the Lay Dam boys in competition with 31 troops of the area.

The award was made upon the rating accomplished on all requirements of efficiency in Scout work. It is a distinction of which Troop 51 is very justly proud. Scoutmaster Edmond Lakeman, has worked hard with his boys, in bringing them to this high standard of efficiency, and the accomplishment indicates that the boys themselves have responded with an excellent spirit of cooperation.

Report of Meeting Held Last Saturday

Citizens Ask Commissioners To Secure $50,000 Loan And Help Out Schools, Road Work and People Who Cannot Pay Taxes on Property in County

The following report of the mass meeting at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon has been given to us by W. L. Sanders, who acted as secretary:

J. D. Collins was elected chairman, and W. L. Sanders secretary.

Mr. Heustess, of Montgomery, was called upon to explain the conditions under which Chilton County, if it saw fit, could borrow the $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. A great deal of light was shed upon the subject by the explanation of the speaker.

W. L. Sanders called attention to the fact that the meeting was not called altogether to discuss the question of borrowing the fifty thousand dollars, but was also a call upon the commissioners to come to the rescue of the taxpayers and those in distress by giving them work on the roads. He also stated that the schools needed attention that they might not close down. He offered the following resolution which was adopted.

Whereas, we, the citizens, taxpayers and school patrons of Chilton County, Alabama, have met with the low price of farm commodities, and,

Whereas, such low prices have made it impossible to pay our taxes, and whereas our homes will sell for their taxes, unless the money with which to pay them can be secured in some way, and, whereas, we are unable to raise sufficient money with which to pay our children's way into the private subscription schools and whereas, we feel that all children are born equal and should have an equal opportunity, and,

Whereas, we are the taxpayers of both the educational and road funds, and, whereas, the roads need to be worked and the schools need to be kept open, so that our children may make their grades, now in order that our roads be worked, and that our homes may not be sold for their taxes and that the school doors may not be closed;

Be it resolved, first, that this body of citizens, taxpayers, and school patrons call upon the commissioners court of Chilton County for a referendum on the question of the court's spending thirty thousand dollars on the public roads in Chilton county within the next sixty days for the purpose of helping those who cannot pay their taxes on their homes otherwise.

Be it resolved, second, that we ask the commissioners court to make an additional appropriation of ten thousand dollars to be spent on the roads in behalf of those who are in destitute conditions and whose families will otherwise suffer.

Be it resolved, third, that we call upon the Commissioners Court to pay the school teachers the sum of $1.50 per day for a term of three and one half months, which amount will be approximately $15,750.00.

Be it resolved, fourth, that if the Commissoners Court does not have sufficient funds with whcih to relieve the conditions as mentioned above, we further ask that the Commissioners Court give a referendum to ascertain whether the people are willing for the Commissioners Court to borrow fifty thousand dollars from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with which to pay the amounts as mentioned above.

Be it resolved, fifth, that we request that if said referendum be granted by the said court that it be held within the next ten days.

After the above resolution was adopted, Judge Reynolds stated that he did not believe the Commissioners Court could comply with the part of the resolution which called for thirty thousand dollars to be spent on the roads for the purpose of the people paying their taxes. He stated that the court had no way of making the people use the money to pay their taxes.

After these statements were made by the judge the first resolution was rescinded and a second was offered by Mr. W. H. Conway, as follows.

Resolved that this body instruct the Commissioners to borrow the $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and that $15,750 be spent on the schools.

After this resolution was adopted the Commissioners were called upon to express themselves, in which they stated that they were willing to comply with the wishes of the people.—(W. L. Sanders, Secretary.)

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS OF LOCAL BANK ARE RE-ELECTED

The Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton will be under the direction of the same directors and officers in 1933, re-elected as follows: Directors, Dr. N. S. Johnson, Grover C. Harris, W. L. Popwell, H. S. Shaw, Walter Popwell, H. G. Heflin, and F. J. Callen. The officers re-elected by the directors were: F. J. Callen, president; Dr. N. S. Johnson, vice president; H. G. Heflin, cashier and W. L. Smith assistant cashier. The Peoples Savings Bank has entered its thirty-second year, having been organized in 1901.

STAPP WRITES RELATIVE TO FARMERS TRUCKING PRODUCE

I have had a number of inquiries relative to the next tax to be imposed on farmers who may want to truck prodce to the Birmingham markets this year. The following letter is in reply to my letter to the county agent of Jefferson County asking for information on this proposed tax:

Dear Mr. Stapp:

"Replying to your inquiry regarding charges made by the City of Birmingham for farmers, will say that the new ordinance does not tax any farmer from any county offering produce for sale which he himself has grown or has caused to be grown on his farm.

"There is a tax of $150 for all those who offer for sale produce of any kind which they have bought for resale. Any farmer can get a permit at the City Hall, without cost, for marketing his own produce. I do not think this will affect any of your farmers."

Yours very truly,
J. L. LILES, County Agent.

McDONALDS WILL SING AT CLANTON

Quartet Will Put On Program at Courthouse Night of January 19th

We cannot say much in way of introduction to these boys, because nearly everybody in this vicinity knows them more or less. You have either heard them in person or have been listening to them over the radio every Sunday afternoon for the past year. But we can say that they are real artists in their line. They put on a program at Jemison a few nights ago, and if you doubt their ability, just ask some of the people who heard them up there. They have got as fine harmony as can be had anywhere, and pep is no name for the way they go into their numbers. Their program will consist of mostly sacred selections—some of which you have heard—and plenty of popular pieces too. It is worth driving ten miles to hear them sing "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart," and they have several others just as good. The program will begin at 7:30 and will continue for an hour or a little over.

The main purpose of this engagement is to raise some money to pay on the community piano at the courthouse; but that is not all: There are hundreds of people around Clanton who enjoy hearing good classical quartet singing, and it is for their benefit as well as the piano fund that the McDonalds have been engaged to come here. And the admission price has been made so low that no one need stay away on account of the hard times. It will be 15 cents for grown folks and 10 cents for children under 12 years of age. It is hoped and expected that the court room will be filled to capacity by the time the singing is to begin. And remember that when this bunch agrees to sing they will be there regardless of the weather. It will likely be bad weather, but come on any way, because they will put on their program unless it is storming or something worse.

We were about to overlook mentioning that there will be a black-face comedian in the crowd, and he is as good as you ever saw on any stage. So make arrangements to be there and enjoy the fun and good singing as well as help out on your piano fund.

ALABAMA MILLS WILL CONTINUE

Statement Given Out By Paul A. Redmond, President Company

Mr. Paul A. Redmond, president of the Alabama Mills Company, stated in connection with the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy by that company that such proceeding is with a view of perfecting a friendly organization of the Company and was not brought about by any adverse action of creditors. The business of the company and its operations will be continued without interruption by Mr. Redmond, who has been appointed receiver and who is entirely familiar with its affairs.

NEW OFFICERS TAKE UP DUTIES

C. D. Duke and J. C. Atchison, New Commissioners; Mrs. Calloway Treasurer

Last Saturday and Monday were busy days for the Commissioners Court of Chilton County. Saturday was the closing day for the two members of the court, A. P. Vinson and J. L. Burnett. There was a lot of business to be closed out at the expiration of their terms.

Along with the two new commissioners, Mrs. Gertrude Calloway on Monday began her second term as County Treasurer, having finished four years in that office.

During the morning session a lot of routine business was transacted, including the passage of a number of claims for road work. Consideration was given to the county agent's work when a report was rendered by C. E. Stapp. Miss Denton spoke to the court about the child welfare and relief program.

At noon the Commissioners Court, including the two new members, and a group of other citizens, had lunch together at Dief's Cafe. Mrs. Tunstall, of the state child welfare department and Mr. Jim Heustess, secretary of the Association of County Commissioners of Alabama, were present. Mrs. Tunstall spoke during the lunch hour about the child welfare program. Mr. Heustess made a brief talk on the proposed loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Those in attendance at the luncheon were Judge L. H. Reynolds, Commissioners A. P. Vinson, J. L. Burnett, J. M. Mims, J. E. Cobb, C. D. Duke, J. C. Atchison; C. E. Stapp, county agent; Mrs. Tunstall; Mr. and Mrs. Heustess; Tom Littlejohn; W. L. Sanders, of the county board of education; Grady Reynolds; Miss Denton, of the county child welfare department.

Luncheon was concluded at two o'clock, when the commissioners went to the mass meeting at the courthouse. A report of the business of the mass meeting appears at another place in this paper.

Commisisoners Court met again on Monday with the new members, C. D. Duke and J. C. Atchison at their places representing the fourth and third districts, respectively. A number of items of business were given consideration.

Road working arrangements were the biggest item before the court. It was stated that a number of changes in the road crew and the program of work are contemplated, but this was not worked out in all its details. Members of the court decided they would go ahead and work out the program and personnel for their individual districts during the next month, and present their outline for final approval of the court at the February meeting.

ELMORE WILL RUN REGULAR ADS

Readers of The Union-Banner are invited to read the advertisements of V. J. Elmore's Five and Ten Cent Store, which will appear in this paper every other week in the future.

"Trade at the Five and Ten Cent Store and Save Money," is the slogan of Mr. Elmore. "We expect to show our customers that they can save money by trading here," said Mr. Elmore, "and if they will compare our prices and the quantity of quality of our merchandise, they will be convinced this is a fact."

T. A. ATKINSON DIED

Mr. T. A. Atkinson, beter known as Almon, age 60, died at St. Vincent's hospital, Birmingham, January 9. While his health had been failing for several months, he was seriously ill only a few days prior to his death. Funeral services were held at Sterrett's near his country home.

He was an employee of the Frisco Railroad, and had been a resident of Birmingham for 25 years.

Mr. Atkinson was the son of Dolby Atkinson of West Chilton. He is survived by the widow, three daughters, Mrs. D. M. Woodham, Mrs. Cecil Cruse and Miss Clara Mae Atkinson and three sons, Joe Charles and Perry Atkinson, and several brothers and sisters.

"—my skin became clear"

—wouldn't you like to be able to say this, too? Then pause a moment and reason . . . skin affections usually result because of lowered resistance from below the skin surface. Then help the blood that purifies the skin, by increasing its red-cells and restoring the vital oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in these cells so that more vitality comes to the tissues. This will increase the ability of the blood to devour infectious pimple germs.

That is just what S.S.S. does—proved by tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of thankfulness.

Figures and Facts By Ala. Highways

It is the opinion of the highway department that its financial condition and its obligations and duties are not generally understood by the people of Alabama. Therefore we are attempting to get before the public a few facts which are not being presented in a controversial spirit.

In the first place a comparison of the department income for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1933 will run $800,000.00 less than for the year ending September 30, 1932 by present indication. Practically the only source of revenue the department has is derived from 80 per cent of the proceeds of the sale of auto license tags and a three cent gas tax. Receipts up to now allow $1,735,000 from the auto tax and three cent gas tax is now producing $311,000 per month. On basis of the above figures we estimate that revenue from all sources for the present fiscal year will amount to $6,162,000.

Fixed charges, over which the department has no control, and which consists of interest and sinking fund on $41,881,000 outstanding highway bonds issued in former administrations, together with losses caused by operation of fifteen toll bridges built in the preceding administration, will amount to $2,976,000 this year and $3,579,000 next year. Funds then left for the highway operating purposes this year will amount to $2,800,000, after deducting approximately $375,000 accounts payable.

The department is obligated to maintain 5,500 miles of road, of which 4,150 miles are secondary, or low type surfaces, viz: gravel, sand-clay, top soil, etc.

We have never had sufficient money since this administration went into office to place necessary materials on these roads to bring the surfaces back to normal thickness. Moreover, a large part of the machinery used in maintenance is practically worn out. Very few replacements of equipment have been made in the last four or five years and in this administration only $280,802.44 has been spent for this purpose up to date. When one considers the original cost of this equipment was $2,015,727, it is readily seen that at the rate we are making replacements, twenty years would elapse before new machinery would be substituted for the old. The life of any piece of road machniery can hardly average over five years, so replacements are about one-fourth of what they should be.

Many people have the idea that new construction work on highways they see going on over the state is financed through state funds, or at least partially so. However, such is not the case.

At present only four projects have allocated to them any state funds, and one of these projects was inherited from a former administration and was under construction on January 19, 1931. This project is financed with approximately one-half federal aid and one-half state funds and is now practically complete. The other projects are being financed with state funds and convicts are employed on same. We have no plans for additional construction when projects underway are finished. Our finances will not permit.

All of the other construction under way in the state, and which represented approximately $5,000,000 in 1931 and $5,000,000 in 1932-33, is entirely government funds placed at our disposal for highway construction only. We are not permitted to use any of this federal money for maintenance.

Some statements of the daily press are to the effect that bills will be introduced in the next legislature to divert some of the trust funds now used exclusively on roads by the state highway department. We sincerely hope this will not happen. Such procedure would spell ruin to an important branch of state government. As we have attempted to show above, not enough funds are now in sight for anything like proper maintenance, and, as construction work is drawing to a close, we are facing a very precarious future. It does not seem possible that the people would permit more than $65,000,000 worth of public roads on the state and federal system already built to go to rack and ruin. Furthermore it would jeopardize all highway federal aid in Alabama.

When the state agrees to accept the federal aid for its highways, it signs an agreement with the federal government that all roads constructed in whole, or in part, with federal funds are to be maintained all the time with state money only. The penalty for non-maintenance is the discontinuance of federal aid by the secretary of agriculture of the United States.

We also do not believe that it is generally known that a number of counties in Alabama have placed an additional gas tax for purposes other than highway construction or maintenance. According to our information at least four counties and one hundred and ten cities and municipalities come in the above classification. We know of at least one town in Alabama that has applied a one cent gas tax for the purpose of taking care of unemployed.

We have available for our use with the federal government in Washington at the present date $3,508,804.39 regular federal aid and in addition $1,137,416.19 special appropriation to Alabama for flood relief, making a total of $4,646,220.58 which Alabama can secure for highway construction if we match it with state funds.

It must be evident to anyone from what is said above in this statement that the state has no money to match any part of this federal money and present indications are that no money will be available which can be used for this purpose.

In conclusion the department has attempted to avoid as much as possible reference to figures and to confine ourselves to a simple statement of facts as they exist. Any statement that we make can be verified by the records on file in the highway department, or available for its use.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TREES PAY ON WINSTON FARM

Haleyville, Ala.—Timber has proven a very valuable crop for W. H. Chambers, a farmer living near here. He has 93 acres of land, 60 acres of which is in timber. His income from sales of timber the last 35 years has averaged annually $93.47, or $1.00 each year per acre for the entire farm. This is in addition to furnishing fuel wood and wood for other farm needs.

Mr. Chambers has made his timber produce an income and supply his own timber needs without permanent reduction in the value thereof because the young timber now growing is considered to be equivalent in value to the timber on the land 23 years ago.

Records kept by Mr. Chambers show that he has cut and sold fuel wood for $1,200, crossties, $500; hub timber, $200; lumber, $100; staves and spoke timber, $100; and miscellaneous products for $50.

"Without this income from my trees," said Mr. Chambers, "I would not own this place today. This tree income has assisted also in educating my children as well as paying other expenses."

The owner is now cooperating with the county agent, W. P. Whitlock, in conducting forest demonstrations to assist other farmers to get better returns from their trees. Lyle Brown, extension forester of Auburn, is cooperating in the project.

ROANOKE TO FIGHT DEPRESSION WITH A NEW SCRIP PLAN SOON

Roanoke, Ala., Jan. 14.—The mayor and council, backed by the business and professional men of the town, have begun a local war on unemployment and business stagnation.

They have secured 500 scrip certificates to be redeemed by the town at $1 each in cash when presented with 36 municipal 3-cent stamps attached. The unemployed are given work by the city at $1 a day payable in this scrip. These certificates pass locally as cash, each person having to attach a 3-cent stamp before passing a certificate on to some one else. When 36 stamps have been attached the city has received $1.08 from their sale, $1 of which is used to redeem the certificate and 8 cents to pay the cost of certificates and stamps.

If all these 500 certificates are used it will mean 500 days' work for the unemployed and $18,000 of new business produced at a cost of 3 per cent.

DEPARTMENT REDUCES EXPENSES 50 PER CENT

Operating expenses of the Alabama department of agriculture have been reduced 50 per cent in the past 3 years.

Upon recommendations of Commissioner Seth P. Storrs, the board of agriculture, Tuesday, approved a budget for the present year of 14 per cent less than the operating expenses last year when they were 20 per cent lower than the previous year.

"This 14 per cent reduction makes a 50 per cent reduction in the operating expenses of the department since 1929" he said. "We are still operating within our income and expect to continue to do so."

The Commissioner declared that as a result of salary reductions in the department over a year ago that the present pay roll is considerably lower than prescribed by law.

TREE IMMIGRANTS IN ALABAMA

Montgomery.—The tree growth of Alabama, like the human population of the state, is becoming more and more diversified through the importation of foreign species, finds Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. While most of these absorbent newcomers have thus far been confined to shade and ornamental uses, certain kinds have escaped from cultivation and are becoming a part of the forest growth of the commonwealth.

The Jujube tree, a native of the Mediterranean region, is found in various spots in the southern part of the state where it is sometimes mistaken for the olive. The well-known Chinaberry is a native of Persia and India and is widely grown in Alabama. The tung tree and the ailanthus, or tree of heaven, are from China, while the empress tree and paper mulberry hail from Japan. The camphor tree and the ginkgo, or maidenhair tree are native to both China and Japan, as is the so-called Chinese varnish tree.

The English elm is indigenous to West and South Europe, the mimosa comes from Asia and the cork oak is native to the region about the mediterranean. The himalayan pine or blue pine grows naturally in North India, the deodar cedar is from the same general region and the cedar of Lebanon is indegenous to Asia Minor.

In 1869 Jay Gould and his associates persuaded the federal government to agreed not to sell any gold for a certain period. They then bought all the gold in the market, forced the price up until it reached a ruinous height on Black Friday, September 24, 1869. This corner of gold ruined many of America's merchants.

OUTLOOK MEETINGS FOR FARMERS HELD

Auburn, Ala.—Beginning early in January, county and cummunity meetings are now being arranged throughout Alabama to discuss important facts concerning the outlook for farming in 1933. The county agents are in charge, being assisted by the district agents and also extension specialists from Auburn. The last of the series will be held early in February.

Farmers, bankers and business men are attending, each being interested and concerned with facts presented.

In announcing these meetnigs district agents J. T. High, R. G. Arnold and Emmett Sizemore said that the best information available concerning farming this year is being presented. One fundamental fact is that prices of farm products are low and no substantial advance is expected this year. Consequently, farmers are being cautioned to cut expenses and produce at the lowest cost within economy.

Several specialists are participating in the meetings, discussing livestock, cotton, corn, gardens, insects, machinery and other subjects. The aim is to give practical information which farmers can use this year and in future years in reducing expenses and increasing their net returns.

In most counties farmers assemble at a central point, while in others community meetings are being held by the county agents. This is preferred and makes it more convenient for many.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

Thirty new poultrymen in St. Clair County will brood this spring 100 to 500 chicks each and use a homemade furnace, reports Clyde Dunn, county agent.

Committees acting upon applications from Baldwin County farmers for federal seed loans are emphasizing the production of feed and food crops. Those who fail to include these are getting very little consideration from the committees, according to E. E. Hale, county agent.

A study of poultry production in DeKalb County reveals that those farmers who produce their own feed are making money. John W. Pate, county agent, is advocating more poultry for those who have feed and are producing more.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Devote some time and thought during January to pasture improvement. Talk with the county agent and map out a plan. You may sow grass seed during February and March.

Estimate your feed requirements for this year and remember that home grown feed insures larger profits. Plan for more food and feed crops this year.

Buy a good book on cattle diseases—it may save both time and money.

Take the guess work out of the dairy business this year by keeping accurate records. It is not too late to take the January inventory and to begin keeping records of the milk production and feed of each cow in the herd.

PLEASANT VALLEY NEWS

Health of this community is very good at the present.

Our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. are progressing nicely, due to the weather. Next Sunday night the Intermediate Union will present a play, "Blufers or Workers." Visitors are always welcome.

FARMERS INCREASING THEIR HOG PRODUCTION

Alabama farmers saved 35,000 more pigs the past fall than they did a year ago.

This is reported by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, who says that 399,000 pigs were saved in the state last fall compared with 364,000 in the fall of 1931. There was an increase of 7,000 in the nomber of sows farrowed, the number being 83,000 in the fall of 1932 against 66,000 in 1931.

There is also an increase of 5,000 in the number of sows bred to be farrowed next spring, the number being 88,000 next spring aganist 83,000 farrowed last spring.

Mr. Gist states that the survey "shows a slight tendency toward heavier hog production in Alabama than a year ago."

Jemison Hi School Teaches Terracing

The two upper classes in vocational agriculture at the Jemison High School had intensive training this year in laying off terraces. They can lay them off on the level or give them the variable grade. The variable grade terrace is a terrace with enough fall to carry the water but not wash the land. The students in laying off a terrace with the variable grade, use a printed card, which is furnished by the experiment station at Auburn. It takes some effort to understand his system of laying off terraces, but on steep land and long terraces, this terrace is preferred to the level terrace.

The reason a farmer objects to giving a terrace a fall is that his experience has been that terraces with a fall generally erode or wash. If they are laid off with a variable grade according to the method recommended by Auburn, and taught at the Jemison High School the terrace will not wash.

Students take big interest in shop work. The students have had only two weeks of shop work this year. As a rule shop work does not begin until about mid winter. The boys are down fo business this year. They are more interested in making practical things than ever before. Especially is interest high this year in such things as plow beams, axe handles, hammer handles, and single trees. Such articles as these save money. The boys put the irons on the single trees. The irons come off of some broken single tree at home.

The farm sled and corn shelling boxes are popular jobs with them. Mome interest is manifested in iron work than heretofore. The boys are doing some scrape and scooter sharpening. There is only one forge and two anvils in the shop. For that reason they cannot do the quantity of blacksmith work as they can wood work.

The wheel barrow is a popular job with the boys. They generally have an old wheel at home. The ironing board which fastens on the table with clamps, is a job the boys like to make.

The purpose of the shop work is to prepare the boys to do such construction and repair work that comes up on the farm. It is the purpose of the vocational department of the Jemison High School to continue to place considerable emphasis on this type of instruction.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

We are living in a wonderful age. Bible prophecies are being fulfilled on every hand. The street cars, the railways, the busses, the mighty steam ships, and the aeroplanes of our time are all fulfilled prophecy. This is the prophecy: "Thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased." Dan. 12:4. These are the words of the angel Gabriel to Daniel. He instructed Daniel to seal his writings until a future time called "the time of the end." In this "time of the end" these writings, and indeed the great Bible prophecies, would be unsealed, and proclaimed widely over the earth. For this purpose knowledge should "be increased" and many should "run to and fro."

It was in January 1829, that the first steam locomotive, named the "America," was delivered in the United States. It was made in England. The first American-built locomotive was the "Best Friend", built at the West Point Foundry, in New York in 1830. In 1832 Messrs. Davis and Gartner won a $4,000 prize for constructing an American engine to weigh three and one-half tons, capable of drawing fifteen tons at fifteen miles an hour on the level. This engine called forth what is said to be the first railroad advertisement ever published in America. It appeared in a Philidelphia paper and read:

"Notice — The locomotive engine (built by M. W. Baldwin of this city) will depart DAILY when the weather is fair, with a train of passenger cars. In bad weather horse cars will run on the same schedule."

The first railroad train which ever ran was used on the road from Liverpool to Manchester, England. A copy of the rules for travelers on this first railroad follows:

1. Any person desiring to travel from Liverpool to Manchester, or vice versa, or any portion of the journey thereof, must, 24 hours before hand, make application to the station agent at the place of departure, giving his name, address, place of birth, age, occupation, and reason for desiring to travel.

2. The station agent, upon insuring himself that the applicant desires to travel for a just and lawful cause, shall thereupon issue a ticket to the applicant, who shall travel by the train named thereon.

3. Train will start at their point of departure as near schedule time as possible, but the company does not guarantee when they will reach their destination.

4. Trains not reaching their destination before dark will put up at one of the several stopping places along the route, for the night, and passengers must pay and provide for their own lodging during the night.

5. Luggage will be carried on the roof of the carriages. If such baggage gets wet, the company will not be responsible for any loss attaching thereto.

In the things that meet our eyes today are evidences of the nearness of our Lord's return. Do not miss the lesson in these signs of the times. This is the "time of the end."—L. A. Butterfield.

PLAY AT BILLINGSLEY

There will be a four-act comedy, "A Prairie Rose," staged at the Billingsley High School auditorium on Saturday evening, January 21st. It will be sponsored by the school. This comedy is sure to please you, so you can't afford to miss it. Admission is 10 cents and 20 cents.

Where Is The Impetus To Prosperity?

(By O. C. MASTIN, M. D.)

Editor Union-Banner:

In your issue of January 12th, appeared an interesting article under the above title. Among other things, you say: "The greatest obstacle in the way of prosperity's returning is the inability so to adjust our affairs that the consumer will be placed in a position to buy. . . . One who can devise a way to get the millions back on their jobs again at good wages—will have solved the entire problem." As a matter of fact, the chief obstacle preventing escape from the mess we are in is complete understanding of the problem, "Where there is no vision the people perish."

Consider a paragraph which recently appeared in The Birmingham News and another writer's comment thereon. First item:

Man in his age-long struggle for leisure and the elemination of toil, has finnally arrived at the position where, for the first time, the goal is not only possible, but probable. With what is known as technology today in this country, it is now necessary for the adult population, ages 25 to 45, to work but 660 hours per year, per individual, to produce a standard of living for the entire population 10 times the average income for 1929."

Comment: "A full day's work is expected as equivalent for a pittance which will insure only the barest living necessities, whereas, under existing machine-age conditions a full day's work for all needing it is a sheer impossibility."

And, after reciting some of the dire consequences resulting from the existing frameup, he continues: "Cause of all these woes—failure of adjustment to new conditions, caused in turn by human greed and stupidity. . . Who is to blame? No one individual, all of us collectively."

But like the blind horse, it is our mistfortune, rather than our fault that we are in our present dilemma. Greed has developed into madness—a form of mental blindness which ignores everything besides the gratification of its own mania. And when blind men lead other blind men (not understanding what it is all about), you know what happens.

Now, diseases, either insanity or "business depression," cannot be cured without removing their causes. And everything that has been and is being done to cure our economic disease, are merely attempts to maintain the cause of the ailment instead of removing the cause.

Prof. Fairchild, of Columbia University, in a book recently published, points out in a truly convincing way that the choice of our society is definitely between profits for a few, or prosperity for all.

However, even profits for the few are vanishing and must ultimately cease for lack of victims.

Prof. Montague, of Columbia, says that "science has led us to the brink of the abyss overlooking chaos and starvation." He might have put it differently. What we have done is to apply science to machines, but we are still to apply science to distribution of what the machine is capable of producing. When we do that, science will have killed poverty. The one and only essential thing which can save, and incidentally, vastly improve upon the present attempt at civilization, is to compel the machine to work for, instead of against the common good. And this is equivalent to saying that the tool of advantage—currency — must, likewise, be compelled to do the same thing. Permitting a few to monopolize and control money and employ it as a commodity for commanding rent (interest) and thus using it and its progeny —notes, stocks, bonds, etc., as taxing devices with which to pick the world pocket, is largely responsible for our present plight. This arrangement permits the few to also monopolize machinery, etc., and with all being utilized to stimulate selfishness and greed and a desire to get something for nothing (goods or their equivalent without labor), no one should expect anything other than the crazed world we have.

Of course many would be employed in producing beauty, arts and homes; entertainment and instruction. More of these and less hades would be raised in a balanced (sane) world.

In a machine age, with money, credit, machinery and power, privately owned and controlled and employed for the purpose of extracting tribute (profits or interest), consumption cannot possibly keep pace with production and society is ever approaching closer and closer to the abyss referred to by Prof. Montague.

It is true that such an abnormal or deranged social body has its periods of frenzy or delirium, called prosperity, when the machine is being speeded up by wars, building booms, etc., when the average person is permitted to secure the means for supporting a family in more or less decency; and big and little exploiters can make a big or little splurge with the so-called surplus extracted from the working and producing class. But such periods, all being based on thin air or credit, like a rotten tire cannot stand much more such inflation, and are consequently becoming more and more feeble or non-existent.

The entire ensemble is based on emotions instead of reason. Beneath it all is the insane will-to-power; the childish ambition to "show the Joneses," etc., and all are hangovers of the primitive age, when the means of existence were extremely scarce, and tools for securing them were exceedingly crude, and life, of necessity, was a battle for existence.

But to continue this warfare in the form of a competitive arrangement of production and distribution and motivated by a maniac for profits or gain; or to enter into the other variety of war for the sake of promoting so-called prosperity, is merely to commit national suicide. Credit inflation, which has already been employed in promoting the schemes of financial and other pirates, until now the combinations of rent, interest and profits are literally devouring the people alive; confiscating homes, furniture, implements, livestock, etc., And thus converting people into paupers, unable to secure even the common necessities of life, to say nothing of purchasing the entire output of automatic machinery driven by the giant powers provided by nature.

The only possible remedy is so perfectly obvious that any normal 12-year old child should see it. And it would have been recognized and applied long ago, but for the poisonous propaganda upon which the public mind has been doped in the interest of the big and little powers that be; and thus developing selfishness and greed into such monstrous proportions that they are destroying reason, mortality, all sense of justice and righteousness. They are converting a could-be, sane and beautiful world, into a bedlam; a world becoming over-run with criminals, legalized and unlegalized bandits and racketeers; with over-crowded prisons and lunatic asylums, and not enough to satisfy the need for them; an ever increasing crop of suicides and paupers; and over all a handful of insane money-power and war-mad lords—a virtual dictatorship of money. The present arrangement of society has apparently converted the heart of the world into flint, its mind to imbecility and its backbone into jelly.

Nothing but complete national cooperation, through the collective ownership of the principal machinery (such as are employed by exploiting labor) of production and distribution, including currency, and sources of power, and the democratization of industry, with possibilities for graft eliminated. All easy of accomplishment when the majority acquires the will to do.

We are now a nation divided against itself, and therefore doomed to fall unless we unite and cooperate. Another name for such cooperation is Socialism. This does not imply either social equality or dividing up but merely economic justice and equality of opportunity to demonstrate one's own efforts. It also means to stop dividing up process. Capitalism compels the industrious to divide up with the idle.

In the first hour or so of a wage earner's work, he produces enough to pay the wage he receives. In the next hour or so he earns enough to pay for wear and tear of machinery and other oveh-head expenses. The remainder of the day he works to produce a so-called surplus; so called because those who need it, cannot buy it. In other words, he is compelled to divide up with the capitalist for the privilege of being permitted to produce wealth; being allowed to retain a fraction barely sufficient to maintain an existence for himself and family in "good times.". In hard times they starve.

This so-called surplus is the cause of unemployment and wars. A fraction secured as wages cannot purchase the entire product at retail price. Now multiply one worker by millions, and you will see that the money-lords and their retainers cannot consume the remainder.

Consider the average farmer; either renter or, as a rule, carrying a mortgage. He divides up with the landlord or mortgage-holder, as rent or interest. In the form of profits he divides up with merchants. Then he is compelled to divide up with the railroads, the commission merchants, board of trade speculators, the implement trust, the steel trust, the lumber trust, copper, oil and sugar trusts, the money trusts and various other exploiters. When he gets through dividing up he is lucky if he has enough clothes left to flag a hand car, to say nothing of dividing up with the home politicians and pay the school teachers.

Now we must either put an end to this dividing up or become a disorganized, demoralized horde of floaters on the sea of life, clutching at any straw to keep from sinking, as multitudes are now doing. And the same fate awaits the big boys, who are now fighting so desperately to keep their rotten, sinking pirate ships afloat. For when there is nothing more to support them, they also must be swallowed up.

ALABAMA HERO OF '98 MAY REAP REWARD YEARS AFTER EXPLOIT

Washington, Jan. 17.—An epic deed almost forgotten by modern day folks in the passage of 35 years may win for Richmond Pearson Hobson the retired rank and pay of a rear admiral as well as a congressional medal of honor.

Hobson, now around 60, but still a handsome figure, braved the shot and shell of Spanish guns in 1898 to sink across the channel of the harbor of Santiago, Cuba, the American collier Merrimac.

The Spanish fleet was bottled up by the daring act, which has become one of the classic legends of America's sea fighters.

So the government may show a belated but full appreciation for the deed, Senator Oddie, Republican, Nevada, introduced a bill yesterday to rank Hobson as a rear admiral, retired, with 30 years' service, and retirement pay of that grade.

Another token of gratitude provided for in a bill by representative Oliver, Democrat, Alabama, on which the senate naval committee reported favorable last week, to give Hobson a congressional medal of honor. It has passed the house and is on the senate calendar.

Mr. and Mrs Bob Baker, Mrs. R. L. Jones and Mrs. Adelle Hancock motored to Montgomery last Wednesday.

ENTERPRISE NEWS

The pupils of this school have finished tests for last month.

Enterprise played Mt. Pleasant on Friday afternoon, January 13, on Mt. Pleasant's court. The first quarter gave a very large showing to Mt. Pleasant. At the end of the first half both teams were close together. The final score was 25 to 18 in favor of Mt. Pleasant. Both teams did some very good playing. Of course we are sorry to be defeated but we must admit that Mt. Pleasant has a very good team.

We are expecting a very close game Friday, January 20, with Mt. Pleasant on the Enterprise court. Everybody be sure to come.

Enterprise will play Billingsley on Saturday, January 21, on Billingsley's court.

A spelling bee was held between the Jr. II and Jr. III classes Monday afternoon. Some of the pupils did some good spelling. The last one on the floor was S. J. Williams on Jr. II and Lee Silas on Jr. III.

The pupils of this school are preparing for mid term examinations, which will be given next week.

We are sorry to know that Mr. Charlie Williamson is very ill at his home on the Lay Dam Road. Hope he will soon be well again.

THE MATTER OF OLD AGE PENSIONS

Sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles a bill will be introduced into the Indiana General Assembly to provide for pensions for the aged. Seven or more states now have such a law. The Eagles say that it is less expensive to care for old persons by the pension system than to maintain almshouses. That, of course, is a matter for consideration in these times when we have to think of dollars and cents more importantly than we did in more prosperous times, but, after all, it is the human side of the thing that deserves greatest thought.

One does not deserve a living from the bare fact that he is old, but he may deserve such a living if he has lived a useful life. How are we going to differentiate between the classes of the deserving and underserving?

Old age is not, of itself, a mark of distinction except as years may convey distinction by the sheer fact of them. All of us know old persons who have gone through life serving their families and others well without the possibility of financial profit who should be entitled to some help in the lean years of their life, but we also know those of other kinds that are deserving of nothing except being taken away from their surroundings.

We have to wonder how the bill which is to come before the legislature will be worded. It is easy enough to become sentimental about old persons but, really, if we are going to be that way, they should be worthy persons.

The things about it all is that age is not necessarily a meritorious thing. Everybody attains it who lives long enough.—W. E. Sutton in Muncie, Ind., Press.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In spite of the cry from Europe that the principal thing now needed to stabilize conditions over there is the cancellation of the debt to America, one who studies the situation carefully must come to the conclusion that there are a lot more things wrong with Europe than the money which is owed to the United States. In fact the political troubles over there at this time seem fully as serious as the financial ones.

Political students of European affairs are of the opinion that the situation between Germany and Poland is becoming constantly more dangerous. The question at issue is of course the Danzig corridor, which was formed in the Versailles treaty to give Poland an outlet to the sea. The corridor divides East Prussia into two parts and the Germans have never gotten over the establishment of this corridor to the sea, dividing the Fatherland. Many European observers believe that the Germans are only awaiting a favorable opportunity to seize this corridor.

At present such action is out of the question. Poland is protected by her alliances with France and some of the smaller nations which were carved out of the Austrian Empire by the Versailles treaty. But if the time comes when France and some of the nations of the Little Entente should be otherwise engaged there is little doubt that Germany would take steps toward settling the matter of the Danzig corridor according to her own ideas. Poland would of cuorse fight to defend this outlet to the sea which she believes is vital to her future and there is the making of a first class war here.

There are indications that conditions are arising which will engage the attention of France and some of her smaller allies in various directions. For example there is increasing friction between Jugo-Slavia, a French ally, and Italy over Italy's alleged actions in Albania. Then a first class border dispute seems about to break out between Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia. These two nations are ancient enemies. Jugo-Slavia claims that the settlement made by the treaty of peace following the World War as the boundary between the two countries has been violated by the Bulgarians, and that Bulgarians or rather Macedonians living in Bulgaria have violated Jugo-Slavian territory through raids. It is said that irregular Macedonian forces have fired on citizens of Jugo-Slavia and sought to stir up trouble. France, of course, is an ally of Jugo-Slavia and in case of trouble Italy and Germany could be counted allies of Bulgaria, Italy especially because of her enmity toward Jugo-Slavia. The dispute might easily cause another European war involving the continent all the way from the Atlantic Ocean to Poland, and perhaps farther east than that.

It is easy to see of course that here is a dangerous situation with which international debts have nothing to do. In fact, the adjudication of finances would give the discordant nations more time and resources to start quarreling anew. Since the failure of the League of Nations to do anything with Japan in the Manchurian dispute the prestige of the international body of Europe has been greatly diminished. For that reason it is not likely that the League could be depended on in case of trouble in Europe.

It may be stated that all of these European political misunderstandings are not the concern of the United States and that we ought But they would be the concern of the United States were this nation entangled in European not waste any time worrying about them. politics either through membership in the League of Nations either directly or indirectly. The clouds of discord are lowering on every hand. It is a splendid time for Uncle Sam to stay at home, keep his defensive armament in good repair and mind his own business.

CANCEL DEBTS BY PAYING THEM

If one were to read the dispatches from Europe and the efforts of our own internationalists for the concellation of the so-called war debts, one might get the idea that these sums which the nations of Europe owe Uncle Sam are the only debts in which the United States is interested and that their so-called cancellation would immediately restore prosperity.

Yet such a conclusion would be obviously absurd. The whole world is in debt and the private debts in the United States are far more important and more conducive to unsettled conditions than the European debts could possibly be.

No one has yet been able to prove that the wiping out of these European debts would help the people of the United States. Such action might indeed lessen some of the problems of a few international bankers, but it is not to be forgotten that the debts would remain and what Europe failed to pay the American taxpayer would have to liquidate. What we need is not cancellation of Europe's debts but a scaling down of our public expenditures in the United States. In a recent statement on the situation of the United States, Charles F. Adams, well known New England business man, completely answered the internationalists when he said:

"Before business can show any great improvement, national, state and local governmental expenditures must show substantial reductions. The immediate and most important political duty is retrenchment, apparently it is also the most painful since it is so evaded and deferred. For many years past, political popularity has been measured in political minds as being in true proportion to political budgets. Such a basis of measurement will not bring back prosperity or jobs.

"The world is in debt. Cancellation of debt will avail little as the burden is but shifted to other shoulders. The old-fashioned method of cancelling debt was to save and pay. We believe this principle is still supreme. Panaceas may benefit a part of the public, but will to the same extent rob the rest, leaving things still out of gear and unbalanced.

"The debt of the nation is a debt upon its every citizen, and in arranging family budgets these past obligations in form of taxation, visible and invisible, are forcibey deducted from current personal expenditures. Normal spending can return only when taxation leaves more dollars for the family budget.

"For a time, we must expect excessive tax bills, and the dollars flowing in this direction are necessarily missing from the tills of local merchants. Present taxes must be expected to include every reasonable charge occasioned by the World War, but there is no necessity that they also include unnecessary governmental expenditures and extravagances.

"Business improvement may be expected only when, through some effective nation-wide action, it can clearly be seen that the stream of normal public spending is offered a fair chance to return to natural channels."

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All— Overlooks None

"—Unto The Least of These—"

The welfare worker stopped at a bath house at a swimming pool, and entered. The scene inside the house was one of abject poverty. A small heater stood in one corner, and a flickering blaze gave forth a wee bit of heat to offset the freezing winds which blew in through the cracks in the walls. Two broken down frames which had once been bedsteads occupied another part of the rude "home." The mother and four children hovered over the little heater. A few rags served as bed coverings. There was practically nothing to be found in the way of provisions. The family made a crop this past summer, but the landlord had taken everything—corn, cotton, potatoes, syrup—everything for rent. Nothing was left. The husband and father could get no work to do; yes, he would work anywhere, do anything, and accept anything to eat or wear, as payment. The worker decided he had found a deserving object for charity—deserving of help that the father might have a chance at some kind of work to provide for his family. He left and returned after a short while, with clothes, shoes, and a small quantity of provisions to take care of the family's immediate needs. He then set out to find some kind of work for the father to do; he will not stop until he has given that man another chance to provide for his family. And that isn't a fairy story, either, folks, it happened only a few days ago IN CHILTON COUNTY! "Inasmuch as ye have helped the least of these, my brethren, ye have helped me." Who said that, please?

Uncle John's Fruit Stand

You can't keep Uncle John Gore down; he'll have a fruit stand or bust a trace trying. Uncle John and a fruit stand are some kind of inseparable pair; they run together, like ham and eggs, or butter and syrup, or 'possum and 'taters—you know what I mean. When the good Uncle sells out, which he has done a number of times, he sets out at once looking for a new location. Not long ago he sold out, lock, stock and barrel, and "quit" again. But now he's back in business again, down on Seventh Street. Uncle John says: "Tell 'em the old man is back at the same old game. And I have everything to be found at a fruit store; everything from a kumquat to a watermelon." I guess he was right, at that. At least, he has the watermelon—a real one, too. He says it is a 1933 model, too; but, you know, there must be a breaking point somewhere. However, he wouln't say it was a 1933 product—just a 1933 model. Good old Uncle John—and his fruit stand—Clanton wouldn't look right without a team of that kind.

Joe's Cat

I see nearly every kind of curiosity there is to be seen. And now I have a new one to tell you about—Joe Calloway's cat. That cat looks about like any other cat as long as it lies by the fire, like a cat ought to do. But when he starts to moving around, then is when he shows where he is different. Joe's cat has only three legs. And the little fellow didn't lose that fourth leg anywhere, either—he's never had it. He's a three-legged cat, in every sense. All right, "believe it or not" as Ripley says. But if you don't believe it, ask Joe. He told me about it—and proved it.

"Britches" Again

And here's another one about "britches." I hate to have anything to say about "britches", because I have to listen to a lot of explanation about how to spell it every time I do. But I suppose when you can't get around a hard place, the best thing one can do is make the best of the situation, and let it go at that. This time the story concerns a hold-up and robbery which happened in a near-by own. A man was walking home from work, when he was confronted by the robber and told to "stick 'em up." In going through the man's pockets, the robber found some $65.00. He took that; and then, as an after-thought, just to make sure the victim wouldn't rush out into the street and proclaim his loss, at least until he had time to make a get-away, he took the poor fellows "britches" too. Not a bad idea, at all, eh? And—you will please excuse all bad spelling—especially "britches".

Your Postal Service—Part 1

In the next few issues I expect to carry articles entitled "Your Postal Service." I don't know how many weeks it will take to go through with this series, as space will not permit much each week. However, when it is all done, I hope you may have received some benefit from it. In this series, I will take notes and information from several sources. Some of it will be from actual experience, the best teacher in the world. Too, I am indebted to Mr. Q. C. Meroney, Rural Letter Carrier, of Verbena, for literature concerning many interesting facts and figures. I hope to be able to put it all together in a way that will make interesting reading. All figures will be authentic. All illustrations will be true—true to life, and actual happenings. This series will begin next week.

That Unlucky Day

What happened to you last Friday? Nothing? Then you're lucky. Pat yourself on the back. Last Friday (notice your calendar) was the 13th day of the month. You know it is said that if you think of the fact that it is Friday the 13th, most anything may happen to you; but if you don't think of it, then you may get by. Also, I have heard it said that if you have a black cat cross your path, or walk under a ladder, or any one of a number of things like that, then the best you can do is hold your breath and hope for the best. Last Friday morning, bright and early, some one told me the bad news about it being Friday, the 13th. I had forgotten all about it until then, and I hadn't finished thinking all kinds of dots, dashes, crosses, stars, thunderbolts and various other kinds of explosions about the guy who informed me of the fact, until a black cat ran smack-dab across the road in front of me. What a break! But somehow, some way, I got by that day with a whole hide, and patted myself on the back for being a charmed and lucky gink when night came again. The only thing I have to remember the occasion by is just a few more gray hairs. I was that worried about it all day.—Man in the Moon.

LEANING ON GOVERNMENT

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said some things worth repeating, in this annual New Year statement. Among them were the following:

"Then too, we need to undertake a concentration upon national problems, American problems. Internationalism may be an idealistic profession, but it can likewise be a mistaken one. The world is not helped by professing internationalism, while America goes to pieces. * * *

"We enter 1933 facing a change in government. Many find hope in that fact. I should like to give warning against too much dependence upon government. Government can, and we hope will, be helpful. But government cannot and should not do all things. We shall pay dearly for every step toward paternalism and bureacracy. * * *

"The greatest safeguard against too much dependence upon government is cooperation between voluntary groups within industry. We have no condition that cannot be remedied with the instruments at oru command. We have no need for despair if we but use the tools at our command. * * *

Certain it is that in spite of the international bankers, we cannot find the remedy for America's troubles in Europe. America is and always has been willing to cooperate in any constructive program for the alleviation of the world's troubles. Our moves toward disarmament are abundant proof of this. What the average American does object to is internationalist proposals to lighten the burdens of Europe at the expense of the American taxpayers. The proposals of having Uncle Sam do all the sacrificing gets a little monotonous when repeated too often.

Mr. Woll well stated also that we must not depend too much on the government to pull us out of our difficulties. The government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and similar agencies has lightened the shock of the fall from prosperity to adversity and has slowed the course of deflation.

statements during the campaign the government cannot in itself cure the depression and

However, despite some of the elaborate pay everybody's debts.

The government is not responsible for the depression and the government alone cannot cure it. The people must cure themselves. A beginning has already been made. As a people we are passing out from under the clouds of abject despair which a year ago seemed to envelop nearly everyone with the belief that economic chaos was at hand. We are now twelve months farther along the road toward recovery than we were at the beginning of 1932. Some of the worse hurdles have been overcome. The shock of most of Europe's falling from the gold standard has been alleviated, and Uncle Sam is no longer the victim of a gold raid. Prices seem to have reached bottom. It is time to come out of the cave of depression and scan the horizon for braeks in the clouds. Next will come the task of rebuilding. This must be done by the people themselves. The government cannot do it for them. The cooperative effort of every one of us is required. If we keep our minds and our hearts in America and rely a little on our individual powers of recuperation, things will come along. But if we look for a pot of gold at the end of the European rainbow and wait for Congress to make us rich we are still in for a lot of difficulties before we turn it under such circumstances.

SKEPTICAL FARM COMMITTEE

Apparently so many difficulties have developed in the discussion of the various farm relief plans before the house committee on agriculture that the committee gives the impression it will shut its eyes and report out some plan, although its members evidently are skeptical of its working.

"We don't dare not to report some plan," a veteran member of the committee says.

That is hardly the fram of mind to produce a workable plan. If a bill is reported out without the real approval of even the committee that reports it, there will hardly be a chance that it will get through the House and senate. Probably such a bill ought not to get through.

However, there is this hopeful side to the situation. If the matter is thoroughly threshed out in the committees and on the floor of Congress, eventually some effective plan should emerge.

OUR CHILD WELFARE PROGRAM

The re-establishment of the child welfare program in Chilton County has come at a time when the need for service to the people of the county is most apparent. At the present time a situation exists which amounts to an emergency. We have all felt the effects of the depression—but we have not felt it so keenly as the man who has struggled hard to earn a living for his family and now faces the fact that his children are absolutely shoeless, clothesless, and that he has exhausted his resources. We have not felt the real teeth of deprivation as has the man who is willing and eager to work for fifty cents a day, or a bushel of corn, or a gallon of syrup, but who searches in vain for employment.

Today, men who have heretofore been able to stand on their feet as citizens contributing to the civic and economic progress of the county are entirely without resources. It is the endeavor of the child welfare unit to help these families in such a way as to meet their immediate needs. It is imperative that they be kept from suffering, hunger and cold. At the same time, it is just as important that this help be given them in such a way as to assist them to regain their independence. It must be done in a manner which will encourage them to regain their self-respect, and to re-establish them as solid substantial citizens.

Chilton County is utilizing its resources in caring for its people. A supply of flour and cloth appropriated by the federal government was made available. In addition, county officials have exerted themselves to supply additional clothing which is needed.

The child welfare program, however, embraces more than relief. Relief should not be considered the thing of paramount importance in a program for the welfare of the county. Of far greater and more lasting significance are the, attitudes built up in the minds of the people served, and the subtle, intangible work done in improving the general outlook and raising the standards of living. A true story told by the child welfare superintendent in a neighboring county illustrates this.

The welfare worker had discovered a one-room shanty in the most isolated section of the county. There were no windows, no floor, except dirt, no stove, no chimney. The mother was recognized as dangerous due to her dullness and ignorance. For seventeen years the dirt floor had not been swept nor the house cleaned. Beds were of straw and everything in the one room was filthy. The five children had never been bathed nor had clean clothes put on. They wore the same rags until they fell off. Several months after she entered this deplorable situation the child welfare worker saw the first permanent result of teaching given this family. One of the small girls proudly invited her in to see some peaches the child canned and remarked with intense pride, "I washed my peaches—I wish mother would wash hers." That little girl will grow up to be a far more desirable member of her community than her mother was. Her home will be clean and well kept, due to the understanding, teaching and encouragement given her.

The work done in that case is a good demonstration of what a child welfare program means. Relief was given the family and good training was given the children. In trying to help people, let us try first to help them help themselves. Let us not be over-influenced by the present urgent need of our people for food and clothing. In giving temporary aid we must build toward a time when relief will not be necessary and when the child welfare program will be recognized as a program of prevention.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

Politics Is Hot As Ever

No vacation has yet appeared in political circles. There is still as much political shenannegin going on around Clanton as there was during the campaign—in fact, I think there is more. If it was not a sight last Saturday, I never saw one. Usually we do not have to be worried with politics on off years. Seems now the obnoxious weed called politics is a perennial. I fear sometimes it is growso rank here it is choking some other more worthy interests.

Getting On the Cash Basis

Reedie Taylor, of Chicago Sales Co., plans to reorganize his business and put all sales on a strictly cash basis. He announces the change to go into effect January 20th. This is a very wise and very important step. It is a pity every merchant in the land does not or can not do the same thing. While good for both, it may be said the pay cash plan is better for the customer than for the storekeeper. The fact that I am a customer may be why I say that. But I think when we poor folks learn to pay cash for what we buy, and do without what we can't pay cash for, then most of our depression worries will be over.

Another Plow Line Sale

Dewey Rockett warns that another "Plow Line Sale" is coming. The date will be Saturday, January 28. Already I notice he has one of his show windows piled full of plow lines. "I expect to sell fifteen hundred sets of lines on the 28th," he said. "I sold a little over a thousand last year." The rope for this sale comes from a cotton mill in the Sylacauga district.

Will Plier Here Last Week

Our friend and former citizen, Will Plier, was back here a few days last week. He now lives at Lakeland, Florida. Will has already become a strong booster for his new Florida home. I don't blame him. I saw a bit of Lakeland once, and I have not yet heard Will say anything about the beauties of the place that seemed over-drawn. Mr. Plier brought along with him a load of fruit from his own back yard. He gave away quite a lot of it. He has so many friends here it takes a lot of oranges to go around; and Will is a friend to his friends.

Dr. Gragg Has Come Back

The many friends of Dr. V. J. Gragg are glad to see him back on the job. He returned Sunday afternoon from his vacation and rest of two weeks at Miami. He brought back a good old sun-tan on his face and a lot of prize-winning fish stories. His physical condition is much improved from the two weeks of rest and play. One day was spent on a fishing expedition among the Florida Keys. I enjoyed his story of that trip. Cohen Stapp and I had the same trip a few years ago. I will die a disappointed soul if I don't get to go fishing there again, and use my own tackle.

More Mules and Wagons Now

A business man of Clanton observes that there are a great many more mules and wagons in operation around here now than there were a few years ago. I have noticed the same thing. A few years back it was a rare thing to see a mule team on our public roads. Everything was transported by motor trucks. Now you meet and see mules and wagons everywhere you go. The old hitching ground in town has come back into use. A few years ago Tom Rockett installed a watering trough on the hitching ground. It was not used much at first. Some said Tom had waited till mules had gone out of fashion before he provided water for them. But they have come back, and the watering trough is a valuable thing.

Roosevelt Is Coming Thru

President-elect, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is scheduled to come through Clanton next Saturday afternoon on his way from Birmingham to Montgomery. He will be traveling on a special L & N train. The hour when he will pass through here is not yet known. It is hoped he will at least stick his head out the window and wave. The last President to pass this way was the immortal "Teddy" Roosevelt.

Argument on Peckerwood Corner

The coming of Franklin D. Roosevelt to Alabama on next Saturday has got the politicians of Peckerwood Corner into an argument about when it was that "Teddy" Roosevelt visited Alabama. I promised to settle it for them by looking up the record, but I have not yet had time to do it. They agree on one thing, that Col. Bill Collier presented "Teddy" with a hunch of flowers when his special train stopped at the depot for a few minutes. I do not remember—but I will find out as soon as I have time to look back throug a pile of old dusty papers.

The "Fun" Did Not Happen

Lots of spectators were looking for some fun Monday when the new members of the Commissioners got limbered up to "firing and hiring" the county road crew. The fun did not come off exactly as expected. No particular sensation was produced. The new commissioners announced that they would go about reorganizing their road business in a careful and orderly manner and would have their plans all worked out and ready for presentation at the February term of the Court. No doubt many changes will be made but we do not expect the Commissioners to make a stage play of it.

WILL CULP URGES THE PAYMENT OF YOUR POLL TAXES

To The People of Chilton County:

Your attention is directed to the payment of poll taxes, and the fact that same must be paid not later than the first day of February.

While there are no regular elections this year, it is very likely there may be some special elections as a result of action of the special session of the legislature soon to convene.

You will, therefore want to be qualified to vote on any proposition that may come before the people of Alabama, and in order to do so, you must pay your poll tax before the time is out on the first day of February.

The payment of property taxes is a matter that is of some concern to many people. I want to say that I shall extend every favor in my power to all persons in the collection of taxes. But I would remind you that at a certain time limit, there will be additional costs which I will have to add to all delinquent taxes, and I hope all who can possibly do so will arrange to pay their taxes before extra costs have to be added.—Respectfully, W. G. Culp, Tax Collector of Chilton County.

BROKE INTO STORE TUESDAY P.M.

The store of Mr. Joe A. Baker, near the cemetery in East Clanton was entered by burglars Tuesday night, according to a report from the office of Sheriff Gillespie. It was stated that the robbers entered by a front window and carried away a quantity of canned goods. The officers Wednesday morning had been unable to pick up any clue as to identity of the parties committing the burglary.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

For supreme confidence in faith and works to produce results we commend the farmer. On dropping in at the office of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, we found the manager, J. Monroe Smith, extremely busy arranging with a bunch of members of the association, to secure fertilizer for strawberry plants. He says that there are two hundred and fifty members of the association, which by the way is the oldest and most successful farmers' organization in Alabama. They have approximately 350 acres of bearing age, of strawberry plants, for which they are buying 275 tons of high-grade fertilizer. These farmers have learned the science of producing big crops of this delicious fruit, and barring raids by jack frost have been very successful, because they have not laid down on the job. They fertilize the plants liberally and actually plow the middles deep, to hold moisture in dry season by keeping a dust mulch on the middle to prevent evaporation. Durnig heavy rains the water that does not run off, finds its way to the subsoil in little rivulets that form holes which, if not covered by cultivation, serve as chimneys, which in the heat of the sun, act as steam pipes through which the moisture quickly escapes, carrying with it a lot of available plant food.

The annual meeting of the United Protestant church of Thorsby was held last Wednesday evening, and reports from officers of all departments show each to be in a flourishing condition except for a small deficit in the treasury. Preceding the business meeting the Ladies Aid society provided an excellent dinner which put everybody in good humor.

Mr. Charles A. Peterson was elected chairman of the meeting. When it came to elections of various officers of the church the people seemed to think those they had the past year had done well and they were re-elected.

Thorsby public school is so dear to the hearts of her citizens that they cannot endure the thoughts of closing it before the end of the usual term. The Town Council has guaranteed most of the funds needed to carry on with a voluntary reduction in pay for the teachers and Thorsby P.-T.A. assuming the balance needed. In spite of the handicap of a grievous tornado followed by a short strawberry crop last spring the Thorsby spirit has prevailed and our active churches and schools are not permitted to languish.

The Thorsby Institute dormitory girls and Miss Jenkins were very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Each at the parsonage last Saturday night. Games were played and delicious pop corn balls were served after the games were played.

Miss Naemi Turnquist spent Sunday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Young and son, Joe, from Columbiana, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reinhardt.

Miss Lola Wambem who has been working in Columbus, Ga., is now spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wambem.

Miss Louise Robinson spent the week end in Clanton with Miss Mary Rogers.

Mrs. E. E. Porter and Mrs. Henrietta Vines spent last Wednesday in Jemison with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Bates of New Salem community spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nix. Mrs. Nix returned home with them in the afternoon for a few days visit

Miss Roberta Marcus of Clanton spent the week end in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. Wilburt Marcus.

Mrs. J. W. Jones spent Monday afternoon in Jemison visiting the W. M. S. of the Baptist Church there.

Mrs. W. H. Edwards of Titus is visiting Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones this week.

There will be regular preaching at the Baptist church Sunday both morning and evening. Everyone is invited.

Circle No. II met with Mrs. L. H. Lowery last Tuesday. The circle was reorganized. New officers were elected and we hope to do better work this year than we did last.

The young matrons Sunday school class of the Baptist church had a social at the home of Mrs. Sidney Davenport Thursday night. There were 30 guests present Various contests and games were used to make the evening an enjoyable time for all. Nice refreshments were served.

Next Saturday beginning at 11:30 a.m. the ladies of Thorsby P.-T. A. will serve a chicken dinner in the vacant Bentley building next to the town hall. The dinner will also include cake and coffee and the price will be for all, only 20 cents. Surely they should ba patronized at so low a price.

Dr. William J. Campbell, president of Atlanta Seminary Foundation, at Vanderbilt University, at Nashville, Tenn., will preach at Thorsby Congregational church next Sunday morning, January 22. You are invited to hear him. Dr. Campbell is expected to make an address at Thorsby Institute Monday morning.

Garden and Field Seed at Wyatt Drug Co., Thorsby, Ala.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid social will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Conrad Carlson. All are invited.

Dr. Fred P. Ensminger of Demorest, Ga., was a visitor among friends in Thorsby Monday, leaving for Atlanta early Tuesday morning.

At the January meeting of Thorsby Institute Board of Trustees, held in Thorsby last week, Miss Helen C. Jenkins was re-elected principal of the school for the ensuing year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Johnson and Miss Louise Fitzpatrick of Ensley spent Friday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper, in Thorsby. Mrs. Johnson was formerly Miss Lillian Fitzpatrick.

Rev. and Mrs. Each and daughter, Juanita, Lucille and Marie, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, in Thorsby

Jack and Jill hard candies for 39c per pound at Wyatt Drug Co., Thorsby, Ala.

Mrs. Fred Howard recently received word of the death of her brother, Mr. Bruecher in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Edward Howard has been on the sick list several days.

Saturday night at 7:30 the Helen Keller Literary society will have a program to which everyone is invited. A French play known by the English title, "The Beauty and the Beast." will be given. Many people have read this story in their younger days. An explanation of the play will be given in English so that the audience may understand it. Admission will be ten cents.

Mr. N. Laurell spent the week end in Thorsby with home folks. He returned Sunday afternoon, accompanied by his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reinhardt spent Sunday in Sylacauga with Mrs. Reinhardt's sister, who is sick in the hospital there.

Miss Lola Wambem, in company with two friends from Columbus, motored to Thorsby last Thursday night. Her friends returned to Columbus Saturday. Miss Wambem remained with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wambem.

On Wednesdays at chapel the ministers of the town speak. Last Wednesday Mr. Butler asked the Reverend Huffman, pastor of the Church of Christ, Clanton to speak. He brought a forceful message.

In February, school will be held on two Saturdays, February 4 and 18. On Saturday night, February 11, the literary society will have its annual party at the dining hall.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson and children spent the week end with Mrs. W. M. Dentist in Elmore County.

Get your Cabbage Plants from Wyatt Drug Co., Thorsby, Ala.

Mr. Tom Kemp spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Merchant in Thorsby.

Miss Roberta Collins of Cedar Grove community came up last Wednesday for a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs.W. H. Collins and she has been confined to her bed with the flu most of the time, but is reported to be improving.

Mrs. F. R. Collins of Cedar Grove community is spending a few days this week with her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Wilson of Isabella community were week end visitors at the home of W. H. Wilson and family.

Mrs. H. E. Maddox returned home Friday night after spending a week in Birmingham with her husband, Mr. H. E. Maddox.

The Eastern Star spend the day social will be held Wednesday, January 25, at the Masonic Hall with Mrs D. H. Gentry as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Turner and daughters, Ruth and Elsie, were visiting friends in Thorsby last week.

PIONEER CITIZEN TAKEN BY DEATH LAST FRIDAY

Robert M. Smith, age 76 years, one of the pioneer citizens of this community, died last Friday night at the hospital in Clanton. He had been in ill health for many months.

Burial was in Clanton cemetery on Sunday afternoon in charge of Martin. Funeral services were held at the Clanton Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

Pallbearers were Raymond C. Smith, Evan Downs, Turner Dennis, Dewey Smith, Clarence Hawkins and F. O. Smith.

Robert M. Smith has lived in South Clanton for many years. He was a brother of J. Wiley Smith and also of the late A. C. Smith. Mayor J. Lee Smith of Clantin is a nephew of the deceased.

JESSE BAKER IS REORGANIZING HIS BUSINESS IN CLANTON

Information given out by Jesse Baker this week reveals that a program of reorganization is under way whereby his dry goods business will be carried on in the future with a number of important changes which will be announced in due time.

"We have arranged for new and stronger financial backing for our business," said Mr. Baker, "but the main change in policy will be that in future we shall sell goods only for strictly cash."

By next week Mr. Baker expects to have all details of his arrangements completed, and ready to make full announcement to the public.

IRBY LEE HAYES DIED

Irby Lee Hayes, age 5 years, died Sunday night at the hospital in Clanton. Burial was at Pleasant Grove west of Clanton Monday, in charge of Martin. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Johnson. Irby Lee was a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt went down to Montgomery last Sunday afternoon, and together with Miss Ruby Eiland of Chisholm, took a flight over the city in the big Ford 12-passenger airplane. They also were carried through and shown Kilby prison where there are 1,600 criminals incarcerated.

MYRTLE LEONARD ALLEN DIED

Myrtle Leonard Allen, age 9 years, died last Wednesday night at her home near Cooper. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Allen. Burial was at Chestnut Creek Thursday in charge of Martin. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes.

Frank Reynolds and Jim Gay, two prominent farmers of the Stanton community, were business visitors to Clanton Wednesday.

EVAN PARRISH WRITES CONCERNING FARM BUREAU

Rumors have reached us that we have discontinued the operation of the cream station, formerly operated by the farm bureau; also, that we have advanced the price on feeds that have been sold by the bureau for several months past.

I beg to advise that we have done neither of the above. We are operating the cream station on Saturdays as has been the custom of the farm bureau, and are operating this station and are handling feeds on the same margin of profits as the farm bureau has been. Of course, there are fluctuations in prices on both these commodities and we have no control over these.

It is our aim to handle the very highest grade of seeds to be found anywhere, and to operate on as close a margin of profit as is possible for us to do. We are in constant touch with your county agent, and are to cooperate with him in every way that is possible and are working toward the interest of all farmers throughout the county.

Until further notice, we will operate the cream station on Saturday's and will allow market prices for small quantities of cream. — Signed, Evan Parrish, Mgr., Southern Seed & Plant Co.

Annual Plow Line Sale Saturday, January 28. — Clanton Building Supply Co.

A certain convivial young chap dealt and bid a no trump. All passed. Dummy put his hand down and remarked:

"Well, I can't imagine what you bid no trump on when I have three aces and four kings."

"Well, if you want to know," said the declarer, "I bid it on one jack with two queens and three cocktails."

ROOSEVELT TO VISIT ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 16.—Standing upon a brass star that marks the spot where Jefferson Davis took oath of office as president of the Confederacy, on the Alabama capitol veranda, president-elect Fdanklin D. Roosevelt will give an address shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday. According to Governor Miller, Roosevelt's address will be short.

Governor Miller appointed Judge Leon McCord, Democratic national committeeman; Mayor W. A. Gunter, Mrs. Charles Thigpen and W. W. Hill members of a reception committee to meet president-elect Roosevelt. The entourage will reach Montgomery at 7 p.m. arriving here on a direct run from Muscle Shoals.

Following his greeting from the capitol, the president-elect will accompany Governor Miller to the executive mansion for dinner.

Electricians will equip the capitol porch with electric lights and speech amplifiers.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are doing nicely. We had good singing at the Sunday services and Sunday night. Directors were Floy Devaughn, Lawton McDowell and Dock Harris.

Miss Velma Jones spent Sunday night with Miss Kathleen Parrish.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wells spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Traywick.

Mr. Homer Hand of Hueytown made a business trip to this community Friday.

Miss Gladys Wilson and Mrs. Emma Wilson spent Monday with Mrs. W. E. Parrish.

Mr. Chester Downs and Jack Gore made a business trip to Randolph last Monday.

We are glad to know that Mr. Adolphus McDowell is back home from the hospital, and is doing nicely after the misfortune of shooting his foot while bird hunting.

We are sorry to hear Mrs. Lena Wilson was carried to Montgomery last Friday for an operation. We hope she will soon recover and be back with her friends.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. We invite all visitors to come out and be with us.—Secretary-Treasurer.

REFUGE NEWS

Just a few words in regard to this place. Health of our community is very good. Had a very good crowd out to Sunday School Sunday, the bad weather has got us behind with our Sunday School work, tho we are looking forward for some beautiful weather now and a large crowd at church.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Everybody is invited to attend. Rev. M. Lockhart will preacn at 11 o'clock Saturday and Sunday? We have organized a Junior B. Y. P. U. class at this place and we are expecting some splendid work out of our little folks.

Rev. M. Lockhart has moved out of our community, altho he will be with us every fourth Sunday if not providentially hindered.

We are sorry to say that the family will be greatly missed.

Everybody come back to Sunday School next Sunday and bring some one with you and lets catch up with our work.

TIME OF MAKING PARTITION OF LANDS

State of Alabama, Chilton County; In Probate Court:

In pursuance of and in accordance with the terms and directions of a commission dated the 31st day of December, 1932, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama, in the matter of the petition of Ben Glasscock and Harvey Glasscock, to have the hereinafter described real estate partitioned among the hereinafter described joint owners, we, the undersigned, hereby give notice that we have made division of said described property into the necessary number of shares and have made a plat and map thereof, as provided by law, and notice is, therefore, given that we, as said commissioners, will, on the 7th day of February, 1933 a 11:30 o'clomk a.m., in the presence of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, attend at the courthouse of the County of Chilton, for the purpose of making division according to law of the following described real estate, to-wit:

The West half (W½) of the Northwest Quarter (NW¼), Section 15, Township 22, Range 12; the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of Section 16, Township 22, Range 12; The East half of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) Section 21, Township 22, Range 12; the Northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Section 22, Township 22, Range 12, and the west half (W½) of the Southwest Quarter (SW¼), Section 22, Township 22, Range 12, containing 560 acres of land, situated in Chilton County, Alabama, which was divided into twelve parts, between the following joint owners thereof: Livie Ward, Alpha Tucker, Claudy Bolding, Ben Glasscock, Rena Tucker, John Glasscock, Harvey Glasscock, Ollie McMillan, Orbin Glasscock, Hattie Hicks, German Glasscock, F. C. Gibson, Bronzelle Gibson and Briggs Gibson.

Mrs. Maybelle McSwain of Route 6 and little daughter, Sarah Mae, spent last Saturday and Sunday in Clanton visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson.

Mr. W Y. Keel, of Enterprise, was a visitor at Commissioners Court Monday.

Miss Glennie Mahan of Montgomery spent the week end with home folks here.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

Text: Revelation 22:12. "And behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

I want to emphasize the word "quickly" as used in the above text. A search of your New Testament will reveal to you the outstanding fact that whatever our Lord did, He did quickly. That is, He did not hesitate or put off the duty in hand to some future time, and aside from the importance of going forward with the work in hand, we may feel assured that our Lord was familiar with the fact that He had a certain amount of work to perform in a definite length of time. And when on the cross He said, "It is finished," he meant that the work which He came into the world to do had been completed.

In John 13:27, Jesus said to Judas "that tho doest, do quickly." And on another occasion He said "He that putteth his hand to the ploy and looking back is not fit for the kingdom." He said on still another occasion, "I must work the works of Him that sent me while it is called to day, for the night cometh when no man can work." So anyone, at all familiar with the life of our Lord must admit that He did not idle away His time, but was busy every day.

From His example, as well as His admonition, we can't over emphasize the importance of quickly performing the tasks set for us. A farmer has a given time in which to produce a crop. He must first begin preparation of the soil in time to be ready when planting time arrives, in order to get the seed in the ground to give them sufficient time to produce a crop. In other words, the farmer's efforts to produce a living for himselm and family must be directed and put forth in the time limit of the growing season.

Jesus knew just how long the time in which He had to work, and when death on the cross was the next great event to Him, He exclaimed, "It is finished." The time limit had expired but with its expiration came also the finishing of the work.

When the farmer lays by his crop, he says it is finished. Then the harvest will naturally follow. Referring to the text we find His next words to be, "And my reward is with me." In the harvesting of his crop is the farmer's reward and that reward is in proportion to the amount of labor or work performed in the planting and cultivation of the crop. We must not think that the "reward" mentioned in the text refers to our eternal life. That is ours through His death on the cross and our acceptance of the atonement made for us by Him. The "reward" is something in addition to eternal life.

We have heard a great deal in the last few years of "the soldiers' bonus" which means a sum paid over and above what is required, or something given in addition to what had been promised. In the Book of Daniel 12: 3, we find these words, "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." We may gather then from this and some other scriptures that the reward here referred to is something that the hard-working child of God will receive over and above that eternal life that they have in Christ.

The last words of the text "to give to every man according as his work shall be," is of greater importance to us as Christians than all of the others combined. Because it clearly sets forth the fact that we will receive a "bonus" according to the amount of work performed. Someone might wish to ask the question, "What about the Christian who never does any work?" To answer that I have only to refer you to what Paul says, "They will be saved so as by fire, but their works burned up." Will it be the case with any one of God's children, that all of their works will be burned? Brother, how many people of your acquaintance have gone to their graves without Christ, to whom you never mentioned even one time the great importance of accepting Christ as their personal savior?

Are there not some one or more that you are associated with that are without God and without hope in the world? Just think about it, they may never be saved if you don't speak to them about their soul's salvation. Take advantage of the time and get busy about your Lord's work. See to it that when He comes that He will have a few stars for you. Because your reward will be commensurate with the amount of work done by you. It is not enough to say, "I employ a pastor for our church and help pay him for the work that he does and I think that is sufficient." If the text had said, "to reward every pastor according to his work" then your argument might be good, but it says "every man," which surely includes you.

I must close now. Let's get busy about our work and do it quickly, before the lost ones about us are called before their Judge. May the Lord bless you in your work.—Elder Blossom.

THE PURINA STORE, CLANTON

Small Fish Planted In Streams of Ala.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 15.—G. S. Black, superintendent of the Alabama Fish Hatchery at Eastaboga, has reported that a total of 923,790 bass and bream produced at the hatchery were planted in streams of the state during 1932.

This was the largest number planted in any year since the hatchery was established about six years ago. These fingerling were distributed in practically every county in the state.

Weather conditions in the spring, an important governing factor, were favorable during most of the "bedding" season. No extremely cold weather served to retard "nest building," or to destroy the spawn after it was deposited in the beds.

This season's hatch was planted almost entirely in waters in which the public is permitted the privilege of fishing. This is in accord with the policy of the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department to plant fish from the hatchery in waters that will furnish sport to the greatest number of persons.

G. N. Hudmon, of Opelika, has been issued the first license to operate a game farm in Alabama under the new game farm act passed at the 1932 special session of the legislature.

Mr. Hudmon and those associated with him, will devote their "farming" efforts to the propagation of the bob white for restocking purposes on his preserve in the southern part of Lee County.

"There is a splendid field for game hunting in Alabama," Commissioner I. T. Quinn told Mr. Hudmon. "I believe that at least a half dozen farms will be undertaken within the next year or so."

Friday, the 13th, hold no horrors for Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the game and fisheries department. In fact, 13 is his lucky number.

He was born on Friday the 13th, 13 years before the close of the 19th century, and on Friday, January 13, he celebrated his birthday.

He entered college on the 13th day of the month, graduated on the 13th and secured his first position after leaving school, on the 13th.

In his first race for Commissioner of Game and Fisheries he was nominated on the 13th. He had been married 13 years when he entered his second race for game commissioner.

And, in addition to that, I. T. Jr., is now in his 13th year.

Mobile, famous as a fisherman's port, occupies a position in the world of outdoor sports little known to natives of the state.

The city, so the game and fisheries authorities say, has a greater variety of game birds, animals, fresh and salt water fish within a radius of 50 miles than any other city in the civilized world.

Among the birds are the wild turkey, bobwhite, dove, snipe, woodcock, and most every species of the duck family that winters along the gulf coast. The game that roams the vicinity includes the bear deer, raccoon, o'possum, muskrat, fox, bobcat, otter and others.

There are more than 300 species of salt water fish within this area. These include the tarpon, for which the bay city is noted, cavalla, channel bass, ling, bonita, blue fish, black fish, king mackerel, Spanish mackerel, speckled and white trout, sheephead, pompano, mullet, red snapper, flounder and many others.

The large mouthed bass, goggle-eye, channel cat, sturgeon, crappie and pickerel are among the fresh water fish within easy reach.

Guided by a smart dog, Mayor John Burton, C. S. Burton, his brother, and A. L. Shearer, discovered a squirrel convention a few miles west of Jasper and when the popping of guns subsided, seven squirrel lay at their feet, all knocked from the same tree. Several more scampered away, they said.

THE BLUNT EFFICIENCY CUP

We, Troop 5 of Lay Dam, received the honor of getting the silver loving cup given by Mr. Blunt, of Opelika, to the most efficient troop in the Cenrtal Alabama Council.

There are three periods of six months each to the contest. If one troop keeps it all all three periods, the cup is given to them.

Some points on how to earn it are: hikes, advancement, good turns, wearing uniforms to scout meetings etc. Last jamboree, May 3rd, Troop 4 of Opelika received it and we ended third. We worked harder this time and Mr. S. R. Powers, chairman of Clanton District, presented it to us; and were the boys happy?

We found new hope and started to work on the third period of the contest, which ends the next jamboree, May 6, 1933.—Scribe of Troop 51.

THANKS FROM MR. DYKES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to express my thanks to friends and neighbors for the kindness shown in helping me take care of my wife since the serious accident which happened to her last Sunday.

I also want to express my thanks to Mr. Mell Martin, as well as to the doctors and nurses at the Central Alabama Hospital.—W. D. Dykes.

Lesson for January 22

JESUS FORGIVING SIN

Mark 2:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins. Mark 2:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving a Man.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving a Man.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How We May Be Forgiven.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus' Power Over Sin.

I. Jesus Preaching the Word (vv. 1, 2).

1. To whom (v. 2). It was to the surging crowd which was gathered about the house where Jesus was stopping. So great was the crowd that there was no room to receive them, even about the door. This house may have been the home of Peter where he had healed his wife's mother of a fever. As soon as it was noised about that Jesus was in the house, the multitudes gathered. It is always so, that the multitudes gather where Jesus is.

2. What Jesus preached (v. 2). He preached the Word before he wrought miracles, for his supreme mission was to make known God's will. Miracles were not an end in themselves, but to authenticate his work. The people came, some to be healed, and some out of curiosity. The Word of God should be preached to all so that the will of God may be known even though the hearers gather with an unworthy motive.

II. Jesus Forgiving Sins (vv. 3-5).

The man brought to him was suffering from the dread disease of palsy, but his deadly affliction was that of sin. Palsy was a type of sin. The miracle was wrought by Jesus in confirmation of his message. It was vitally connected with faith. Observe:

1. Faith coming to Jesus (v. 3) The actuating impulse of the palsied man and his four friends who carried him was faith. They believed that Jesus had power to save.

2. Faith overcoming difficulties (v. 4). Though prevented by the crowd from coming to Jesus, they ascended the outer stairway and let the afflicted man down through the roof into his presence. They disregarded conventionalities, knowing that the all-important thing was to go to the Lord with their need.

3. Faith rewarded (v. 5). No word was uttered by either the paralytic or his hearers. No words were needed. Their action was enough. The paralytic got more than he expected. He desired healing of the body and he received forgiveness of sins—the healing of the body plus forgiveness of sins.

III. Jesus Answering the Scribes (vv. 6-10).

1. Their objections (vv. 6, 7).

a. Why does he thus speak?

b. Who can forgive sin? They were entirely right in their reasonings that only God can forgive sins. Their blunder was in not perceiving him as God. The very one who was speaking and acting was the living God.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 8-10). Knowing their inner thoughts and reasonings, he manifested unto them his essential deity in that he had power to know their thoughts. He inquired, "Which is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise and take up thy bed, and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy), I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house." He was willing that his power in the invisible realm should be tested by his power in the visible.

IV. Jesus Healing the Paralytic (vv. 11, 12).

1. His method (v. 11). He spoke the word and it was done. Christ's words were enough. This man was helpless and unable of himself to move, but with the command was given the strength to obey. It is always so, that when Christ commands he gives the strength to perform.

2. The obedience of the man (v. 12). He immediately arose, took up his bed and went forth among them all. The poor helpless man walked away with his bed upon his shoulder. At the words of Christ, disease and death flee away. This was a fine example again of divine healing.

3. The people were amazed, and glorified God (v. 12). They said, "We never saw it on this fashion."

World Movements

God dwells in the great movements of the world, in the great ideas which act in the human race. Find him there in the interests of man. Find him by sharing in those interests, by helping all who are striving for truth, for education, for progress, for liberty all over the world.

Confide in Him

Confide to God that which thou last from him, O thou soul weary of wandering! Confide to the truth that which is from the truth within thee, and thou shalt lose nothing.—St. Augustine.

The Disciples Sent Forth

Go your ways; behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor script, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way.—Luke 10:3 and 4.

Ed Moates of Billingsley was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Alabama Ranks 47 In Education Money

Alabama is a striking example of low per capita expenditure in the administration of schools. The state ranks forty-seventh among the states with respect to per capita expenditure per pupil in average daily attendance.

These are figures from states representative of different parts of the country:

Annual per capita expenditure in Alabama, $35.57; North Caroline, $41.22; Virginia, $43.26; Kentucky, $49.01; Maryland, $79.94; Ohio, $95.57; California, $131.81;

The average for the entire country is $86.52, nearly two and one-half times as much as in Alabama.

Georgia is the only state with lower per capita expenditure per pupil in average daily attendance than Alabama. Georgia spends but $31.89 annually on each pupil.

The average expenditure for education by all the states is $2.40 to $1.00 expended by Alabama. California invests in education $3.70 per capita to one dollar for Alabama.

City and Rural Schools Hit By the Depression

A summary of reports from the states to the Federal office of education as to how the economic depression has affected public education has just been received at the Alabama department of education.

These reports are compiled from 3,000 questionaires sent to city superintendents and 4,000 to county superintendents. It appears from the findings that Alabama and Arkansas have been hardest hit, while the North Atlantic regions including New England have suffered least. Some pertinent facts gleaned from the report of the entire country are:

Enrollment up 1.39 per cent; state aid up 2.13 per cent; teaching staff down 2.13 per cent; teachers' salaries budget down 4.96 per cent; current expense budget 5.32 per cent; capital outlay valuation of property 37.98 per cent! assessed valuation of property yielding school funds down 7.5 per cent.

Two-thirds of the school units reporting have curtailed or abolished some services entirely, although a few have actually increased their services. The principal eliminated services are: kindergarten, supervisors of art, dental service, school nurse service, night schools, supervisors of music, medical inspection, and elementary home economics and manual training. Few Alabama school systems have ever maintained any of these services. In the state many school units have abolished health service, child welfare work, the supervision of elementary education, and illiteracy work. In other units, due to the closing of schools attendance supervision has been suspended automatically.

The few advances noted in other states have been in physical education, dental clinics and classes for handicapped children.

"Elementary schools are suffering more heavily than high schools," says the report.

"Teachers and other rural-school employees have suffered great losses resulting from reduced budgets in both Alabama and Arkansas. Fewer teachers are being employed, and many are being dismissed. Those retained in Alabama elementary schools have received an average salary decrease of 12.1 per cent and those in high schools an average of 17.9 per cent decrease. Arkansas teacher salary cuts average 22.2 per cent for elementary and 19.1 per cent for high schools."

"Larger classes per teacher, community welfare relief by teachers, increased janitorial work by teachers, paying in warrants and other results of the depression are noted in letters from these states to the office of education."

THANKS FROM MR. DAVIS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me space for a few words? We have had a lot of sickness in our family during the past two months. All of the family was sick except myself. My oldest daughter was down four long weeks with malaria fever. With the help of Dr. Hayes and our kind neighbors she has gotten up again.

Our friends have been so good and kind to us we don't know how to thank them for all their goodness. I had no money to get the doctor with. Mr. Lum Wells, Mr. Floyd, Mr. Horace Aldridge, Mrs. Holly and some others made up enough money to get the doctor. The good neighbors brought in nourishments that we did not have for the child.

We are thankful for all of these acts of kindness beyond our ability to express in words.—W. D. Davis.

Rev. E. A. Norris of Verbena was a visitor in Clanton Monday, attending Commissioners Court.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school has been stopped on account of the bad weather and the flu. We want everybody to come back at our regular Sunday school hour, 10 o'clock. Come with a well studied lesson.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everybody is invited to come and take a part. Remember our prayer meeting; everybody come.

We are very sorry that Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Gilliland are going to move off, but we hope them good luck. We want them to come back every chance they get.

MYSTERY SOLVED

Another remarkable story of a puzzling crime unravelled by the French Police, as told by Mr. H. Ashton, former assistant to the famous Dr. Bertillon, of the Surete, in The American Weekly, the Magazine Distributed with the next Atlanta Sunday American.

The inexperienced and unskillful automobile driver risks his life and endangers pedestrians and other motorists every time he ventures on the road.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

"POPULAR FALLACY"

"The Power Issue"

"NATION'S BUSINESS MAGAZINE has recently embarked upon a vigorous crusade against destructive fallacies which are impeding the recovery of business. In a series of advertisements, it is exploding many current misconceptions, half truths and demagogic catchwords about the problems of the day.

"One of these advertisements, captioned: 'Power Interests Are Out to Milk the Public,' has this to say:

> "'In Pullman smokers, and corner grocery stores, across luncheon tables and over back fences—in the halls of Congress and on soap box platforms, the 'power issue' is the target for glib, uniformed opinion. 'Power trust,' 'absentee ownership,' 'gigantic monopoly' thunder from the throats of speakers seeking political preferment. 'Water power, God's gift to all the people, runs forever and thus producers electricity at practically no cost.' A mistaken picture of public assets diverted to private pockets . . . familiar statements these reflecting a haze of misconception.'

"These paragraphs have a familiar ring. For here in Alabama few 'issues' have been harder ridden by aspiring office holders than the 'power question.' This horse is newly saddled every time a politician seeks to win a race.

"The present power situation here in Alabama may not be entirely perfect. Yet these significant facts are a matter of public record:

> "(1) That Alabama's power costs are among the lowest in the United States for like service.
> "(2) That Alabama's state-wide domestic rates are over 15% below the national average.
> "(3) That Alabama's state-wide domestic rates have declined over 37% in the past five years.
> "(4) That Alabamians in towns and cities served by Alabama Power Company now pay about 54% less than when power plants were municipally owned.
> "(5) That Alabama Power Company has spent over one hundred million dollars in the state in the past ten years on additions and improvements to its plants and properties besides being largely instrumental in bringing to the state plant payrolls aggregating over 20 million dollars annually.

"These are facts. Much else that has been said and written on the so-called 'power issue' is pure fallacy which will not bear the light of unprejudiced inquiry. Now is the time to build up, rather than tear down."

FRENCH SURETE CARD A GUARDED SECRET

Here's one thing the omnipotent motion picture makers of Hollywood can't do. At least they dare not.

No close-up insert ever has been shown, or will be, of an identification card used by members of the United States Secret Service, Scotland Yard, the French Surete, or other under-cover police organization of the world.

"In the first place we can never hope to get such a card. In the second place we'd run in to all sorts of legal and diplomatic trouble if we tried to. In the third place we do not want to," explained Elizabeth McGafey, head of the research department of the RKO studio in Hollywood.

Such a card, one of the French Surete, was needed for the new RKO Radio Picture, "Secrets of the Frenca Police," Mrs. McGafey explained. No attempt was made to secure the genuine identification form. Instad a cable was sent to the author of the story, H. Ashton-Wolfe. Ashton-Wolfe, internationally known crime expert, supplied the studio with a synthetic design for the Surete card. But the real one always must remain seceret.

The reason for this caution is obvious, Mrs. McGaffer pointed out. A criminal with such a card might even get away with murder.

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL NEWS

Unless some plan is devised whereby we can carry on, our school will close next week, January 27. We are all working hard in an effort to complete at least one-half year's work. Our school work and activities have been highly gratifying this half year and we deplore the idea of having to stop in mid-year. Our earnest desire is that our authorities can find some way to lift the school situation back to its normal level.

It is with much regret that we announce that Miss Baldwin, our third and fourth grade teacher, is ill with a light attack of the flu. We hope she is back with us again soon. Miss Jessie Martin from Thorsby is supplying for her.

Mr. Johnson and Coach Glasscock motored to Birmingham last Saturday to witness the basket ball game between the University of Alabama and the World's Champion Celtic team from Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Lorene Price was the week end visitor of Miss Marie Melton.

Miss Zella Mae Belle spent last Wednesday night with Miss Kathleen Smith.

Mrs. M. A. Wright and Miss Lera Bean visited Miss Kathleen Smith and parents Tuesday night.

Our boys basket ball team rung up its eighth straight victory last Friday when they won over the Enterprise team 25 to 18. They have not lost a game thus far.

An interesting debate was staged last Tuesday morning at chapel exercises. The subject was, "Resolved, that country life is more Healthful than City Life."

Leonard Burnett and Curtis Traywick upheld the affirmitive side, while Cecil Traywick and I. V. Jones displayed their persuasive powers in support of the negative side. The negative supporters shaded the affirmative in the presentation of their argumentcs, but the affirmative carried the honor of having the most logical arrangement of facts. The judges rendered their decision 3 to 2 in favor of the affirmative.

"LAWYER MAN"

Quaint humor and sparkling comedy have been blended with romance and tense drama through a rare combination of writers in the Warner Bros. picture, "Lawyes Man," which is to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, January 24 and 25.

The picture, which stars William Powell, is taken from the novel by Max Trell, who was born and reared in New York City, and knows the East Side characters with which the story deals, from actual contact and experience. His story abounds in vivid, throbbing drama with political intrigue and shyster tricks, in the atmosphere of which rises an honest lawyer, who takes delight in smashing the ring and defending his own people.

Trell's own version is not without humorous touches on East Side characters, but much of the fiery wit and sparkling repartee of wise-cracking secretaries and chorus girls has been supplied by Rian James and James Seymour. James, an erstwhile New York columnist, has an unusually pungent pen that is tipped in satire. He is the author of the original picture stories of "Crooner," and "Love Is A Racket."

Powell is supported by Joan Blondell, Helen Vinson, Alan Dinehart, Allen Jenkins, Claire Dodd and others. The picture was directed by William Dieterle.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Christ is so closely related to His church, which are the saved, that they are said to be married to Him. Rom. 7:1-7. He is the head over all things to the church, which is His body. Eph. 1:22-23. The members of His church are heirs and joint heirs with Him. Rom. 8:16-17. All have part in some promises and inheritances, which gives all authority to participate in blessings and work of Christianity.

Therefore we find that all the members of the church of Christ died to save, are spoken of as having partnership in the cause of Christ. Partnership is fellowship. All that are really Christians have fellowship with Christ. If one member suffers, all sufer with it; and if one member rejoices, all rejoice with it. I Cor. 12: 26. Paul speaks of real Christians as being "fellow laborers," "fellow citizens," fellow helpers," and "fellow soldiers." In his day, all real Christians had one great common cause, and that was to glorify God through Jesus Christ as their savior.

Christ, through His apostles, was their authority and their hope of eternal life depended upon His name. John 3:18; Acts 4:12. His name stands for all righteousness, goodness, mercy, love, grace, peace of conscience, and for all the life and light of happiness there is to be found in Christianity. "All power in Heaven and in earth has been given to Him" Matt. 28:18. The Apostle Peter says, "Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf." I Peter 4:16.—R. L. Huffman.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

10 a.m.—Bible study, classes for all ages.

11 a.m.—Preaching and worship.

Subject for 11 a.m. is "Watch," outlined as follows:

W for words; their work.
A for action; speaks louder.
T for tongue, time, thought.
C for Christ and Christianity.
H for heart and hands.

This outline answers the following question: "How Can We Keep Our Hearts For God?" "What is the door of our Hearts We Must Control to Keep the Good and the Bad Out?" The scriptures fully explains these questions.

The subject for Sunday night is "What Shall We Do With Jesus, Who is Called Christ?"

Everybody invited to all services.—R. L. Huffman.

"MRS. BRIGGS OF THE POULTRY YARD"

"Mrs. Briggs of The Poultry Yeard," a three act comedy, will be presented at Cooper School building Friday night, January 20th, by the Junior II class.

This comedy is a delightful one. Thrills, surprises, love scenes, hilarious comedy and emotional scenes go together to make up a good play, and this one has them all.

The players are: Mrs. Briggs, a woman of business, Ennis Dupree; Raiph, Jinny, Alvira, Mellisa, as her family, by Warren Jones, Wilburn Boswell, Mildred Driver, and Erline Jones; Silas Green, a near relative, Forest Huett; Mr. Lee, a wealthy neighbor, Eddie Driver; Virginia Lee, his daughter, Miss Dennis; Daisy Thornton, her friend, Flora Vinson; Mrs. O'Coner, who hates goats, Ruby Vance; Mandy Bates, whose tongue stumbles, Ruby Yates.

Admission 5 cents and 10 cents. The proceeds will go to the benefit of the school. Time: 7:30 o'clock.

MT. PLEASANT WINS OVER ENTERPRISE BY 25 TO 18

The Enterprise Jr. High School basket ball team suffered their first defeat of the season last Friday evening when Mt. Pleasant swept them down to a 25 to 18 defeat. The game was rather dull and listless as neither team played the ball the were capable of playing. The intense rivalry between the teams seemed to throw every player off his best form; for each wanted to get the jump on the other. This led to many mistakes, much fumbling and many uncomfortable plays by both teams.

The Mt. Pleasant boys were in the lead during the entire game. At the third quarter they were twelve points ahead. Their pass work was brilliant at times, while at other times the players seemed unable to complete their pass, which resulted in many mis-plays.

They cracked the Enterprise defeat on numerous occasions but even then, they missed many crip shots. Burnett and Curtis Traywick led the scoring for the home team. The former looped 6 points and the latter 15.

For Enterprise, James Griffin, with 5 and Guy Siles with 8 stood as highest scores. The two teams will meet again next Friday evening at Enterprise. Littleton from Thorsby and Glasscock from Jemison will call the game.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and every one who helped us in any way in giving us feed stuff, instead of what we got burned on the night of January 9. We are very sorry to think we have an enemy somewhere, for it could not have gotten burned without being fired by someone. We don't know who did, for it was in what is known as the Dan Miner old house, with fields all around.

These are the ones who helped us: S. J. Powell, 12 bundles fodder; E. C. Easterling, 50 bundles fodder; Lee Miner, Harvie Easterling, E. L. Mims, Hoyal Baker, Dewey Miner, and A. T. Miner, all 15 bundles fodder; T. N. Miner, 1 bale hay; O. R. Robinson, 1 bale hay; R. W. Mims, 20 lbs hay; J. E. Easterling 12 bundles fodder; J. S. Easterling, 10 bundles fodder; J. H. Easterling, 56 bundles fodder; A. J. Johnson, 30 bundles fodder; John Miner. 1 bale hay and 10 bundles of fodder; Jim Cleckler, 35 bundles fodder, J. R. Connell, 25 bundles fodder.

Again we thank each one, and if it ever comes your loss, we will help you. May the Lord reward the cheerful giver.—Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mims.

POULTRY CAR WILL BE THROUGH THE COUNTY NEXT WEEK

The following is the schedule of the poultry car to be run over the L. & N. next week:

Verbena, Wednesday afternoon, the 25th.

Clanton, Thursday, all day, the 26.

Jemison, Friday morning, the 27.

The following prices will be paid at the car door:

Colored hens, 9c; leghorn hens, 6c; fryers, 1½ to 2 pounds, 11c; stags, 7c; roosters, 4c.

Mr. Stapp states that he has made arrangements for a truck to load at Billingsley Thursday, the 26th, from nine to eleven o'clock in the morning and go on to Maplesville and load there from twelve to two o'clock. This truck will bring poultry from these two points to the car and will pay one cent less per pound on colored hens, fryers and stags; other prices being the same as at the car.

"Oh, George, do you realize that it is almost a year since our honeymoon, and that glorious day we spent on the sands? I wonder how we will spend this year?"

"On the rocks."

If we had paid no more attention to our plants than we have to our children we would now be living in a jungle of weeds.—Luther Burbank.

Mrs. Frank Scott, of Huntsville, is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullins

Mr. and Mrs. John Deramus have returned after a visit to Mobile and Brewton.

Miss Annie Lamar, of Verbena, spent Sunday with Mrs. G. L. Phillips.

NO MORE LAME DUCK CONGRESS

Twentieth Amendment To The Constitution Makes Important Changes

Washington, Jan. 23.—After 10 years of trying and a hundred of waiting, the United States modernized its political machine Monday by elminating defeated officials the "lame ducks"—from government.

A twentieth amendment was written into the constitution declaring that after this year both the president and the newly chosen Congress shall take office in the January following November's election, and that the old-time short session which for so long has clogged the political machinery with its ineffectiveness, shall be held no more. The present one is the last.

Thirty-six states of the union ratified the amendment in less than one-tenth the time it took to convince Congress that the country demanded abolition of this slumbering antiquity.

Missouri completed the ratification seizing the distinction of being the thirty-sixth approving state by a wide-awake maneuver. Its house was to meet at 2 p.m. to act on the amendment already ratified by the Missouri Senate. The Massachusetts house was to do exactly the same thing, but had the one-hour advantage of being in the eastern time zone. The Missouri speaker rounded up his members for a 10 a.m. session and the job was done in next to no time.

Though actually part of the constitution from now on, the amendment will not be proclaimed in force until the secretary of state receives the thirty-sixth formal record of state action. By its own terms it will not take effect until October 15th. Had it been in force last October Franklin D. Roosevelt would be in the White House today.

After this year when the people record their will at the ballot box in November, the men they send to Congress will begin to function within two months. Hitherto the new representatives have had to twiddle their thumbs for 13 months —until December of the next year— while the country has been given legislation sponsored, framed and put through in part by men who have been specifically repudiated by the voters.

Senator George Norris, Nebraska's independent warrior, put the amendment through Congress last March after a 10-year fight against the ultra-conservatives who wished to preserve the antiquated machinery.

SENIOR PLAY AT ISABELLA

The Senior class of Isabella High School is to present the play, "Lookin' Lovely," Saturday night, January 28, at Isabella High School; also the F. F. A. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

KIWANIANS HEAR ABOUT CIVIL WAR

Address Made By Veterans J. W. E. Gulledge and J. T. Nelson

One of the most entertaining and delightful programs so far this year was enjoyed last Thursday night by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

The club had as its guests the Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Nelson and Gen. J. W. E. Gulledge. The program was in honor of the birthday of General Robert E. Lee, whose birthday was last Thursday.

Gen. Gulledge was asked to tell of some of his experiences during the war between the states, and spoke briefly on this subject.

The Rev. Nelson, despite his one hundred years of age, recalled events during his services as a Confederate soldier in a most clear-cut manner, mixing humor with his talk. Being a witness to the surrender of General Lee to General Grant, his story of this was most interesting. He began when he first entered the war and brought his story up to the time he returned to his home.

The club will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight at the Exchange Hotel.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the First National Bank of Clanton held on January 17th, officers and directors of the Bank were re-elected as follows:

Officers: A. M. Grimsley, chairman of the Board of Directors; E. E. Upchurch, president; G. C. Walker, vice president; J. C. Page, cashier; C. O. Jones, assistant cashier.

Directors: A. M. Grimsley, E. E. Upchurch, G. C. Walker, J. C. Page, and C. O. Jones.

Reports of bank officials at the annual meeting revealed that the business of the bank for the past year has been highly favorable, and prospects for the future look promising.

A dividend of twelve per cent on stock at the close of business as of December 31, was declared and paid to stockholders.

BUSTER FOSHEE FINISHED IN LAW

Graduated At University of Alabama On Last Saturday

Bringing with him his "sheepskin" of graduation from the University of Alabama Law School, and a "passport" to practice law in the State of Alabama, Buster Foshee arrived home from Tuscaloosa Monday a very, very happy man.

Since graduating with honors at Chilton County High School in 1928, Mr. Foshee has pursued his studies at the University almost continuously. In addition to the regular sessions, he has done extra work at some of the summer sessions.

Alvin B. Foshee (better known as Buster) is a son of Bazz G. Foshee, of Clanton. Throughout his school career he has at all times manifested extraordinary aptness and efficiency as a student. While handicapped by a physical condition that makes it necessary for him to use crutches to walk, he has nevertheless developed a strong and virile intellect. Determination to overcome difficulties has been his moving impulse. His success is a glorious contribution to that ever growing group of our great men who made success their prize in spite of difficulties that crept into their pathway.

The great many friends of Mr. Foshee rejoice with him in his graduation from law school. They look to the future for him and with him in the hope that his career may continue to brighten and ripen with eminent success as a lawyer. And too, it may be said that those warm and admiring friends of his hope that he will hang out his shingle in his home town of Clanton.

PLOW LINE SALE SATURDAY ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION

Since Tom and Dewey Rockett announced last week that next Saturday they would have on a special plow line sale at their store, the Clanton Building Supply Company, people from all over the county have been looking forward to this event. Plow lines are something that all farmers must have, and most of them have to buy one or more pair every year.

This special offer this year of Messrs. Rockett, both at Clanton and at Thorsby Hardware Company, is something really worth while to the farmers of Chilton County. Compare the price of cotton with the price per pound at which these plow lines are selling — one pair weighs one pound—then you can begin to see what a bargain you are getting.

Look for the big adv. elsewhere in this paper, and remember that this special will be carried both at Clanton Building Supply Company and at Thorsby Hardware Company Saturday of this week.

EXEMPTIONS FROM ROAD WORK IN THE YEAR 1933

At a recent meeting of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County an order was passed exempting road subjects from public road work for the year 1933. This action was a renewal of the same policy that has been in effect for two or three years past.

HOW TO MAKE PEAS GOOD

Uncle Wilse Gibson, of Macedonia, west of Jemison, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Inquiry as to how he is getting along revealed that the old gentleman is enjoying fine health and as he expressed it, "having a fine time eating peas, corn bread and pot licker." The best way I have ever found to make peas really good, he said, is to miss a meal now and then.

Commander Woodson Issues Call To All Ex-Service Men

To the Ex-Service Men of Chilton County:

As your Post Commander I feel it my imperative duty to call your attention to the determined fight now being waged against our disabled buddies and former comrades-in-arms. Our entire hospitalization program and all disability allowances are in serious danger. Since only the sick and disabled share in these benefits, you can readily see at whom the fight is aimed.

Our strongest weapon is a large militant membership in the American Legion. Won't you join us in this fight to protect our disabled buddies and their dependants?

There will be a mass meeting at the courthouse in Clanton on the night of February 2nd, to lay plans for the biggest fight we have launched since we crossed the Meuse and marched to the Rhine. Plan now to be there, and join us in the "Fight to the Finish."

Yours in Comradeship,

R. D. WOODSON, Post Commander.

Stapp Will Receive Loan Applications

Final Arrangements Are Completed In Chilton County For Loans To Be Made Through Agricultural Credit Corporation At Montgomery

At a committee meeting at County Agent Stapp's office Monday evening, instructions relative to making loans were discussed with members of the County Loan committee and representatives of the First National Bank, Peoples Savings Bank and the Bank of Maplesville. The representatives of these banks stated that they expect to take care of their regular customers as in the past.

Mr. Sapp states that his office will be ready to receive applications for loans next week. He further states that the loans through the Agricultural Credit Bank in Montgomery have to be secured.

The seed loan through which farmers secured loans last year is not available as yet. Possibly a congress Act will provide loans through the Seed Loan act as was done last year. Mr. Stapp points out the fact that the seed loan through which we operated last year considered only applicants who were unable to get loans elsewhere, but that the Agricultural Credit Corporation, through which we are ready to operate now, will not loan to people who will not be able to get help elsewhere as the Agricultural Credit Corporation requires full security on all loans.

BIRTHDAY ENTERTAINMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Taylor entertained Sunday, January 22nd, at their home in Concord community, in honor of their son, Maurice, and Mr. Judson Easterling's birthday. The day was enjoyed by all. A delicious dinner was served to the following:

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Taylor and baby, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Easterling, Mr. Cleveland Driver, Miss Daisy Jones, Mr. Osmond Wyatt, Miss Jewel Patterson, Mr. Curtis Easterling, Miss Gertis Collins, Mr. Leonard Wyatt, Miss Annie Pearl Mims, Mr. Vonnie Blalock, Miss Rubye Easterling, Mr. Addis Wyatt, Miss Marzelle McDowell, Mr. Carl McDowell, Miss Lilla Mae Miller, Miss Ola Mae Parrish, Miss Annie Pearl Devaughn, and Miss Delen McDowell.

WRONG ABOUT WATER TROUGH

We have been informed that "The Man on the Corner" was mighty bad wrong in his statement of last week that Tom Rockett built the watering trough on the hitching ground. "Tom Rockett don't even know there is a watering trough in Clanton," said one petulent citizen. "That thing was built by the Town of Clanton, at the suggestion of Uncle John Wyatt, the blacksmith." All right. The Man on the Corner stands corrected. Due apologies are hereby tendered to the Town of Clanton. But we do still hold to the assertion that it was a good thing to do. However, a watering trough is no good without water. The trough was as dry as a powder house last Saturday and hundreds of mules close by looking like they ought to have a drink before starting homeward.

Hance Alred Says Buy Seed At Home Stores

Seed planting time is near. Many farmers will soon be buying seeds for their gardens and fields. Hance Alred says he wants to sell seeds, and that, he drifted into his usual argument about buying seed from home merchants instead of ordering from the mail order houses.

Mr. Alred has been handling seeds in Clanton for the past twenty-four years. "Every year," he says, "I see farmers around Clanton ordering seeds from the mail order houses, and paying much more than even better seed would cost if they bought them from us."

Thinking that statement over, it appeared to me a matter which ought to be emphasized. It is certainly a fact that no farmer wants to order seeds from a concern that charges more than a local house. In fact, it is most likely that every farmer prefers to buy his seeds, and other things as well, at home.

Therefore, the suggestion seems in order that farmers should make investigation of the offerings of Hance Alred and other local seed merchants before they send their money away to some distant place. When you come to buy your seeds, why not give Hance and the other fellows in Clanton a chance? Let them tell you their story and show you what they have to offer.

Hance says he can save the farmers twenty to thirty per cent on their seed bills. That is worth saving. Then too, the matter of buying at home is worth a great deal. "One of the worst evils we have in business," said Mr. Alred, "is so many of our local people spending their money outside of Clanton and Chilton County." He is right about it. That practice has caused local trade channels to dry up a whole lot, and has put the rent sign on many a business house in recent years. And when a rent sign goes up these days, it usually stays there quite a while.

YOUNG MEN'S S. S. CLASS ORGANIZED SUNDAY, 22ND

For the past several weeks a number of young men have been working to organize a strictly young men's class in the Clanton Methodist church. A survey was made and it disclosed that there are approximately twenty persons of the desired age, who do not belong to other classes. Invitations were sent out which met with an enthusiastic response. Last Sunday the class held its regular meeting and elected officers. Jim Roberts was chosen president of the class, Howard Mahaffey, vice-president, and John VanDerveer, secretary. Vernie Teel was selected as teacher. Members of this class invite the young men of Clanton, who are not now attending Sunday school somewhere else, to join in with them, for they all say that they're going to put this undertaking over in a big way.

PRESIDENT-ELECT VISITED ALABAMA

Large Crowd at Station Failed to Get A Glimpse of Him

President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, passed through Clanton about six o'clock Saturday evening, January 21, on his special train bound for Montgomery. He came to Alabama for a visit of inspection to Muscle Shoals government power plant. From Muscle Shoals he came by Birmingham, where he appeared in a short greeting to the public from the platform of his private car.

Proceeding to Montgomery, he was entertained by Governor B. M. Miller and several notable men and women of Alabama at a dinner. He made a public address to a great throng gathered in front of the Alabama State capitol building. As he spoke the president-elect stood on the spot where Jefferson Davis stood when he took the oath of office as president of the Confederate States of America.

As the Roosevelt special train passed through Clanton, it did not come to a complete stop. A great many people were at the depot hoping to get a glimpse of the next president. He remained in his private car. Some of the spectators declare they saw him through the window of the observation car.

This event was the first time a president or near-President has passed this way since the visit of President Theodore Roosevelt on October 24, 1905. The other Roosevelt paused long enough to accept a bunch of flowers, shake hands with Col. Bill Collier and Judge Reynolds, and wave greetings to the crowd of people there to see him.

Quite a number of Clanton people went to Montgomery Saturday night and heard the address of Mr. Roosevelt at the capitol.

SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE FRIDAY

The County School program will be terminated Friday of this week, with the closing of all the schools. This means that the senior high schools, together with all junior high and elementary schools have gone the limit of their ability to operate under present available funds.

It is possible perhaps that some of the schools will continue under a modified program supported by private sources. This, of course, will be up to the localities to provide.

The only hope for resumption of the full county program lies in the possibility of the state legislature doing something to relieve the situation at the special session which convenes next Tuesday.

On last Saturday the County Board of Education paid off the January teachers' payroll, which amounted to a total of about fourteen thousand dollars.

Grady Reynolds was a visitor to Birmingham Tuesday.

The man who is anxious to learn is not ashamed to ask questions.

WILL SING NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT COURTHOUSE

There will be singing in the new books at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday afternoon. This is another of those fifth Sunday union singings, and it is hoped that the singers of all societies in the county will take part. Singers and lovers of good sacred music in other counties have a cordial invitation to attend. The singing will begin at 1:30 and continue for about two hours. Bring your Stamps-Baxter and Morris-Henson books. No collection will be taken.

FIRES IN COOSA INVESTIGATED

Communist Plot Is Suspected In the Burning of Homes at Goodwater

Communicated with by telephone Monday night at Goodwater, State Fire Marshal Ralfe C. Searcy, who was called there Monday morning by the Sheriff of Coosa County to investigate the destruction by fire Sunday night under suspicious circumstances indicated that in his judgment, communist influence might be responsible.

Mr. Searcy said in his investigation he is working on the theory that these burnings may represent a flare-up of the disorders due to communistic propaganda, which caused the clash between deputy sheriffs and negro share-croppers some weeks ago, at Liberty Hill in the neighboring county of Tallapoosa.

The fires, the Fire Marshal said, were all on the main street of the town, which forms a part of the Ashland-Montgomery highway and had no connection with each other. None of the owners of the buildings fired, he stated, have any known enemies who would seek revenge in such a manner.

He indicated that the locations of the fires might have, in his judgment, been picked at random, to serve as a warning.

The Goodwater Fire Department was kept on the run nearly all night by calls to the three dwellings which were burned to the ground, the contents being saved from one of them.

The first alarm came at 10 o'clock from the dwelling of Mrs. Mamie Eichelberger. No one was at the residence at the time but the doors were forced and most of the contents removed to a place of safety.

At 1 a.m., another alarm took the Fire Department to the home of Mrs. Linnie Holloway, which was wrapped in flames. Mrs. Holloway, who was alone in the house, narrowly escaped death in the blazing building.

At 3 a.m. the third fire was reported at the dwelling of M. K. Graham, which with its contents, was completely destroyed.

Looses sustained are partially covered by insurance.

The houses burned were widely separated, each sitting back some distance from the street. Other persons living along the same street reported disturbances around their dwellings. One man stated that someone ran from under his house just a short time before the Graham dwelling was reported on fire.

Bloodhounds from Kilby Prison were brought to Goodwater early Monday morning. The animals immediately picked up a trail at the Graham residence and followed it to the highway where it was lost, the person trailed having apparently entered an automobile there.

Misses Louise and Hazel Gore of Pratt City are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bean in Clanton.

LEGION MEETING NIGHT OF FEB. 2

Every Ex-Soldier In The County Is Urged To Attend This Meeting

On Thursday night, February 2, at 7:30 o'clock, there will be a meeting of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, which is of very vital concern to every World War veteran in Chilton County. This meeting will be at the courthouse in Clanton. Comrade L. A. Lokey, Columbiana, will be here to address the meeting. He will furnish an outline of the Legion's program in the interest of disability allowance and compensation for ex-soldiers of the World War.

Local post officers are making plans for the biggest meeting of the year, and it is expected that every ex-soldier in Chilton County will come. Similar meetings on this date are being held by every post in Alabama.

If you are interested in veterans affairs, be sure to attend this meeting. Things of vital interest to all veterans, and especially those who are drawing disability allowance, will be explained by the visiting speaker.

The special meeting on Thursday night will take the place of the regular meeting in February.

Calvin Coolidge's greatest contribution to the government was his advocacy of the plain old ideas of economy and thrift. If the nation had clung to them as he insistently urged it to do, much trouble would have been saved. His sudden passing is a great loss to the nation, more than we can realize today.

We needed him.—Salem News.

LOOK TO THE SOUTH

A great many far seeing Americans believe that the next great field for our commercial expansion lies in the direction of Latin-America. They point out the fact that the countries to the South of us will develop even more rapidly in the future than they have in the past and that the question of tariffs and immigration there are not nearly so vital as they are in our relations with Europe.

Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, professor of history at the University of California, stated in a recent meeting of the American Historical Association held in Toronto that South America is the boom continent of the future. In the course of his remarks he declared:

"Importance of Hispanic America as an economic unit and as a political factor is becoming greater from day to day. It is one of the great reservoirs of raw materials. It will ontinue to attract foreign capital and foreign immigration.

"It is entirely possible that within a short time Hispanic America will out number Saxon Americans in pouplation. Saxon America, with its 140,000,000 people, is practically closed to European settlers. Hispanic America, with its 100,000,000, is wide open."

Whether Dr. Bolton's predictions of a Latin-America more populous than Anglo-Saxon America are verified within a reasonably short time remains to be seen. There can be no gainsaying the fact, however, that when the world-wide depression lifts, South America will be in for considerable development. Citizens of the United States should be on the alert to take advantage of the commercial opportunities which will then be offered. A little less attention to Europe and a little more attention to Latin-America is not at all a bad idea.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

It is generally agreed that the Democratic victory in the 1932 election was due to the belief of a great majority of the voters that a change of adminstrations might mean a change for the betterment of business. Few of the voters had any definite idea just how it was to be brought about. It was their belief, in many cases little more than hope, that somehow or in some way there would be a new deal that would help things. The physcology was not unlike that of the player who asks for a new pack when the cards have been running against him.

All Americans, regardless of their politics hope that a change for the better is coming. Up to this time, however, it must be admitted that the Democratic leaders have given no evidence that they have a concrete plan for bettering conditoins through legislation.

For example, the leaders of the majority party seem to be unable at this time to agree on any definite course for the fundamental balancing of the budget. For a time we were given to understand that most of the congressional leaders wanted a sales tax. But this was quickly dropped when the news came out that Governor Roosevelt was opposed to the sales tax. Then came the journey of the Democratic leaders to Albany to confer with the President-elect. This was followed by statements that the additional taxes necessary would be raised by soaking the incomes of the middle classes and cutting down the exemption of those with small incomes.

But immediately there came such a kick back to this proposal that it was apparently shoved into the background. Now we are told that the budget will be balanced not by raising taxes but by cutting expenses. If this can be done, the American people will take off their hats and admit that Congess is full of real statesmen.

But the evident lack of a definite program on taxation and the budget is already bringing sarcasm from the Republicans. Minority leader Snell summed up the Republican view recently when he said:

"It is perfectly evident that the Democrats are not going to do anything about balancing the budget at this session. They don't even intend to try before ten or fifteen days from the end of the session. That means that they have thrown it up in despair.

"The Democratic platform was just as emphatic on balancing the budget as it was on beer, and while they have spent more effort on beer than on balancing the budget, it is evident they will fall down on both.

"To the outsider looking on, it looks as if the president-elect is running out on his congressoinal leaders before they even get started.

"Is this the much-hearlded cooperation between the president-elect and congressional leaders that we heard so much about during the last compaign? The president-elect says he is only a clearing house for ideas. I can tell him without fear of successful contradiction that if he is to lead his party during these strenuous times, he must be something more than a clearing house. It will be necessary for him to have a program of his own and stand behind it for two successive days running."

But while there seems to be lack of cohesion in Democratic forces let us not become too discouraged. Let it be remembered that the depression may right itself without further assistance from the government. Depressions have been known to do that very thing in the past. We are now more than three years along in the present era of business stagnation. It is about time that there were evidences of improvement. Nature will take its course regardless of Washington politics. Let us hope that the time for fundamental improvement is at hand.

AIDING AMERICAN SHIPS

Chairman O'Connor, of the United States Shipping Board, does well to refute the charges of British interests that this government is "dumping shipping services on the world market." Great Britain would like to see the United States lay up its vessels and depend upon British merchantmen to carry on its overseas commerce. The accusations to which Mr. O'Connor refers are merely an outburst of indignation because the United States has undertaken to build a merchant marine of its own.

It is true, of course, that American ships could not operate at a profit without the ocean mail contracts awarded them by the government. Materials that go into ships cost more in this counrty than in England, and labor is paid higher wages. Is that any reason why the United States should withdraw from the field of shipping? American export trade exceeds that of any other nation. A strong merchant marine is necessary to maintain, promote and protect that trade. The United States can not be influenced to curtail its shipping service merely because of Great Britain's ambition to continue dominating the high seas.

Subsidies paid to American shipping companies in the form of mail contracts are designed merely to equalize competitive conditions between American and foreign ships. Vessels under the American flag have not resorted to rate cutting or unfair practices. For the most part rates are determined by mutual agreement among the competing lines. It is absurd to use the word "dumping" in connection with the attempt of the United States to build up its own fleet of vessels to handle part of its own commerce and tourist travel.

European interests also resent the American tariff and immigration laws. But that does not in any way change the determination of the American people to protect their industries and their working men. Economic barriers are absolutely necessary to preserve the higher standard of living that prevails in the United tSates. Shipping lines that come into competition with foreign vessels must be encouraged to uphold American standards. The American people do not intend to lower their wages, their working conditions and standards of living to the levels prevailing in Europe. And they do not intend to surrender the American market, American jobs, or the transportation of American commerce on the high seas. Propaganda aimed against this practice of self-protection is a waste of time.—Washington, D. C., Post.

WHEN TO STOP ADVERTISING

When every man has become so thoroughly a creature of habit that he will certainly buy this year where he bought last year.

When younger, and fresher and spunkier concerns in your line cease starting up and using the newspapers in telling the people how much better they can do for them than you can.

When nobody else thinks "it pays to advertise."

When population ceases to multiply and the generations that crowd on after you, and never heard of you, come on.

When you have convinced everybody whose life touches yours, that you have better goods and lower prices than they can ever get anywhere outside of your store.

When you perceive it to the rule that men who never do and never did advertise are outstripping their neighbors in the same line of business.

When men stop making fortunes right in your sight, solely through the discreet use of this mighty agent.

When you can forget the words of the shrewdest and most successful business men concerning the main cause of their prosperity.

When you would rather have your own way and fail than take the advice and win.

When you want to get out of business with a stock on hand.

When you want to get rid of the trouble of waiting on customers.

The position of lawmakers on matters of importance in the international field is that a lot of people in this country want beer.

The more we think about the squabble we have got into over the international debts the more we are inclined to believe we ought to keep out of the international League Court.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

How We Do It

People are forever asking: "How do you guys think of all that crazy stuff to write about?" Well, I suppose it's like most any other kind of work—if you have it to do, you naturally are always on the jump trying to keep up with the job. In the first place, people make it a lot easier than it seems, because, if anything odd or out-of-the-ordinary happens, we are about the first ones who hear about it—someone rushes the news to us. And then, we just naturally notice things that lots of people never pay any attention to. We form a habit of that kind, I suppose. Another thing, we are forever scanning newspapers for odd incidents, odd facts, etc., which will make interesting "copy." It's a great game. And that's how it's done.

Safety First

I was sitting in a car on the side of the road one day last week, when I heard a low, droning sound, like an airplane engine. I didn't have long to wait, though, to find out what it was. Before you could say "Jack Robinson" a school bus hove into view, pretty well loaded with children of all sizes from Junior Highs to tots—a bunch of them. The bus stopped—for an instant — and a few youngsters hopped off. Then on came the bus—lickety split—like its driver was in a hurry. Round the curve—and yours truly was glad I had moved over and allowed the whole road for that bus to swing in. Surely there was no thought of safety in that driver's head then. I know he has never heard of the slogan: "Safety First!" He certainly wasn't practicing it. Imagine a school bus, of all things, being driven recklessly, while loaded with school children. Seems like such things should be looked after, lest an accident take the lives of some of these innocents. Safety First! Especially with a school bus, while loaded.

Who's Wrong—and Where?

I have just finished reading a newspaper item concerning the financial condition of Decatur, Ga.; the clipping follows: "All bills are paid in full, salaries of all city employes are paid in full, and all bonded indebtedness is paid up to date. There has been a uniform tax reduction of 15 per cent, and as much as 33 per cent in cases of assessment inequalities which have been remedied. In addition, school teachers' salaries have been maintained without reductions, and an extensive relief program is being carried out." That condition prevails just east of Alabama. Another newspaper item states that the State of Mississippi had a surplus of $120,000 during the year 1932. That is just west of us. And what of Alabama? Ideal conditions on both sides of us, but we are still "Saving millions." Our treasury is "busted," our people disgusted, and we find ourselves with a set of state officials which can't be trusted. We are surely in one heck of a shape. Who's wrong—and where?

Your Postal Service—Part 2

RETURN ADDRESSES — Here are a few figures just given out, which show what the people of this country lose by not putting their return addresses on the mail they send away: 19,957,684 letters went to the Dead Letter Office last year; 428,005 parcels did likewise; 100,000 letters go into the mail yearly in blank envelopes; about $100,000 in cash is found yearly in misdirected envelopes; about $20,000 worth of postage stamps are found in similar fashion; only about 70 per cent of this can be delivered; about $4,000,000 in checks, drafts, and money orders are found in this way, also; Uncle Sam collects about $85,000 a year in postage for the return mail sent to the Dead Letter Office; it costs the government about $2,000,000 yearly to look up addresses on misdirected mail. All of this money, labor and time could be saved, and the Dead Letter Office abolished if each piece of mail carried a return address, and each package were wrapped and tied securely. There is a moral in this: You surely know your own address, whether you know that of your correspondent or not. Then put it in the upper left hand corner of every piece of mail you send away.

"Jeffersonian Democrats"

How many times have I heard Democrats stick their chests out like bantam roosters or pouter pigeons, and exclaim to the world at large: "I am a good old Jeffersonian Democrat." How they seem to glory in that statement! Too, ever since President Woodrow Wilson crossed the big pond and tried to get the League of Nations idea put over (and succeeded in every country except his own) the Democrats have howled that the thing to do is for the United States to go into the League. Democrats have tried every way they could think of to get us in, but failed. In a letter to one, George Logan, in the year 1801, Thomas Jefferson wrote thus: "I join you in a sense of the necessity of restoring freedom of the ocean. But I doubt whether the United States ought to join in an armed confederacy for that purpose; rather, I am satisfied they should not." That is what he though of this big league of nations idea our good "Jeffersonian Democrats" have been wanting so badly. "Consistency—thou are a jewel."

Another Prayer

Stories of the negro are many and varied, yet nearly all of them are good—many of them funny. Another thing, many people believe—with possible good reason—that negroes take their religion more seriously than people of any other race. Below is given a prayer, said to have been actually prayed by a negro, which is refreshingly true to life. Here's the prayer: "O Lord, give Thy servant, this mornin', de eyes ob de eagle an' de wisdom ob de owl; connect his soul wid de Gospel telefome in de central of de skies; 'luminate his brow wid de sun of Heben; pizen his mind wid love fer de people; turpentine his imagination; grease his lips wid 'possum ile; loosen his tongue wid de sledge hammer of Thy power; 'lectrify his brain wid de lightenin' of de Word; put 'petual motion on his arms; fill him plum full of the dynamite of Thy glory; 'noint him all over wid de kerosene ile of Thy salvation; and, sot him on fire. Amen!"

Jim Parrish's Fork-Knife

Jim Parrish is a jolly good fellow, and every time I meet him we have a lot of fun telling each other the "latest" ones we have heard since our last meeting. But Jimmy had a good trick to show me the last time I saw him. It was a fork-knife. Never saw one? Neither had I, until then. A few years ago Jim was victim of a bad accident, in which he lost a leg and an arm—very near lost his life. But he wouldn't give up; his life was saved, but the loss of the leg and arm complicated matters a bit for him. He got by the lost leg trouble with an artificial one, but the lost arm left him in a bad row about eating—he couldn't handle a knife and fork very well. But now he has solved that problem, too. When Dewey Rockett was taking inventory a few weeks ago, he ran across a peculiar looking tool in his stock. It looks like a regular knife such as you would expect to see in any set of silverware, except that it curves back about an inch from the end, and that knife end has prongs, like a fork. Jim says he never knew there was such a thing before, but that it really does the work. A fork and knife all in one. I don't know if I have described it so so that you can know what it looks like—if not, see Jim; he'll show it to you; and it's a "keen" trick, too.

Grass In the Street

I have a confession to make, folks, now that it is all over and everything, and everybody has had their jokes on the Republicans for losing in the big election. Our big boy, Mr. Hoover, certainly threw a scare into my camp the night he made that statement and prediction that grass would grow in the streets if Roosevelt should be elected. You will remember that it hadn't been many days since I had told you about finding the bunch of grass growing in the middle of the street right here in Clanton. I was afraid to go out on the street for a week after Mr. Hoover said that about the grass—I just knew some of my Democratic friends were going to think of it, and lead me over and show me that grass was ALREADY growing in the streets, during Mr. Hoover's term. But they didn't think of it, I suppose; and I breathed a lot easier after a few days. But, now, don't run it on me now—that wouldn't be fair.

The Jail Quartet

If you like to listen to a good quartet, you ought to visit us some time. We are right here next door to the "white house," as our new jail has come to be known, and there is a quartet second to none which is stopping at the county hotel for the present. When they get well strung out on something like "Lead Me To The Rock," it makes good listening. They generally cut loose about 10:30 to 11:00 a.m., and again from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. I think they must be calling for their meals in this way by the hours at which they perform, and for this reason we'll just call them "The Hungry Four." But they're good.

More Rats

Folks, I really started something when I told you about all the fish, and then came back with the rat story. Now everybody wants to tell me a better one. A man told this one last week—told it for the truth, too, and I suppose it is true. Said he went up in somebody's loft to do some work, and found a plate where the owner had put out rat poison. Evidently that poison was potent, for there were 25 rats lying around close to the edge of the plate; and another one was in the plate—the poison killed him instantly; 26 rats from one plate of poison. Come on in to the "Ananias Club," folks. There's room for a few more yet.—Man in the Moon.

THE "BATTELFIELD MINIATURE"

A Union soldier found on the battlefield of Appamattox back in 1865 a miniature which may turn out to be a rare likeness of Mary Washington, the mother of our first president. There is an interesting story of this "Battlefield Miniature," as it has been called, in the current issue of the National Republic, It was written by Lucy Salamanca, who says in part:

"On the morning of April 9, 1865, a Union soldier, bugler of the Third Brigade, Twenty-fourth army corps, of the Virginia Volunteer Infantry of the Union Army, kicked aside a heap of brown leaves in a little patch of woods in the path of Lee's retreat and picked up a red morocco leather case.

"The patch of woods gringed an old road running north and south and lying west of Appomattox courthouse and Lee's army and it lay directly across Lee's path of retreat. The position held by the company of which the bugler was a part was a very responsible and at the same time critical one. In the morning of April 9th, the Third Brigade had begun advancing through this patch of woods in the direction of the Southern general's army. Here they met the Confederate advance and a short, but sharp, engagement took place. The Confederates broke, retreating back to the main army near the courthouse. Wirt Phillips, bugler, made his way with the others of his successful band through the woods. His keen eyes fell upon something red glinting through the brown leaves. Whereupon he made the discovery that may, after all these years, bring a new and authentic portrait of Mary Ball Washington to the country her famous son founded. He opened the real morocco case and there, reposing on a velvet cushion, an exquisite little miniature painted on ivory looked at him.

"The beauty of that painting, the exquisite coloring, the fine workmanship—more than all—a familiar expression on that strange and dignified countenance of Wirt Phillips. He inspected his find with great pleasure. What was there about those gray blue eyes, that equiline nose, that firm, set mouth, that arrested his attention and led him to believe the face in the miniature was familiar to him in some vague but uncertain way?

Here was the head and shoulders of a woman of middle age, portly, serene, dignified and a little stern. She was dressed in the high muslin cap and deep fischu of another period—the period just gone, the period that ushered in the hoopskirts and lace mittens of the civil war period. She looked like a lady of the Revolutionary era. The paintng, too gave evidence of having been executed many years before. Already the rosy flush of her cheeks was fading and the red line of the lips had lost its vivid coloring. The miniature was framed in a plain gold frame, simple and elegant, with a round gold loop for hanging. But study the picture as he would, with its edusive air of familiarity. Mr. Phillips could not recognize where he had seen that countenance before, nor if, indeed, he had seen it at all. He decided to take his find to his company commander, Gen. T. M. Harris. Before he left the scene, however, he looked well about him.

"Near the patch of leaves where he had picked up the morocco case lay the body of a man. He was not twenty-five feet away, flung out in his butternut uniform, perhaps the last man slain outright in the Civil War. It is not unlikely that little miniature had belonged to him. But he was dead. Bugler Phillips could learn nothing from him. He pocketed his find and made his way to company headquarters to seek out his commander."

The fellow who rides around in a new 12-cylinder car and fails to pay his debts gets little public sympathy. How about the nation which sports a high priced army and then defaults on its debts?

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

WHEN "TEDDY" ROOSEVELT PASSED THROUGH CLANTON

Our former references to the time when President Theodore Roosevelt passed through Clanton have brought forth a considerable volume of volunteer information on the subject. As might be reasonably expected of individual recollections concerning something that happened more than a quarter of a century ago, there is more or less variance in the narratives of different individuals concerning this incident.

We are indebted to Mrs. Clara B. Curry, who furnishes us with a rather detailed account of her recollections of the incidents connected with the visit of President Theodore Roosevelt to Alabama, in which he passed through Clanton and received a somewhat impressive ovation from our citizenship. She says:

"It was with interest that I read the squib in your last week's issue in "The Man on the Corner" column on the reflections of the "Peckerwood Corner" philosophers concerning the passing through Clanton of our much-admired President, the late "Teddy" Roosevelt, and of their common agreement as to presentation of flowers, etc.

"The flowers in question were grown by the late Mrs. W. T. Callen. There was an appended note of greeting to the president, to which an official reply was made. This acknowledgement, or reply, was perhaps published in the columns of "The Banner" some time after Mr. Roosevelt's visit.

"That epoch in our history is now relegated to the dim past. Yes, it was more than twenty-five years ago. To be exact, the editor advises me that a search through the "pile of old dusty newspapers" reveals the date to be on Tuesday, the 24th day of October, 1905, when "Teddy" Roosevelt, then President of these United States, passed through Clanton on his special train.

"It would be an unusually alert mind that could now recall all the details, the hour of the passing through, presentation of the flowers, etc. I, myself, would have sworn it must have been in the early springtime. I do know the hour the train hove into sight was in the early afternoon.

"That the President and ex-warrior was very fond of children was commonly known. He had advocated the rearing of large families, and had presented much sound reasoning for so doing. His hobby ultimately came to be treated as a huge joke.

"Acting upon the premise that the president was especially fond of children, some of us went before the school of Clanton and presented a plan whereby the school children might be gathered together to greet our very distinguished and highly honored visitor. It might be said that we chose this as the means of making the most impressive appeal to him.

"Teachers and pupils were glad to do their part. A collection of ten cents per head was taken to defray expenses of the arrangements. Sashes of the national colors were provided. Grace Sawyer, Matilie Harper, Estella Morgan, and other "large girls" of the school lent assistance in draping the sashes. Grady Reynolds, Marion Foshee, Bill Mullins and Claud Reynolds were among the "big boys" who took much interest and rendered help in getting things arranged for showing off the school children. Prof. Bob Sessions, now of Birmingham, Misses Lillie Slaton and Yula Strickland composed the faculty of the school. They were teaching in the Masonic Building.

"Making of the sashes for the school children to wear was done in an improvised sewing room in the home of the late Tipton Mullins. A few women did the job under great pressure of time. Occasionally a glance at the clock bade hastening. The good hostess served a snappy lunch. No, I cannot recall what was served. But I do remember our haste continued unabated. Those pupils must be gotten on the hillside in holiday attire in celebration of the occasion when a great president of the United States would pass by.

"The hour came. Those patriotic women had the satisfaction of doing a hard task in record time to help put Clanton on the map. Everyone hoped that our efforts would impress our visitor with one lasting and indelible thought. We were "gambling," so to speak, on our school children to turn the trick, for we had heard much of "Teddy's" weakness for children. We hoped to capture him by this ruse.

"Clanton's public school, in well-ordered formation, presented a splendid picture on the slope west of the railroad. The president's train came rushing into the crossing. People were massed everywhere. The streets were full. The house tops were covered. The brakes were applied and the train came to a stop with the rear platform just north of Culver & Jones corner.

"One or two of the Presidential party stepped out on the rear platform of the car. Colonel Bill Collier ran down the tracks and handed the bouquet of flowers to them. The immortal "Teddy" immediately presented himself upon the car's rear platform, smiled his own characteristic smile and waved at the school children. They responded with cheering as loud as was in their power to give. Judge Reynolds and Mr. Collier shook hands with Mr. Roosevelt. A strong arm thrust around the president's waist urshered him back into his private car. Judge Reynolds recalls that Mr. Roosevelt pulled at the signal cord of the train in an effort to stop it after he saw all the school children. The train lost no time in speeding away. The glory of the occasion belonged to our school children. We commonly thought and agreed at the time. Perhaps some of us have forgotten it by now.

"But there is no doubt in the minds of those of us who went through the ordeal of a very hasty preparation, that we guessed right when we chose our school children to make our strongest appeal for a personal recognition and response from "Teddy." The school children of Clanton, in the living picture they presented, caused the presidential party to pause for one brief moment in our little city on the afternoon of Tuesday, October 24, 1905.

"A few days later a letter was received from the White House, in Washington, addressed to Mr. L. H. Reynolds and Mr. W. A. Collier, Clanton, Ala. It was from President Theodore Roosevelt, and said:

"'Gentlemen: I would like, if it is possible for you to do so, to express through you my appreciation to the people of the Town of Clanton and especially to the school children who came out to greet me. I should so liked to have stayed with you a little while and have a few words to you. Nothing but the imperative necessity of keeping to my schedule prevented my doing so. With hearty appreciation, believe me, sincerely yours, Theodore Roosevelt.'"

FACTS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

When God created man in His own image, man was a superior, healthy being, vibrating with all the strong elements of the universe. In the the scriptures we read of people who lived to be several hundred years old, and we wonder how this could be; but when we understand chemistry and know that man's physical body was originally composed of 84 of the highest life-giving chemicals, we no longer wonder. Through wrong-living, man has lost most of these original 84 chemicals, and today we find that most have only 16 chemicals in our body. Is it any wonder that so many of us are sick and unhappy?

It is a recognized fact that life and health depend upon the chemistry of the blood stream and that all diseases is caused by lack of one or more of the 16 chemicals. If there had been created a tree of life, whose fruits contained all of these life-giving chemicals, health and happiness would be a simple matter.

The diet is an important part of this scientific treatment for this menace to health and happiness which threatens thousands who do not even know that they have goitre.

The majority of the people live too high and too streneous life, and live to eat instead of eating to live and think of enjoyments and pleasures more than of their good health. Eat more seafood, fruits and vegetables, the latter two eaten raw are better for you than boiled. Include in your diet whole grain wheat and rye cooked like rice or ground coarse and eat it like a cereal, and make bread of it which is far better than this modern day high grade white flour that is ground to death. Abstain from eating too many fat meats, sweets, carbonatious foods and starches, as well as drinking strong coffee, chocolate, tea, etc. Drink plenty of hot water, as it helps to stimulate the blood. Also drink plenty of milk, sweet, sour or koumis (fermented milk with a little good brandy) at least 15 glasses in all, of water, milk, etc., should be drank every day, as it is a great aid to constipation sufferers.

The thyroid glands are among the most important glands in the body, and just as necessary as a draught is to a stove or furnace, because if you shut your draught your fires will go out and if the thyroid gands are enlarged it closes your draught to a certain extent and sooner or later various troubles will be sure to follow. The tosils are also there for a purpose, and why have them removed, when you can, for only a few cents a day scientifically remove the swelling, pus and poisons by absorbtion. The tonsils are a filterer for the lungs and to catch pus from bad teeth, impurities from food, air and your system. And that is the main reason people are not as well without tosils as they are with them. Some people have had several tonsils operations, and goitre operations eight times. If all of the thyroid glanas are removed you will either die or go crazy.

The body needs a certain amount of iodine and there are certain kinds of food, water, and air, to eat, drink and breathe that contain iodine and that is why you seldom see people with goitre on the coasts.

As a part of its work, the thyroid glands take this iodine and changes it into a form that the body can use, in much the same way that starches are changed into sugar in the mouth and stomach. The body needs this iodine to help it grow and keep in repair and to help both the body and mind to do their work. Many times the harm done to the boy is small and it cannot be seen. If a lack of iodine is great enough, however, the body is likely to be stunned in its growth, sometimes creating dwarfs, idiots, or cretins.

Through scientific research it was found also that children in schools with thyroid trouble, with goitre (enlarged thyroid glands) and tonsilitis are not as bright and they cannot study like other children. So let us all pull together for a much happier, and more enlightened generation to come.

Simple goitre is the easiest of all known ailments to prevent, yet they are among the hardest to cure, especially after they become toxic or poisonous. Goitre is commonly caused by a lack of iodine; when the food that a person eats, water they drink, or air they breathe, does not contain as much iodine as the body needs. The thyroid glands in an efort to get iodine enough, work harder than they should and as a result of this overstrain the cells which make up the glands become changed in shape and increase in number and as a result, the glands naturally get larger and larger.

The time goitre should be treated is when the first signs of a little swelling or tight feeling is noticed, because the longer they are neglected the harder they are to cure, and later cause choking spells, irregular heart beating, extreme nervousness, rheumatism in various forms, consumption, kidney and gall bladder and sinus trouble, tumors and cancer, loss of sleep, sight, voice, hearing, and mind.

The biggest mistake people make is when they wait to see if their goitres won't go away of their own accord or without being treated, but like tuberculosis and most other diseases, the longer goitres are neglected the harder they are to cure.

All the leading authorities on goitre prevention now recommend and advise the beginning of treatment for goitre preventeion at the age of 4 to 5. This also means that mothers should take the goitre prevention treatment before birth of the baby. This is very important because if the mother doesn't have iodine enough bother for herself and for her unborn child, one or the other and perhaps both will have goitres. It is not an unusual thing for a newborn baby to have a goitre. A stitch in time does not only save nine, but sometimes nine hundred and ninety-nine. So lets all pull together for a happier, healthier future generation.

NEW RAILROAD BRIDGE AT HENDERSON, KENTUCKY

With almost an all-day celebration, citizens of Henderson, Ky., acclaimed the opening to traffic of the L. & N. Railroad's immense new bridge across the Ohio River at Henderson on December 31.

More than a thousand people were present at the dedicatory exercises, according to the L. & N. Employee's Magazine for January, when passenger train No. 51 from St. Louis steamed its way across the new structure, the first train to cross it, at 2:40 p.m. on that date. Incidentally, No. 51 was the first train to cross the original Henderson bridge in the summer of 1885—the structure which after 47 years of service has been replaced by a heavier one—and Frank Krug, retired Evansville employee of the L. & N. was fireman on both trains, the last time in an honorary capacity.

W. H. Courtenay, chief engineer of the L. & N. and builder of the new bridge, which is one of the largest spanning the Ohio, was in charge of the construction of the first bridge in 1883-85. A number of persons present at the 1932 celebration were also at the opening of the old bridge in 1885, notable among those being T. E. Brooks, vice president of the L. & N., Louisville, who was a telegraph operator at Henderson at that time; Urey Woodson, veteran newspaper publisher at Owensboro, Ky., and T. J. Adams, for many years superintendent of the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home, who was baggagemaster on the first train over the old bridge.

The old bridge, built at a time when the heavy locomotives of today were unforeseen, has been replaced by a modern structure designed to carry locomotives almost twice as heavy as the largest in service on the L. & N. at present.

The new bridge constructed roughly 90 feet downstream from and approximately parrellel to the old, is 12,123 feet long including the Kentucky and Indiana approaches. An additional 6,618 feet of the original trestle construction of the Indiana approach remains in service, adjoining the new construction. The main river crossing is 3,163 feet long. Nineteen thousand nine hundred twenty-one tons of structural steel was used in the superstructure of the bridge and approaches. The work was begun on May 12, 1931.

CARLOADINGS DECREASE

Total carloadings on the L. & N. Railroad in December failed by a tenth of a point of equaling the high mark of the year for that road, established in October, according to the January L. & N. Employees Magazine. December coal loadings on the L. & N. were stronger than in any other month of 1932, but other freight and freight connections weakened during the last few days of the month.

As compared with 1931, L. & N.'s 1932 car loadings decreased 25.9 per cent to a level considered 52 per cent of normal.

PUBLIC EDUCATION CUT 3 TIMES

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, held at Montgomery last week, the budget for the coming year was reduced by $247,199, a reduction of approximately 30 per cent.

This reduction was made necessary by the decreased appropriations authorized by the 1932 special session of the legislature for the state normal colleges, for Auburn, Montevallo, and the University, and for the state department of education.

At the same session of the legislature appropriations for the elementary and secondary schools were also sharply cut, these reductions ranging from approximately 5 per cent in funds affecting the length of school terms and the salaries of teachers to 33 per cent in funds used for vocational education, the removal of illiteracy and other educational services.

Returns compiled at the office of the state tax commissions show that the decrease in real estate values upon which taxes are being paid during the current fiscal year range from .9 per cent in Montgomery county to 19.4 per cent in Colbert County. Decreases in the values of personal property range from 5.6 per cent in Escambia County to 36.4 per cent in Coffee County. The average decrease in real estates for the state is 7.2 per cent and the average decrease in personal property values for the state is 13.3 per cent.

These figures do not include railroad and automobile values since returns for these two items have not yet been completed. From these statistics, however, it is evident that in addition to the reduced appropriations for the public schools the funds required for their operation will suffer greater losses than the income derived from the property taxes collected from the state-wide 3-mill and the county and district levies for education.

A third cut for education is threatened as the result of the operation of the budget and finance control act which pares the appropriations for a particular year down to the revenue available to pay them. According to a recent statement of comtroller Hard, the revenue anticipated for education for the current year lacks $1,600,000 of being sufficient to meet the recently reduced appropriations. Unless this deficiency is supplied by the forthcoming special legislative session, schools will suffer an additional cut of approximately 29 per cent. This reduction, together with the reductions in appropriations already effected and the losses resulting from decreased property values, would result in a very much shortened school term and still further reduced salaries for the session 1933-1934.

LONG SERVICE BUTTONS AWARDED RAILROAD MEN

During the month of December two employees of the L. & N. Railroad received diamond-studded gold buttons in recognition of having completed 50 years continuous service with that road. They were Joseph X. Kessack, immigration clerk, and Charles R. Keen, yard engineer, both of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Kessack began his L. & N. career at the age of 16 on December 5, 1882, as an office boy in the general offices of the company at Second and Main Streets, Louisville.

Mr. Keen started as a brakeman on the L. & N. division on June 9, 1882, at the age of 15. He has run a yard engine for the past 38 years.

Nine employees of the L. & N. located at various points on the system received medals during December for 35-year periods of service, according to the L. & N. Employees Magazine for January, while 25-year buttons were presented to 13 employees, and 15-year buttons to a host of others.

RAILROADING TO BE SHOWN ON STAGE AT WORLD'S FAIR

A "Pageant of Travel" performed in a huge open-air theatre and dramatizing the story of man's achievements in transportating goods and himself throughout the past century will be one of the features of the Travel and Transport show of Chicago's 1933 World's Fair—A Century of Progress Exposition, it is stated in the L. & N. Employees Magazine for January.

The pageant will supplement exhibits of the progress of transportation shown in the Travel Transport building and other special structures in this area.

With a cast of locomotives, steam ships, automobiles and airplanes as actors, six major epochs in transportation in the United States will be enacted and the steady progress of travel presented in orderly and chronological fashion. Performances will be given at least twice a day during the exposition from June 1, 1933, to November 1, 1933, it is stated.

A triple stage will be used to give the pageant the most realistic setting possible. In the foretage, 250 feet long will be placed a standard railroad track and a full width highway. The inner stage, on which most of the dramatic action will take place, will have an opening of 145 feet. It will be equipped with two thirty foot revolving platforms for the rapid changes of scenery necessary for the production. At the rear, the third stage, used for water craft, will open into Lake Michigan, the blue waters of the lake forming the backdrop.

With this combination triple stage it will be possible to show railroad trains, boats, highway vehicles, and airplanes moving under their own power.

If we are to believe the newspapers, it appears that the majority of people nowadays would rather be tight than president.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

FARM WOODS IMPROVEMENT

Before discussing improvement of the woods let us understand just what the woods are supposed to do. What are the woods for? To produce wood. What kind of wood? Good wood like pines, oaks, poplars, ashes, red gums, walnut, etc., because they are useful and most valuable, and do not those like scrub pine, soft maple, sourwood, boxelder, willow, hackberry, black gum, etc., which are poor kinds and good only for firewood and other cheap uses. The best wood crop is produced as any other crop coming from plants; by encuraging the best kinds to make use of the land and keeping the poor kinds out. We hoe our cotton, corn, and other crops to cut out the weeds and poor plants to give the best plants full charge of the land.

In improving our farm woods we put into practice this very principle. There are needs for firewood and other materials on the farm which can be supplied just as well from the poor quality trees as from the good kinds, and if we will cut out the "weed" trees which are the poor kinds and the crooked, scarred and diseased trees of the better species, we will be getting what we need and leaving the best trees to make a faster growth and to be cut and sold for more money when there is a demand for them. Grown trees should be cut for the market when the price is good so as to leave more room for younger and faster growing trees.

Have a good stand of the best kinds and keep out fire and grow the largest and most profitable wood crop on the farm.

SAFETY FIRST

THE PUBLIC should be prudent in seeking relief from pain. Take nothing which does not have the approval of the medical profession.

BAYER ASPIRIN will never do you any harm, and almost always brings the desired relief. But remember that the high medical endorsement given Bayer Aspirin does not apply to all tablets for relief of pain.

THE DOCTOR is careful to specify Bayer Aspirin for these important reasons:

It has no injurious ingredients. No coarse particles to irritate throat or stomach. Nothing to upset the system. Not even any disagreeable taste. The Bayer process insures a pure, uniform product.

INSIST on the tablet you know to be safe. And the one that has speed. Bayer tablets dissolve so quickly, you get immediate relief from your headache, neuralgia, or other pain.

GROWING THE SPRING CROP OF IRISH POTATOES

Profitable production of the spring crop of Irish potatoes depends on the following factors: proper variety, the use of good seed, a good soil, proper fertilizer, proper cultivation, and insect control. Failure to recognize the importance of each of these points is likely to result in failure with this project.

Although there are several good varieties of Irish potatoes, the bliss truimph seems to be best conditions for the spring crop. Secure northwestern grown certified seed if at all possible. Good seed always pay, and seed from that section of the country give better yields than local or eastern grown seed.

It goes without saying that a poor, run down soil will not produce a profitable crop of potatoes and unless a plot of land or at least average fertility can be sucured, 4-H club members should not select this project. A sand loam soil, which has been built up by the use of legumes, is best although there may be other types almost as good. In preparation of land for planting, it should be plowed deep several weeks in advance of planting. The rows should be bedded out 3 feet apart and the potatoes dropped about 16 inches apart in the water furrow, except on low wet land, where they should be planted on light beds. Where there is plenty of land and seed is scarce they may be spaced 20 inches apart in the drill. The seed should be covered about 3 to 5 inches deep with two furrows of a turn plow.

Potatoes require rather heavy applications of complete fertilizers. Only commercial fertilizers should be used as barnyard manures tend to cause scabby potatoes. A mixture consisting of 650 pounds of acid phosphate, 75 pounds of nitrate of soda, 200 pounds of ammonium sulphate, 100 pounds of cottonseed meal, and 175 pounds of muriate of potash should be applied in the drill and mixed with the soil before planting. This approximates a 10-5-7 (PNK), and experimental results indicate that it is the most profitable mixture unless potato prices are very low in which case the amount of acid phosphate may be reduced to 400 pounds and the potash reduced to 125 pounds but the amount of nitrogen should not be reduced.

Potato plants put out roots slowly and their young plants have to live on food material stored in the seed piece during their early life. Consequently small seed pieces mean small plants and low yields. There is a tendency for most farmers to cut their seed pieces too small. At the present low price of potatoes the seed should be cut into two pieces weighing about 1 ounce each. Each piece should carry at least one good eye and preferably two. By using this size piece and spacing as above outlined 11½ bushels of seed will be required for planting each acre.

A good portion of the cultivation should be done before planting by thorough preparation of the soil. The Irish potato needs a loose open soil for its best development. Cultivation should be shallow and only sufficient to keep down weed growth. It is very important that weeds not be allowed to grow in the potato row. They rob the potato of plant food and moisture. The last two cultivations should consist of throwing dirt to the plants.

The Colorado Potato Beetle, commonly known as the potato bug, is the most common insect pest. They may be easily controlled by spraying or dusting with any of the common arsenicals such as arsenate of lead, calcium arsenate, or Paris Green. The one used should be diluted according to directions.

Farmers interested in getting certified should attend to same at once.—C. E. Stapp.

INCREASE SHOWN IN FOUR-H ENROLLMENT

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 23.—Defenite progress in boys and girls 4-H club work for 1932 is reported by T. A. Sims and Bess Fleming, extension specialists in 4-H club work of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Total enrollment for the year was 48,277. This compares with 41,664 for 1932. The 1932 enrollment included 21,854 white boys, 18,246 white girls, 3,870 negro boys, and 4,307 negro girls.

Under the leadership of county farm and home demonstration agents these boys and girls produced cotton, peanuts, poultry, dairy calves, beef calves, hogs, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, melons, and other crops having a total value at current market prices of $351,418.48. In addition they received valuable training in leadership and organization work.

The work was carried on in 61 counties and there were 735 organized 4-H club. County agents were assisted by voluntary local leaders who contributed much time and effort to instruction of the young farm folks. There was one or more local leaders for each club.

The average yield of cotton per acre for the boys was 1,086.7 pounds per acre; and for corn, 30.5 bushels. This is considerably above the state average.

Progress in boys 4-H club work is revealed by the following figures giving enrollment of white boys for the past six years: 1927, 5,401; 1928, 11,774; 1929, 13,88; 1930, 18,513; 1931, 19,344; 1932, 21,854.

LEADING VARIETIES OF COTTON ARE NAMED

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 23.—Leading varieties of cotton for Alabama are revealed by results of 15 cotton variety tests conducted in north, central and South Alabama over a period of three years, 1930, 1931, 1932.

The tests were conducted under the supervision of H. B. Tisdale and J. T. Williamson of the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The five leading varieties listed according to yield of lint cotton per acre are given as follows with the average yield in pounds of lint cotton per acre and the average length of staple in 1-32 inches for a three-year period.

The leading varieties for Central Alabama are Half and Half, 459-25.0; Rucker, 444-25.8; Cook 307 (Rhyne), 443-27.5; D. P. L. 10, 436-30.0; Cook 1,627 (Wmson), 435-28.1.

The varieties are listed according to yield of lint cotton per acre. Several of the varieties listed as the five leading have a staple length of less than 7-8 of an inch. The experiment station does not recommend varieties of cotton that produce staple less than 7-8 of an inch.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

County agent P. R. Pettis says that each of several farmers in Conecuh County is now receiving $15 to $30 from sales of cream. Those who are doing this are keeping a few cows in connection with general farming.

Tallapoosa County farmers are now making more money on poultry than on all other farm enterprises combined according to F. N. Farrington, county agent. Three big trucks collect poultry products each week at Camp Hill and thereby furnish a good market.

Six farmers of Randolph County are now feeding silage from trench silos. Eight more will make and fill silos this year, said L. M. Hollingsworth county agent. They are inexpensive and excellent ensilage is saved in this way.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

During the month keep the long hairs clipped from the cow's udders and flanks.

The best dairymen keep regularly posted on the dairy and feed markets.

Plan to make the dairy farm work this year more interesting and attractive to the boy and girl. Give the youngster a calf and encourage membership in a calf club.

FORESTRY FIELD SERVICE MEANS LONG HOURS

Montgomery.—The field employees of the State Forestry Department worked nearly ten hours a day during the calendar year 1932, according to the compilations of the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The exact length of service per day averaged 9.8 hours, this daily period being necessitated chiefly on account of the exceptional drought occuring durig the first half of the year.

It is necessary for the filed force of the Department to put forth unusual efforts in order to comply with the cooperative agreement between the State and the Federal Government. The amount of forest land in the state approximates 22,500,000 acres. With extremely limited funds for the employment of field agents it is necessary for those that are in the service to work very long hours.

In 1924, the first year of the Department's work, the average hours worked per day by the field employees was 8.9; in 1925 the figure reached 9.1; in 1926 it rose to 9.4; in 1927 the average hours per day went to 9.7; in 1928 the figure was 9.6; in 1929 the hours averaged 9.5; in 1930 the figure reached 9.8; and in 1931 the figure was maintained at 9.8 hours.

CARD OF THANKS

We have been blessed with friends and neighbors during the illness of our friend, Floyd Little's wife. We have been blessed with help of our friends. We are thankful to know that we have friends. I hope and trust that each and everyone will be blessed because they have been mighty helpful to them, but she is still improving a little but not able to be up yet. We hope and trust that the Lord will spare us long enough to be good to our friends as much as they was to us.—Yours truly, Harvey Little.

LANIER TO PLAY AT JEMISON

There will be a basket ball game Friday, January 27th, at 7:30 o'clock, between Lanier High School and Jemison High School. This team is equipped by Star Cigar and Soda Co., of Montgomery. It is expected to be one of the best games of the season. An interesting preliminary game will be played before this one.—Zane H. Turner.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

To the Merchants and Business Men of Clanton, Alabama:

Dear Sir:

Mere words are inadequate to express our appreciation for your kind cooperation in making it possible through your subscriptive advertisements to get a beautiful chapel curtain. The faculty and students join me in this letter of appreciation to you. The curtain is beautiful and artistic as well as serviceable, and we will express more our appreciation by spending pennies with you.

Thanking you again for your kind cooperation, I am, respectfully yours, Benj. Anderson.

The following are the business firms represented on the new curtain:

Clanton Building Supply Co., J. H. Broadhead at West End, Spigener Funeral Home, J. Mell Martin & Sons—Funeral Directors, Alred Drug Co., J. D. Breadhead—Meat market and grocery, Southern Seed & Plant Co., Upchurch Drug Co., J. L. McDaniel—the tailor, Farmers Hardware Co., O. O. Roper Grocery, Clanton Shoe Shop, The Leader, The Fair Store, Peoples Savings Bank, Chicago Sales Co., Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop, Clanton Motors, Grovers Garage, Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Co.—Benj. Anderson, Principal.

Isabella High School

The third annual Father-Son Mother-Daughter banquet was given last Friday night, January 13th. The banquet was given in the home economics department. There were seven separate tables, each decorated with valentine decorations.

The guests met in the English room before entering into the dining hall for the purpose of getting rid of their coats and to let the ladies powder their nose.

When the call, "Come Ahead" was announced, the guests all filed into the main dining hall, which was made more impressive by the soft glow of seven large candles in the center of each table. All the other lights were out.

The guests were entertained by splendid speeches from different boys and girls belonging to the F. F. A. and the home economics club. Mr. and Mrs. Stapp were the honorary guests at the banquet. Both brought encouraging words about the work the boys and girls at Isabella were attempting to do. Altogether everyone spent an enjoyable evening.

Isabella's Basket ball team played Verbena Friday, January 20, at Isabella. The score was 19 to 22 in fav- of Isabella.

The Senior III class is going to give the play, "Loopin Lovely", Saturday night, January 28 at Isabella. The play is in three acts and we want you to be sure and not miss this exciting drama filled with many thrills and laughs. Admission will be very reasonable. The cast for the play is as follows:

Persimmon, Lorene Lecroy, the faithful old colored servant in the Bordine home; Winnie Bordine, Elizabeth Mims, who has inherited the debt-ridden Bordine farm; Amarilla, Pauline Durbin, the village postmistress and broadcaster; Buddie, Robert Calfee and Clytie, Frances Mims, Winnie's brother and sister; Jennie Mathews, Louise Cox, a friend of Winnie now on the stage; Speed Hawkins, S. L. Broadhead, the sheriff; Esther Hastings, Ruby DeShazo, who has been abroad; Bill Baker, R. C. Veazey, a promoter looking for something to promote; Jim Dugan, Homer Morgan, his pal; Cholly, Jerome Wilson, a young Englishman and dramatic critic; Moe Clifford Manning, a theatrical producer.—Reporter, Elizabeth Mims.

S. J. M. Webb, J. J. Johnson and O. R. Mullins were called back to Montgomery to do Federal Grand Jury work on Monday of this week. These same men were on this jury a month or so ago.

WILL PREACH AT MAPLE SPRINGS

The Union-Banner has been asked to carry the announcement that Rev. K. U. Hull will preach at Maple Springs next Sunday, January 29th, at 11 o'clock. Rev. Hull recently moved to this county from Coosa County. The public has a cordial invitation to hear him.

MT. PISGAH CHURCH

Next Sunday, January 29th, the pastor will preach at 11 o'clock and at 7 o'clock. The first quarterly conference will convene with Kingston church February 4th. If it is rained out it will be held the first Sunday in February.—N. H. Culp, Pastor.

THE LEADER
MANAGER, M. LANDE

Concord-Billingsley

Rev C. W. Walton of Birmingham, president of the Alabama Conference, delivered an interesting sermon at this place Sunday afternoon.

Several persons from this community attended the quarterly conference at Antioch last Saturday. They reported a nice time.

Mr. T. J. Deramus returned to his home last Saturday afternoon after spending the week end with his children in Selma.

Mr. Davis McLean of Adams was a visitor at the home of J. P. Williams Monday.

Mr. Clarence Williams was the dinner guest of Mr. Fonza Williams on Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Deramus and Mr. Percy Henson made a business trip to Maplesville Monday.

Mr. J. P. Williams and son, Clarence, attend to business matters at Adams last Monday.

Mrs. Deramus and children, Hobson and Evelyn, of Billingsley, visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Brown last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bessie Williams returned to her home here after spending some time in Clanton. We are sorry to learn of her illness now.

Misses Myrtis and Eula Mae Brown visited Miss Bessie Williams Monday.

Many persons from this place attended the play at Billingsley Saturday night.

There will be a young people's program, followed by a special address to the young people by the pastor, Rev. Johnson, at Concord next Sunday night. Everybody is invited to attend.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. LATHAM ELLIS

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin entertained a group of friends at a delightful surprise party Tuesday night in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Latham Ellis, of Birmingham.

All arrangements for the occasion were made at the Exchange Hotel in Clanton, and the guests were assembled to give the surprise greeting to the honoree when she arrived.

A delightful dinner was enjoyed by the following who composed the party: Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Latham Ellis, Mrs. Gene Savage and Miss Merle Smith, of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hartley and Miss Lillian Cooner, of Montgomery; Willie Cousins, of Wetumpka; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt; Miss Clyde Jones; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Martin; Mrs. W. E. Martin; C. E. Stapp, Victor Norris, Mack Wyatt and Leroy Martin.

McDONALD CONCERT AT COURTHOUSE LAST WEEK WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Piano At Courthouse Is Now Paid For

One of the largest gatherings ever to assemble at the courthouse was there last Thursday night to hear the concert put on by the McDonald Quartet of Birmingham. The people of Chilton County know what a good thing is, and they don't fail to latch on to it when it comes their way. And good quartets are one thing they really do appreciate. We have had some local boys to sing around over the county for the past few years just enough to make us all eager to hear real ones once in a while. The McDonald bunch is what we call real singers, and to say that the huge audience appreciated them is expressing it in the mildest form.

But the best thing about it all is that the proceeds from the sale of tickets finished paying the balance due on the community piano at the courthouse. It is now the property of the people of the county, to be used on all occasions held in the courthouse where a piano is needed.

PLEASANT VALLEY NEWS

Due to the rainy weather we had no preaching services last Sunday. We are hoping the bad weather will soon be over.

The miscelleanous shower given by Mrs. A. L. Bearden at the home of Mrs. C. L. Wilkins in honor of Mrs. N. A. Wilkins last Saturday afternoon January 21, was a grand success.

The color scheme was yellow and white. Many games were enjoyed by a large crowd. Then they assembled into the dining room where the many gifts were opened and admired; and then delicious refreshments were served.

Miss Lee Silas was the week end guest of Miss Von Dell Penton of New Cedron community last week.

Miss Mary Burkhalter was the night guest of Miss Lena Maye DeLoach last Saturday.

The party given at the home of Miss Jewel Pierce last Saturday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. Those who attended were as follows:

Misses Jessie Maye and Lillian Pierce, of Billingsley, Bertha Mims, Adelle Ray, Elva and Vivian Silas, Mary Burkhalter, Maggie Boockholdt, Lena Maye DeLoach, Messrs. Neal and John Silas, Hosea Mims, Leonard Henley, Comer and Woodrow Durbin, Turner and Bit Griffin, Guy Silas, Claude and Dawson Tucker.

Mr. John S. Silas, of Birmingham, spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Silas.

Miss Maggie Pierce spent last Saturday night with Miss Maggie Boockholdt.

Mrs. J. B. Boyd spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph, of Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Boockholdt spent last Sunday with Mr and Mrs. Carl Boockholdt.

Miss Bernice Davis is spending a few days in Talladega.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Davis of Talladega spent last Friday night with Mrs. N. C. Davis.

Mr. Lorenza Smith, of Kilby, is spending a few days at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Smith.

TWO PROBATE JUDGES PUT IN APPEARANCES AT SAME TIME

We noted Probate Judge Louis Reynolds and Probate Judge Batson in the Capitol corridor at the same time Wednesday. The first named is of Chilton and the last named is of Chambers. Judge Reynolds is a Republican but he holds his job right on. He has made a fine official for Chilton County in spite of the fact that he is not a Democrat. If he had been a Democrat, there is no telling what he could have done for Chilton County. Had he been a Democrat no doubt every citizen of Chilton County would possess a castle and broad acres and a retinue of servants.

Judge Batson wore a big red japonica in his coat lapel. He likes flowers and judging from the one he wore Wednesday, he likes them large and pretty. Judge Batson is making a record for himself in Chambers County. He is a sterling and tried Democrat. He does not run out after every "ism" that appears on the horizon. He sticks to his colors and either goes forward to victory under them or down into defeat still by them.—Atticus Mullin, in Montgomery Advertiser.

BUSINESS SLOW WITH SHERIFF

Business has been slow with the sheriff's force the past week. Only five were placed in jail, on charges as follows: Three for violating the prohibition law; one for assault and battery; one for abusive language.

The jail register Wednesday morning showed seventeen prisoners in confinement.

MISS MONNIE OLA BAKER DIED ON MONDAY MORNING

Miss Monnie Ola Baker, age 55 years, died at her home near Liberty Hill Monday morning, January 23rd. Burial was at Liberty Hill on Tuesday at 11 o'clock, Rev. J. S. Holland officiating. Spigener was in charge.

The deceased is survived by one brother, W. R. Baker; four sisters—Mrs. Loo Johnson, Mrs. Susie Williams, Mrs. Cleacy Foshee and Mrs. Lucie Dunlap.

John O. Newell, of Birmingham, was a business visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

Jack Gillespie, son of Sheriff Gillespie, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Central Alabama Hospital Monday afternoon. Later reports say he is doing nicely.

Dr. V. J. Gragg went to Wetumpka Tuesday to attend court.

W. A. Calloway of Coopers was a visitor here Tuesday.

THE TEST OF QUALITY

Not so long ago at a fire in Detroit seventeen engines pumped for seventy consecutive hours without a single failure and without a moment's shutdown. They then returned to their quarters still in first-class condition, and ready for another call.

It is hardly necessary to say that the engines achieving this remarkable record were of a satndard make such as those produced by the three pioneer fire apparatus manufacturers of the United States. They had something beside red paint, nickel plate and interesting looking gadgets. There was quality in every part that entered into them. They had been built, from the front axle to the back axle, not to meet a price, but to meet the highest standards of service and dependability.

When Detroit bought its engines it might have saved a little money by purchasing products of assemblers or truck makers. All that "saving" and a great deal more could have been lost had the apparatus failed at a critical moment during a single major fire. The city bought the best money can obtain—and it has the satisfaction of knowing that its engines did not fail when an unusual emergency called for reserve strength. If you are wise you don't buy sub-standard electric appliances, bathroom fixtures, radios or other merchandise. And if you had the authority to buy fire apparatus that must guard thousands of lives and hundreds of millions of dollars of property, you would buy nothing but the best. Make sure your city does exactly that.

A NEW RUTH CHATTERTON FILM, "THE CRASH," COMING

The showing of "The Crash," January 31 and February 1, at the Wadesonian Theatre will be especially interesting from three standpoints. First, it presents Miss Chatterton in a fine dramatic role, well-suited to her talents. Second, it is a timely story, bearing upon the effects of the stock market crash. Third, it brings again to the screen here the most sensational young leading man in pictures, George Brent, who has already announced his marriage to Ruth Chatterton.

"The Crash," is said to be Miss Chatterton's finest picture. It brings a popular actress in a story that is brimming with entertainment and exciting action.

Through the efforts of the Clanton Pilot Club in cooperation with the Wadesonian Treatre and prominent business men, the people of Chilton County have the privilege of seeing this outstanding hit of the season.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday, January 29th

10 a.m. Bible study for all.
11 a.m. Preaching and worship.
6:45 p.m. Preaching.

Subject for 6:45 p.m., is "Conversion of a devout, God-fearing, almsgiving, praying man." And answering the following questions:

(1). What else it takes to save; (2). Angels' part in a conversion; (2). Holy Spirit's part; (4). Preacher's part; (5). Part by man to be saved; (6). Evidence of salvation.—R. L. Huffman.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

When Jesus died on Calvary's Cross, He died to save all who would obey Him. Heb. 5:9. Christ can save and will save, all who will obey Him, or follow Him. But how can He save those who do not yield their wills to Him? Those who yield their wills to Him will obey Him. Obedience is the test. To save a man without the man being willing would employ force, and what would heaven be worth to a man if he should be forced to be there, or to stay there?

But someone may say, "We are all willing to be saved." Yes, but if we are wiling for Him to save us we must be willing to follow Him and to be saved His way. Everybody would probably go to heaven if they could go when they want to and the way they want to go. But someone may ask, "Why can we not go the way we want to go?" The answer is found in Jeremiah 10:23. "I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." Again we find, "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways and my thought than your thoughts." Isa. 55:8-9. What would heaven be worth to a man whose thoughts have not been changed to harmonzie with God's thoughts, and whose ways have not been changed to suit God's ways? Could he stay there? Would it be right for him to stay there? For man to be happy in heaven he must change his ways and thoughts, or else God will have to change. Which would be the better of the two: for man to change his ways and thoughts or for God to change?

The Holy Spirit has inspired the Bible to teach us God's ways and thoughts, and to teach us the way of salvation. Jesus said, "They shall all be taught of God." Jno. 6:45. If we refuse to be taught by the Bible, how can heaven be really heaven to us? "He that is of God heareth God's words." Jno. 8:47. Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me." Jno. 14:6.

Christ saves those who come to Him. But no man can come to Christ except God draws him. Jno. 6:44. But God's drawing power is in His teaching. "They shall all be taught of God." Jno. 6:45. "The Grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared unto all men, teaching us." Titus 2:11-12. There is no grace of God in those things that God's word does not teach. God's ways and thoughts are expressed in His words, and for us to be like Him we must learn His word and conform our lives to it. Christianity is the gift of heaven to the extent we use it.—R. L. Huffman.

Mrs. Sallie Prince, Miss Ruth Prince, Mrs. Anna Gardner and daughter, Katherine, of Alexander City, spent the week end here visiting relatives and friends.

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL NEWS

Kathleen Smith was a week end visitor of Miss Irene Burnett.

Mr. Aubrey Kelley spent Sunday with Mr. Quinton Lowery.

Miss Ertice Riggins spent Monday night with Miss Gertie Lee Lowery.

Misses Gladys Turner, Myrtice and Jewel Cost spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Ertice Riggins.

For the second time in two weeks our basket ball team won over the Enterprise players. On last Friday our quintet ran rough-shod over the Enterprise boys and sent them whirling down to a 27 to 9 defeat. This gives our boys a better rating for the county championship this year, as Enterprise was rated by many as a strong contender for the title.

Mrs. H. Baker was a visitor of Mrs. Grace Littleton over the week end.

Miss Lorene Blunt was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Duke.

Mrs. Leslie Thornton spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Melton.

Misses Annie and Pauline Chambers spent Sunday evening with Miss Eunice Holley.

Curtis Martin spent Wednesday night with Miss Mary Hayes.

Messrs. Lawrence Edwards and Luther Mims visited school Manday afternoon.

The Mt. Pleasant faculty enjoyed a dinner and a very pleasant evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith Monday.

Messrs. Curtis Traywick and Lawrence Edwards motored to Montgomery Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Leonard Burnette spent Sunday night with his cousin, George Burnette.

Lomax independent team will play Isabella on Thursday evening at Isabella.

The Jr. II's will entertain the Jr. III's next Saturday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock, at the home of Miss Kathleen Smith.

It happened in the recent world series. In the last of the ninth, two runs behind and two out, the manager put in a rookie pinch hitter— fresh from the hills, but with an eagle eye. There was already a man on second and third, and the rookie reached first on balls. Overcome by the roar of the crowds and eager to distinguish himself, he streaked down toward second on the next pitch. It was a beautiful slide, but when the dust had cleared he found another teammate firmly ensconced on the same base. He trudged back to the dugout and met the tearful manager. "Why—why?" . . . screeched the latter. The rookie scratched his head. "I didn't know it was loaded," he said.

One thing the depression has done and that is to bring to the notice of harrassed city dwellers some of the advantages enjoyed by those living in the country. The farm family has more and better food to eat. More meat, eggs, milk, fruit vegetables than does the city family. This means more of the necessary life-giving vitamins, which in turn means better health. Many farmers today are lacking cash, but they have plenty to eat, good warm clothes to wear, unlimited fuel and a place to sleep. Millions of men and women in the cities are now eking out a miserable existence for themselves and their families, while others are walking the streets, wholly without sustenance, except uncertain charity. "Back to the farm," is more than a slogan, it is the salvation of America. Let's go.

MT. PLEASANT CAGERS UPSET ENTERPRISE 27 TO 9

Chalking up their tenth victory against no losses, the Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School Basketeers trimmed their staunchest rival, the Enterprise team, last Friday by a wide score of 27 to 9.

The game was very swift and exciting, even though the score does indicate a complete runaway. The Enterprise players were completely overwhelmed by their opponents' short, brisk, pass-work. Their guards were utterly unable to cope with the accurate goal shooting of the Mt. Pleasant boys, who netted points from all angles of the court.

At the half the Mt. Pleasant team led by the count of 12 to 5. During the second half, Burnette and Traywick bottled up the game by registering seven points each. The Enterprise boys fired away on many long shots, which were to no avail, only to have the visiting team get possession of the ball and breeze through their defense and register a crip shot. However the Mt. Pleasant lads missed numerous shots, after having worked many a pretty play only to have the shot that would have completed the formation miss the hoop.

A large crowd was present to witness the game, including many who accompanied the Mt. Pleasant boys down. This was the second loss sustianed by Enterprise at the hands of Mt. Pleasant within the past two weeks.

Silas and Griffin were the outstanding players for the home team, but they lacked team work from the others. Both teams played hard throughout the game, the Enterprise players never giving up. They were out there to win, but just couldn't succeed in overcoming an ever widening score. They looped only 3 field goals while the visiting team banged away 12 goals from the field for 24 points.

—lagging appetite

There is a reasonable way to correct this condition. Pause and reason. You know that body weakness is frequently the result of a weak blood "picture"—lowering of the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin—that are so very necessary to strength and vitality.

Then why not try S.S.S.—the proven tonic for decades? Its value has been proved by extensive scientific research and by millions of happy users.

Take S.S.S. and note the way your strength and appetite are restored. Two convenient sizes at all drug stores—the larger size is more economical. Don't permit any one to "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content for regaining strength. © The S.S.S. Co

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

The text is found in the Gospel of John, 14:6. "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

I met a man late one afternoon on a side road, he stopped me and said, "I have been lost since six o'clock this morning, and I am sure that you can put me right, for I am tired and my horse is just about given out, and if you can help me I will be very grateful to you." I asked him where he wished to go and when he told me I said, "Just follow me and I will show you the way." That man had been following timber roads that did not lead past any house and had wandered round and round in a circle the whole day. He might have found his way out if night had not been so close upon him.

So many people today are traveling the by-paths and timber roads of life, and for some unaccountable reason are made to feel that they are on the right road. The difference between them and the man above is, the man knew that he was lost and they don't "A way" is a route or course from one point to another. Jesus says, "I am the way." That statement excludes every known and unknown path or way in which men travel. The hard part of the preacher's talk is to convince men that they are wrong. Just a few here and there will allow you to lead them to the way that leads to life everlasting, which is Jesus.

In John 18:38, Pialate said to Jesus, "What is truth?" Jesus did not answer him because of the fact that He, Himself was, and is, the "truth and if Jesus had told Pialate just what truth is He would have used the second statement in my text, namely; "I am the truth." Our definition of the truth is agreement with reality or eternal principle of right, fact.

A white man stopped in the yard of an old negro and stood his gun on the ground by his side and called old Mose out. He said to Mose, "Did you steal my chickens?" Old Mose eyed the gun a moment and said, "Massa George, effen Ah tells you de truth you'd shoot me and efen Ah tells you a lie de debil will git me, so Aa don't know jes what to do, but Ah ax you to let me pray fust." Mose fell down on his kness and prayed thus:

"Lord, You knows Ah's in a tight now, an Ah wants you to hep me out. Lord, You knows dat Massa George is got lots ob chickens an Ah ain't got none. Now effen Ah tells him de truth bout gitten his chickens and den he shoots me, will you let me in when Ah gits to heben?"

You will notice that there was no repentance for the theft of the chickens on Mose's part, but just to get out of a tight place. Somany people seem to think that to tell the truth about a thing clears up the whole affair. Even though Mose acknowledged to stealing the chickens, he didn't repent of the evil. To speak the truth is fine in all cases, a thing we should all do. But that, within its self, will not take us to heaven. We should get acquainted with Him who says "I am the truth."

John 1:1 says "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God." To know Jesus is to know the word, and to trust Him is to know the truth and to believe in Him is to be free, for He said, "If I make you free you shall be free indeed." In the last part of the text Jesus says "I am the life." There is no life apart from Jesus Christ, and just as our natural life comes through a natural birth just so does our spiritual life come through a spiritual birth, and the only way that we can have spiritual life is to be born into the family of God, then we will have life through Him who is the real life of men.

Jesus said "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." Eternal life can come to us only through the real source of life, which is Christ, the Lord. Paul says, "If in this life only, we have hope, we are of all men, most miserable." I would not exchange my hope of life beyond the grave for all that this present world could possibly offer. Satan holds up to men the things that he has to offer them, in their most alluring form. He makes his offerings very attractive to entice men. All of these things blind their eyes to the real issues of life. If a man should gain all of them and use them in this life he is still the looser, for that is all that he will receive in this life or the life to come.

Will men never learn the real purpose of satan? If they would learn that satan is the real enemy of man's souls and is interested only in keeping them out of heaven by keeping them in the dark concerning Christ, surely they would break away and take Jesus as their Savior, who is the only one that can offer lost men "the way" and misguided men " the truth" and dead men "life." Way, truth and life, are the three things that are most needed by sinners, and Jesus Christ, the son of God, is the only one in all the world that can give them. Why not take them?

Here I leave the matter with you for this time. May He lead some one to find the right way by reading this sermon.—Elder Blossom.

CARD OF THANKS FROM HOWARD FAMILY AT THORSBY

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to friends at Thorsby and elsewhere for their beautiful floral offerings and many expressions of kindness shown us during the recent illness, death and burial of Mrs. Louis Howard.—Louis Howard, Edward Howard and Family.

Don't miss "The Crash," Chatterton-Brent superb!

Miss Jane Roberts from Womans College visited her mother here Sunday.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptional preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

DOVES' TAILS WERE FROZEN TO GROUND IN NORTH ALA.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 24.—Doves in the northern part of Alabama are sporting a new fad, and like most fads this one developed quite accidently.

James M. White, field assistant of the Department of Game and Fisheries, was at first a bit skeptical when told that doves of that section—this being their season for fashions—had gone in strong for "bob tails."

But the farther he traveled, the more convinced he became that this was no idle fantasy on the part of the hunters. After blinking and rubbing his eyes to make sure it was no dream, he brought back the story that fully 30 to 40 per cent of the doves in the northern part of the state had bobtails.

Reconnoitering, he discovered that the doves had been victims of the cold wave that engulfed this part of Alabama in snow and sleet during December and that in seeking warmth on the ground and in the sedge grass, their tail feathers had frozen fast to the ground.

The doves, disregarding vanity, were forced to accept the inevitable and fly away without them. The hunters were bewildered a few days and the chill was a little more penetrating for the doves, but the new tail feathers were reported to be doing right nicely now.

The dove season will close January 31st.

I. T. Quinn, State Commissioner of Game and Fisheries as at work on a program which will trim expenses of the department sharply and curtail certain activities at least through the spring and summer.

Receipts in the Game and Fish Fund for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1932 were 12.8 per cent below receipts for the previous fiscal year. The receipts for the present fiscal year are but 70.5 per cent of the revenues of last year, and only 61.5 per cent of those for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1931.

Approximately 95 per cent of the revenue collected by the Game and Fisheries Department is derived from the sale of hunting licenses, the remainder coming from the sale of non-resident fishing licenses and from fines paid by game law violators.

While the Department of Game and Fisheries has full use of all revenues it collects, since they are derived entirely from non-taxable sources and their expenditure for other purposes is prohibited by law, the Commissioner finds that because of the unprecedented decrease in revenues in the department, over a period of years, he will be compelled to greatly curtail numerous important conservation activities throughout the spring and summer months.

The February issue of Field and Stream, a national magazine for sportsmen, says the largest large-mouthed black bass on record was caught in the Tombigbee river in Alabama by George J. Nicholls on April 11, 1926.

The catch was made with rod and reel, the magazine said, and the fish weighed 24 pounds, was approximately 35 inches long and its girth was 24 inches. This catch headed a list of more than 50 "world's record fresh water fish."

JEMISON BOYS DO WORK ON ORCHARDS

A Number of the vocational students in the Jemison High School have a home orchard as one of their projects. Their first job was the treating of the trees for peach borer. Some treated their trees with crystal gas while others dug them out with a knife. Next came the task of pruning the orchards. They are all through with the pruning and are now in the midst of spraying. They are spraying for San Jose scale using oil emulsion.

A few of the boys are planting new orchards. So are several evening school farmers.

The boys in the horticultural class have done considerable grape pruning this year. Each boy has made grape cuttings. They have also worked with scuppernongs, thinning out the vines and repairing or making new frames.

PATES CHAPEL

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox, born to them Monday night, died shortly afterwards. It was buried Tuesday evening at Pates Chapel cemetery. It had been given the name of Chalmers Earl.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Maddox and children of Tallassee have been visiting relatives and friends of this community the past week end.

Miss Gail Gletty visited Mrs. Tommie Maddox and sister, Maude Wallis, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Hesteranne Merchant of Thorsby visited Miss Hazel Maddox and Mr. and Mrs. Wilburt Maddox Sunday.

Mrs. Filmore Childress spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. Wilburt Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Maddox of Thorsby had supper with Mr. Alex Maddox and family Sunday night.

Miss Martha Hayes spent Sunday with Miss Mildred Hayes.

Messrs. Marvin Champion, Mose Maddox, Tommie Maddox, Lawrence Pitchford, Enoch Hayes took a horseback ride over to Pleasant Grove Sunday afternoon to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hayes.

JESUS AND THE SABBATH

Mark 2:23-3:6.

GOLDEN TEXT—The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath; therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath. Mark 2:27, 28.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Keeping God's Day.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Keeping God's Day.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Use Sunday.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Lord's Day.

I. Jesus Eating With Publicans and Sinners (2:13-17).

1. The call of Levi (v. 14). Levi was a tax gatherer under the Roman government. As Jesus passed by he commanded him to leave his business and follow him.

2. Jesus dining in Levi's house (v. 15). It seems that when Levi found the Saviour, he invited many of his business associates to eat with him. This gave a fine opportunity for Jesus to come into touch with some of these sinners.

3. The perplexed scribes and Pharisees (v. 16). They asked, "How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?" The question carried with it the charge that Christ was having fellowship with sinning men.

4. Jesus' reply (v. 17). "They that are whole have no need of the physician: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." The veiled charge of moral carelessness on the part of the Lord could not be denied if Jesus was a mere man. Jesus recognized the moral condition of his associates and declared that he had come as the divine Physician to heal their spiritual maladies. Surely no physician could cure sick folk without coming into contact with them.

II. Jesus and Fasting (2:18-22).

1. The question asked (v. 18). They asked why Christ's disciples did not fast. This objection suggests a lack of seriousness of purpose on the part of the disciples. The fast indicated solemnity and seriousness of purpose. John the Baptist was now in prison, therefore his disciples would naturally mourn and fast for him.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 19-20). "Can the children of the bride chamber fast while the bridegroom is with them?" The joy of Christ's disciples in present congenial companionship prevented their fasting. He declared, however, that the time would come when they would fast.

3. New wine in old bottles (vv. 21, 22). He proceeded to illustrate this by figures of cloth and wine skin. The Lord's purpose was to show the folly of imposing old customs on the new age.

III. Jesus and the Sabbath (2:23-3:6).

1. The disciples plucking ears of corn on the Sabbath (vv. 23-28).

a. Charge made against the disciples (vv. 23, 24). That they had violated the Sabbath law. For this act the Pharisees accused them of lawlessness. The Pharisees had glossed over the Sabbath law with so many regulations that it became a burden.

b. Jesus defends them (vv. 25-28).

(1) He cites a precedent (vv. 25, 26). David, the great king of Israel, had gone into the house of God and eaten the bread which should be eaten only by the priests. The higher law of human need warranted David's breaking the law in this case.

(2) He shows the nature of the Sabbath law (v. 27). The Sabbath was made for man, therefore its right use is to be determined by the good of man.

(3) Jesus is the Lord of the Sabbath (v. 28). It was Jesus who instituted it when creation was finished. Therefore, he had a right to use it as it pleased him for man's good.

2. Jesus healing a man's withered hand on the Sabbath (3:1-6).

a. The place (v. 1). It was in the synagogue, the place of worship.

b. The Pharisees watching (v. 2) The motive which actuated their watching was an evil one.

c. The man an example (v. 3) Jesus wanted the case to be open to all, so he commanded the man to stand forth where all could see him

d. The question asked (v. 4). "Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath days, or to do evil, to save life or to kill?" He plainly showed them that to fail to do good, to show works of mercy, to save life, is to be guilty of wrongdoing, even of murder.

e. The man healed (v. 5). Christ healed him by speaking the word.

f. The result (vv. 4, 6). The Pharisees were silenced. They sought how they might put him to death.

The Spirit's Power

If ever we rise again to conscious life, it will be by no native power, but by the operation of the Spirit of God; and, unless the Spirit dwell in us, superstition may have an idol, conscience a law, philosophy a name, but the heart has no God.—F. H. Hedge

In His Name

I will strengthen them in the Lord; and they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the Lord.—Zech. 10:12.

See how two lovers in reel life became real lovers.

JEMISON NEWS

Two basket ball games of much interest were played here last week. They were between Jemison and Siluria and Jemison and Montevallo. Jemison won one and lost one.

January 14th Vonzelle Atkinson entertained the Senior Class of Jemison High School. Games and dancing were enjoyed throughout the evening. After this ambrosia and cake were served to the following: Ruth Glasscock, Loyd Edwards, Marion Adams, Cecil Glass, Geraldine Bean, Hugh Shaw, Lorene Shirley, Carl Glasscock, Francis Glass, Charles Durbin, Josephine Adams, Joyce Howard, Osteen Lenoir, Mariam Harvey, J. R. Ekblad.

Mr. Charles Durbin spent Sunday night in Tuscaloosa.

There will be a basket ball game here on Friday, January 27th, at 7:30 o'clock between Lanier High School and Jemison High School. This team is equipped by Star Cigar and Soda Co., of Montgomery. It is expected to be one of the best games of the season. An interesting preliminary game will be played before this one.

Messrs. Hugh Shaw and Howard Leary of the University of Alabama spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Shaw.

Miss Nell Wells was at home for the week end.

Mr. Wilburt Duke is visiting his sister, Mrs. Earnest Eiland. Wilburt's home is now in Sylacauga.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

The Savior, in prophecy describing the condition of the world previous to His second coming, declared: "And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars." Matt. 24:6. "And upon earth distress of nations with perplexity." Luke 21:25. This would indicate that as the time draws near for the return of the Lord, the nations of earth will be making unusually great preparations for war.

In a recent book, "The Next War," by Major K. A. Bratt, who is one of Europe's geniuses in military strategy, he declares that in Europe "everywhere there is a feeling that the ground is rocking as if by an earthquake."

The noted English writer, Sir Philip Gibbs, has said in a late book:

"Europe is haunted by a thousand fears. Its statesmen know that they are building upon volcanic ground. There is not an intelligent observer of political conditions today who does not admit, privately, that the present map of Europe cannot remain unchanged as it was drawn after the war, and that if it is not redrawn by general consent its boundaries between one nation and another will be upheaved by violent eruptions. On the other hand, the first attempt at revision may precipitate the explosion."

At the beginning of the year 1931, David Lloyd George said:

"On the continent of Europe wherever you go 'the next war' is being freely discussed, and groupings in that impending war are canvassed.

"It seems too foolish to be credible. But it undoubtedly is a caldron of suspicion, hatred, and fears. The disarmament discussions have been an elaborate sham. No country contemplates a serious reduction in its armaments.....

"Europe is already dividing into two camps—those who stand for the revision of the peace treaties and those who are opposed to any revision. This is how they stand today: Revisionists; Italy, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria: Anti-Revisionists France, Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Roumania."

Outside of Europe the outlook is anything by promising for world peace. The black, brown, and yellow races, numbering two thirds of the world's population, and for generations imperilled over by the Western powers, are today in revolt. India's 360,000,000 are bent upon breaking away from Britian. China is determined to throw off Occidental yokes and influence. Africa, which is 97 per cent partitioned among the European powers is getting restive and looking for ways and means to break the foreign chains that bind her.

Our only hope of lasting peace is in another world than this, even the new earth, wherein shall dwell the righteous. Not till then will wars cease and peace reign on earth. But even now, if men will turn to the Lord they may have that peace of God abiding in their hearts even amid the distress and perplexity abroad in the world.—L. A. Butterfield.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

In order to keep Thorsby public school going to the end of the regular term, arrangements have been made whereby the Town Council pays the principal part of the expense, the faculty takes a substantial cut in salaries and Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association assumes the balance of $150.

As a starting point in raising this $150, the ladies of the P.-T. A. gave a chicken dinner last Saturday, which was so well patronized by Thorsby people and others, that some thirty dollars was added to their treasury. Mrs. Joseph E. Each was chairman of the committee on arrangements, and supplies were solicited through out the town and received a generous resopnse. Other members of the committee were Mrs. James Bosworth, Mrs. N. Laurell, Mrs. Enoch Cox, Mrs. Bean, Mrs. Cary Martin, Mrs. Bob Smith, Mrs. W. F. Love and Mrs. T. W. Robinson. Teachers of the school served as waiters. The following little girls assisted and were of great help: Annie Ruth Pate, Margaret Ward, Ruth Cox, and Jane Billingsley. Assistants in general were W. T. Bean and Sam Bentley. Mrs. Each wishes to publicly express thanks to all who worked so willingly and faithfully. Although the price was moderate, there was no lack of quantity or quality in the dinner. Many remarks in praise of it were heard.

Mrs. Phil Rozar, Mrs. Jean Kelly, Mrs. Evie Williams, Mrs. Duck, Mrs. Hobston and her son, Mr. Roberts, all of Birmingham, attended the funeral; also her kinfolks here and a host of friends in Thorsby and vicinity. Mrs. Anna Phalen, of Tuscaloosa, sister of Mr. Howard, will remain with her brother for a while.

Miss Louise Robinson gave a party Friday night. Some twenty-five of her young friends in Thorsby were her guests, and spent a delightful evening.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will meet with Mrs. C. A. Peterson Thursday afternoon of next week, February 2nd.

Thorsby Ladies Guild Social will be held this week, Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. N. Laurell in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Gerald spent the week end in Thorsby. Mr. Gerald accompanied by two of his friends enjoyed a hunting outing.

Mrs. Louis Howard

The people of Thorsby were greatly shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Louis Howard at her home in Thorsby last Friday evening, January 20th. Although she had been not really well for about a year, she had been confined to her bed only about a week, and seemed to be improving; in fact was sitting in a chair talking and laughing with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Phalen of Tuscaloosa and eating her supper. She had previously said, "I am feeling much better, I believe I will soon be all right." Before she had finished her supper she laid her head back on her chair, gasped once and was gone. Mrs. Howard was 56 years old. She leaves, besides her husband, one son, Edward, whose home is in Thorsby; two brothers in Michigan, and one in St. Louis.

Mrs. Howard came to Thorsby with her husband and baby twenty-four years ago. She was of a quiet and refined nature, a good home-maker, respected by all who knew her. She was a member of the Ladies Guild and always willing to take part in community affairs. In religious faith she was a Catholic and lived an exemplary life among us.

The funeral was held at the home Saturday afternoon, Rev. Father O'Neil of Birmingham officiating, Burial was in Thorsby cemetery, Martin in charge.

The Thorsby Socialist Local will meet at City Hall Saturday afternoon of this week at 2:30.

There will be regular preaching services at the Congregational church Sunday, both morning and evening. Everyone is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodgame spent Sunday in Birmingham visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson.

Miss Nellie James returned to her home in Montgomery after a two weeks visit with Miss Myrtle Daniels.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each were Friday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams.

Mr. Cecil Each spent Sunday in Thorsby with Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each and family.

Miss Hazel Maddox left Monday afternoon for Demorest, Ga., to complete her second year of college at Piedmont.

We have been handed the following clipping from a Uvalda, Texas paper with a request that it be printed in the Union-Banner, as it refers to a former citizen of Thorsby. We suppose it will be of interest to our readers.

Dr. S. C. Wood has always heard of fisherman's luck and the "big one got away," but had never experienced such an occasion until last Sunday afternoon. The big one did get away—almost—and Dr. Wood knows that he had plenty of luck. While fishing with Gene Kincaid and Hance Smyth in the Nueces river west of Uvalde, Dr. Wood hooked a dandy. After playing the fish about for several minutes, he attempted to land the bass and his line broke. The bass apparently exhausted, settled to the bottom of the river, in about 18 inches of water. Almost before the other occupants of the boat realized what had happened, Dr. Wood noticed the fish lying motionless, with its mouth open. He quickly made a grab for the fish and thrust his hand into the huge mouth and brought the fish into the boat.

The bass weighed 9 pounds and 6 ounces, one ounce less than the championship bass caught by Bob Smith some months ago. In addition the three men caught three other bass the combined weight of the four being 17 pounds and 9 ounces.

Mrs. C. D. Gibbons and son, Farrell, left Sunday afternoon to visit relatives near Clanton for a few days.

Mr. William Each and his mother, Mrs. J. E. Each spent Thursday in Birmingham.

Mrs. V. E. Wyatt, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. O. W. Miller, motored to Montgomery Friday.

Mrs. G. F. Harper has gone to Talladega to spend a few days with Mrs. J. H. McFarlane, who is ill.

Miss Agnes Askins, Messrs. W. B. Scott, Tom Lessley and Mrs. J. R. Billingsley were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott. The occasion was the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. B. T. Franklin entertained a number of friends at a quilting party Tuesday.

Mrs. J. L. Mixson and little daughter, Grace Swanson, and little son, Dwight, are spending several weeks in Union Springs with relatives. Mr. Mixson's mother, Mrs. C. L. Mixson, from Montgomery is staying with Mr. Mixson during his wife's absence.

Mrs. William Each entertained a number of younger children Saturday afternoon at a birthday party for her sister, Willie's, 13th birthday. Those present were Mary Nell Pate, Hattie Porter, Ruth Cox, Margaret Ward, Mary Louise Reinhardt, Mary Connatser, Marie Each, Peggy Franklin, Sam Bentley, Tutt Davis, Norman Peterson. Everyone enjoyed the afternoon playing games. Late in the afternoon refreshments were served to all the children, then they left for home.

Miss Jessie Martin spent Sunday with Miss Mary Sue Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean and children of Clanton visited Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Bean Sunday.

Misses Edna Childress and Lola Martin spent the week end with Miss Louise Collins.

Mr. Marcell Wilder made a business trip to Birmingham Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson and family from Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson.

Miss Louise Burnett and Marcus Burnett of Elmore spent the week end in Thorsby visiting Mrs. Roberta Childress and Miss Ruth Higgins.

Mr. and Mrs. Waylon Collins are the proud parents of a fine baby boy born last Tuesday, January 17th.

Miss Mary Louise Bates had as her guest during the week end, her father, Mr. S. H. Bates and ner brother, Mr. Roger Lee Bates. Both live near Selma.

Mrs. Nolia Atchison and small son, Edward, who live near Selma, spent the week end in Thorsby with her sister, Mrs. D. H. Gentry, and other relatives.

Miss Francis Wilson spent the week end in Isabella community with Mr. and Mrs. H. Jerome Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Jerome Wilson of Isabella spent Friday afternoon in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Broadrick and Mrs. Nell Husley, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Maddox and daughter, Myrtis, and son, Clyde, of Birmingham, were visitors during the week end in Thorsby. They also visited Mrs. T. L. Maddox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bean in New Salem Community.

Miss Mary Ruth Nix was the guest, Friday, of Miss Melna Dial, of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and little daughter, Helen Louise, have been confined to their bed for several days suffering with flu, but are reported to be improving at present.

MAN FROM NEW YORK CITY TO PREACH AT EAST VIEW

The Union-Banner has been asked to carry the announcement that Dr. John R. Scotford of New York City will preach at East View on Monday night, January 30th. Rev. A. C. Nelson extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend and hear this noted preacher.

PRIVATE SCHOOL AT FRIENDSHIP

Monday morning of last week a private school was opened at Friendship church, a mile and one-half north of Clanton. There are around forty on roll in the school. It is being taught by Miss Edna McEwen of Coosa County.

Listening in on the Grand Old Uproar at WSM Nashville last Saturday night, we heard the announcer read out a telegram received from Hoke S. Pipes, at Harrisburg, Pa., asking the entertainers to play "Alabama Bear Cat."

The Helen Keller Literary Society gave one of the best programs of the year on Saturday night. Members of Mr. Maddox's French class furnished the program. Devotions in French were given by Conway Thornburgh. A paper, "France and the French," was written and read by Lois Thompson. Several French songs were sung. The main part of the program was the play, "La Belle et Le Bete" or "The Beauty and the Beast." A synopsis of the play was given in English by Mary Sue Porter. Even if people did not know French, they could follow the play from having heard the plot and from the action.

The leading parts were well taken by Gladys Smith, the Beauty; Brady Billingsley, the Beast and Leo Spivey the Beauty's father.

The dances under the direction of the Good Fairy, Edna Lee Wilder, added to the beauty of the scene. Most of the six scenes were laid in a very attractive garden.

Dr. Wm. Campbell, President of Atlanta Seminary Foundation, affiliated with Venderbilt University, gave a very interesting and helpful talk at chapel Monday.

Thursday and Friday come semester examinations. The second semester begins January 30. Anyone wishing to enter the second semester should call at the Institute office soon.

Mrs. S. M. Connatser has been confined to her bed most of the time for the past few days with illness. She is reported to be improving.

Miss Henrietta Bean, of Collins Chapel community, was a week end visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clyde Meade.

The ladies Guild of Thorsby recently made a contribution of $50.00 to the Institute for student aid and the Lutherian Ladies Aid gave $15.00 for the same purpose. These gifts are very much appreciated. The school depends largely for its support on donations, as the small tuition charged, cannot meet the cost of running the school. Several, this year, are having to work their way. This does not mean cash to the school, and the teachers' salaries and various bills must be met by cash. Perhaps others may be interested to make gifts of money or provisions. Some provisions may be applied on.

Mrs. H. M. Carlton and son, Mr. M. A. Carlton, and Mr. Hudson Thompson, from Dadeville, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson Saturday.

Miss Mortie Fincheir from Montevallo College spent Saturday with Mrs. Frank Thompson.

Miss Martha Williams returned home Sunday after a week's visit at Lay Dam with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thomasson.

The Ladies Guild held their annual meeting on Wednesday, January 18, 1933, with the president, Mrs. C. S. Howard. The year's work was reviewed and election of officers for the coming year resulted in the following: President, Mrs. V. H. Sutlive; vice president, Mrs. C. S. Howard; secretary, Mrs. Sereno E. Norton; treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Butler.

The Guild is a town organization started about twenty-five years ago, for the purpose of aiding Thorsby Institute in any way that they could; also to help in the social life of the town. They hold monthly socials at the homes of the members; sponsor a "dinner on the campus" on commencement day of Thorsby Institute; also hold a reception on the opening of the school in the fall, to Board of Trustees and their wives, faculty, alumni, pupils of the school and their parents. In November they hold a bazaar for the sale of fancy and useful articles, made by the members of the Guild during the year. Our treasurer reported as gifts to Thorsby Institute since January 1932, $75.00 for student aid. Attendance prizes, $22, a book fund, with which to purchase school books to be owned by the Institute, but rented or loaned out to students who could not afford to buy their books; $25.00 for various other items, amounting to a total of $145.80; also at the annual meeting they voted $50.00 for student aid. The membership of the Guild is about 40 ladies of the town.

CRAFT FAVORS THE INCOME TAX

Senator From Mobile Voices Approval of Miller Tax Program

Editor Union-Banner:

I am for the income tax. Why? Governor Miller inherited an empty treasury, a debt of from fifteen to twenty million dollars, and legislation over which he had no control, and the expenses of the state were greater than its income. The governor is anxious to preserve the credit of the state, to reduce the cost of government, and I believe that is right, hence, I am for that policy.

Only 3 per cent of the people of Alabama are paying income taxes, many of them scarcely pay any ad valorem taxes to support the government of the state, cities and counties. Ninety-seven per cent of the taxpayers of Alabama, their property is tagged, their farms, lands, homes. Their stocks of goods and merchandise are burdened with licenses extracted by the state, cities and counties, and intangible franchise taxes.

Also, the 97 per cent of the tax payers are paying for building the public roads and streets, supporting the schools, maintaining health, agriculture and other public institutions including the insane and other eleemosynary institutions.

I regret that the majority of the legislature hasn't seen fit to cooperate with Governor Miller in his regular session and his extra session. I observed one of the biggest lobbies fighting Governor Miller's effort to preserve the credit of the state and to shift the burden of the entire expenses of the state on the 97 per cent of the taxpayers who pay no income taxes. I believe when the people are educated that they will vote for the income tax and Governor Miller's efforts to provide ways and means of paying the debts of the state, keep the schools open, pay the teachers and other creditors what is due them, deserve the credit of the 97 per cent of the taxpayers.

In reference to your criticism which I invite, I wish to call your attention to this fact, when the state docks amendment was defeated by an overwhelming vote, if Governor Kilby had not called the extra session and resubmitted it, the state docks would not have been passed with such an overwhelming majority as it was. I might cite also the fight of nine years to make Mobile healthy by removing over 13,000 cesspools that cause sickness, due to the selfishness of a waterworks plant, a monopoly and at the time they controlled the press.

This monopoly charged 50 cents for each 1,000 gallons of water, $10 for each faucet, and $5 for each additional faucet. I could cite many other instances where the people are misled by organized efforts like the Economy League not presenting facts to the public.

Those who pay income tax, the majority of their holdings are non-taxable stocks and bonds.

Last summer at a public meeting of the Real Estate Board, held at the Battle House, Secretary Ellis, of the National Realtors Board of the United States, told in a public speech at that meeting that the special interest had shifted the burdens of taxation on the real estate. That is the condition in Alabama.

I believe that the governor should have the cooperation of the legislature and the public press of Alabama, to give the facts and preserve the credit of the state and pay its just debts.—Yours truly, John Craft, Senator.

CLANTON GIRL GRADUATES

Miss Mary Lou Tiffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tiffin, completed the requirements for an A. B. Degree at Alabama College with honors.

Miss Tiffin expects to be in Clanton until June, then she will continue studying in her major field, history, at Columbia University.

WATTS HAT SHOPPE MOVED

Last week Mrs. Callie Watts moved her store, the Watts Hat Shoppe from the highway near the Exchange Hotel to the building between Alabama Power Company and Spigener's Funeral Home. The new place is two doors west of The Fair.

Since beginning business here two years ago Miss Watts has enjoyed a good portion of the business and patronage of the ladies who buy millinery and clothing in Clanton. She is very deeply appreciative of this patronage, and expects to be better prepared to serve her customers in her new location.

Mrs. Watts' new place presents a very imposing appearance. The arrangement of her show windows always show that she and her clerks are artists when it comes to arranging pretty things for the would-be customers to look at.

WEBB'S NAME ON THE FRONT PAGE OF THE ADVERTISER

In connection with his duties as foreman of the Federal Grand Jury at Montgomery our fellow citizen, S. J. M. Webb, was mentioned in a front-page write-up in The Montgomery Advertiser Saturday morning. Under the sub, "49 Indictment Returned," appeared the following: The grand jury returned 49 indictments in all, involving bankers and employes of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank of Enterprise which failed a year ago. Eight cases were "no billed" and several were continued. S. J. M. Webb of Chilton County was foreman of the Grand Jury.

The above indictments included charges against the sheriffs of two counties: Sheriff D. B. Chambliss of Autauga county and Sheriff Ben Burch of Russell County. Each were billed on two counts of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws. The officers are charged with protecting bootleggers, as revealed by extensive activity from undercover agents, District Attorney, Arthur Chilton said.

MRS. C. V. HEATH DIED WEDNESDAY

Laid to Rest Beside Her Husband In Pine Hill Cemetery

Mrs. C. V. Heath, age 81 years, died at her home in Clanton last Wednesday afternoon, Janury 25, about four o'clock. She had been sick for several weeks.

The funeral was conducted at the residence Thursday afternoon by Rev. S. J. Ezell, assisted by Rev. Cochran. Burial was in charge of Spigener, at Pine Hill Cemetery, Jemison, at three o'clock Thursday afternoon. Pallbearers at the funeral were Dick Hayes, Jack Hayes, James Wade, Hugh Jones, Frank Callen, Renfroe Mullins, Kin Vinson, and Mack Wyatt.

Mrs. Heath was a daughter of Elisha Whatley, one of the prominent pioneer citizens of Bibb County. Her husband was S. J. Heath, who died in 1890. She was a sister of the late Mrs. S. M. Adams, who died in December, 1929.

Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn, of Lawley, is the only surviving member of the Elisha Whatley family now.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Heath came to Clanton and established her home. She has lived here ever since. For the past seventeen years she lived with Mr. and Mrs. Grady Broadhead.

Mrs. Heath was one of the most beloved women of Clanton. She was a faithful member of the Clanton Baptist church, and a devout Christian.

A great array of beautiful flowers bore testimony of the esteem in which she was held. The funeral was attended by many of her sorrowing friends.

MARVIN CARTER DIED ON WEDNESDAY MORNING

Mr. Marvin Carter, age 45 years, died at his home in Clanton about four o'clock Wednesday morning, after an illness of several weeks. Before Christmas Mr. Carter had a severe case of the flu, from which he developed complications of a heart affection, from which he died.

The funeral will be held at Clanton Methodst church today (Thursday) at 1:30 p.m. The body will be carried to Billingsley for burial. Martin & Sons are in charge of the burial.

Mr. Carter is survived by his wife and four sons, Curtis, Lester, Grady and Cecil; three daughters, Dorothy, Grace, and Tootsie.

For several years past Mr. Carter has been engaged in business in Clanton. When he first came here he was a member of the firm of Carter Bros. Garage. Later he established the Carter Electric Shop, in which he was engaged at the time of his illness.

GOOD SERVICES AT FRIENDSHIP

The Sunday school at Friendship is on the mend both as to attendance and interest. There was a nice crowd, good interest and a fine lesson last Sunday. Mr. H. F. McCary has been selected as assistant superintendent. He is a good Bible student, an interesting lecturer, and an ardent church worker.

Prayer meeting is being held every Sunday night. Attendance is good and the interest surprising. The public is invited to attend all services. you will always find a welcome at Friendship.

"Darling, am I the first man you ever loved?"

"Yes, Reginald, all the others were fraternity boys."

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Duncan and Ed Billings of Birmingham were in Clanton Wednesday.

ELECTION SET ON TUESDAY, FEB. 21

People of Chilton County Asked To Vote on the Question of Borrowing $50,000 From U. S. Finance Corporation

The people of Chilton County will be asked to vote on, whether or not the Commissioners Court shall make application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan of $50,000 to be used for the relief of the unemployed in the county.

At a meeting of the Commissioners Wednesday morning it was determined to submit the matter to a vote of the people. The date of the election was set for Tuesday, February 21, 1933.

The Commissioners will ask the same election officers who served in the last General Election to serve in this special election, without pay. There is no law authorizing the payment of expense of such special elections out of county funds, and therefore the Commissioners request the election officers to serve without pay.

All election supplies and expenses of every kind will be donated, and there will be no cost to the county in holding this special election.

The Commissioners will meet at noon on Thursday, February 23 to canvass returns of the election and determine the result of the vote.

Every effort will be made through publicity channels to fully inform the people of the county on the details of the question so they may be able to vote intelligently on election day.

WHY DESTROY THE FOUNDATION?

(By Dr. V. J. Gragg)

To the Gentlemen now congregated on Goat Hill, both executive and legislative:

Before going too far, let's meditate or as Bill Arp used to say, ruminate a little.

As the good book would say, "Consider the Farmer." From the first settlement of America, who paid for what we now have and have had all along?

The farmer's sweat, his blood, his life, from the landing of the Pilgrims down to the present day, has paid for and made us what we are. At Concord, Lexington, Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, he fought our battles, suffered, bled and died for us. From the first settlements on the Atlantic Seaboard, he shoved westward, clearing the forests, vanquishing the red skin, spanning rivers, opening fields, cutting roads, rearing homes, towns and cities, crossing alike the mighty Mississippi River and the gigantic Rocky Mountains, untill finally he saw before him the broad expanse of the Pacific ocean; conquering the entire continent from the hostile savage east and west from ocean to ocean, and from the frigid North to the Gulf of Mexico on the south. The farmers spread out over this vast land of ours taking years to go with ox teams and horse carts where we go now in one day with an airship. They uprooted trees and planted corn and cotton, where we now have universities, colleges, factories and other great modern institutions.

I had a grandfather who spent five years of his early life in the war of the revolution, and then pioneered in Georgia and Alabama. And I had a father who helped in the early settlement of Central Alabama; and, though too old for active service, did his bit as a coast guard in the Confederate army. You, gentlemen, look back and honor these old pioneer ancestors of yours who helped make this country, and put forth your efforts to keep it a free country where the farmer and laborer may enjoy life.

It is only by and through the farmer that we are what we are and our wonderful country is what it is. Had the farmers not worked, suffered, sweated, bled and died by the millions all through this 150 years that we have been a nation, how else could we have existed? Had it not been for the farmer, we would have no lawyers, doctors, teachers, merchants, etc. We would have no cities, towns; no manufacturing establishments or laborers therein. We would have no railroads, highways, hydro-electric plants nor the score of other wonders of modern civilization.

The farmer paid for all these things. He paid with his sweat, his blood, his very life. He has been taxed for what he owned only in name. He has paid tax on mules, cows, farm tools and land that the other man really owned and he was allowed to claim and pay tax on. He has paid and paid until he can py no more.

The farmer has not stopped at clearing woods, pulling stumps, digging ditches and raising corn and cotton. He has stocked the stores in the neighboring village. He has paid for the education of the brightest boys and girls who have left the farm. He has fed the entire world, including professionals, business men, officials, taxeaters, usurers, gamblers, middlemen, and profiteers.

Lo! This one hundred years and more he has had the little end of the horn. He has been forced to stint himself and family and work and squeeze to make ends meet, while others who profiteered in his labor, or lived from the taxes bled from him, enjoyed plenty. In short, the farmer has been robbed for generations and is now about to be entirely liquidated.

I beg you, I plead with you, if you destroy the farmer you destroy all classes from the richest down. Now, you were the choice of a majority of the voters of your respective electorate. They spoke their confidence in you at the polls. You are in a measure dependent on them. Don't destroy yourself by destroying them.

Many farmers and others oppressed and unemployed will not vote next time because they cannot pay their poll tax. Many poor oppressed children are today out of school because their parents have no money to send them to private schools and the money that should have been used to pay teachers and keep the public schools open has been DIVERTED! You are getting your pay and your child is in school. Why does not the public school teacher get his pay? That may sound like a hard question, nevertheless, it is true.

Get off the farmers back. Let the oppressed laborer have a rest from tax, tax. Arrange for the unemployed to find a job to make an honest living and all will be well. If that is not done, the future holds a dreadfully dark day in store.

TO-NIGHT

There will be a meeting of World War Veterans at the courthouse in Clanton. Every ex-soldier in Chilton County is very urgently requested to attend. Matters of vital importance to the men who are drawing compensation will be discussed by a visiting speaker, Mr. Lokey, of Columbiana. Music will be furnished by a number of our local entertainers. The ladies of the Auxiliary and all wives of ex-service men are urged to come.

SHOWER IN HONOR OF MISS LORENE YEARGAN WILKINS

Saturday afternoon, January 21, Mrs. Pauline Bearden gave a shower at the home of Mrs. C. L. Wilkins in honor of Mrs. Lorene Yeargan Wilkins. The guests arrived at the home at two o'clock, and were invited into the living room by Miss Mabel Wilkins. The room was beautifully decorated with gold and white with several pots of flowers to match.

After all the guests arrived, there were a number of games played by the entire group. The honoree was lead into the dining room at 3:30 o'clock by Mrs. Bearden. Here she found many beautiful and useful gifts upon the dining table.

The refreshments were served at four o'clock. They were cake and different kinds of fruit. There were about seventy-five guests present.

They departed about four-thirty o'clock, wishing the bride many pleasant days to come.

MRS. MATTHEWS BURIED MONDAY

Remains Rest Beside The Grave of Dr. Matthews In Clanton

The body of Mrs. Belle J. Matthews Malmede was placed in its final resting place Monday morning beside the grave of her husband, the late Dr. E. A. Matthews, in the Clanton cemetery. The death of Mrs. Matthews occurred Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Garner (Emmett Matthews) at Ozark.

The remains of Mrs. Matthews were brought here by Holman, funeral director, of Ozark. A short funeral service was held at the grave, conducted by Rev. Cochran, of the Clanton Methodist church. Pallbearers were C. Fenn Jones, J. B. Atkinson, Dr. V. J. Gragg, M. L. White, C. Reese Mullins and Judge L. H. Reynolds.

Mrs. Ralph Garner, of Ozark, and Mrs. G. B. Wimberly of Reform, are the only surviving members of the immediate family of Dr. and Mrs. Matthews. Mrs. Garner was here on Monday in attendance at the funeral of her mother. Mrs. Wimberly was unable to come. Miss Marjorie Wimberly, student at Montevallo, and G. B. Wimberly, Jr., of Reform, were here.

Dr. Matthews died several years ago. Since his death Mrs. Matthews married again to a gentleman by the name of Malmede. They lived in Birmingham.

The burial Monday morning was attended by quite a number of the old friends of the Matthews family. During all the years she lived here, Mrs. Matthews enjoyed the most cordial and admiring friendship of her neighbors and associates. She was a sweet and lovely Christian woman.

MORE SCHOOL FACTS

According to a research bulletin of the National Education Association just received at the State Department of Education the amount of money spent for education in the United States in 1930 was $2,320,000. During the same year the nation's payment of life insurance premiums was $3,524,326,635.00. Other expenditures were:

For building construction $5,046,829,000; for the purchase, upkeep and operation of passenger automobiles $11,817,700,000; for tobacco approximately $2,000,000,000, for candy, chewing gum, and theaters approximately $6,000,000,000.

The report points out also that the annual expenditures for education increased in 16 years from $555,077,000 in 1914 to $2,320,776,000 in 1930. The three factors thought to be primarily responsible for this increase, according to the report, are:

1. Depreciation of the dollar. A dollar in 1914 would buy as much as $1.59 in 1930.

2. Longer terms and increased attendance. Public education has been popularized to such an extent that the average length of term has increased from 158.7 days in 1914 to 173.7 days in 1930, and the enrollment of children in school increased from 19,153,796 in 1914 to 25,678,015 in 1930. This is 34 per cent increase. The average attendance actually increased 49.1 per cent.

3. Improvement in education service. This includes the expansion and revision of the curriculum, advances in libraries and other phases of equipment, and the professionalization of the teaching and administration staffs.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The United Singing Society will meet at Thorsby Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. All singers and lovers of sacred music are invited to take part with us in this service.—A. H. Glasscock.

SEVERAL STORES PLAN TO MOVE

Clanton Business Houses Will Make Changes As Soon As Possible

A number of changes in locations of business houses in Clanton are to be made soon. Plans are under way and details are being worked out as fast as possible.

Marion Gore will move his feed store across Sixth Street and occupy the buliding of Dr. Gowan, which has in the past been used as a cafe.

The Clanton Cash Store will take the Marion Gore Corner. Managers of the Cash Store are very happy over the opportunity to get this excellent busines place. It is recognized as among the best business locations in Clanton. Mr. O. D. DeLoacn made this statement in discussing future plans: "We expect to install in our new place one of the most modern and up-to-date grocery and food stores to be found anywhere. We will have a place better suited to our needs than that which we have had, and we shall make every preparation possible for a most attractive and serviceable store."

Jesse Baker is also slated for a move. He will occupy the Tom Rockett building next door to the new location of Buck Gore. Mr. Baker has an exclusive dry goods store, one of the most popular in Clanton. For many years Mr. Baker was over on Sixth Street just above The Union-Banner office. "I feel like I am getting back home when I move back to Sixth Street," said Mr. Baker.

The move of Jesse Baker will make a vacancy which will be filled by Ben Margolis moving his Sample Shoe Store across Main Street. When Ben Jumps over to the south side of Main Street, Joe Calloway will jump right across to the north side, carrying his drug store to the Fen Jones Buliding, now occupied by Ben.

No definite date has been set for any of the movings. It will take a little time to work out the details. Rumor has it that there are still other moves brewing.

CIRCUIT COURT SET FOR FEB.

According to the announcement made by Circuit Clerk J. Z. Mims, a call has been made by Judge Loyd Tate for a non-jury session of the circuit Court of Chilton County.

The civil docket is called for Wednesday, February 22. Part of the state non-jury docket is called for Thursday, February 23.

Circuit Clerk Mims stated that he will have the docket set and ready for publication next week.

CHARLEY A. WILLIAMSON DIED

Charley A. Williamson, age 65 years, died last Friday morning at his home in the Cane Creek community, after an illness of several weeks. He was buried at Cane Creek last Saturday. The funeral was conducted by Rev. A. C. Nelson.

Mr. Williamson is survived by his wife, age 61 years; six sons, Andrew, Posey, Ervin, Guy, Paul, and Oscar; four daughters, Mrs. Lee Ellison, Mrs. Lon Robinson, Mrs. Arthur Giles and Mrs. Johnny Plier.

POULTRY CAR WAS WELL LOADED

The loadings of the cooperative poultry car in the county last week is as follows:

Verbena, 2,190 pounds; Clanton 8,038 pounds; Jemison, 3,340 pounds; Mr. Stapp sent a truck to Billingsley and Maplesville and picked up 2,200 pounds at these points, making a total of 16,568 pounds loaded in the county.

Mr. Stapp states that he will try to run another cooperative car in the county early in March and one the last of April.

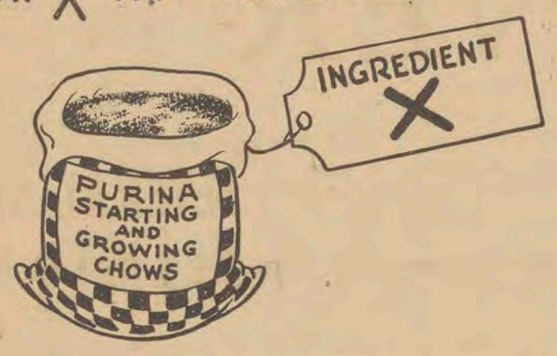
BORROWERS FROM GOVERNMENT MUST FURNISH LAND NUMBERS

County Agent Stapp calls attention of those who expect to make application for government loans for crop production that they will have to furnish him with numbers of land on which crop is to be made. Mr. Stapp calls attention to this because so many fail to bring their land numbers and necessitates holding up the application until the applicant goes to the courthouse and looks up his land numbers.

ON JURY AT DOTHAN

Several citizens from Chilton County were called to Dothan Monday for service on the jury in United States Court. Among them were O. D. Deloach and Dewey Rockett, Rev. Willie Wilson, Walter Rollan, Sid Gibson, and some from Thorsby whose names we did not learn. Deloach and Rockett were excused from duty and returned home Monday night.

THAT X-TRA SOMETHING—



Syn-cron-ized proteins! The greatest development since the discovery of vitamins. We call it ingredient-X. It is a new method of blending proteins that means added life and growth to chicks. It found only in Purina Startena and Growena.

Out of scores of feeding experiment and years of testing work on thousands of chicks came ingredient-X, the blending and syn-cron-izing of proteins; the careful nicking together of the right protein ingredients in Startena and Growena.

Startena! Better than ever. Its proteins are syn-cronized. Feed it to your chicks. You will be chicks and profits ahead.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—Please give your rule for the latest pruning of grapevines.

A.—Grapevines "bleed" or lose their sap when they are pruned too late in winter or spring. When the buds of shade trees have begun to swell or are showing a little green, it is too late to prune grapevines successfully by the ordinary method. Try to prune the vines before then. You cannot prune them too soon now. Usually grapevines are not pruned as heavily as they should be; but, if they have been neglected for a number of years, do not prune too heavily the first time. The annual pruning should consist in cutting away nearly all of the new growth of last year, leaving about four or five buds each on a few of the canes.

Q.—A number of my neighbors lop off the tops of fruit trees and shrubs and pay no attention to the location of the branches or buds. Is this wise?

A.—Shrubs should be pruned by cutting the oldest growth, say three years old at the ground, with heavy pruning tools. Leave the other stems alone unless they are too tall. If they must be cut back because of their height, then cut to a branch always, never leaving any stubs. The branch will carry the circulation of the sap and not injure the growth of the stems. A similar rule may be applied to trees, but there is usually only one main stem. Therefore, cut the branches back to where they started, or else cut them back to where they have forked. Then prune close, leaving no stubs.

Q.—What spray material is best for use against scale insects on fruit trees, shrubs and shade trees?

A.—Commercial lime-sulphur, diluted to winter by directions, is best for scale insects in the winter stage. If the insects are extremely bad and spraying has been neglected for several winters use oil emulsion. The stock solution of oil emulsion is made by using one pound of strong laundry soap, one gallon of water, and two gallons of oil from an auto crank case. Boil these together until a brown skim appears on the top and then disappears by continued boiling. For spraying, use three parts of this stock solution with ninety-seven parts of water. Spray any woody plants, such as trees and shrubs in a dormant condition with this, and it will kill the scale insects.

LESPEDEZA HAS TRIO OF VALUES AS A CROP

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 31.—Experiences of farmers throughout Alabama indicate that lespedeza is a much more valuable crop than it is appreciated. It is splendid for pasture, is very effective in improving the soil, and, under favorable conditions, it makes sufficient growth for satisfactory yields of excellent hay. As a hay crop it is limited largely to the lower lands in north Alabama.

Lespedeza, however, grows on practically all the soils of this state. It is a basic plant in pastures. It is a legume which furnishes good grazing from late spring to late fall. Since it is a legume it is excellent for improving land. If given time it will do a great deal in restoring the fertility to mistreated and neglected soil.

The best varieties in Alabama, according to J. C. Lowery, of the extension service of Auburn, are the common varieties and kobe. It is well to consult county agents who are familiar with the best variety for their respective counties.

Lespedeza should be planted in late winter or early spring—February and March. Broadcast the seed at the rate of one bushel (25 pound) per acre and cover just deep enough to prevent drifting. A weeder is a splendid implement to use.

Basic slag is a good fertilizer for lespedeza. An application of 200 pounds per acre will produce excellent results on most soils of Alabama. To control weeds lespedeza should be clipped in June or July with a mower.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

The Panama Canal Zone had less business in 1932 than in any other year since 1922, so far as commercial traffic was concerned. A total of 4,637 transits were reported, the ships paying $19,635,000.

Dr. C. A. Cary has announced that the ninth annual short course for graduate veterinarians will be held at the Auburn school of veterinary medicine, February 6-11. Veterinarians from several states are expected. A special faculty will conduct it.

Talk with the county agent now about pasture improvements for February and March.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Norris (Deputy Sheriff) have been off on a short vacation for the past week visiting among friends and relatives.

CORN VARIETY IS IMPORTANT

Auburn, Ala.—The variety of corn which a farmer plants in the spring is a big factor in determining the size of yield in the fall, as shown by experiments conducted under the direction of H. B. Tisdale and John T. Williamson of the Alabama Experiment Station staff. Some of the leading varieties produced twice as much as the poorest.

There are many good varieties of corn for each section of Alabama and a little money spent for seed of these varieties is a wise expenditure. The five leading varieties of corn with yield in bushels of grain are given for the central section of Alabama, as follows:

Mosby (Graham) 26.5; Indian Chief (yellow) 25; Whatley (Hudson) 24.8; Hastings 24.6; Mosby (Delta) 24.1.

These figures are results of variety experiments conducted during the last three years at Alexandria, Crossville, Belle Mina, Lafayette, Aliceville, Headland and Brewton.

To be sure that they got good seed of the desired variety farmers are advised to consult their county agents not forgetting the fact that it is exceedingly unwise to plant corn without knowing that it is one of the leading varieties in the county where it is planted.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

The real dairymen should manifest the same personal pride in his business as the lawyer, doctor, or other perfessional men. Be something other than a mere cow milker.

Build a medicine cabinet and stock it now with drugs and remedies for first aid treatment. You may need these items while waiting for the doctor.

On the top shelf of the medicine cabinet keep a good book on cattle diseases and first-aid treatments.

Agricultural Credit

Mr. Stapp points out that loans through this source differ from the seed loan through which farmers borrowed last year in that loans through the Agricultural Credit Corporation Bank have to be amply secured. For information of those who are making inquiry, Mr. Stapp states that the costs involved in securing these loans are as follows: One per cent on loans up to $100 for clerical help in making the application; 6½ per cent per annum for the period of the loan, and $3.00 attorney fee. The recording fee varies according to the loan.

The seed loan through which many farmers operated last year, is not available at the present time. Mr. Stapp states that the bill which provides for the loans similar to the ones handled for the past two years, has recently passed congress and is now ready for the president's signature.

It is Mr. Stapp's understanding that if the president signs that bill, money would be available for the crop production to farmers who are unable to borrow money because of the lack of security.

In the recent series of county outlook meetings held by Mr. Stapp, he stressed the importance of farmers as well as other people making as few and small obligations this year as possible. He has been urging the farmers to not borrow money unless they had to have it. Mr. Stapp states that even though he will be out in the county organizing 4-H clubs his office will be able to handle applications for loans.

FOREST FIRE SEASON UNDER WAY

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 31.—Serious danger from forest fires will probably ensue from now on through February, March and April, says Grady G. Cleveland, chief of the bureau of field service of the Alabama forestry department. "It is too much to expect," Mr. Cleveland stated in an interview, "that the favorable moisture conditions of the past six months will continue much longer. With a great deal of dead vegetation on the ground, and with the high winds that ensue during the late winter and early spring, many fires are certain to start, and if they are not promptly controlled the money damage to young timber, mature growth and improvements may be very high."

According to Mr. Cleveland, forest fires in Alabama are not especially difficult to control, providing the landowner takes an active and energetic interest in protecting his holdings. "There is nothing that the state or the federal government can do to protect forest lands unless the owner bestirs himself in his own behalf," said Mr. Cleveland. "On dry windy days farmers and others interested in the protection of lands against fire should exercise special watchfulness and be prepared to smother any blaze that gets started. Prompt action of this sort may easily save the state and the property owners a million dollars or more. There is nothing mysterious about the means, methods and devices of forest fire protection. Consistent watchfulness on the part of the citizens of each community during times of high hazard, together with a bit of hard work now and then when fires occur, comprises the greater part of the solution of the forest fire problem."

The flapper co-ed cornered the M. A. prof and said: "Profy, dear, tell me my marks."

He put his arms around her and whispered sweet nothings in her ear.

425 4-H Club Members 1932

Seven Hundred Members Set As Goal For This Year Says Stapp

The following is a letter being mailed out to the white farmers of Chilton County relative to 4-H club work to be carried on by Mr. Stapp this year.

He states that he had 425 club members last year, and that there should be seven hundred or eight hundred this year. By club members he means farm boys who select projects and study the best and most economical methods for successful operations of his project. Attention is called to the meeting dates for February at which time Mr. Stapp will organize active 4-H club.

To White Boxholders:

Would you like for your boy to do 4-H club work in 1933? The object of club work is to prepare boys for better life. Read the enclosed card.

If you had a boy and would like for him to be a member of the 4-H club, let him attend one of the meetings as scheduled on the back of this letter.

We had twenty-two organized 4-H clubs last year, with officers and leaders. Last year the Kiwanis club of Clanton offered a silver loving cup to the club making the best record and reporting same. The cup was won by Concord Club. Verbena Club pushed pretty close. The cup and watches will be awarded at the club rally in March or April. The following is a part of Concord Club's report of activities:

"We have averaged holding a meeting once a month for the entire year and all of the meetings were very good. We had discussions on various subjects each time. There was an average attendance of about two-thirds of the membership at each meeting.

"We have put on three plays during the year, raising a total amount of $30.20. Out of this we have given one community picnic and three socials. The balance of the money we gave to the P.-T. A. of Concord Jr. High School to be placed in the building fund.

"We held a public debate at the county court house with the Verbena Club; the subject of the debate being resolved, 'That the farmers of Chilton County should follow the live-at-home program instead of depending on cash crops to buy living necessities.' The Verbena Club won.

"Our members had a wonderful time on the 4-H club camp last summer.

"We are endeavoring now to organize a 4-H basket ball team."—Respectfully submitted, Concord 4-H Club, Cleveland Driver, president; Judson Easterling, vice president; Clement Easterling, secretary-treasurer; Frank Cleckler, reporter.

If your boy lives too far from any of the places listed and cannot be in an organized club, if he would like to, he may be a lone 4-H club member by writing to me and telling me what kind of work he wishes to do.

The following is a list of the projects from which a boy may select: corn, cotton, garden, truck crops, purebred sow, the meat hogs, purebred Jersey heifer, and a beef animal. The boy may take any one or more of these projects, study the best methods and keep records on his work.

If you give your boy a project and allow him to become a club member, have some understanding as to what the boy is to get out of the work. If he does the work well he will get good training, but in addition to the training let him realize some monetary value. By this I mean that if the boy would be interested in caring for all of your meat hogs for the year, tell him that you will try to cooperate in helping him do the things that will enable him to produce meat as cheaply as possible, and at the same time you will give to him one of the hogs to sell. You might specify the smallest hog or the largest hog. A similar understanding should be had relative to cotton, corn, or any other of the projects.

The organized clubs will be furnished suggested programs to be carried out each month. At each place where we have an organized club, we will select some adult person to meet with the boys and help them with their meetings. If you are selected by the boys of your community, I trust that you will meet with them every time and help them to have the kind of meetings you would like for your boy to attend.

I am in position to do more work with the boys this year than I have been able to do in the past, and I trust that I may have your full cooperation.

Don't forget the meeting dates.

Yours for the development of the boys and girls into real men and women.—C. E. Stapp, County Agent.

The meetings are as follows:

Verbena High School, Feb. 6, 10 a.m.; Cooper school, Feb. 6, 1 p.m.; Thomas Jr. school, Feb. 6, 3 p.m.

Concord school, Feb. 7, 10 a.m.; Enterprise school, Feb. 7, 1 p.m.; Shiloh school, Feb. 7, 3 p.m.

Central Singing Society

After a month or so of more or less interruption on account of rainy and cold weather, the Central Singing Society anticipates making up some of the last time when it meets on regular schedule at Chestnut Creek, Cooper, next Sunday afternoon. Singing will begin promptly at 2 o'clock, and the singers of this section of the county are invited and urged to be present by that hour. It is hoped that if any interest in the singing has temporarily dropped that it will be regained in next Sunday afternoon's meeting. So, everybody make an effort to attend at Cooper. No one need fear of failing to get a seat, because there is plenty of room down there.

THE LEADER
MANAGER, M. LANDE

MYRTLE LEONARD ALLEN

On January 11, 1933, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Allen and carried from them their loving little girl, Myrtle.

Myrtle had been sick for some time. All that kind doctors, nurses and loving hands could do was done, but God said I need you little Myrtle, and she smiled and left this world of sorrow, to be with Jesus forever in that beautiful home where sorrow is unknown.

Myrtle was only nine years of age. She had a sweet disposition, and to know her was to love her. Every Sunday morning and evening one could see a little golden, curly haired girl coming to church, with a Bible in her hand, and a smile on her face. She was sunshine everywhere.

The Junior class of which she was a member dedicated a song to her.

If Myrtle could only know and say, I am sure she would say, "Weep not dear mother and daddy, for I am only sleeping, all is well and heaven is so beautiful. Teach little sisters so that you all may live to meet me on that blissful shore, where all your hardships and heartaches will cease, and will be joy forever more.

Rev. J. D. Hughes conducted funeral services, which were held at Chestnut Creek Baptist Church.

Myrtle is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Allen; three sisters, L. E., Henrietta and Inez, a number of relatives and friends.—Her Junior B. Y. P. U. Leader, Mrs. J. Lee Yates.

HUNTING AND FISHING IN ALA.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 31.—The hunting resources of Alabama have borne a strong appeal to out-of-state sportsmen since the World War and this year, despite deflated economic conditions, the number of non-resident hunting licenses sold by the state promises to fall but a little below standard.

The demand for non-resident hunting licenses reached its peak, as did most other demands, during the hunting year, 1929-30, when 223 licenses were sold. This marked the first time in the records of the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department that the number had exceeded 200.

From 1910 to 1920, out of state hunting licenses averaged about 45 per year. In 1919-20 there was a sharp increase, the total advancing from 42 the year previous to 180. An average of about 150 were sold each year thereafter until 1927-28. In that year 198 non-resident licenses were sold, the next year 199, the banner year 223, and in 1930-31 they dropped off to 199.

The year 1931-32 saw a further decrease to 153, and an even lower level may be reached for the current hunting year, although the "big push" of the quail season did not actively get underway until January. Approximately 60 non-resident hunters had purchased licenses to hunt in Alabama through the first of the year, but January and February quail shooting was expected to lure at least two score more to the state.

These hunters are attracted chiefly from New York, Pennsylvania and Georgia. Others come from Indiana, Delaware, Kentucky, Florida, Ohio, Connecticut, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Henry O'Malley, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, will visit Mobile this spring, probably in March, to inspect proposed sites for a federal fish hatchery near there.

Commissioner O'Malley expressed interest in the development of a site near Citronelle in a letter to Sam H. Lackland of Mobile.

"What the bureau needs is a number of sites where ponds may be built for the purpose of rearing the small fish to a large size before distributing them," Mr. O'Malley wrote.

"From what I understand of the site at Citronelle, it would supply such advantages, together with an excellent water supply and low cost of constructing ponds."

Representative John McDuffie Monroeville, for a number of years has urged the location of a federal fish hatchery near Mobile and has been responsible for the distribution of a large quantity of fish in the Mobile and Citronelle areas.

Governor Sennett Connor of Mississippi, has proclaimed the week of January 30- February 3, as "Mississippi Conservation Week."

The Mississippi State Department of Education, Geological Survey, Forestry Department and the new Game and Fish Department are financing the special observance and distributing literature advertising the week, while the Mississippi Federation of Women's Clubs, garden club, congress of Parent-Teachers and the Mississippi Association for the conservation of wild life also are serving as sponsors.

Mississippi is the baby state in the game and fisheries conservation, having for the first time last year established a state wide game and fish department.

Miss Ethel Cagle, who is attending college at Troy, spent the week end with her parents at Mitchell Dam. She returned Sunday afternoon.

Prof. Houston Robinson of Verbena was in Clanton attending to business last Saturday.

Copelan Urges Folk To Support Phones

To The Phoneholders And Others Interested in Chilton County and a Home-Owned Telephone Co.:

There is no time like the present to refinance and rebuild the Peoples Telephone Company while everything is at the bottom and lots of people have nothing much to do. They would be glad to do something to get their troubles off their minds, and do something for the benefit of the future.

Everything will start back up hill in a few months, so let's have the Peoples Telephone Company in the lead to help things back to the old standard. It will take lots of vim, vigor and vitality, but folks, we have it. So lets use it. Lets all get up and try to be first, not set down and try to be last. Lets go at it wholeheartedly or not at all.

I have been to most of the phoneholders and talked to them about the business. They are all interested and want a good telephone system, but no one seems to want to start the wheel to rolling. So I am trying to give all of you an equal chance to try and all start together so we can make a big showing in a short time.

Did you ever stop to think just what a home-owned telephone system means to a town and rural district? There is nothing you can compare it with in the way of communication and quick business transactions and for convenience it cannot be beat. There is no need of telling the conveniences, for those of you who are without service know that better than anyone else.

All of us have been without a telephone at times and know the inconveniences, so don't you think it worth while to consider the telephone business seriously and resolve to put it back on its feet again. Once done, it is done for a long time, say from ten to fifteen years at the least. There is some parts of wire and posts that have been in use around thirty years. So it seems that they have served their purpose well, and anything that serves that well, certainly ought to be replaced without a grumble.

The switchboard is capable of rendering service to around four hundred telephones we now have, and we could easily take care of twenty more lines. So why not get together in each community and thrash it out and figure it up and you will be surprised at the small sum it will take for each phoneholder? And I am sure you are all convinced it is really worth the money. It is really a shame the way the Peoples Telephone Company has been treated, or treated itself, one or both. With the proper care and attention it would not be in its present condition. So don't be afraid you will do something for nothing, and don't be afraid you will help the other fellow too much, for we all need help and appreciate all we can get.

I have been here almost a year, keeping up lines and fixing telephones, even been out ten miles in the country, working on lines and phones, trying to help each and everyone interested, and have not received over $50 for the time I have been at your service. So you see I am really trying to give you and the company your just dues and more. I have not got a life sentence and have gone just about as far as is justifiable to go. However, I am not giving up, only want to put it before you as it really is so you will know who is at fault. It is my aim to see the Peoples Telephone Company sitting on top of the world and hope to in the future.

I want you all to know the sleet and bad weather damaged the lines and post to a great extent, but we are getting them back as fast as possible under the conditions we have to work. We would like to hear from each of you, and find out just how you feel about the telephone business. So we will know both sides and bear in mind we want to refinance the company by some hook or crook, which I am leaving to a vote of the officers and phoneholders.

Sincerely hoping you will consider this in the right form and give it your most careful consideration, I am yours for service.—C. R. Copelan.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

"Thus saith the Lord, thy redeemer . . . . . that saith to the deep, be dry, and I will dry up thy rivers: that saith of Cyrus, He is My shepherd, and shall perform all My pleasure: even saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built; and to the temple, Thy foundation shall be laid. Thus saith the Lord to His anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have holden, to subdue nations before him; and I will loose the lions of kings, to open before him the two-leaved gates; and the gates shall not be shut." Isa. 44:24-28; 45:1.

More than two hundred years after this prophecy was given the man Cyrus was born—born to lead the armies of the Medes and the Persians in victorious conquest against Babylon, the first universal empire.

Babylon was founded by Nabopolassar in the year 605 B. C. It was a beautiful city with its hanging gardens and with the river Euphrates running right through the city. The city was strongly fortified and so large that they estimated it could withstand a seige for ten or fifteen years. The river ran under the great walls of this city. Inside the city on either side of the river were high walls with gates at the interesction of each street. These gates like the gates of the city were always guarded and were kept closed at night.

Cyrus at the head of the Medo-Persian army laid seige to this capital city of the world. Belshazzar was king of Babylon but never did he fear the strength of Cyrus. He therefore made a great feast for his lords during the time of the seige.

When word of this great feast reached the ears of Cyrus he quickly laid his plans and vigorously executed them. An artifical lake was prepared and on the night of the feast while a part of his men turned the water of the great river Euphrates into this artifical lake the rest of the men went in the river bed under the walls and to their great suprise and joy found that the river gates had that night been left open because of the great feast. The Babylonian soldiers and generals were all intoxicated and the conquest of the city was an easy matter. And so passed world dominion from Babylon to Medo-Persia in the year 538 B.C. And so too was fulfilled the prophecy, "I will loose the loins of kings, to open before him the two-leaved gates; and the gates shall not be shut." This prophecy was fulfilled more than two hundred years after it was given.—L. A. Butterfield.

Plants- -Plants- -Plants

I am not handling plants in the downtown district this season, but at my home two doors below the courthouse or next door to county agent's office. I have plenty of fresh Cabbage and Bermuda Onion Plants which I believe that I am offering you farmers at a tremendous savings. Cabbage plants at 10c per hundred; Onion plants at three hundred for 25c. I will greatly appreciate your patronage and also consider it a favor if you will pass this news on to your neighbors.

LETTER TO STAPP

To County Agents Edmunson, Nunn, Parker, Blake, Winch, Lawson, Story, Robinson, Stapp, Cammack, Culpepper, Hale, Harrell, Best, Cheney and Thomason:

We will hold a meeting of the Feeder Calf Association in Selma at the Courthouse, Monday, February 6th, at 2 p.m. The outlook for beef cattle and methods of management will be discussed. Dr. S. D. Lowe of Washington expects to be with us to give some results of experiments on crop feeding and the use of purebred sires.

Valuable and practical information will be given to beef cattle producers and I will appreciate it if you will give publicity to the meeting in your county papers and if possible send a letter urging your beef cattle producers to attend.—Yours very truly, R. S. Sugg, agent in animal husbandy.

P.S.—Mr. R. E. Lambert is president of the association and U. C. Jenkins is secretary.

Paul Skaggs of Nashville, came to Clanton last Thursday to attend the funeral of Mrs. C. V. Heath.

Miss Emma Sue Morris spent the week end in Birmingham with friends.

Some do not understand the tuition rates at Thorsby Instiute. They are quoted here $13.50 plus $1.50 pays the tuition fee for the semester through the rest of the school year. If necessary some of this may be paid in provisions. If one prefers to pay by the term, that is every six weeks, the charge is $5.00 a term. The registration fee of $1.50 is paid at the beginning of the semester for the rest of the year. Music tuition is $3.00 a term (six weeks) one lesson a week, or $8.00 for the semester. There is a saving of $1.00 if one pays by the semester. Two lessons a week are $4.00 a term or $10.50 a semester.

JEMISON NEWS

On the second Tuesday afternoon in October, the ladies of the Order Eastern Star met at the home of Mrs. A. C. Wells, and organized a social club which they have named the Joy-Craft Club. Elected as officers are, president, Mrs. George Nash, secretary-treasurer, Miss Leary Newell. The following were appointed as the program committee to serve for three months: Mrs. J. P. Montgomery chairman, Miss Bessie Jessee and Mrs. E. L. Glasscock.

The members of this club are members of Order Eeastern Star or are eligible for membership in our chapter.

We haven't any dues, but fine each member 10 cents when absent from a meeting. Fines to be used for relief charity or anything voted on by the club.

The last Tuesday afternoon in each month was selected as a regular meeting time.

Mrs. Vera Crysell and Mrs. E. B. Atkinson as joint hostessess entertained the club in November, Mrs. A. M. Attaway in December and Mrs. E. L. Glasscock and Mrs. Leonard Glasscock in January.—Mrs. A. C. Wells Publicity Chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rushing were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith Saturday night.

Mr. Lorenza Smith and Miss Mary Sue Smith were united in the bonds of holy matrimony at the home of Rev. A. C. Nelson last week.

Rev. A. C. Nelson was called to Cane Creek last Saturday morning to conduct the funeral of Mr. Charlie Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Durden has moved out of the old Baptist church building into the house vacated by Mrs. Sussie Moore.

Rev. A. C. Nelson and family motored to Eclectic Saturday evening where they conducted religious services.

The singing at Mr. and Mrs. Abner Cox Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

POPLAR SPRINGS

A large crowd attended church both Sunday and Sunday night. The weather has been so bad the crowd has been small for some time, but we are hoping that no one has lost interest and will come back.

The singing was good both Sunday and Sunday night. Both chairman and assistant chairman were present Sunday night. Dolphus Harris took charge of the singing.

We were proud to have all the visitors and welcome them back at all times.

Everbody come back next Sunday and let's make our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. grow both in attendance and spirit.—Sec'y-Treas.

New Plan Made For Better I.G.A. Service

I. G. A. merchants will "Tune In" their own private food breadcasts in the future, according to announcement by The Hobbie Company, Inc., sponsors of the national alliance in this territory.

Now the I. G. A. merchants have their own private merchandising breadcast system. Now they can listen in once a month to hear the latest about food products and how to better serve their customers.

They will hear and likewise see how to adopt and use the latest and most effective methods of store operation—not through the radio—but with the use of the new "I. G. A. Vocalpix," the latest and most efficient development in the history of mass selling and merchandising.

The growth of the I. G. A. or Independent Grocers' Alliance of America, is in epic story and romance in the history of American business. Today there are thousands of these independent I. G. A. food merchants operating in 43 states of the nation, less than seven years after the first I. G. A. store was opened at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. in the fall of 1926.

To keep pace with this sensational growth, I. G. A. National Headquarters of Chicago has adopted new methods each year to properly organize the selling activities of the I. G. A. merchants located throughout the country. Costs of doing business have been cut down as a result and tremendous savings have been made possible for I. G. A. members and their customers.

The new I. G. A. Vocalpix has been perfected after months of research by I. G. A. engineers at national headquarters of the alliance in Chicago.

Now when a national sales drive has been planned in the I. G. A., the food experts and merchandising men at national headquarters sit down in front of the microphone and discuss the drive in complete detail.

Their talks are recorded on records. Cameras click and photographs are made to illustrate all the important subjects covered. Then the records and films are sent out to I. G. A. wholesalers across the country. Eacn I. G. A. wholesaler has installed complete "Vocalpix" equipment to reproduce the syuchronized sound and pictures for the benefit of his I. G. A. merchants and their clerks.

As the name impplies, "Vocalpix" tells the story with voice-pictures. It brings to I. G. A. merchants everything that is new about food and the latest developments in the food business. Veteran executives in the food industry declare that it represents the geatest forward step and improvement in the history of the retail food business.

"Vocalpix" meetings will be held in Alabama as follows:

Birmingham, Thursday, February 2, Dothan, Wednesday, February 8; Brewton, Thursday, February 9, and Montgomery, Monday, February 13.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday 10 a.m., Bible study for all. 11 a.m., preaching and worship. Subject for 11 a.m., is "An Individaul's Responsibility To God." 6:45 p.m. preaching, subject "What Must I Do To Be Saved?" Outlined as follows: (1). What have I done? (2). What remains to be done? (3). Can we fall from grace? (4). How can we be restored to grace?—R. L. Huffman.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Paul and Silas had preached the gospel as the power of God to save at Phillippi; and by their especially endued power to perform miracles which belonged to their age, they healed a girl of the power of soothsaying. When her masters saw the hope of their gains was gone they falsely accused these men of God and caused them to be beaten with many stripes and to be thrust into the inner prison and their feet made fast in the stocks. But at midnight, with the courage and conviction of a Chistian's heart, they prayed and sang praises unto God. The prisoners heard them. Suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundation of the prison was shaken. Immediately all the doors were opened and everyone's hands were loosed. The keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep and seeing the prison doors open, and supposing the prisoners had fled, drew his sword and was about to kill himself when Paul cried with a loud voice, "Do thyself no harm; for we are all here." Being thus so mercifully snatched back from death by the voice of Paul, upon whom the jailor had been instrumental in imposing injustice, he called for a light, sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas and brought them out and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" And they said, "Believe in the Lord, Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."

Of all questions, this is one of the most important. The jailor wanted to know what to do. Paul and Silas told him immediately what to do, and said, "Believe on the Lord, Jesus Christ." To believe on Christ means to do something, and where there is no "Do" there is no "Believe," so far as salvation is concerned. Paul and Silas spoke the word of the Lord unto this anxious sinner so that he might be able to believe (for faith comes by hearing God's word, Rom. 10:17) and to know what to do is believing. By reading the rest of the story (Acts 16:23-34) we find what the jaijlor did to "believe" on Christ. This shows repentance and acceptance of the word which had been spoken to him. He took them the same hour of the night and was baptized, he and all his, straightway. He did exactly what three thousand on Pentecost did to be saved. Acts 2:38. He did exactly what Paul himself had done, (Acts 22:16) and what the eunuch did, (Acts 8:38) and what the Corinthians did, (Acts 18:8.) There is no evidence whatever in God's word that any one was ever saved by leaving of obedience; neither is there evidence that anyone ever truly believed God and refused to keep any of His commands.

If we could have asked this jailor what he meant by being baptized, no doubt he would have said, "I am believing the word of the Lord which Paul spoke." No man can preach Christ in full without preaching faith, repentance, confession, and baptism in water for remission of past sins. This is God's way for alien sinners to come into His grace and be saved from their past sins. Then they are to continue in faithful service till death.—R. L. Huffman.

ARE AMERICAN INITIATIVE AND ENTERPRISES A MYTH?

The people of the United States have a reputation for initiative and enterprises.

They start things and they finish them.

They have a chance now to demonstrate their ability as never before.

Everyone is waiting for "business to pick up." But business won't pick up of its own accord. It will pick up when the desire and the determination to do something rises again in our national consciousness.

There are about 25 or 30 million families in the United States. This means that there are some 30 million men who are actual producers.

Payrolls depend on construction activity—the building and upkeep of homes, factories and enterprises which consume every imaginable product.

Building has been going down steadily for the past several years until it has become almost stagnant. Thousands of structures are deteriorating because of lack of repairs, paint, rotting foundations, leaky plumbing, worn out heating plants, crumbling chimneys and a thousand and one other things which have been let go.

Never in years could repair work or new construction be done as cheaply as today.

There are millions of individuals and industries in this country that have savings and are well able to carry on necessary improvements now.

Starting a few million jobs, varying in amounts from ten dollars to a few thousand dollars each, would release on avalanche of money and start the wheels of industry. Employment would increase; our nation would take heart and commerce and industry would slowly regain a normal stride.

Before long this improvement would be reflected in other nations.

No amount of legislation or political panaceas involving increased taxation and greater public burdens, can do a fraction of the good that the people can do for themselves by exercising our much prized American initiative and entreprise.

Do it now! Investment and employment are cheaper than charity!

Father—And do you think you will be able to give my daughter all she wants.

Ensign — Yes; she says she only wants me.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

We were indeed sorry to hear of the death of Mr. H. C. Bolden. Mr. Bolden died suddenly last Wednesday evening. He was in Birmingham at the time of his death, where he had gone for medical treatment.

Mr. S. M. Edwards is reported to be improving slowly.

Mrs. J. W. Woodley went to Birmingham Thursday for a few days visit with her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley left Saturday for Clevland, Alabama, to spend a few days with Mrs. Ida Bellenger, Mrs. Miskelley's mother. Misses Myrtle and Bertie Lou Price accompanied them to Birmingham to visit their brother.

Mr. Lance Franklin was a dinner guest of Mrs. I. N. Waldrop Sunday.

Miss Laura Adair visited Miss Laurine Spivey Sunday.

The following ones were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wood: Misses Mary, Gwendolyn and Willie C. Clements, Misses Mary Lee, Agnes and Lucile Compton, Clyde and Wilson Clements, Miss Adah Rascoe, Miss Emma Rene Dawson, Govers Price, and Dayton Chapman.

Mr. S. Z. Woodley and sons made a business trip to Birmingham Thursday.

Mr. Hubert Wright and Henry Hatcher motored to Birmingham Wednesday on business.

Mr. Ershel Spivey and Bascombe Morgan spent Saturday night with Guy Hatcher of Union Grove community.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Zuber spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Spivey.

Mrs. B. C. Adair and Mrs. G. W. Spivey spent Monday evening of this week with Mrs. J. W. Evans.

Our Sunday School at present is progressing very nicely. Let's try to make it a bigger and better Sunday School than we have ever had.

The Mid-week prayer services will be held at the home of Mr. Green Cofer.

Bob Stiven—My girl got her nose broke in three places.

Second Beta—She should have kept out of those places.

Mother—Did I see you kissing that young Allen last night?

Beryl—Well, mother, he told me be had just lost an uncle and I felt so sorry for his.

Mother—If I know anything about that young man he won't have a relative left in a week's time.

34—How long have you been learning to skate?

Co-ed—Oh, about a dozen sittings.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

After each new president is inducted into office there is usually a period of six months in which the opposition party "lays off" so to speak and the new executive is give na chance to work out his policies. This period is usually called the incoming chief's "honeymoon." There are indications however that President-elect Roosevelt's political honeymoon will not be as extended as many of those which have gone before. There is, of course, a reason. We are now in the midst of a great depression. And a depression does not make for an extended honeymoon, either socially or politiaclly.

The reason is that there are so many questions requiring immediate attention and immemdiate debate that the battle lines will probably be drawn rather quickly. A depression is no respecter of persons. It made the official life of President Hoover a burden and it is likely to do the same thing for Mr. Roosevelt, unless the clouds lift pretty quickly. Then again the Democrats, during the campaign, promised quick relief from the depression. They will be expected to make good, and if they do not do so in a reasonably short time the honeymoon will be over with a vengeance. A great many people who voted for Roosevelt and Garner expected the depression to lift the next day after the election and were surprised when there was not at once a tremendous upsurge in the stock market. Then they consoled themselves that things would be all right on March 5. Now they are beginning to wonder whether prosperity will be restored overnight even then.

Of course there was no sensible reason for expecting business revival immediately after the election. The revival will come sooner or later, but not because of this recent election or any other election. It will come when the processes of deflation are checked or completed, and when the cost of government and the tax rate get down on a level with the cost of labor and of commodities.

The problems confronting the new administration are almost too numerous to mention. They are to be found in both the domestic and the international field. In the domestic field they include the balancing of the budget, the reorganization of the government in the interests of economy, the adjudication of the liquor question, and the "rescue" of the farmer. In the international field we might mention the question of debt settlements, of American adherence to the world court, of disarmaments, Manchuria and our relations with Russia.

There is room for the application of some real statesmanship, political and economic, in these questions. Some of them are going to be difficult to solve satisfactorily. especially those dealing with liquor, with agriculture and economy. All of them are conducive to the termination of political honeymoons. And in addition, there will be confronting the new administration the question of patronage. The Democrats have been out of power quite a while, and there are plenty of hungry office seekers, one might say scores of office seekers for each available political job. For each man who is satisfied with a position there will be dozens who are disappointed. And political disappointment, too, is conducive to the termination of political honeymoons.

The year 1933, in other words, is fraught with grave and important issues at home and abroad. That Mr. Roosevelt and his new congress. wil be able to solve them is the heartfelt wish of every American who has been touched by the depression, and that means 99 out of each 100. But if they are to be solved during the period of political honeymoon a definite program will have to be determined by Mr. Roosevelt and the Democratic leaders of the new congress almost immediately. Even then it is going to be a tough job. In the meantime the Republicans are in the minority. Being in the minority has its drawbacks but also its advantages. It is so much easier for a statesman to enjoy himself when he is in the minority.

There were fewer deaths from bootleg this Christmas than any year formerly. Either the people didn't have the money to buy it or their stomachs are getting tougher.

If congress passes a bill restoring beer we hope somebody will be thoughtful enough to add an amendment to the bill preventing the singing of Sweet Adoline after midnight.

The more we read about the congressional statesmanship and the nearer it comes to March 4, the more we are convinced that on November 8 it was not Mr. Roosevelt but Mr. Hoover who was the lucky man.

A fool authority says that people who go down the street sucking an orange or a lemon are apt to live to be a hundred. Not if it takes their mind off the traffic.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

Congratulations!

As a starter for this week, I want to congratulate the editor of The Chilton County News for his publishing of the list of "needless expenditures," as practiced by the state government, as carried in his last week's issue. Speaking of real service to the people, that was really good. As I understand it, the bona fide cost items were withheld from that list, and only the needless items listed. In other words, it was just an itemized account (in part) of some of the money which might have been saved, had Alabama been blessed with an economical roster of officials, bent on getting a dollar's worth for every dollar spent, instead of being cursed with one of the worst sets of spendthrifts in the history of our state. I believe that statement can be strenghtened, without overstepping facts—instead of saying "ONE of the worst" sets, I believe all will agree that it is "THE worst set" of spendthrifts ever gotten together to run the state's affairs. One thing is certain—the state's affairs are in the biggest mess they have even been in, thanks to this set. Again I say, keep it up, Mr. News Editor—I am quite sure your readers will appreciate such interest in their welfare. The truth never hurt anyone except the guilty, and people are quick to note and appreciate a step taken in defense of the right.

Mr. Roosevelt's Visit

Were you one of the ever-so-many who gathered at the station to see President-elect Roosevelt pass through and bestow his beaming smile of appreciation on his loyal supporters. What a joke that was. Lots of people gathered in, expecting to see Mr. Roosevelt—some even held hopes that he might appear and give them a big "Howdy". But nary a beaming smile did the big boy feel constrained to bestow. Instead, he seemed to prefer to make a guessing bee of the affair—letting his loyal subjects in this neck-o'-the-woods guess which of the big guns on his train was the new president—or, at that, whether he was on the train at all, or not. And then, maybe Mr. Roosevelt was just getting the folks' guessers all sharpened up to guess at what is in store for them during the next four years.

What It Cost

Maybe a few of the taxpayers would like to know what it cost them to have the new president come down and look us over, or let us look him over. The reception at Montgomery cost $2,360.46. A few of the items on the bill were: $180.50 for expense for the band; $459.00 for dinner at the governor's mansion; $685.00 for flowers and other decorations; and $170.80 to feed the newspaper men. Oh, Boy! What a feed that must have been! And to think we had been fooled into thinking that fairies don't exist. Wonder where Cinderella got away to on this royal occasion—and who found the golden slipper? Oh, well, there's only one thing I would have enjoyed being there to see—when the cow jumped over the moon. I missed that sight, even from here.

Who Said Plowlines?

Farmers in this section are surely going to keep old Beck's head out of the fence jambs this summer, if Rockett's plowline sale is any sort of an indicator. The store at Thorsby sold 160 pairs; the Clanton store sold 1,125 pairs, topping by 111 last year's mark of 1,014 pairs. Dewey Rockett reports that, considering additional rope sales made with the big plowline sale, he sold something in the neighborhood of three bales of cotton, in the shape of rope. That's going some—for one day. People in this county have learned to wait for this annual plowline sale and it may be that next year's sale will be greater than this one. Oh, yes, there will be one next year, for I saw Dewey jot down the number of lines he sold, so that he could check back next year and compare that with the sale this year.

Just in Case

In case you are one of those people who were misled into believing all that hokum the Democrats were spouting last fall in regard to our tariff wall, just glance over this page and read the article headed "Retaliatory Tariff Mirage." To bring it all down into words easily understood, the Demmies would have you believe that, just because our Republican administration put up a tariff wall to keep foreign, cheap, low grade goods off our American market, these foreigners would put up like walls to keep our goods off their markets. On paper, and in the air, this supposition works; but after reading the above-named article, containing authentic figures which cannot be denied, you may see that such supposition doesn't work out in real life. It is just possible that the big shots who were telling these things in the campaign knew, at the time, that they wouldn't work, but they had an idea they would get votes, and they did. Read that article and see if you still see all this tariff business just like you did before.

Are We Quitting?

Some geezer slipped over our way a few days ago and delivered these words of wisdom to us: "You fellows ought not to try to throw brick-bats in the machinery. We are suffering alike, and if the Democrats can do anything to help us all, you should feel good over it." Fine! We'll agree to that. IF and WHEN the Democrats do anything to help the conditions which now have us down in the dumps, we hope to be among the very first to salute them for their good deeds. If anyone ever needed the cooperation of all the people, it surely must be those who will handle our governmental affairs in the immediate future. And we want to declare here and now that nobody wants to see them DO SOMETHING more than we. But, now, there is something else we will have a word about, too. When the blunders start rolling in, we expect to have a hand in pointing them out, too. In other words, we'll keep the old guns well oiled and loaded. Then, if something worth while happens, we'll fire a salute; but we'll reload right quick and adjust our sights for heavy bombardment of anything we deem wrong in theory or proctice. That's fair, isn't it?

Your Postal Service—Part 3

PICKING PENNIES—"Picking Pennies," or "picking brownies," as the carriers, themselves, express it, is one of the worst things the Rural Letter Carrier has to contend with. It seems a small thing to ask a carrier to scrape a few pennies from a mail box, but when box after box contains the little fellows it becomes a nuisance, especially when one considers the fact that it is a needless and exceedingly bad habit. Put yourself in the carrier's place. He sits in his car hour after hour, gripping the steering wheel, with no chance to warm his numbed arms and legs, unless he gets "stuck," and he will appreciate your interest in his welfare to the extent that you will either buy stamps and stamp your letters, or, at least, place them in some way so that he will not be forced to scrape the bottom of the box clean hunting pennies. Patrons on rural routes are beneficiaries of one of the best services afforded by the government, and surely they should appreciate this enough to cooperate in every way with the letter carrier, the man with whom they must deal, and who is the real "business end" of this great service to them. So, STAMP YOUR LETTERS, or, if you find that you MUST place pennies in the box, here's an idea. Get one of these new-fangled spring clothes pins (costing about a cent) and when you mail a letter, place pennies, letter and all in the grip of this pin. Then the carrier makes one grab at the whole thing and goes on his way to the next box, blessing the big heart of that patron and boxholder, instead of hoping he'll move to some other route pretty soon. Try that a few times, will you, and watch a smile replace the frown on your carrier's face.

"RETALIATORY TARIFF" MIRAGE

One of the favorite charges of the free trade internationalists is that our protective tariff kills off our export business. In view of this fact it is interesting to note that a survey of our foreign trade taken by the United States Chamber of Commerce for the first three quarters of 1932 shows that Uncle Sam is still leading all his rivals as an exporter. This in spite of the increase of tariffs abroad to figures much higher than used in the United States, in spite of decreased purchasing power abroad due to depreciated currencies and despite the increased competition due to this currency depreciation.

There are reasons for thinking that things may not be so bad as our exports go. Ottawa tariff agreement between Great Britain and her colonies is not turning out as satisfactorily as was anticipated and it is said will not hurt the trade between Canada and the United States as much as was feared. Then there is increasing friction between Canada and her mother country over trading with Russia. Again there is some faint evidence that business is on the upgrade in Germany and if this continues it will enable one of our best customers to buy from us again.

Of course the importers and tariff internationalists continue to raise the specter of "retaliatory tariffs" and tell us that until we cut our tariff the other nations will raise walls against us. All of which is pure bunk. Other nations are not raising tariffs to punish the United States but to keep as much of their money at home as possible. In fact, the Smoot-Hawley tariff is nothing much more than a memory now so far as many commodities are concerned. The depreciation of currency abroad has enabled foreign producers to mount our tariff wall as though there were no wall. This condition will continue until we remedy it by legislation, and especially so long as foreign producers are able to undersell our own producers because they are paying their workmen with tin money while our are paid with dollars worth a hundred cents.

In speaking on the question of tariffs recently in New York, Mr. John N. Willys, chairman of the Willis-Overland company well said:

"If all our tariffs were taken off, I don't believe it would make any difference abroad. Nothing in our last tariff law interfered with our business overseas. The tariffs abroad were instituted before ours went into effect.

"Manufacturers abroad are going to keep up the tariffs and progressively increase them to cope with the American invasion. They are not going to let us get their business. They will find some way, somehow, to keep Americans out."

In times like the present every nation desires to foster its home production and domestic trade as much as possible. That is responsible for the growth of the tariffs in Europe during the past two or three years. European nations have sought to protect their markets with tariffs and to capture ours by depreciating their currencies. And unless something is done about it, they will succeed in capturing our markets with their rebased money and cheaper production costs.

HAPPINESS AS A FARM PRODUCT

The nation's farm population, says the department of agriculture, is approaching the record breaking thirty-two million mark established in 1910. Behind the city dwellers' decision to leave, officials say, is the belief that they can at least get a living on a farm.

There is a reminder, in this, of other days. It is one of the faults, perhaps, of today's consideration of living problems, that the terms of other years persist in intruding upon today. It is easy for a man to say that things that were thus and so when he was a boy must be true now. And yet—

One such man, the other day, was recalling has boyhood on a Hennepin County farm. The family comprised ten persons, and they lived comfortably and entirely upon the product of that tract—never underfed, never inadequately clothed. That was about all the land did—it supported them. Profits above and beyond the year's needs were hardly thought of. The survival of all in a reasonable degree of happiness—that was their aim.

Odd as it may seem to those who think intensely of amassing a competence that would be a fortune to some, happiness was the major product of that farm. Outwardly, the product was that which the family of ten consumed, and the farm was largely self-sufficient to that purpose. As the children grew up, they went out one by one from the home nest, to become decent, self-respecting citizens, some near, some far from their birthplace.

But they left the farm, the ready critic may say; none among them clung to the soil that had nurtured them. Yes, they left. But the point is that these sons and daughters represent a profit product of that farm on which, in their younger days, the family was content witha merely sustaining livelihood. They were the farm's social dividend, deferred while their ambitions and their energies could be applied.

But these are other times? They are! And what is so far wrong with the philosophy of that Hennepin County farm family of a generation ago, that it may not be brought down to date? That it can so operate may be guessed from the hope of some who are turning farmward. The terms of yesterday may hold good today, after all.

"What is that crowd under the window?"

"A group of serenaders," answered Senator Sorghum.

"What is the song?"

"I don't recognize the tune. But I take it for granted the meaning is something like 'Oh Promise Me.'"—Washington Star.

NEW RECOGNITION MOVEMENT

There has of late been a quickening of movement for American recognition of Russian soviet government, and some of friends of the movement now believe such recognition will be attained during next administration. There is an inter ing summary of this latest movement Russian recognition in the current issue the National Republic. It was written Samuel Saloman, a student of Russian fairs, under the caption, "Russia Drives Recognition." In part Mr. Saloman says:

"Various of our administrations, Democ ic and Republican, from the regime of Wo row Wilson to and including Herbert Hoo have set their faces against recognition, for many good reasons accepted by the Am ican people as sound and reasonable.

"They were careful, however, to point that the form of government obtaining Russia was no concern of ours, just as form of government should be of no c cern to Russians, but there is a real diff ence since Russia's activities are not fined within her own borders.

"One and all envisioned unpleasant con quences to us as a nation and as individu should we relent and rashly admit such speakable and unrepentant state to di matic representation and all that goes it.

"In a sense we had extended certain rec nition to Russia in that we recognized the people of what formerly was Russia the right to supplant one form of gov ment and of industry within her own bo daries with another and even to employ olution to effect such ends.

"We recognized that they had a right the government of their choice, or none all if they so chose, even if the governm they chose were in all ways abhorrent to But we have refused to grant any gov ment the right to force its plan on us. recognized that the government adopted, that may have been forced on the Russ people, may become stable even though is maintained by the bayonet and might that manner continue to carry out its o gations as a nation, if it be in a mood to so.

"And it must be admitted that thus our government has interposed no serious stacles to legitimate and fair trade betw the people of the United States and the S iet Union.

"But we have studiously avoided offi recognition in a larger diplomatic se and it is our earnest hope that such gov mental action may continue to be the po of those who speak and act for us in the U ed States.

"That brings us up to the question, wha implied by formal, or diplomatic, recog tion?

"Under international law in diplomatic ognition, the privilege is accorded the rec nized nation to establish an embassy, con lates, and the like throughout the coun manned by its own representatives, the n ber of whom is unlimited. And it is rec nized under international law and custom these diplomatic agents have certain pr leges and immunities. These briefly are:

"They have inviolability—they are exe from criminal and civil prosecutions.

"They enjoy extra-territoriality—the co of the receiving country, civil and crimi are as to them without any jurisdiction.

"For any offense committed or for in meddling in the affairs of the other coun their agent may be expelled, of course, more generally, his recall is requested the ground that he no longer is pers grata and a new one is sent on.

"These privileges are extended as well those in the diplomatic suite and to t goods and papers, in their possession or transit to them.

"So one can readily see recognition is quite the simple thing it is thought to and should be extended, as has been practice, to a soverign state, one that only is able but is disposed to carry ou spirit and in letter the obligations thus emnly entered into."

NO MILITARISM HERE

Some of Mr. Newton D. Baker's rema before the Army Ordinance Association New York on Wednesday night possesse special significance because, as he said, of the passions" of his life has been the motion of international peace. Referrin the popular misconception that soldiers sire war as an outlet for their professi abilities, the former Secretary of War sa

"The history of the United States, w scrutinized, fails to disclose a single war mented by officers of the American a But when statesmen have failed to keep peace, we can say with pride that the Am can soldier has never flinched but has sp eagerly to the defense of his country."

Militarism has never gained any foot in this country, which possesses the democratic system of defense, without m tenance of a large standing army. It is ter of pride that our comparatively few fessional soldiers are trained to the hig efficiency, but this does not make them taristic in spirit. Peace treaties and re tion of armaments have their place. But will for peace must be the most potent fa in the prevention of war.—Philadelphia lic Ledger.

"And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees; therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down and cast into the fire." Matt. 3:10.

As I write these words I can hear the axe as a man splits the blocks of a large oak tree. The owner asked several men to take the tree down; all refused because it leaned toward the house. It measured three and a half feet arross. It was dangerous in case of wind or lightening, besides sapping the strength of the soil of his garden, and also was hurtful to some young peran trees. That great oak did not bear any fruit, it's shade was all that was in its favor. That great oak had weathered many storms, but a man with an axe overpowered it and it fell. It will be burned for wood, and will never occupy that place again.

The text falls into three parts namely; the power, the impliment or tool, and the object. The man could not have thrown that tree without the axe. The axe could not make an impression on the tree without the man. But the combination of "the power and the tool" placed the tree at their mercy. John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ, used the words of the text because he knew that his hearers were familiar with the felling of trees and used the illustration to show them that God's eye had been on them all of the time and was aware of the fact that they were not bearing fruit and that now He had lain the axe at the root, ready to hew down all trees which did not bear fruit.

The Pharisees and Sadducees were the church people of John's day, and when they went out to where he was baptizing and demanded baptism at his hands he knew that they had not repented of their sins, so in the 8th verse he said to them "bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance." That is, you must bear some fruit to show that you have repented before I will baptize you.

To apply this text to ourselves, we must first examine into our church life and see if we find any "trees" that are not bearing any fruit. How about those of some of our churches who attend public dances and others who make a habit of getting drunk, and still others that promiscusously use profane language? What kind of fruit is that? Is it good fruit? Can a man honor God with such fruit? Of course, of you are not a Christian you cant bear good fruit, and if you are not going to be a Christian you should get out of the church and just dishonor yourself and God and not bring reproach on the church by bearing evil fruit.

May I tell you that the "axe is at the root of the trees." Now, that saying of John's was just a warning to the church-people of his day. What warning is God giving the church-people today? Are there not thousands of people in our country today who do not know where their next meal is coming from? Are there not hundreds of men losing their homes under mortgages or being sold for taxes? Believe me, I feel that the axe is not just laid at the root of the trees but that the "chopping" has started already. I would not try to startle you, to frighten you or scare you. I just want to warn you as John did the people to whom he was speaking.

Can it be possible that I am unduly alarmed over the condition of things? Is there no one else that sees the thing as I see it? I am honest about it, I believe that all of our troubles today have come directly because of our disobedience, carelessness and lack of interest in the things of God? I also believe that if God's people would repent of the evil in their lives and begin to pray, that God would send a great revival of religion upon us and that the axe would be removed from the root of the "trees," and that the "chopping" would cease and all would be well with us once more.

How I long for the good old times like we once had in this country when you could go to church and see the people rejoice in the glory of God and just feel the spirit as it overshadowed everybody. Then was when sinners fell upon their knees and repented of their sins and cried out "men and brethren, what shall I do?"

My space is just about filled now and still there is a great deal that I would like to say. But to close with: I want to ask, who will join me in a fervent, honest petition to the "power that is using the axe," asking Him to send a great revival into the hearts of men. When David was in a great strait he was allowed to choose which of three great disasters he would take. And after considering the matter said, "Let us fall into the hands of God and not into the hands of men." We are now in the hands of men, my brethren, let us now fall into the hands of God.—Elder Blossom.

Lesson for February 5

JESUS CHOOSES THE TWELVE

Mark 3:7-35.

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you. John 15:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Choosing Special Helpers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Taken Into Partnership.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Call to Friendship and Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Discipleship and Its Meaning.

I. The Divine Servant Ministering by the Sea (vv. 7-12).

1. Why he withdrew (v. 6). It was because of the murderous plotting of the Pharisees against his life. Their opposition began when Jesus claimed to have power on earth to forgive sins (2:10); grew in intensity when he mingled with publicans and sinners (2:16); was fanned into a violent flame when he set at naught their false interpretations of the Sabbath law (2:23-28).

2. To whom he ministered (vv. 7, 8). It was to a great multitude representing a wide stretch of territory.

3. The results (vv. 9-12).

a. The disciples prepared a small ship (v. 9). So great was the pressure of the thronging multitudes that he commanded the disciples to provide the ship so that he might be saved from them.

b. Unclean spirits fell down before him (vv. 11, 12). They not only bowed before him, but confessed him as the very Son of God. This testimony he refused, doubtless for two reasons:

(1) The time was not ripe to proclaim him publicly as the Son of God.

(2) They were not the beings to make him known. Jesus consistently refused the testimony of those who were not in moral accord with him.

II. The Divine Servant Calling Associates (vv. 13-19).

In this way he made provision for the carrying forward of his work after he was gone. Before choosing the twelve he spent a whole night in prayer (v. 13). (cf. Luke 6:12). From among his disciples he choose twelve whom he ordained for a twofold purpose:

1. "That they might be with him" (v. 14). Fellowship with the Lord is not only the highest privilege of the disciples, but it is an indispensable qualification for witnessing. It is needful to be with him to catch his spirit.

2. "That he might send them forth to preach" (v. 14). To proclaim the good news of salvation was the supreme mission of the disciples. Concerning those who were to be the messengers of Jesus Christ, note:

a. Twelve were ordained (v. 14). This was the beginning of the process by which the Triune God was to make manifest his grace to the whole world. The number twelve is the product of the heavenly three and the earthly four, thus indicating the purpose of the Triune God to reveal himself unto the four quarters of the earth.

b. Their characteristics (vv. 17-19).

(1) They were from the middle ranks of society, the common walks of life.

(2) Men of average ability. Christ did not go to the schools for his apostles and yet he chose men of mental grasp and efficiency.

(3) Men of diverse temperamental gifts. The grouping of the apostles shows men of impulse and leadership, of the reflective and inquisitive type, and men of practical business abilities.

III. The Servant's Increasing Difficulties (vv. 20-35).

1. The suspicion of his friends (vv. 20, 21). The needy people pressed upon him so that he had no time to eat. When his friends saw his zeal eating him up, they suspected that he was losing his mind.

2. The violent opposition (v. 22-30). Added to the embarrassment of the suspicion of his friends, the Lord now had to face the sneers of the scribes.

3. Visited by his mother and brothers (vv. 31-35). We are left to conjecture as to the motive to this visit. Perhaps they likewise suspicioned his mental balance. It may be that they desired to take him home and nurse him back to normalcy.

Be Still Then

When you go alone in the quiet time and place with the Book, quietly pray, "Blessed Prayer-Spirit, Master-Spirit, teach me how to pray"; and he will. Do not be nervous or agitated, wondering if you will understand. Study to be quiet—mind-quiet, body-quiet. Remember Luther's version of David's words: "Be silent to God and let him mold thee."—Dr. S. D. Gordon.

God Behind Nature

No man can stand in the tropic forests without feeling that they are temples filled with the various productions of the God of nature, and that there is more in man than the breath of his body.—Darwin.

Scepticism

They that deny a God destroy man's nobility; for certainly man is of kin to the beasts by his body; and if he be not of kin to God by his spirit, he is an ignoble creature.—Bacon.

STATE NEWS PARAGRAPHED

A Resume Of The More Important Events Of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

John A. Lusk, Jr., Gadsden attorney, was chosen state senator from the Sixth District, at a special election.

Gov. B. M. Miller paroled 43 state convicts during good behavior on recommendation of the State Pardon Board.

The Alabama Bottlers Association will hold its fourteenth annual convention Feb. 9-10, with headquarters at Hotel Reich, Gadsden.

The Guilford Construction Company of Greensboro, N. C., was awarded the contract to pave 17.13 miles from Heflin, Ala., to the Georgia state line.

George W. Looney, former president, Fairfield Exchange Club, has been appointed governor of Alabama district, Exchange Clubs, for the current year.

Paroled convicts and ex-convicts were blamed by police for a large number of holdups and robberies in the Birmingham district within the past few months.

Russell Copeland, docketed under a robbery charge at Birmingham, confessed to the holdup of two employes of the Thomas Jefferson Hotel on a downtown street.

Contract for paving 11.21 miles of road between Uniontown and Demopolis was awarded to Hancock Co., of Mobile, for $191,219.33 by the State Highway Department.

Gov. Miller revoked the parole of Robert Lee Spencer, of Birmingham, and ordered his rearrest on petition of Capt. R. H. Hawkins, acting chief of police for Birmingham.

The rail mill of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company went into operation for one week, returning 1,000 men to work, H. C. Ryding, president of the company, announced.

A busy statistician with a sharp pencil and an energetic mind has figured out that 877 individuals at University of Alabama took part in some form of athletics last Fall.

Gasoline consumption in Alabama for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1932, was estimated at 145,000,000 gallons, a decline of approximately 15 per cent in comparison with 1931.

Charles H. Walker, son-in-law of Mrs. Edgar Milam, whose strangled and badly beaten body was found in a wooded section near Gate City, was placed in county jail on a charge of murder.

Ten years of fleeing from justice were ended for Dr. W. P. Cook, former St. Clair County physician. He was back behind the bars at Kilby Prison after his surrender in Gov. B. M. Miller's office.

The state turned over $2,360.46 to Col. William P. Screws, disbursing officer of the Roosevelt entertainment committee, to pay the bills incurred during the president-elect's reception in Montgomery.

Three residences in Goodwater were destroyed by fire. The houses were not near each other. An investigation was made, bloodhounds from Kilby Prison picking up a trail which led to the highway.

Unidentified persons entered the farm home of Ira B. Marable, a farmer living eight miles from Dadeville, hacked his bride of three months to death and scattered the contents of a trunk about the room.

Judges for Alabama in the annual Gorgas essay contest have been announced as Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintendent of education; Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer and Pete Jarman, secretary of state.

Enough money to run Alabama's public school system for one month—$1,000,000—was released after Thomas E. Knight, Jr., attorney general, had approved the custom of spending current receipts for current operations.

The Montgomery County Board of Education ordered the public schools to reopen after accepting a proposal by Mayor William A. Gunter under which the full salaries of teachers for the second semester was guaranteed.

More than 7,500 Alabama school children in two counties are back at their reading, writing and arithmetic lessons as a result of the allocation of $1,000,000 of current funds to the schools by Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Knight.

James M. Thompson, Kilby Prison guard, who reenacted the role of William Tell by shooting a bottle from the head of a white convict at the prison, has been relieved from duty despite the accuracy of his aim, it was announced by the State Convict Department.

SCHOOL AT GREENSBORO FINISHES FIRST HALF

The first half of the 1932-33 work at the Southern Military Academy was completed Tuesday when final examinations were held and promotions made.

The conclusion of the semester recorded the entrance of several new cadets. Since September new additions have been made frequently to the corps of cadets and the present enrollment is very gratifying to J. M. Malone, who is completing his first half year as president of the preparatory school, successor to the famous Southern University.

During the past few months many new features have been added to the academy; one being the publication of a newspaper which is edited by the cadets and is a mirror of all school activities.

The authorities are also planning the installation of a broadcasting station which will carry daily programs to a wide territory. The success which has been attained at the Southern Military Academy under the officers has created renewed interest in the school on the part of citizens of Greensboro and the cooperation between the residents and the school officials is proving beneficial to the school, as well as to the town of Greensboro.

We would like to have a small space in your paper to represent our community.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. T. F. Satterwhite is on the sick list. We hope she will soon be well.

The B. Y. P. U. sponsored a tacky party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Martin Saturday night. Mr. Lester Northcutt and Mrs. Homer Webb won the prizes.

Willie Mae Herring and Mattie Lee Thames are visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Miss Irene Lessley from Birmingham is home again with her parents. We were all glad to see her.

Miss Ruth Glass from Montgomery spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. W. A. Glass.

Mrs. J. D. Sutley is improving nicely from a fall she had recently.

On next Sunday afternoon, February 5th, there will be singing at this place and we are expecting a large crowd; and we also have a fine B. Y. P. U. every Sunday. Both seniors and juniors will be glad to have everybody who wants to come, with us. —A Reader.

PLEASANT GROVE—ROUTE 7

There will be a sandwich supper at this place Thursday night, February 9th, 1933. A guess cake and a cake for the prettiest girl will be given away. Proceeds will go to the church piano fund. We need your patronage and cooperation. Please come and bring someone with you.—Mrs. M. C. Durbin, Clanton, Ala., Rte. 7.

ROUGH IN YOUR STOMACH

It's easy to say they're all alike—and easy to prove they are NOT.

Dissolve a genuine Bayer Aspirin tablet in water, pour it off, feel the fine powder that coats the glass.

Do this with some other tablet; see what coarse particles are left! They feel as sharp as sand, even to your finger. How must they affect those delicate membranes which line your throat—your stomach?

For immediate relief from headaches, colds, sore throat, neuralgia or neuritis, lumbago, rheumatism, there's nothing like Bayer Aspirin.

It cannot depress the heart.

4-YEAR OLD BABE RUTH STARS IN "THREE ON A MATCH" HERE

Buster Phelps, a four year old Hollywood boy who plays an important role in First National's "Three on A Match," coming to the Wadesonian Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, February 7 and 8, looks more like Babe Ruth did at the same age, than in all probability the Babe did himself. Certainly he is a ringer for the "king of swat" at the present time.

Buster was chosen for this First National picture because Director Mervyn Leroy is a stickler for perfection of detail. The play, by Kubes Glasmon and John Bright carries a line spoken by Joan Blondell, in which she shays that if the boy had a cigar and a baseball bat he would be an exact image of Babe Ruth. So Leroy insisted on a boy that looked like Ruth. The casting office was in despair and put forward the argument that no one would expect a child of four to look like the famous ball player. But Leroy was insistent. Scouts were sent out to look over all the children available for pictures. Buster Phelps was discovered. His nose and mouth are replicas of the Babe's and the general contour of his countenance is the same.

Buster not only fitted the role for looks, but he proved to be an excellent actor with a good memory. The boy has a great number of lines to say.

Joan Blondell, Warren William, Ann Dvorak and Bette Davis have the featured roles in the picture, supported by a cast that includes Lyle Talbot, Gloria Shea, Grant Mitchell, Sheila Terry, Hale Hamilton and Buster Phelps.

Concord-Billingsley

The Christian Endeavor put on a young people's program here Sunday night. Everybody enjoyed listening to the members render their parts.

Next Sunday is our regular singing afternoon at this place. Everybody is invited to come and help make the singing a success.

The C. E. members enjoyed a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Weldon Saturday night. A large crowd was present and everyone reported a nice time.

Messrs. T. J. Deramus, Clarence and Charlie Williams, Mrs. J. P. Williams and little daughter, Mary Evelyn, enjoyed Rev. Hightower's sermon at Pleasant Grove Sunday night.

Mr. T. L. Williams and daughter, Allie, were visitors to this community Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Deramus visited relatives near Haynes last Wednesday.

Mrs. L. C. Dickinson and little daughters, Julie Sue and Altha, and Mrs. Edna Gentry and daughter, Mary Etta, spent a while with Mrs. J. P. Williams and family Sunday afternoon.

Mr. J. P. Williams and son, Charles, and Mr. T. J. Deramus were business visitors to Clanton Saturday afternoon.

MOUNTAINS COMPARED TO AN ANT HILL

Back in 1928 certain political observers forecast that power was to become the principal issue of the time.

It flourished for a bit in that campaign, and then was obscured by other issues. Four years passed. Again in the days before the nominations, effort was made to put power back into the limelight. Again it found some mention. And again died. The real economic issues of the 1932 campaign, hinging as they did on tariffs, unemployment and taxation, dwarfed it.

Mr. Average Citizen has known for a long time that power is not of very great importance, as a crying public problem. Electricity contributes much to life and happiness but its cost is so minor that it becomes lost in the average family budget. Beside it, taxes (which are a "real" political issue), rent food and similar major items loom like mountains beside an ant-hill.

The interest the average citizen does take in power is this— he favors whatever equitable regulation is necessary to protect the consumer and investor. And that is exactly what every foremost power executive favors.

Power is not the political problem that many would like to make it.

CONNATSER SIGNED

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 30.—Management of the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern association announced Sunday night acquisition of Bruce Connatser, first baseman; Ed Horton catcher, and Bill Andrus, outfielder from the Washington senators. Andrus and Horton are straight options. Connatser is on a 24-hour recall basis.

Of course, you've heard of the Scotchman whose girl got so fat that he wanted to break the engagement, but she couldn't get the ring off so he married her.

STAPP FINISHES SERIES OF OUTLOOK MEETINGS HERE

Feeling that there are many people in the county who do not realize the condition which they are in, County Agent Stapp started out the 21st day of December to hold a series of forty meetings in as many communities. At these meetings, Mr. Stapp discussed the present economic condition and the outlook for 1933. The final meeting of this series was held at Verbena last week with an attendance of 65. Mr. Stapp states that at the forty meetings he had a total attendance of 1,020 farmers who entered into the discussions. He feels that these meetings will do lots of good.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE MADE EVENT FOR EVERY 5TH SUNDAY

The singing at the courthouse last Sunday afternoon was one of the most interesting that has ever been held there. The large auditorium was completely filled, and there was a full and well-balanced class arranged. Mr. J. Z. Mims presided over the meeting, opening and closing the same with prayer. After several leaders directed, the chairman announced that a few minutes would be devoted to some business matters. The announcement was officially made that the piano in the auditorium was fully paid for, and everyone was urged to feel that they had a part in it and it belonged not to just a few but to everyone in the county.

A motion was made, seconded and carried that at each singing at the court house the present chairman appoint someone to preside over the next meeting and make all the necessary arrangements. This idea seemed to meet with the approval of everyone. Mr. Mims appointed T. E. Wyatt to act as chairman at the next meeting which will be held the fifth Sunday afternoon in April, 30th.

The directors taking part on the program were:

W. M. Devaughn, I. D. Huett, E. L. Glasscock, L. T. Grant, Lee J. Grant, Akins I. Collins, J. B. Hammonds, A. O. Boswell, O. L. Devaughn, Emmett Wilson, Marion Easterling, G. C. Powell, T. E. Wyatt, Archie Devaughn, W. G. Culp, A. H. Glasscock and Jesse C. Jones.

Those performing at the piano were Miss Violet Hammonds, Miss Birtie Grant, Lee J. Grant, W. G. Culp and Mrs. Akins Collins.

MRS. SARAH FARMER DIED

Mrs. Sarah Farmer, age 82 years, died Friday afternoon, January 27, at her home two miles east of Jemison.

Burial was at Collins Chapel Saturday with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. E. Each.

This deaf man was brought up for trial and the judge let him go.

Why?

Well the law says you can't convict a man without a hearing.

AUXILIARY MEETS TONIGHT

There will be a meeting of the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary at the courthouse tonight (Thursday). This meeting will take the place of the regular stated meeting for the month of February. All eligible members are urged to attend.

The Auxiliary will meet at 7 o'clock and will be finished with the business in time to attend the special meeting of all ex-soldiers and Legionnaires which will be at the courthouse the same night.

WORLD WAR VETS IN BIG MEETING HERE LAST WEEK

Many New Names Added to Roll of The Legion Post No. 6

The World War Veterans of Chilton county held a rousing rally at the court house in Clanton last Thursday night. Attendance was splendid. The courthouse was filled to capacity.

The meeting was held under auspices of Chilton County Post No. 6, of the American Legion. Commander R. D. Woodson presided. Music was furnished by Herman Lowery and Odis Ellison.

Veteran F. A. Lokey, of Columbiana, was the speaker of the occasion. He came here by appointment of the Alabama Department of the Legion. The impetus of the address by Mr. Lokey was directed toward selling the American Legion to the ex-service men, and through the ex-service men to sell the Legion to the public.

His remarks were clearly and distinctly outlined to analyze the objectives the Legion seeks to carry out for service to the war veterans, and for a wider phase of service to the communities in which the Legion Posts are located. It was one of the best presentations of the American Legion ever heard here.

Mr. Sargent of the Agricultural Department at Auburn, was present. Being an active figure in American Legion work at Auburn, Mr. Sargent was asked to say few words. He responded with a very forcefull elaboration upon a few of the thoughts brought out by the speaker of the evening.

After the speakers had concluded their remarks, Commander Woodson, in a short talk, got right down to brass tacks with the boys about joining the Legion. When he concluded, he declared "the door's open" for receiving members, and more than twenty responded.

According to Adjutant, A. L. Robinson, the results of the rally of last Thursday night brings the membership of the local post up to 52, with several more in immediate prospect.

NOW READY TO MAKE UP LOANS

Get Application Blanks From C. E. Stapp, County Agent

The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Jackson, Mississippi, has been set up with a branch office at Montgomery, Alabama, for the purpose of making livestock and agricultural loans, the livestock loans to enable farmers to keep their herds intact and to expand livestock operations as well as to assist the "feeder" and dairy farmers.

We are now ready to make "crop production" loans and "barnyard" loans. The crop production loan will enable the farmers to produce their crops, but this loan will be made for the exclusive purpose of crop production, the money being released as needed for production purposes, and not being used to pay any debts or obligations other than those incident to crop production.

The barnyard loan is a general loan implying just what the name indicates—that is, a loan for the small farmers who have work stock, cattle, hogs, poultry and other barnyard livestock, and who needs a small loan for the purpose of carrying on.

All loans will be made at the rate of 6½ per cent interest for the time the money is actually used and no loans can extend beyond a period of twelve months.

Application blanks for barnyard and crop production loans have been mailed to Mr. C. E. Stapp of Clanton, Alabama, County agent in this county, who will assist you in making your application, then will submit same to the proper committee for attention. Under no circumstances should the application be forwarded directly to the Montgomery office.

We believe this matter is of such interest to every man in Alabama, to justify your paper considering it as a news item of unusual interest and I would thank you to give it such publicity as such a news item is entitled to.—Yours very truly, Jesse B. Hearin, Manager.

Dr. W. L. Parrish is in Auburn this week attending the annual short course of graduate veterinarians. He left Monday and will be down there all the week.

THE JEMISON BLUE JAYS ARE PLAYING GOOD BALL

The Jemison Blue Jays in their 9th game of the season will tackle the Alverson Business college quintet of Birmingham in the Jemison gymnasium.

The Alverson five, playing in one of the leagues in Birmingham, have not been defeated, while the Blue Jays have lost three of their eight games.

Although the Jays are "under dogs" manager Langston says by Thursday night he is going to have his boys ready for the league leaders, and when he says fight, he means for C. Glasscock and Clements to loop that ball that is being tiped to them by Atkinson or Lenoir, while Chas. and E. Glasscock keep the invaders from scoring. If any one of these boys fail, there is Davis or either one of the Green boys ready to take his place.

Two weeks later, February 22, the Blue Jays give you another chance to see some real basketball games. Mignon Mills from Sylacauga will visit the court of the Jays for a double header. Basket ball fans, if you miss these games, you have spelt through some the best games of the season. The prices are right. Spend 10 cents and enjoy these games.

ELMORE TEACHER IS FATALLY SHOT

Body Found In Woods Near Home A mile From Tallassee

Wetumpka, Ala., Feb. 4.—The body of Tennyson Dopson, young Elmore County teacher, was found in a wood a mile from his home near Tallassee about 9 a.m. today, shot through his heart.

Mr. Dopson had left the home of his brother, with whom he lived, about 7 a.m. to hunt squirrels. When he had failed to return two hours later, a search was started in the wooded swamps where he had gone. Relatives found his body in a pasture in the woods and called Sheriff Golden, who went to the scene of the death.

The body was found 20 feet from Mr. Dopson's shotgun, which had an empty shell in the barrel. The load from the gun had entered the chest just over the heart, ranging slightly downward. The load made only a small hole in the chest, and there were powder burns on the teacher's shirt, indicating that the fatal shot had been fired at close range. Death apparently was instantaneous.

Sheriff Golden declared it was likely cows in the pasture had rolled the body down the hill at the foot of which it was found. The gun and Mr. Dopson's hat were higher up on the hill and the whole area was covered by cow hoofs.

Sheriff Golden will continue his investigation Sunday. He said tonight he was not ready to say whether, in his judgment, the death was suicide, accidental or murder.

Mr. Dopson was a native of Elmore County and had been teaching this year in the Mt. Olive school. He was engaged to be married soon. Surviving are his parents and other relatives.

TWO MEN CAUGHT MAKING WHISKEY

Raid Conducted By Sheriffs' Force Near Maplesville On Monday

Two men were arrested by officers while engaged in operating a wildcat still near Maplesville Monday of this week. It was a big box outfit, with 350 gallons of beer ready to run. The raiding officers watched the operators for some time, and when they were flushed, they had already run several gallons of whiskey.

The whole outfit, beer, still, whiskey and all, was destroyed by the officers, and the operators brought to jail. The officers engaged in the raid were Sheriff Gillespie and Deputies James and Lewis Gillespie and Loss Robinson.

In addition to the two men arrested for manufacturing liquor during the past week the Sheriff's office reports arrests as follows:

Five for violating the game laws (seining and shooting doves on a baited field); two for hunting without license; one for assault and battery; one for violating the prohibition law.

Wednesday morning the jail register showed sixteen prisoners in confinement.

Some Facts About $50,000 Relief Fund

Citizens Are Urged To Study Carefully the Agreement Which the County Would Sign in Order to Receive Money From the R. F. C.

In view of the short time before the election on Tuesday, February 21, and the importance of the question to be decided, The Union-Banner has exerted every effort this week to gather the most important facts about the $50,000 relief fund, and to place those facts before the public. We have done this with the feeling that the people of the county should know these facts, and carefully consider them in making up their minds how they will vote on the 21st.

First, we call your attention to the contract which our county officials will sign to get the $50,000, if the majority of the voters express themselves in favor of making application for the money. This contract is printed in full in this week's paper.

Now, there are just a few main features about the contract which should be studied carefully. If our county gets the $50,000 through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it will not be a loan obligation to be repaid out of the county's current operating funds. The only obligation the county will be under is to release the Federal government and consent and agree for the Federal government to deduct this $50,000 and interest thereon from the future appropriations which may come to Chilton County from the Federal road funds.

On this point, we refer you to a clause in the contract which says: "The above obligation is payable only out of the Federal road funds available to Chilton County, and shall in no way effect the constitutional debt limitations, or the general revenues of Chilton County, Alabama."

The manner and methods by which the money will be used is another important feature. The Commissioners Court will have complete charge of the spending of the money. The Commissioners Court will designate the party who will receive the money on behalf of the county, and pay out the same. Such party would be required to furnish an adequate surety bond.

The Commissioners Court would designate the agency or organization which would make all investigations and determine who is in needy circumstances and in need of employment, and entitled to employment under the regulations for spending the money.

The party designated by the Commissioners to receive and pay out the money, could pay it out only to those people who were duly certified by the designated relief agency as being in needy circumstances and entitled to relief work.

The Commissioners would be in no way restricted to the employment of only the needy people on the roads. They could go forward with their program of general employment, but could include among the workers those designated as entitled to work under the relief act. When pay day comes, those who have the relief certification will be paid out of the relief funds, and those on the regular payroll will be paid out of the regular county road funds.

The rumor is afloat that taxes will be increased in order to pay back the money secured. There is absolutely no grounds for such a rumor. A careful reading of the obligation which the county will sign to get the money will prove that there is no such thing possible.

The County's Agreement

Below is an exact copy of the contract which Chilton County would make and sign for the $50,000 relief funds through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This contract is printed in order that the people of the county may have full knowledge and information about the matter before they vote on the question on February 21st.

The Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby acknowledge themselves to be indebted to the State of Alabama in the principal amount of $..... for a like principal amount paid in cash to or upon the order of (party to receive money to be designated by Commissioners Court) for account of the said County of Chilton, being the proceeds of an advance made upon certificate of the Governor of Alabama under and in compliance with Section 1 of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932. Said indebtedness is payable by the undersigned at the time, in the manner, and out of the funds as hereinafter set forth, with interest at three per centum per annum from date, to-wit:

$..... principal amount, on or before June 30, 1935
$..... principal amount, on or before June 30, 1936
$..... principal amount, on or before June 30, 1937
$..... principal amount, on or before June 30, 1938
$..... principal amount, on or before June 30, 1939

Interest on the total principal amount unpaid to date of payment on account of principal, at the rate of three per centum per annum, to be paid when and as installments on account of principal shall be paid, not later than the respective dates above set out.

It is understood that this obligation is executed in the name of the County of Chilton without representation as to their authority to do so and without personal liablility of the Chairman or the individual members of the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County.

The above obligation is payable only out of the Federal Road Funds available to Chilton County, and shall in no way affect the constitutional debt limitations or the general revenues of Chiton County, Alabama.

It is understood that this obligation is given for advances made by the Governor of Alabama to the County of Chilton from money advanced to it by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, under Section 1 of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932. If the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or the Federal Government should not deduct from Federal Aid Funds due the State of Alabama the amount advanced to it from funds due the state for the years, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, or any of them, this obligation is to be void and the funds being advanced are not to be repaid, but if the Reconstruction Finance Corporation does deduct the funds or the Federal Government or any of its departments, deducts the funds as now permitted by law from the Federal aid to be paid to the State of Alabama, then the amount herein shown is to be deducted from funds which would be due to the County of Chilton from the State of Alabama on allotment of such Federal aid funds so deducted. It being understood and agreed that should the Federal Government make the relief funds free to Alabama and not require that they be repaid then the funds advanced and covered by this note are not to be paid to the State, but if the Federal Government or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation collect the funds borrowed by Alabama by deducting them from the Federal aid due Alabama, then the money evidenced by this obligation is to be deducted from the portion Chilton County would have received from such Federal aid funds which Alabama may receive durin the years 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939 or any of them.

This the ..... day of ....., 1933
County of Chilton,

BUCK GORE MOVING NOW

Buck Gore is engaged this week in moving his stock of goods to his new location in the cafe building next to Woco Pep Service Station on Sixth Street.

"You can tell 'em I am moving this week," said Mr. Gore, "and I will be all set and ready for business in my new location by next Saturday. I am going to move this week in spite of the weather."

By vacating the corner building where he has been located so long, Mr. Gore will then be ready to start remodeling the corner place to be occupied by the Clanton Cash Store.

The Rockett building on Sixth St. is also being put in shape to be occupied by Jesse Baker. Mr. Baker will move his store as soon as the building is ready.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE FOR REV. M. LOCKHART

Rev. M. Lockhart received a very pleasant surprise last Saturday when he was given a brand new suit of clothes. The donors were Uncle Tom Taylor and his sons, Rowland, Tommie, Grady and Jimmie.

Rev. Lockhart requests The Union-Banner to publicly express his thanks for the very thoughtful remembrance of these good friends.

M'DONALDS WILL BE HERE TONIGHT

Under Auspices of Circle No. 1 Of Baptist Women's Missionary Society

The welcome announcement is made of a return engagement of the McDonald Quartet of Birmingham to Clanton Thursday night of this week. They will appear in concert at the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock, and will be assisted in entertaining by Luther Patrick. Mr. Patrick is the philosopher-comedian who pulls wise cracks and gags over WAPI for Glendale Nurseries every day at noon.

The McDonalds gave a very successful presentation here a few weeks ago. A hundred or more people came to hear them but had to go back home for lack of seats or even standing room in the auditorium. So, this return engagement is made in order to give everybody a chance to hear them. The same price of admission—10 cents and 15 cents—has been set, which is within easy reach of everybody. Don't think because the price is low that the entertainment is cheap, because it is high class in every respect.

This engagement is sponsored by Circle No. 1 of the Clanton Baptist Missionary Society. Everybody bear this announcement in mind and make it a point to attend. You will be well pleased.

The people of the communities named are urged to arrange for these meetings, and get everybody out to hear the explanations that will be made of this proposition, which will be voted on February 21.

INFANT CHILD BURIED

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Oaks, of Inglenook, was buried at New Salem Monday. The child was born Sunday morning, and lived only a few hours. The mother, who was Evelyn Retherford, daughter of Joe Retherford is reported to be getting along all right.

The funeral Monday was attended by Mr. Joe Retherford, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Garrett (Thelma); Mr. and Mrs. Louie Dickinson (Gertie Mae); and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Retherford, all of Birmingham.

ORDER ISSUED CALLS ELECTION

Commissioners Court Wants To Know How the People Stand

Below is printed the order of the Commissioners ourt of Chilton County, calling the election for Tuesday, February 21, in which the people of the County are asked to vote upon the proposition as to whether or not the Commissioners Court shall make application for $50,000 relief funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It appearing to the Court of County Commissioners that the opinion of the people of the county is somewhat divided as to whether or not application should be made to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of the United States of America by and through Honorable B. M. Miller, Governor of Alabama, for $50,000 to be used for the relief of the destitute and needy: Be it, therefore resolved by the Court of County Commissioners of said county, as follows:

That an election be held by the voters of the county on Tuesday, February 21, 1933, at the several polling places in said county in the manner, at the places and under the law governing the holding of general elections in the State of Alabama, that the same election officials heretofore selected to hold the general election of November 8, 1932, be and they are hereby each, selected and appointed to hold said election, but without expense to the county; and should any of such election officials fail or refuse to serve that the remaining election officials be permitted to select others in their stead and if no election officials selected volunteer to serve without compensation that the citizens present and desiring to vote select election officials.

That the Court of County Commissioners meet on Thursday, February 23, 1933, at noon for the purpose of canvassing the returns of said election.

By order of the Commissioners Court in session last week, Dr. R. J. Elland was appointed as physician to attend the needs of prisoners in the Chilton County jail. Dr. Elland recently moved to Clanton from Cooper.

They've Never Tasted a Tonic!

THESE are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs no coaxing. Their tongues are never coated, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative.

You can have children like this—and be as healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them need help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant.

When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's lazy. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses! A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will avoid all this. It contains fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin, and does a world of good to any system—young or old. You can always get this fine prescriptional preparation at any drug store. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and protect your family from those bilious days, frequent sick spells and colds. Keep a bottle in the medicine chest instead of cathartics that so often bring on chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin can always be employed to give clogged bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that painful griping, or burning feeling afterward. It isn't expensive.

Representative Pitts Asks For Changes In Local Bill

Representative Percy M. Pitts is not satisfied with certain details of a local bill being advertised in Chilton County, which bill is designed to make the county superintendent of education elective.

While Mr. Pitts is in a favorable attitude toward the passage of a bill providing for the election of the superintendent by the people, he has set out his objections to this particular bill in a letter to Billy Smith, publisher of The Chilton County News, as follows:

Confirming our phone conversation this morning relative to the bill that was advertised in your paper this week, which was unknown to me until I came home from Montgomery, beg to advise that I am in sympathy, as I have been heretofore in the election of the county superintendent of education of Chilton County by popular vote of the people.

You stated this morning over phone that Mr. W. L. Sanders, who is a member of the County Board of Education, presented the bill to you for publication and made arrangements pertaining to same, but that you did not know what lawyer drafted the bill. So far, I have been unable to see Mr. Sanders and am writing you to state that I will have to oppose the bill by reason of two clauses in the same. First, the clause which states as follows: "That no person shall be eligible for political party nominations or for election to the office of County superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, who does not hold an Alabama certificate in administration and supervision, based on at least being a graduate of a standrd college equal to the University of Alabama or Polytechnic Institute and proof of three years of successful teaching experience within five years before election, and such other additional qualifications as may be provided by the general school laws of the state." My second reason and objection to the bill is contained in Section 5 of the advertised bill which is in substance as follows:—"That should any county superintendent be removed for any cause by the county board of education of Chilton County, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment of the State Superintendent of Education." Section 139 of the school code of 1927 sets out the qualifications of a county superintendent of education as follows:

"No person shall be eligible for appointment by any County Board of Education or for political party nominations or for election to the office of County Superintendent of Education of any county, who does not as now required hold an Alabama certificate in administration and supervision based as a minimum upon gradution from a standard normal school or equivalent education, with at least one year of additional study of college grade and proof of three years of successful teaching experience next preceding his appointment; provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to County Superintendents of Education in offices on October 1, 1923."

I cannot understand why or for what reason the author of this bill sees fit to make the qualifications of the County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, different and more drastic than the requirements of the state law or the requirements of any other local bill that has been passed in recent legislature in other counties and I do not feel like that I should pass a bill through the house exacting more strict requirements for a County Superintendent in my county than is required by statute in other counties.

As to my second objection regarding the appointment by state superintendent of education of a County Superintendent in case of a vacancy, beg to advise that all other local laws pertaining to the election of county superintendents of education that I am familiar with gives the County Board of Education that right. The last legislature passed local bills electing the County Superintendent of Education by popular vote in Autauga County, which will be found in local acts of Alabama, 1931 on page 197, which was passed by their representative and Senator Duncan which is like three-fourths of all other bills that have been passed. At the same time this bill was introduced, I introduced one and passed it through the house of representatives; however, our Senator Duncan saw fit, upon advice from local constitutents, to defeat my measure in the senate and during the same session passed one for his representative in Autauga County.

If you or anyone else will have a bill advertised and passed through the senate containing the same requirements as outlined in the Autauga County bill, which was passed by their representative and our senator, I will be glad to pass the same through the House of Representatives. However, I will have to decline to support a bill as outlined in the issue of your paper of this week. My reason for writing you this letter is that I am interested in electing the County Superintendent of Education, because I believe that a large majority who live in Chilton County, desire this privilege by popular vote. Under our state laws a bill cannot be amended and changed from the way it is advertised originally without making the same unconstitutional, and I am writing this letter in order that if the author of the bill, or you see fit to advertise a bill, similar to other local bills of the state with the same requirements, you may have time to do so, by beginning the same next week. I am enclosing you a copy of the Autauga County bill for your information and you will note that varied difference between the two bills.

I regret very much since this step was taken by you, Mr. Sanders or anyone else, that this bill was not presented to me or I did not see a copy of same prior to its being advertised for the fact that in all probability it will be a miracle to pass a bill, which is this late in being advertised. Because after the bill is advertised 30 days it will require not less than three and possibly six legislative days to pass the bill through the legislature. If you will recall I passed a similar local bill through the legislature in 1931 which was defeated in the senate by no fault of mine and you will recall that after the Democratic Executive Committee endorsed the passage of this bill to Senator Duncan that they were pursuaded to withdraw their endorsement by local parties which caused him, according to his conversation, to defeat the bill.

Trusting that the matter will be worked out satisfactorily to all parties concerned and assuring you if a bill is passed through the senate that I will be glad to pass the same through the house of representatives with the foregoing changes, I am, respectfully yours, Jercy M. Pitts.

P.S.—Since dictating the above letter I have just had a conversation with Mr. Sanders and learned that Hon. J. B. Atkinson drew up the bill for him.—Pitts.

An Act—To provide for the election of a County Superintendent of Education for Autauga County, Alabama, by the qualified electors thereof; and to prescribe the duties and fix the term and compensation of such officers.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. At the general election for the year 1932, and every four years thereafter, there shall be elected a County Superintendent of Education for Autauga County, Alabama, by the qualified voters of said county, who shall hold office for a term of four years from the second Monday after the first Tuesday next succeeding the election, and until a successor is elected and qualified.

Section 2. Candidates for the office of such Superintendent of Education may be nominated as candidates for other county offices of Autauga County, Alabama.

Section 3. Such County Superinetndent of Education shall be a qualified elector of the county in which he resides and possess all the other qualifications required under the general laws of this state for county superintendents of education; and they shall perform and discharge all the duties of County Superintendent of Education, under the general laws of this state. Provided that if there be a vacancy in said office from any cause whatever, the county board of each of said counties is authorized to fill such vacancy as is provided by the general laws of the state.

Section 4. Such County Superintendent of Education shall devote his entire time to the public school business of Autauga County, State of Alabama, and shall receive as compensation $2,000 per annum divided in twelve equal installments payable monthly and shall be paid in the manner provided by the general laws.

Approved July 17, 1931.

LEGISLATURE MAY LOWER COST OF AUTOMOBILE TAGS IN STATE

Legislative observers interested in the auto-motive and allied industries find a strong sentiment in the present legislature in favor of reducing taxation casts on the operation of motor vehicles. In fact, some of the legislators seem inclined to reduce the license tag cost to a point where it would not serve the purpose of meeting interest and sinking fund requirements on the first $25,000,000.00 highway bond issue.

The senate committee on finance and taxation made an adverse report on Senator Darden'sbill to reduce by one-half all motor vehicle licenses and the measure most generally approved by those who have studied the subject appears to be the bill of Representative Walter C. Givhan, of Dallas County, which would fix the tag tax on all classes of motor vehicles at $10 per year.

It is claimed that this uniform tax would return more than 150,000 idle cars and trucks to active use, increasing the total of tag and gas tax receipts and raising sufficient revenue for the purposes for which these taxes were originally imposed. The Givhan bill is being carefully studied by the ways and means committee with this in view. The association of county commissioners has endorsed it, knowing that the counties, as well as the state will profit by the increased use of gasoline when the license tax is made easier to pay by the enactment of pending legislation.

Representative Swift, of Escambia, has prepared an amendment which would reduce the annual tag cost to $1 on all passenger cars more than five years old from date of manufacture. Representative O'Neal, of Jackson County, would make the annual tag tax $6, payable quarterly, semi-annually or annually, while three bills of Representative Bebee, of Baldwin, would permit the payment of license on all passenger cars, trucks and truck-trailers either for the quarter, half or three-quarters of a year. Representative Guy, of Lowndes, seeks to remove all taxes from the sale of gasoline intended for use in operation of farm tractors and machinery. Mr. Allen, of Etowah, would permit the transfer of the tag from a wrecked car.

CONGRESS HONORS MEMORY OF LATE CALVIN COOLIDGE

Washington, Feb. 6.—With impressive ceremonies, congress, today honored the memory of Calvin Coolidge. Senate and House met in joint session, with President Hoover, high officials of the government and the diplomatic corps present to pay homage to the late president.

A hush in vivid contrast with the turbulent scenes the House chamber has known in recent weeks fell upon the throng as Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, delivered an eulogy to his late life-long friend.

"Calvin Coolidge passed from this life on the fifth of last month," Justice Rugg said. "No warning foreshadowed his going. The nation was stunned by this sudden and unexpected event. The people of the country realized at once what a calamity had befallen them."

President Hoover sat in front of the rostrum, his arms folded and his head bowed. Before him was vice-president Curtis, the presiding officer, and Speaker John N. Garner, who sat to the Kansan's left on the speaker's dais. On Mr. Hoover's right were the members of his cabinet, and to his left were Chief Justice Hughes and the associate justices of the supreme court.

Speaker Garner assembled the House immediately at noon, and vice-president Curtis and the Senate entered. Garner surrendered his gavel to Mr. Curtis, who rapped and said:

"The two houses of congress and their invited guests are assembled to pay tribute to a great man and a popular president—a man who was loved and is mourned by all the people—Calvin Coolidge.

Game And Fish News Of State

Alabama Press Association Meets In Mobile With Annual Deep Sea Fish Rodeo

Licenses have been granted by Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the Alabama Department of Game and Fisheries to three residents of the state authorizing them to establish game farms under the 1932 game farming act.

Ben Fitzpatrick of Elmore Station and Comer Jennings of Eufaula, recently have obtained licenses to start game farming in Elmore and Barbour counties, respectively. They will devote their propagation efforts to restocking their preserves with quail.

G. N. Hudmon of Opelika secured the first game farm license after the act was passed and at his Pecan Grove Game Farm in Lee county is experimenting with pheasants and the bobwhite. Mr. Jennings is employing the Cowikee Mills Poultry farm for his game farming activities.

Several other residents of the state have indicated they are anxious to enter the game farming field. Commissioner Quinn believes game farming has a bright future in Alabama.

The tang of salt water will replace the smell of printer's ink for members of the Alabama Press Association at their annual meeting next summer.

The association has tentatively selected Mobile for its convention and announced that the dates will be made to conincide with those of Alabama's fifth annual deep sea fishing rodeo.

The Association of County Commissioners of Alabama also has indicated that its annual meeting will be held in the Bay City on the dates of the rodeo so that its members may mix pleasure with business. Dates for the rodeo are expected to be announced within the next few weeks by Commissioner Quinn.

The Alabama Press Association held its mid-winter meeting in Montgomery on January 28.

Alabama claims a rattle snake record.

One of the longest rattlers ever discovered—measuring 11.6 feet—was killed by a negro north of Scottsboro, Ala., and now is a prized possession of the American Museum of Natural History at New York.

Rattlers at one time were numerous in the Alabama National forest, but deer planted in that area have about stamped them out. Employing a method of attack similar to the early North American Indian, the deer circle slowly around their hissing prey, then leap suddenly and with their sharp hoofs cut the snake to pieces.

PATES CHAPEL

We are very glad to report that we had a good meeting Saturday night and Sunday, and much gladder to report that a new addition was made to our church Sunday which was little J. V. Blow, little son of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Blow. May all the Christians pray for this little boy.

We were glad to have all the visitors who attended preaching the past week end, and cordially invite them all back any time.

A surprise party was much enjoyed by a number of young people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wess Gletty's Thursday night. Games were enjoyed by the following: Misses Lucille and Lorene Cleckler, Mildred and Martha Hayes, Emily Pate and Maude Wallis; Messrs. Lee and Pink Hayes, Grady Scott, Milton Hubbard, Ervin Pate, Oscar Pate, Lawrence Pitchford, and Miss Carrie Bolton.

A crowd of young people enjoyed a musical entertainment at Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion's Friday night.

Little Miss Ivy and Zelma Hayes were Sunday dinner guests of little Miss Ruby Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion.

Mr. Lawrence Pitchford and Miss Gail Gletty of this community attended B. Y. P. U. at Pleasant Grove Sunday night.

Mr. Lee Hayes and Miss Maude Wallis visited Mr. and Mrs. Joel Childress and daughter, Willie Mae, Sunday afternoon.

Little Miss Ruby Maddox spent Sunday night with little Miss Zelma Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater have moved in the house with Mr. A. Maddox for a while.

Rev. M. Lockhart was a supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hayes Saturday night; and spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and family. He was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes. They all invite him back.

Mr. Lee Hayes was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Maude Wallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox have moved over on the old Manning place, owned by A. S. Pitchford.

Thirty-two years ago the farm mortgage debt in Iowa was $149,457,000. Late in 1932 is was $1,000,000,000.

ANIMAL KINGDOM

The world of artists and the world of upper crust society clashes in a screen in "The Animal Kingdom," the Philip Barry play produced by RKO-Radio and starring Ann Harding and Leslie Howard at the Wadesonian Theatre, Thursday and Friday, February 9 and 10.

The artists call the society folk fatuous, smug, dull, stuffy, stodgy, insenate and utterly unable to experience beauty and wonder. They even infer that eyes clogged with gold dust and fixed on the social calendar have no gift of poetic insight.

The blue-bloods counter that the artists are gaudy, wild, unstable, lazy and crazy.

The artists are portrayed by Ann Harding, Leslie Howard, Leni Stengel and Donald Dilloway. The blue-bloods are played by Myrna Loy, Neil Hamilton, Ika Chase and Henry Stephenson. Somewhere in between the two stratae is William Gargan a pugilist-butler.

E. H. Griffin directed the clash, but he refused to referee, maintaining that decision should be rendered by spectators who want to see "The Animal Kingdom."

However, Phillip Barry seems to convey in "The Animal Kingdom," that artists are artists and society folk are society folk—and never the twain shall meet.

MISS MONNIE BAKER

And when I lay this body down,
All on my bed to sleep,
We miss her smiles every where
Which causes me to weep.

Yes, a few days have passed and gone
Since Miss Monnie went away,
I wept and prayed for her return
But Miss Monnie went to stay.

Go, pilgrim, to thy home
To sooth my aching brow,
To cool my burning fevered lips,
We have no Miss Monnie now.

We should not wish her back again
In this dark and dreary world;
Although I know she dearly loved
Her darling friends.

Miss Monnie lay and suffered long
Before death set her free
But now she dwells where Jesus is
And she is waiting there for us.

My Lord saw fit to take her home
And set her spirit free,
But while on earth, dear Lord, I roam
I humbly trust in Thee.

But Miss Monnie again I hope to meet
In that sweet home above,
There I can fall at Jesus's feet
And sing redeeming love.

Oh, won't that be a happy time,
When Miss Monnie's face I see
And the golden gate rolls open wide
And Miss Monnie welcomes us all.

Then oh how sweet to dwell in heaven
And see dear Miss Monnie smile,
And hear her say as I go in,
Oh, that is my darling friend.

Miss Monnie is gone, I need not weep
She cannot come back any more,
But soon I hope to meet her there
And rest on Canaan shore.

GINGER ROGERS AND JOE E. BROWN IN "YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL"

Ginger Rogers, the read-headed musical comedy and screen star, is teamed with Joe E. Brown for the second time in his latest First National comedy, "You said a Mouthful," which is coming to the Wadesonian Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 14 and 15.

Miss Rogers, whose beauty and pep, act as an excellent foil to Joe in his character role of an artless, but lucky boob, was his leading lady in "The Tenderfoot." She says her lucky star is in the ascendancy now, for she had sought the opportunity of playing with him for years before being cast in the latter picture. Twice she was selected for other pictures, but something intervened to prevent her taking the part. Miss Rogers declares that she would rather play with Joe E. Brown than any other player of the stage or screen.

That they make an excellent team is attested by the many requests the First National Studio had received following their success in "The Tenderfoot," that they be teamed again. The hilarity of the situations which they work out together in "You Said A Mouthful," is said to even surpass those of their previous co-effort. She it is who mistakes him for the swimming champion, and shames him, through his love for her, to enter a marathon race, although he never before has swum a stroke and is in deadly fear of water.

There are said to be more gags and funny situations araising from the race, which takes place in the Pacific off Catalina Island, than in any recent comedy. The screen play was written by Robert Lord and Bolton Mallory from the original story by William B. Dover.

An excellent supporting cast adds to the mirth of the comedy, the members including Preston S. Foster, Farina, of "Our Gang" comedies, Shelia Terry, Guinn Williams and Harry Gribbon. The picture was directed by Lloyd Bacon.

"—my skin became clear"

—wouldn't you like to be able to say this, too? Then pause a moment and reason . . , skin affections usually result because of lowered resistance from below the skin surface. Then help the blood that purifies the skin, by increasing its red-cells and restoring the vital oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in these cells so that more vitality comes to the tissues. This will increase the ability of the blood to devour infectious pimple germs.

That is just what S.S.S. does—proved by tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of thankfulness.

"Shall I use a good soap?"—certainly —"and cosmetics?"—naturally, but first observe Nature's law and lay the sound foundation from underneath the skin.

S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. Try a course of S.S.S. and note the constant improvement.

What "Technocracy" Is

(By Dr. O. C. Mastin)

Technocracy is the name given to the charted observations and conclusions of a group of scientists and engineers who have been at work for the last 12 years at Columbia University, N. Y., making a study of the earth's resources; especially its energy supply, and the effects of power and machinery on employment, etc.

Until a short time ago, Howard Scott was at the head of this group; why was he so suddenly dismissed? Because energy and power have the same meaning in more than one sense. Under the present industrial and economic arrangement, in which money and credit control are almost completely monopolized, money and credit have become the greatest power on earth; and money kings are now the all-powerful rulers of the world.

Arthur Brisbane—multi-millionaire —and the highest priced editorial writer in the world—says that the reason why this government pays more attention to financiers afraid of losing profits, than it does to a mother in wartime afraid of losing her son, is because our government is a financial enterprise, controlled by financiers. And financiers also control what is said by college professors and many other instructors of children, young and old. And Mr. Scott "walked the plank" because he pointed out just why "America is facing a crisis." That the people of America now have a choice between marvelous opportunity and dreadful disaster.

According to the findings of Technocracy, all of our so-called industry is based on debts, represented by interest-bearing promises to pay, and these debts are rapidly crushing the life of our own social body. Under the system, working people—the producing class—are compelled to pay, not only the cost of producing goods, transportation charges and merchandising expenses, but billions of dollars are extracted from them as interest charges on paper promises to pay.

Our gorgeous banking palaces, magnificant sky scrapers and splendid war machines may rightly be classified under the one head of "extract of human beings." Apparently these cancerous tumors, fastened upon our social bodies are more important to us than splendid homes, education, culture, training, justice, health and happiness for human beings. Yes, dividends, stocks, bonds, etc., emblematic of our modern form of slavery, seem the most important thing in the world to us:

At the present time, the interest charges on industrial debts, to say nothing of industrial dividends, consumes more than one-half of the national income; and how much more important this is than food, clothing and education for children! And the primary cost of most of the industrial stock certificates now drawing interest and dividends, was the price paid to printeres for the certificates.

The interest charge on the industrial debts of the United States (as stated by Scott in Harper's Magazine, Jan. 1933) is 43 billion dollars a year. And the payment of this vast sum, and profits in merchandising, etc., come first; before an adequate food supply, clothing, shelter or education for our children. These juicy plums are virtual gifts from our government, which grants and supports such special privileges, which we endorse by our votes.

Now, Technocracy warns us that in spite of our generosity to Wall Street and its cronies, present-day society cannot much longer endure the strain being made upon it. For in addition to the debt burden, mechanical men (the robot) are rapidly replacing human workers, and destroying potential markets.

The robot can now perform almost any task formerly done by human hands and brains; or with the help of men, women or children, they enormously increase the output of manufactured products. Robots multiply the output of workers who tend them, thousands of times in many instances; and does so without being a consumer of the products of farms, factories or schools.

Now, consider the power of energizing these robots. Technocracy points out that for 7,000 years or more the only source of energy employed in doing any kind of work was food; and that the amount of this consumed, per person, as measured in heat units (calories) average 2,000 calories per day, per person. This amount has now been increased to an average for our population of 150,000 calories per day, per person. In the last 89 years this nation has increased its energy production 353 times. And this energy has been harnessed to machines which can turn out vast quantities of all sorts of finished goods, just as perfect and hundreds or thousands of times more rapidly than human beings can, and uses (or consumes) none of them, nor the products of farms, etc.

Consider what it would mean to you and me if we were permitted to get the full benefit of our share of nature's gifts and human inventiveness (itself the gift of nature). We do not, because in dividing up these good things, vast numbers are kicked into the bread lines or suicide's groves; while financiers and their pals thereby become millionaires and billionaires.

Here is a huge and juicy melon; and if we are fools enough to permit a few to divide it up—using paper promises to pay to cut it with—(Technocracy shows that a wealthy man is simply the owner of a collection of promises to pay); dividing it up to suit themselves, keeping all the sweet and juicy parts, and throwing the rinds to those who operate the machines (some displaced by robots are now getting theirs from garbage cans); if we continue to vote for this, we deserve just what we are getting.

Upton Sinclair, in his book:—"Letters to Judd," written in 1925, quotes the figures of Roger Babson's statistical bureau, which show that at that time, in 13 important industries production was 88 times as much as by hand labor. (Since that time production, as compared with the age of muscle, has been increased by leaps and bounds.) Sinclair remarks: "Obviously then, everybody in the country ought to be 88 times as well off; poverty for the willing worker ought to be one-eighty-eighth of what it was in 1825."

On the contrary, according to Technocracy, if we continue to let nature take its course (as one writer puts it,) there will be 20,000,000 unemployed workers within two years in the United States. Provided we do not all go back to barter a condition of society just one step in advance of savagery. If the United States were to be shorn of its mechanical power and if we estimate of our 120,000,000 inhabitants 36,000,000 to be adult workers, we could turn out 3,600,000 horsepower of energy. Whereas, at the present time, there is in operation one single turbine which has a capacity of 300,000 horsepower, or 3,000,000 times the output of a human being working on an eight-hour basis. The turbine runs 24 hours, and its total output is 9,000,000 times that of one man. In other words, the output of four of these turbines is equal to the energy output of all the adult workers in the United States. And, basing his calculations on what is being done with natural power and machines in the way of increased output, Scott affirms that 4 hours work a day, 4 days a week (with a two-month vacation each year) by our adult population, ages 25 to 45, by a scientifically managed cooperative system will give a purchasing power which will buy as much as a $20,000 a year salary would in 1929. Workers could be retired on full pay at the age of 45.

The fellows who now get from 1 to 5 million dollars a year for no work at all, didn't like the idea, so they had Scott kicked out of his job. In this advance age we starve human beings instead of burning or crucifying them.

I see by the papers that when Roosevelt takes charge of affairs at Washington the government machinery will be completely modernized. In other words, departments will be doubled up, thousands of people will be shunted into the breadlines and wages of others slashed to the bone. The big idea being to try and save capitalism (big and little business) by saving money; money being so much more important than human beings. But this program is like trying to save a sinking ship by boring holes in the bottom to let the water out. It merely increases inability to buy the output of factories; therefore, must aggrave the situation.

Profits, represented now by interest, dividends, rent, war debts, other debts, etc., have already made such enormous holes in the capitalistic ship that it is now past saving.

People may save themselves, however, by abolishing the system which is destroying them; replacing it with national cooperation; call it Technocracy, if you like. This will enable production and consumption to balance each other, while bully utilizing power and machinery to satisfy human needs and worthy devices. As it is, we are all enslaved by money, yet call it liberty and freedom. Capitalism, it seems, is only another name for lunacy. If mankind had any real sense of humor, the world would laugh itself to death and thus end the entire fantastic tragedy.—O. C. Mastin.

1,056 More Range Users In 12 Months!

APPROXIMATELY 1,056 more Alabama women are now enjoying the comfort and convenience of electric cooking on this date in 1933 than on the same date one year ago.

Among these 1,056 women, we are prepared to say that we do not believe that even one can be found who will not say that electric cooking is far, far superior to old fashioned methods. Some of the reasons?

- IT'S CLEAN No soot to blacken utensils, curtains, walls. No fumes, no smoke.
- IT'S AUTOMATIC You simply place your entire meal in the oven, set the time and temperature controls and the rest of the day is yours until dinner's ready.
- IT'S COOL Your kitchen is just about the same temperature as any room in your house.
- IT'S BETTER All natural juices are retained, SEALED IN. Foods have a finer flavor.

County Farm Agent's Notes

SHORTAGE OF WORK ANIMALS FORESEEN

Auburn, Ala.—The supply of horses and mules on Alabama farms has shown a gradual decrease for several years, and since many of the mules now being used are growing very old an early shortage of work animals is expected by Dr. H. S. Sugg, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. Sugg said that in 1920 there were 420,000 work animals in the state, and that by 1932 this number had decreased to 377,000. He said the decrease in numbers is not alarming but the fact that reports show very definitely that a large number of the mules are very old in age indicate that many replacements will have to be made during the next few years.

He is expecting an increase in the price of work animals, due to the shortage and the fact that very few farmers are raising mules. He said that farmers should either raise mules or else be prepared to pay a relatively high price during the next few years.

The U. S. Bureau of Agricutural Economics said that during the last eight years (1924-1932) the number of horses and mules in the 12 southern states decreased at an average rate of about 100,000 head per year.

There is now a lively trading in mules in most parts of the state. Buyers seem anxious to secure mules of fair to poor quality at extremely low prices. Foreclosure in some sections have thrown distressed lots of mules on the market.

MILK STOLL MUSINGS

There may be doubt about the ground hog's shadow on his day, February 2. There is no doubt about the permanent pasture needing a legume. Lespedeza bay be sown this month or during March on unbroken pasture sod at the rate of 25 pounds per acre. It is high in food value and adapted to a wide range of soils.

For low, moist sandy bottoms carpet grass may be sown at the rate of 10 pounds per acre. This grass does not like shade.

Many permanent pastures would be improved by the addition of Bermuda grass. Plant a few extra acres of this valuable grass during this month or next.

BABY CHICKS SHOW ATTRACTS ENTRIES

The second annual baby chick show sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club, student organization of the Alabama Polytechnic Instite, will be held this year at the municipal market in Birmingham, February 23-25.

M. S. Phillips, Auburn student from Carrollton, manager of the show, is expecting more than 2,000 day-old chicks, representing strains of highly bred poultry, to be on exhibit.

The first Alabama baby chick show was held in Auburn last February and leading hatcheries and breeders entered more than 1,500 chicks.

All of the principal breeds will be represented in the show this year by enrties of 25 chicks each. Mr. Phillips said that no entry fee will be charged but that the chicks exhibited will become the property of the show in order that they may be sold to defray expenses.

The show will be judged by J. A. Medlock, graduate in poultry husbandry of North Carolina State College, and F. H. Orr, assistant county agent of Walker County. They will consider general condition, vigor, uniformity in size, weight, and other factors.

The purpose of the show is to recognize and encourage the production of high-quality poultry, and members of the Block and Bridge Club are beassisted in arranging the show by the faculty of the Auburn poultry department, headed by Prof. G. A. Trollope.

MITCHELL DAM

(By E. E. McGraw

With Christmas and the old year behind us, our mistakes, troubles and sickness become things to be forgiven and forgotten. The new year, with its opportunities before us, naturally makes us feel bigger and better able to do something really worth while for ourselves and our employers.

May we take this opportunity to offer a rather belated wish for a Happy and Prosperous New Year to each of the employees in the entire organization; also our sincere thanks to the management for their kindness in remembering the children of Mitchell Dam this past Christmas. The gifts this year consisted entirely of clothing. Nothing they could have been given would have been as useful and appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodson, of Lay and Mitchell Dams, started the year off right with a fine 8 1-2 lb. baby girl, born shortly after January 1st. With two big brothers and a proud mother and father, this baby certainly has a lot in life to be looking forward to.

Superintendent J. L. Hollis also started the new year off right, in a slightly different way, however. He is one of the very proud possessors of a new company Chevrolet, bright red with all accessories. The old car with its wrinkles and age has been seen recently looking for a new owner, perhaps deceiving its age of "75,000 miles." We hope the new owner, when found, will be able to add as many more miles as SAFELY as those driven by Mr. Hollis.

The employees of Mitchell Dam offer their sympathy and most sincere wishes for a speedy and complete recovery to Dr. James S. Thomas, recently injured in an automobile accident. Dr. Thomas has many admirers at this station.

Due to the inclement weather for the past several weeks projects on the outside have been small and of no great importance. The outside crew have been keeping busy on minor repairs and adjustments in and around the power house. The old ice plant, another machine well "wrinkled and worn" with age, is now in for a complete overhauling and revamping, it is now "wrecked" and work on its reconstruction is under way.

We would like to thank the editor of Powergrams for his insertion of C. M. Ripley's article on "New Tools for the new Electric Age" in the last issue. We found his statistics and ideas concerning the growth and usefulness of electrical energy to be of much interest. We wish that not only the Company's employees, but its many patrons throughout the state, had the privilege of reading this article.—Powergrams.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—Do you recommend early or late planting of trees for the lawn or orchard?

A.—Early planting is always preferable for fruit trees, shade trees, shrubs, and vines that are to be planted in winter or spring. Get the planting done before the first of March if possible. Late plantings suffer more from bad winds, from early growth of buds and limbs before the roots are well started, and from poorly settled soil about the roots.

Q.—What vegetables do you recommend for the earliest planting in home gardens?

A.—For outdoor planting the hardiest early spring vegetables that can stand considerable frost if necessary are cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, lettuce, onins parsley, English peas, Irish potatoes, radishes, spinach, turnips, etc. Do not make the mistake of planting the warm season crops in the earliest spring gardens.

Q.—What seeding do you recommend for early spring sowing of Southern lawns?

A. — In regions where blue-grass will thrive use one part of blue-grass with three parts of English rye grass. Mix in about one fourth of one part of white clover. If blue-grass does not thrive in your region, that seed may be ommitted. In Bermuda grass regions, use the trimmings of Bermuda grass, planted by use of the disc harrow or by sowing the clippings and rolling them in when the weather is very moist in March or April.

MACEDONIA NEWS

We are glad to know our Sunday school is growing. We have several new members. We were glad to have among our visitors Mr. Crit Moore from Pleasant Grove community.

We have preaching every second Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock by Rev. Buford Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Veazey were glad to have their sons this week end from Birmingham.

Bronzella Gibson's Sunday guests were: Crit Moore and Estella McCarter.

Messrs. D. E. Moore, Robert McAfee, Crit Moore and J. Hayes motored to Clanton Saturday.

We are sorry to know Mrs. Anna Nix is very ill. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gibbons's visitors Monday night were: Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McAfee and Crit Moore. They enjoyed a very interesting domino game.

Mr. Leighton Gibson and Proxter Nix from Birmingham enjoyed a bird hunt in this community last week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAfee enjoyed a trip to the old Honeycutt Grist Mill Sunday afternoon. That old mill was built over 100 years ago.—A Reader.

WHERE REPUTATION COUNTS

When it comes to fire apparatus for "town protection" the gallonage of a pump doesn't necessarily determine the quality of the finished product, nor does the horsepower of the motor determine its usefulness and dependability.

An "assembler" of fire appartaus, that is, a maker who buys a chassis here, a body there, and his equipment somewhere else and simply assembles it in his shop—might offer a pump or a motor equivalent in capacity to the products of pioneer manufacturers who build fire apparatus and nothing else. He might be able to sell his product at 20 or 25 per cent less money. But that doesn't mean that it is the best buy.

Almost anybody can make a thing a little cheaper—or a little worse. The few manufacturers who specialize in making fire apparatus only, go far beyond rated capacities. They choose every bolt, every part, with an eye to its influence on the finished job—will it wear as long as possible, will it maintain its efficiency over long years of arduous service, will it be immune to failure? These are the questions they ask themselves. Quality does the answering.

Then, after "town protection" has been sold, they put at the disposal of the purchaser the full facilities of reliable service departments — something the casual manufacturer cannot do.

When a town buys a fire engine it shouldn't buy merely engineering figures. It should buy dependability based on time tested reputation.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday, February 12th. 10 a.m. Bible study for all. 11 a.m. preaching and worship. 6:45 p.m. preaching, subject outlined as follows: "Sin." (1). What is sin? (2). Are babies sinners? (3). How many kinds of sin are there? (4). The three avenues through which we are tempted. (5). How Christ overcame temptation. (6). Sin against the Holy Ghost.

A welcome to all at every service. —R. L. Huffman.

P.-T. A. MEETING FRIDAY P. M.

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Clanton Grammar School will meet at the school building Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. An interesting program is being arranged. All parents are urged to attend.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and relatives of our community for their kindness and help during the long illness, and death of our mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hathcock, who died January 28, 1933. Especially do we thank Mr. Spigener, the undertaker, for his kindness.—J. M. Hathcock and family.

Leon B. Popwell of Thorsby Route 1 was in Clanton Wednesday morning and brought us a large egg. It was a red Rhode Island variety measuring eight and one-half inches around the long way and six and one-half inches around the other way. Mr. Popwell makes a specialty on big things; he brought us a potato three years ago that weighed thirteen and three-fourths pounds.

About 89,000,000 Japanese electric lamps were imported into this country by the end of 1932. Since these lamps use 20.2 per cent more current than American-made lamps, the supposed cheap imports are costing users an extra $11,000,000 annually.

Official announcement is made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that devil's shoestring, a common weed in the eastern half of the United States, contains rotenone, a valuable insecticide formerly found only in tropical plants. MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT AT THORSBY PUBLIC SCHOOL

On Monday night, February 13, at 7 o'clock, J. W. Hustis of Montgomery will speak at the public school auditorium at Thorsby and will explain the question of how the County Commissioners may obtain $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and how it may be expended in the interest of the taxpayers of the county, who are not able to pay their taxes. Mr. Hustis is one of the best posted men in Alabama on this question. The public is invited to hear him.

The Thorsby Cornet Band will furnish music for this occasion. There will also be other musical numbers rendered.

MAKE 1933 A SAFE YEAR

A publication of the National Safety Council carries an excellent New Year wish: "Three hundred and sixty-five safe and happy days to you in 1933."

If that wish could bear fruit, it would be a magnificant thing for this country. It would save thousands of lives which would otherwise be needlessly destroyed—it would keep for useful purposes the billion or so dollars that is fasted annually through accidents—it would make for happier and better working conditions, and more efficient industires. Nothing is so destructive to the morale of the worker as a series of serious accidents in his plant.

The safety movement has been making good progress for a long time. There has been a general decrease in the number of severity of accidents—aside from those caused by automobiles.

The careless, reckless and irresponsible driver kills about 33,000 people a year nowadays.

We can make 1933 the greatest safety year in our time. We can do it by giving the little effort, the little thought, the little care, that is needed to make our home, our places of business and the public highways safer. We can do it by giving consideration to the rights of the other fellow. As individuals, we have the power to save thousands of irreplacable lives this year—Let's do it!

USE FORESIGHT NOW

The principal task facing the farmer today is to build for the future, and at the same time carry himself through the difficulties of the present.

In this work the "cooperative" is his best ally. It is struggling to get him better prices and a surer market —and working as well to make that market permanent. It is blazing the way to better and more profitbale farming.

The cooperative movement has surmounted many obstacles, and many more will beset its path before its success is complete. And, if it is to succeed, it must have the loyal aid of a majority of American farmers—they must not only pay their dues and keep up their membership, but must work with cooperative managements in bringing in new members and reassuring old ones. They must fight aggressively for the cause of cooperation.

The strength of American business lies in cooperation—in a policy of enlightened self - interest through which all factors in an industry work together for the common good. It has proven to be a successful policy, and has helped more than we realize in bearing the brunt of these troubled times.

Agriculture must do the same thing —it must realize that the welfare of the individual producer is absolutely dependent on the welfare of all producers. If the farm cooperative movement fails, it will be from the lack of foresight of the American farmer.

Promoting A World Of Friendly Children

FRIENDSHIP FOLIOS for the children of China are beginning to start on their interesting adventures.

Beautifully lithographed in colors, containing Messages of Goodwill in both Chinese and English and six strikingly attractive pictures for framing and hanging on schoolroom walls, these Friendship Folios will interest both American and Chinese young people. And when our children, besides the snapshots of themselves and their friends, add scores of pictures clipped from illustrated magazines of boating and skating, camping and schooling, of birds, dogs and cats, of flowers and fruits, of airplanes, autos, scooters and roller skates and of the many other features that make American child life so varied, rich and interesting the Folios will be ready to send to the Department of Education at Nanking for distribution to the schools and the children of China.

This fourth project for creating world friendship is peculiarly suited to this period of economic depression. And surely, in spite of hard times, we need for the sake of our children to foster their ideals of friendship between nations.

A friend, reporting recently her experiences in Japan when 13,000 Doll Messengers of Friendship delivered their Messages of Goodwill to the children of that land, says: "It was one of the most thrilling experiences of my life to hear first-hand reports from day to day and read the stories in the daily papers. I am sure this is the most far-reaching experiment ever tried in world friendship." That was the first project.

Another friend reports "finding a lusty flower garden in a remote village in Mexico" which had started from a package of seeds sent in one of the 30,000 Friendship School

Bags some four years ago. That was the second project.

A Filipino boy in his "thank you letter" said: "I could not express my happiness when I received your gift (one of 28,000 Treasure Chests) and because of my joy I have forgotten all about my lessons during that day." That was the Third project.

The cost of the Friendship Folio (60 cents) is so moderate—suited to these times — that every class in schools and churches might well send one—the more the better. How could mothers better interest, educate and inspire restless, active children than by having them clip for an hour daily for a week or two the best pictures from magazines?

"Happiness was made to be shared." Sharing it increases it. How can this be better accomplished than through these projects for "Creating a World of Friendly Children"? To help in this program a booklet (25 cents) with this title has been prepared with suggestions for teachers and parents. All children and lovers of children are invited to share in the fun and the blessings of this splendid adventure.

Full directions are given with each Folio, which, with the booklet, may be secured from the Committee on World Friendship Among Children, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of genuine Bayer Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so before gargling take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Bayer Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. You may use it freely, it does not hurt the heart.

Regular preaching service next Sunday at Thorsby Baptist church. A cordial invitation is extended to all who will come, to worship with us, both morning and evening.

Miss Florence Thomasson, State W. M. U. Field Worker, will speak at Thorsby Baptist church at 7:30 Wednesday night, February 15th, in the interest of the W. M. U. work. Miss Thomasson is a guest of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones.

Next Sunday there will be Sunday school at 9:45 and preaching at 11 a.m. at Thorsby Congregational church, to which all are invited. There will be no evening service after the Christian Endeavor meeting in the evening.

Misses Ella Howard and Christina Bosworth of Montevallo spent the week end with home folks.

Buy your garden and field seed at Wyatt Drug Co., Thorsby, Ala.

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell went out to their home last Friday afternoon to help them celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mr. Laurell. All had a good time.

Miss Naeomi Turnquist spent Sunday with relatives.

At the Congregational church last Sunday night, a full house greeted Rev. Each's lecture on "Mormons in Utah and Dakota," and "Zion National Park." The lecture was instructive and the pictures very good. The collection and expenses for transportation of the pictures amounted to exactly the same sum. It so happened that there was a Mormon preacher in the audience. In conversation with Mr. Each after the lecture he somewhat criticized some features of it. He appeared to be one of a group of this faith now working in this vicinity.

Following the closing and departure of the I.G.A. Store and sale of the building, the lower floor of which has been thoroughly renovated and divided into two separate store rooms, the northerly one of which has been opened during the past week as a fully stocked modern grocery and food shop, where moderate prices will prevail. We were greatly pleased on visiting the place recently to find in charge a couple of Thorsby's most popular and experienced young business men, A. E. Reagan and C. R. Foss, whom we congratulate on having another opportunity to be of service to their many friends in Thorsby and vicinity.

Miss Doris Freeman had as her dinner guests last Tuesday night, Hubert Reinhardt, Mrs. V. E. Wyatt, and Miss Daniels.

Thorsby lost last week, in the removal to Prattville of Mr. and Mrs. C. Mack Gray, a young couple who have won a warm place in the esteem of almost everybody in the community. Mr. Gray had for some time been the popular manager of the I.G.A. Store in Thorsby, recently closed. We are truly sorry to have these young people leave Thorsby.

A farewell party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray by Mrs. R. R. Franklin last Wednesday afternoon. Those present were Mesdames Grover Bice, W. F. Love, Earl Marcus, E. L. Pate, Loren Smith, Flem Higgins, Grace Higgins and V. E. Wyatt, Mary Heflin, V. H. Sutlive, Spurgeon Calloway, C. M. Gray, and Misses Doris Freeman and Wilma Goodgame.

The many Thorsby friends of Miss Elizabeth Robinson, who for several years was librarian of Thorsby Institute, will be sorry to learn that she is seriously ill at her home in Birmingham.

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peterson gave them a genuine surprise party last Monday night, taking with them refreshments needed for a bountiful dinner and the means of entertainment. The occasion was in celebration of a birthday anniversary for Mrs. Peterson.

During the rain storm Tuesday a peculiar freak of lightening occurred shortly after noon. Without any previous rumblings of thunder, balls of fire were seen in many homes, immediately followed by a sharp report as in shooting a gun. So far as is known at this writing there was no resulting fires. Mrs. Frank Thompson, who lives next door to the Nortons on Washington Street, was eating her dinner beneath an electric light globe, which was shattered by the concussion, and she was considerably stunned by the shock. She says she saw balls of fire all over the kitchen. The Nortons saw a big ball of fire in their kitchen and heard a loud explosion, but could find no trace of fire or damage.

Next Saturday night from seven to nine-thirty the Helen Keller Literary Society will have a Valentine party at the dining hall. There will be a short program, games and refreshments. This is not open to the public as are the regular programs given in the auditorium at night to which all are welcome.

A week from Sunday night at 7:30 the institute girls' Glee Club will sing at the Community Congregational Church, Birmingham, of which Rev. Trevor Mordecai is pastor. This church is using the former Axis Club building until it builds a church. This is on 8th Avenue between 18th and 19th Streets, not far from the City auditorium. This church is interested in helping Thorsby Institute.

Mrs. K. R. Peterson of Birmingham was in Thorsby over the week end to help celebrate her father's (Mr. Turnquist's) 84th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vines of Birmingham have bought out Mr. Alford Collins's store on the highway between Clanton and Thorsby. Mr. Mr. Vines will continue to operate the store and invites the people in and near Thorsby to drop in and see him some time.

Mr. Tom Kemp of Clanton visited Mr. and Mrs. Donald Merchant Sunday.

Mrs. Roberta Childress is reported on the sick list this week with the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Thomasson of Lay Dam visited Mrs. C. M. Williams.

Miss Helen Lowery spent the week end with Miss Pauline Poole.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Deason and baby, Lorene Virginia, spent the week end in Birmingham with Mr. and Mrs. William Langford.

Mrs. William Langford of Birmingham is spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Pate.

Mr. and Mrs. Gresham Lowery and baby, Glenn, of Marion, Ala., are visiting Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Lowery and other relatives in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrick and son, Gene, are in Greenville for the present time where Mr. Garrick is employed.

Mrs. J. L. Mixson and little daughter, Grace Swanson, and little son, Dwight, returned home Friday after several week's visit in Union Springs with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald is visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moody for several days this week in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Bialas and son, Bobbie and Howard, of Clanton, spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport had as their Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Porter and family.

Mrs. O. W. Miller, of Clanton, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sims and son, of Jemison, visited Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Wyatt and other relatives in Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Maddox and children, of Birmingham, visited friends in Thorsby Tuesday, and also Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bean, of New Salem community.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burdette, of Clanton, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodgame had as their Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish and little daughter, Billy Ann, of Clanton.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard spent Saturday in Clanton on business.

Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Franklin and Mrs. J. E. Each and Mrs. B. T. Franklin made a trip to Garniers, Florida. Tuesday for a few days' stay.

Mrs. Grover Bice, Mary Virginia and Mrs. Lee Pate spent Thursday in Birmingham shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Robinson spent the week end in Pensacola, Florida, with relatives.

Miss Dorothy Butler returned home Sunday evening after a week's visit with her sister, Margaret, in Birmingham.

Miss Jennye Robinson spent the week end in Birmingham with relatives.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham, spent the week end in Thorsby with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson and Edith were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Laurell Sunday.

Mrs. T. A. South, of Birmingham, is visiting her mother, Mrs. G. W. Freeman this week.

"Where Do We Get Our Ideals," was the Christian Endeavor topic for last Sunday night, February 5th. Under the leadership of Lorene McLaun, a very interesting service was held. Many young people took part in discussing "Our Ideals." A beautiful duet, "Living for Jesus" was sung by Helen Albert and Nannie J. McDaniel. Our society is increasing in its attendance, and each member is urged to bring some one with him next Sunday night. Our services are getting more interesting each Sunday. The C. E. topics are found in "The Highroad." The members are asked to study the topic for next Sunday night and come ready to join in our "round table" discussion. We meet in the primary S. S. room.

THE SILVER LINING

One of the problems of 1933 will be the rehabilitation of silver.

Movements toward that end have been started. The foremost economists of the world point out that so long as silver prices are at the present low figure, general world recovery is impossible. Cheap silver is a paralyzing drag to trade.

The re-birth of silver mining in this country would mean the employment of thousands of men and put millions of dollars of new money in circulation.

TORNADO SEASON ARRIVES; TWISTERS FAIL TO APPEAR

While Alabama's tornado season is in full swing and no twister thus far has descended upon the state this year, Alabamians generally and especially those who live upon high elevations, will do well to keep a watchful eye upon the weather within the next two months or so, according to the records of the Montgomery Weather Bureau.

The records show that tornadoes strike most frequently in Alabama during January, February and March, and not infrequently in April.

The Montgomery weatherman is not premitted to make any predictions concerning tornadoes, for the reason that such predictions could not be made with any degree of accuracy, but facts disclose certain accompanying weather characteristics that will aid and perhaps forewarn the layman.

These characteristics are simple and easily observed.

In the first place the weather must be generally cloudy and unseasonably warm. Rainfall may or may not accompany the cloudy condition and by "unseasonably warm" is meant a temperature of from 60 to 70 degrees or above during January, February or March.

Second: The wind generally must come from the south or southwest. Almost invariably the tornado wind comes from the southwest and moves the tornado northeastward.

According to past records these are the principal characteristics for the layman to observe. If the weather is generally cloudy and cold there is little if any danger of a tornado condition appearing, so long as the temperature remains low.

Monday, for example, furnished an example of such a condition. The weather was generally cloudy, the wind switched to the south, but the temperature remained low throughout the day beginning at 30 degrees early Monday morning and rising to 44 degrees at 7 p.m.

Of course there are other influences and condtiions that are as strong in the occurrence of a tornado as those mentioned, but they are of little value to the layman for the reason that he cannot observe them.

The question the layman, therefore, should ask himself to be on guard is: "Is the weather cloudy, is it unusually warm for this time of year, and is the wind blowing from the south or southwest?"

If the answer is in the affirmative it does not of course, necessarily mean that a tornado will strike in the state, but it does mean that it is very unlikely one will strike unless these conditions prevail.

Actually, however, the intensity of a tornado is governed by the variation in temperature, but the layman in Montgomery has no way of knowing the temperature in Birmingham or Florence at the same hour.

On March 21 last year, for instance, when the five tornadoes raked the state in the worst disaster of its kind on record, the variation in temperature between Montgomery and Birmingham was approximately 30 degrees, Birmingham reporting a temperature of around 40 and Montgomery about 70 at the same hour.

Another fact disclosed by the record shows that there is no method by which one can base the slightest guess as to where a tornado will strike. The records show they generally strike from 300 to 600 miles from the center of the cloud area.

For instance, the center of the storm or cloud area when the tornadoes struck Alabama last March was east of St. Louis and not far from Memphis.

Tornadoes too, always are followed by a terrific downpour of rain. They may be preceded by occasional showers or a continuous drizzle, but after the high winds come and the rain begins falling in torrents, then the layman may heave a sigh of relief, for the danger of a tornado has passed.

The cause of a tornado is the rapid change in the weight or density of the air. This change occurs when cold dry air is pressed in against rapid condesation of the mositure causing the air to assume a whirling motion. The more rapid the condensation, or the colder and warmer the conflicting air current, the greater the intensity of the tornado.

FOREST DATA GATHERED FOR TENNESSEE VALLEY

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 7.—To advance forestry with Roosevelt is the immediate objective of the Alabama State Commission of Forestry, according to a statement issued at Montgomery. The plans of the President-elect regarding the forestral development of the uplands of the Tennessee valley are no surprise to the Commission. Mr. Roosevelt's farsighted statesmanship in these regards has been known for some years, and his announcement of a definitely formulated procedure has been expected.

In his address at Montgomery Mr. Roosevelt stressed forestry as one of the major economic programs to be undertaken. To the state forestry officials he expressed gratification at the progress already made. The commission of forestry is at present compiling data on the location, extent and character of the lands in need of forest management in the Tennessee valley with view to having the necessary information available for the beginning of actual work.

BAPTIST WOMEN'S RALLY

Believing that fellowship, prayer and cooperation are mighty forces in the ongoing of the kingdom, and that, now since most of us have lost our financial power, we need to be especially zealous in the use of the many capacities that we still have, the W. M. U. of Chilton and of Unity are planning rally meetings to which every woman is invited to come. We want no woman, and no church to feel left out. Go to the meeting nearest you.

Those going to the all day meetings are asked to bring their own lunches, that the hostess church may have little expense. A splendid program has been prepared. We believe that all who go will be exceedingly well repaid. The meetings are as follows:

Feb. 14—All day meeting, beginning at 10 a.m., at Poplar Springs, Maple Springs, Refuge, Pleasant Valley and Chestnut Creek.

February 15.—All day meetings, beginning at 10:00 a.m., at Shiloh, Billingsley, Bethsalem, New Cedron, and Indian Grave.

February 16—All day meetings, beginning at 10:00 a.m., at Pleasant Grove, Pates Chapel, Macedonia, Mars Hill.

Feb. 17—Stanton, 2:00 p.m., Maplesville, 3:30 p.m.

Feb. 18—Bethel, 1:00 p.m., Alpine, 2:30 p.m.

Feb. 19—Oak Grove, 10:00 a.m., Union Grove, 2:00 p.m., Collins Chapel, 7:00 p.m.

The above church groups are so arranged for convenience only. Go to the meetings most accessible to you, but GO. All members of all churches are invited.—Mrs. S. J. Ezell Vice-President of Eastern District.

J. P. MONTGOMERY OF JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL PLANS A LARGE PROGRAM OF VOCATIONAL AID

Beginning this week Mr. Montgomery meets with groups of vocational education boys in five different communities. He met Monday afternoon with boys in Freeman School community. He and the boys went to Jade Cofer's and engaged in orchard work, including the pruning of peach and apple trees and grape vines, digging peach borers, etc.

Next Monday Mr. Montgomery will meet the same group of boys at the home of another student, and will lay off variable grade terraces. Should it rain, the boys will meet at a blacksmith shop and sharpen plows. The above is an illustration of the type of work Mr. Montgomery is doing with the boys.

In addition to this work with school boys, Mr. Montgomery will have three community meetings each week with adult farmers. The following schedule for adult meetings has been arranged:

Pleasant Grove, Tuesday nights; Oak Grove, Thursday nights; Collins Chapel, Friday nights.

This week's meetings will begin at 6:30 p.m. The meetings will be held in the above-named communities each week. Next week the meetings will begin at 2 p.m, and demonstrations will be given at each meeting, as follows:

Pruning, spraying, and grafting fruit trees. If the afternoon meetings are rained out, Mr. Montgomery advises that he wil meet the farmers at the school house that night, and discuss some timely agricultural subject.

The following subjects and discussions are among those to be given at these meetings: Pasture building, pruning, spraying, grafting fruit trees, landscaping, teracing, culling feeding, and housing chickens, poultry disease; comparison of relative value of nitrate fertilizers; insect control in garden and truck crops.

This work is made possible through federal aid for vocational agricultural work. Mr. Earle Thomas, at Isabella School is arranging similar wark, but we are unable to give his program in this issue. It will be printed as soon as we can get an outline from him.

"WHEN A WOMAN DECIDES"

The Senior Class of Jemison High School, under the direction of Miss Mirian Harvey, will present the play, "When A Woman Decides," in the high school auditorium, Tuesday night, February 14, at 7:30. Admission 10 cents and 20 cents. The proceeds will be used for library fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones visited Montgomery last Sunday and attended the meeting of Judge McCord's Sunday School Class.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson is reported to be sick this week

Miss Maudie Ree Traywick is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lanolia Williams, in Montgomery this week.

Several were absent from Sunday school last Sunday, but we hope to have them present next Sunday.

BLESSINGS OF CHRISTIANITL

Chistianity is the gift of God to mankind. "The Gospel of Christ is the Power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." Rom: 1: 16. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." 2 Tim. 3:16-17. God's power gave unto the apostles "all things that pertain unto life and godliness." 2 Pt. 1:3. All things that pertain unto life and godliness are given by these apostles to "whosoever will" have them. The word given to the world by the apostles of Christ is the word of God. Jno. 13:20. The word of God, which is the Bible, contains all truth (Jno. 16:13) and all things that pertain unto life and godliness.

Every principle of good, every act of righteousness, every deed of kindness, every favor or act of mercy that we can perform, and every Christian activity meeting the approval of God are one and all, authorized in the Bible. The Bible is the way-bill from earth to heaven. Everyone who will follow its instructions faithfully will be saved. It converts the soul. Psa. 19:7. "It makes the simple wise. It is likened to a fire and hammer that breaks the rocks." Jeremiah 23:29. It converts stony hearts. It cleanses those who conform to it. Jno. 15:3. It contains the gospel of Christ, the power of God to save. Eph. 1:13. When obeyed, it purifies the soul. 1 Pt. 1.22. It is the call of God to man. 2 Thes. 2:14. Men perish because they do not love it. God shall send strong delusion to them who love not its truth, but have pleasure in something else. 2 Thes. 2:9-12.

Should we seek some power not in the Bible we would seek and may get a delusion. Poul said, "But though we or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." Gal. 1:8.

LAY DAM

(By Elery Hansen)

Last month I started out giving the names of the ones that were sick with the flu. This time it would be much easier to name the ones that have not had it. There was one time when our operating force was down to the point where one more case of flu would have meant longer hours.

The following men have recently returned from their vacations: Tommy Thomason, Wallace Wood and F. D. Green. Tommy made a trip over into Georgia to see if they were having as much rain as we have been having. (They evidently did, from the looks of his car when he came home.) F. D. Green divided his off time between Andalusia and Columbia. His home is in Andalusia and his school teacher in Columbia, so I suppose that is why he went to both places. Wallace Wood was not quite so fortunate this time. His wife took sick with the flu the day he was off, and was real sick during all of his time off.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodson wish to announce the arrival of a new daughter, Martha Josephine, on January 4th. Both mother and daughter are doing fine.

Miss Ethel Mize, our congeniai school teacher, is going to prove that "one can live as cheap as two" and has started housekeeping. This seems to be the reverse of what I have always heard, but personally, I think she is practicing up for some future time when she will need all of this housekeeping experience. (Someone made the fatal mistake of suggesting a box of soda be included in her first order of groceries.) Now, I wonder what they meant by that?

Recent visitors in camp were E. P. Lakeman of Haleyville, Miss Bettie Lakeman from Birmingham office, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Barnes of Mobile, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moody of Birmingham and Miss Lois Primm of Thorsby.

Mrs. Dick Hayes spent New Year's week with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Floyd, in Clayton, Alabama.

The writer recently had the opopportunity of attending one of the dances that are frequently hald at Jordan Dam. And folks, if you want to really enjoy a dance, go to one that they have. When you leave, if you can't say that you had a fine time, don't blame anyone but yourself. Mr. Cox, we thank you for the invitation.—Powergrams.

SUNSHINE IN THE INSURANCE BUSINESS

Mr. Eunice Chism (Sunshine) has severed his connection with the Upchurch Drug Company, after several years of active service, and he announces he has formed a connection to represent the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, in this territory.

Mr. Chism will maintain his headquarters in Clanton and will devote his time and his energies toward buliding up a permanent business connection with the Mutual.

During his long connection with business activity in Clanton, Sunshine has made a great many friends. All of them wish him well in his new endeavor, and will be pulling for his success in a big way.

THE LATIN AMERICAN FUTURE

In concluding an article summarizing Latin American trade in 1932, Wallace Thompson, editor of Ingenieria Internacional, says: "On the whole, the Latin American situation, with its limited number of unfavorable factors and its many sound reasons for optimism, promises . . . as sure a future for that great region as it has ever offered . . ."

Latin American commerce, particularly with the United States, is steadying more effectively than that of any other regional group. This trend will show additional improvement when the figures for 1932 are completed, according to Mr. Thomson.

Efforts to solve the principal difficulty in our trade with Latin America, that is, the exchange and debt situation, have been started. As Mr. Thompson observes, if even a partial solution is achieved, it will result in an immediate improvement in business, with the United States in a particular good export position. It will afford a growing market for the products of American factories, and consequently, employment for thousands of American workmen who are now seeking jobs.

American citizens are tremendously interested in helping Latin America.

ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL

In your left hand trousers pocket you have a sum of fity dollars. In your right-hand pocket is another fifty. For a period of time you spend entirely from the left pocket, until the fifty suffers alarming depreciation. Then you begin spending from the right pocket. Would you consider this economy and reduction of expenses? You certainly would not. It is unimportant whether the dollar comes from one pocket or another, whether your left hand or your right passes it out.

But, when the tax commissions and politicians announce a program of tax reduction, it unsually does precisely what has been described above.

It takes a dollar off the property tax and puts another dollar on the income tax. It shifts burdens from an inheritance tax to a sales tax. It discovers intangible taxes—supposed to lower some other tax, but increases the total volume of tax money taken from individuals and industry. And so it goes.

The average tax reduction program is a farce and misrepresentation. It robs Peter to pay Paul. It does not recognize the fact that there is but one way to lower taxes—to spend less money.

Keep the pocket illustration in mind next time your public officials announce an economy drive. See if they actually do lower the cost of running the government, or simply dip into your other pocket. Then act accordingly.

"I'm wearing your suit tonight, because you won't need it."

"What makes you think I won't need it?"

"Well, I'm dating your femme."

Financial experts in Congress who think that going off the gold standard would increase the price of our products might take a look at Great Britain for example. All sorts of predictions were made about how the price of wheat would go up in England when she went off the gold standard, but it didn't.

The example of Britain is there for the enlightenment of American office holders who may be tempted to increase the tax extortions in this country as a humanitarian measure. If we in this country employ the taxing power to destroy the solvent in the vain attempt to rescue the insolvent we shall reap the same harvest disaster which the British are now garnering.—Chicago Tribune.

An African plant has been discovered which, transplanted in the United States, eats beafsteak. Now if somebody will only discover something which will consume our cotton surplus.

Stands selling hot dogs and beer are being established along French railway lines. The French are evidently learning that American tourists no longer live on caviar and champaigne.

Even some of our most confirmed Democratic friends are now beginning to be doubtful as to whether they will wake up on the morning of March 5 and find prosperity returned.

Bolivia and Paraguay are still fighting and as usual their press agents disagree as to which nation is winning the victory.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

We have heard a great deal during the past few months about balancing the budget, reducing taxes and national and local expenditures. So far as the local units of government are concerned the agitation for economy and lower taxes have had some effect. Fewer municipal bond issues are being sold than for many months. Expenses in many states and cities are being trimmed and this will eventually result in lower taxes if the people will stay on guard.

But how about the national government? What are its prospects along this line for the coming months? Are we to have a balanced budget through reduction of national expenditures, or are we to have still higher taxes and more economic pressure as a result? Only the future can tell. Both political parties were on record for economy and the slashing of expenditures. But enough proposals have now been brought forward to increase Uncle Sam's expense a dozen billion dollars if all of them were to be enacted. And very little is being heard about reduction of expenditures and fewer taxes at Washington. The Republicans are naturally saying little, as they are going out of power in a few weeks. Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt will say something to calm the troubled waters within the next few weeks. It is earnestly to be hoped so. He is said to favor a twenty-five per cent cut in expenditures.

Of the proposed outlay of billions, many of the plans are for helping the farmer. A great many people seem to still have the idea that the United States government can restore the prices of agriculture through some legislative magic. A huge program has been mapped out and introduced by the Democratiic leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, calling for an expenditure of a billion and a half to assist agriculture. The program is said to include the recommendations of the farm organizations of the country, who were promised by Mr. Roosevelt in the campaign that if they would get together on a program he would agree to it.

The plan includes a provision for a new billion dollar government agency, the "Emergency Agricultural Refinance Corporation," to lend up to $10,000 to individual farmers on first or second mortgage security providing the total mortgages do not exceed 75 per cent of the value of the property. The bill would also put the government squarely behind the Federal Land Banks.

But there are many other proposals for federal outlays of money. Senator Costigan, Democrat, of Colorado, has introduced a measure which, it is claimed, establishes a permanent federal role for the idle, with a half billion dollar relief fund to be administered by an Emergency Federal Relief Board. Another bill provides for a United States Exchange Corporation with a capital of a half billion and authority to issue government debentures to the sum of two and a half billions to lend funds to corporations to provide employment, and to individuals to provide them with purchasing power.

Then there are additional proposals for the payment of the veterans bonus which is due in 1945. Mr. Patman of Texas still wants to pay for this by inflating the currency. Other bills provide for federal aid to states, counties and muncipalities for educational purposes. In short, the number of proposals for appropriating more federal money to be raised either by more taxes, by bond issues or by inflation is too great as to make one fairly dizzy in contemplation.

In the meantime foreign made goods are flooding the country, coming over our tariff wall for the reason that depreciated currencies abroad have made this possible. This shuts down our American factories and puts out of jobs American workers who could be using more of the products of the American farmer, if the workers could afford to buy them. Damming of this flood of foreign made goods, made by cheap labor paid in tin money, would go a long way toward restoring business and agriculture in America.

DON'T THEY KNOW WAR HAS BEEN OUTLAWED?

The United States Senate has been importuned by a group of some 200 fairly prominent and well-meaning men and women to "outlaw war." These excellent persons should understand that war already has been outlawed—by the Kellogg pact, the nine-power treaty and by agreement among the members of the League of Nations.

Yes, sir, war is absolutely outlawed. There is no such thing. Whatever it is that is going on in Manchuria is something else. More men are now under arms than when the World War armistice was signed, but do you think that is because there is going to be another war, ever, ever? Don't be foolish. The nations of the world are armed to the teeth and to the point of bankruptcy just to make certain that there will be no more war anywhere, anytime.

We have solemly proclaimed against all future wars and in the proclamation have been joined by virtually all the nations, including Japan. The big goverments have conducted one conclave after another at Geneva and at The Hague at which they have discussed the size and kinds of armament and ammunition, chemicals with which to destroy civilian populations, subsea boats with which to demolish great ocean liners, bombing airplanes that could lay waste great cities, battleships that could wipe bustling seaports off the map—but not war. Not ever that!

The innocence of the professional pacifists surpasses far that of the cherubs. Their impracticability is more abysmal than the ocean's depths. They have not yet learned that the words of diplomacy are wily words, calculated to deceive; that out of the mouths diplomats issueth forth buncombe and blather when they talk of eternal peace, because while they are talking thus they are preparing their countrymen for the shambles.

Let the Senate outlaw war again if it wishes to do so and if it will make these two hundred amiable Americans good, but Americans acquainted with the world situation know that the only way by which, in the long run, America can keep out of the next war is by being so well armed that no nation will have the courage to attack us. We can outlaw war in only one way—by being so strong that we need never say another word about outlawing war.

THE MORAL OF THE DECLINING POUND

The continuing decline of sterling provides the American people with a clear warning of what lies ahead of a nation which heedlessly piles tax upon tax. The political advantages of this policy may seem to justify it for a time, but the day of national humiliation cannot be postponed indefinitely. Taxes in Britain have absorbed a large part of the British reserve of capital and have severely handicapped British industry. The English people have been eating their savings and the fact is reflected in the decline of their money in the terms of sounder currencies.

The British made the ruinous mistake of bleeding white their going industries and their solvent individuals. This was done in the belief that the money so acquired could be used to better advantage if redistributed to those in moribund industries like coal mining. The result has been that the coal mining industry is still moribund, while men who call themselves miners, though they may not have dug a pound of coal in five years, have come to regard idleness as a virtue and a living at the expense of others as a right.

The dole provided a bare subsistence for a time, but now, with a decline of the pound to two-thirds of its former value, even that miserable minimum will have to be lowered. A large part of what the British population eats and wears must be bought abroad with gold. As the value of the pound declines the purchasing power of the dole must also decline.

Of course it is not only those on the dole who suffer. Every Englishman will find his income will buy less and less as time goes on. Thus far the cost of living in Great Britain has not risen in step with the decline in the value of British money, but the rise in living costs cannot be permanently avoided. Certainly the scheme of the government to stabilize the pound through the agency of a huge government fund for speculation in foreign exchanges will fail of its purpose, just as the farm board's half billion dollars failed to stabilize the prices of wheat and cotton.

Flying from California to Washington, the plane of Senator-elect McAdoo was forced down in Mississippi on account of fog. If the fog had been in Louisiana we would know who caused it.

Opponents of the sales tax say that it will be a burden on the people who are too poor to buy anything. This argument is too deep for us.

The twentieth Amendment to the Federal Constitution has been adopted and hereafter they can no longer blame the shortcomings of congress on to the lame ducks. Somebody will have to think of a new alibi.

Technocracy has been disavowed at Columbia University. Maybe there is something in it after all.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—

Intra-Party Politics

One of the most exasperating problems the editor of a country weekly newspaper has to contend with is intra-party politics, especially if his paper is generally recognized as the party organ in his locality. He is always glad to have his readers write in, discussing the topics uppermost in the minds of the people at the time, but nothing is more disgusting than to have some disgruntled job-seeker, or would-be politician cut loose with a violent harangue, airing his grievances against some particular person or persons. He prefers to keep his columns clear and open to fight the party's battles. Even then, he would much prefer to have a clean-cut battle rather than a mud-slinging campaign waged in his paper. But when members of his own party begin to write in, taking dirty personal cuts at members of the same party, sometimes it is very tempting to bar the whole mess. The last year, with its two primaries and a general election, saw some of the cleanest campaigning in the record of Chilton County politics, both within the Republican party, and between our nominees and the Democrats. As a result, the readers of the county weeklies were anxious to get their papers each week and read discussions of the different candidates of different topics touching their particular interests. When there is mud-slinging, however, people tire of it quickly, and conclude, that "politics is rotten." After all, a candidate who makes his race on the demerits of his opponent rather than on his own merits only shows his own weakness. And, naturally, people soon come to the rightful conclusion that such candidate is a bit light for the job, and become disgusted with him. The editor knows all this only too well. He knows, also, that he (the editor) is given part of the blame for allowing such slush to appear in his paper. This places him in a tight place. If he does not allow all letters written to the paper to go in, he is charged with favoritism; if he allows all to go, and mud-slinging results, he receives unmerited censure. It's the case of "between the devil and the deep, blue sea," all over again.

The $50,000.00

One of the questions uppermost in the minds of the people of this county at this time is whether or not the voters will authorize the Commissioners Court to borrow $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, when they go to the polls on February 21. I think the members of the Court have done the wise thing in asking for a vote of the people on the question. I think everyone will agree that any self-respecting person had rather have a chance to earn his own living, than have it given to him, and so become marked as an object of charity. Then, if the county has some worth-while project to put through—road work, etc., something it needs and cannot carry on without this money, and can thus give work to many needy people, helping them in this manner to earn their own living, then it is a good thing. On the other hand, if it is to be merely given out as gifts, even though given to the most needy, I do not believe there is much good to be derived from it; the sum would be gone in a short time, with no one receiving much benefit from it, and leaving recipients of these "gifts" with far less self-respect than in the beginning and Chilton County $50,000 deeper in debt. I believe the careful voter will find out which of these plans is to be carried out and cast his vote accordingly.

Your Postal Service—Part 4

YOUR MAIL BOX—If you live on a rural mail route, has it ever occurred to you to notice the position, condition, etc., of your mail box? If not, do so. Too many people merely "put up" their boxes. Consider the carrier when placing your box. Contrary to the general idea that Uncle Sam will have the carrier leave your mail, no matter what condition your box is in, there is a specific set of rules set out by the postal service which govern this part of the service. One of the rules in this connection is that the box must be so placed that the carrier can serve the box, in any kind of weather, "without alighting from his vehicle." Carelessness in placing the box impairs the service. If every box on the route were placed advantageously, and fastened steadily and securely, your carrier could give much better service, and get your mail to you earlier every day. So, it is as much to the patron's advantage to look after this matter as it is to the carrier. Your box should be placed in easy reach of the side of the road; the box, itself, should be about three feet from the ground and fastened securely to its post, which should be set steadily in the ground. It should have a good flag, too. If these few, simple directions are carried out, you will notice improvement in your service. A safe rule is to consult your carrier. He serves them all, day in and day out, an dhe is better able to tell you the best site for your box at your particular place. He will gladly assist you in this way, and will appreciate your cooperation in helping him to give all his patrons the very best of service. This is what he is "paid to do," instead of daily performing all kinds of gyrations and stunts worthy of an acrobat in trying to get to your box, your mail in, and on his way again. He is a government "service man;" not a government "slave."

Poll Taxes

Mr. W. G. Culp, tax collector, gives us the figures on the poll taxes paid for the year ending February 1. There were 929 "singles"; 60 paid up their poll taxes from two to eight years; in all there were 989 voters who qualified; there were 1,087 poll tax years paid up—that is, 1,087 times $1.50, or $1,630.50 paid in. Parties who keep up with such matters pretty closely presume that there are about 2,250 exempt voters in the county. So, we may figure that the voting strength of the county for the coming year is approximately 3,250. This is about 1,250 less than the number of qualified voters last year.

Back From South America

Met Lester Robinson one day last week. I have been knowing this young man for a number of years. He has had some interesting experiences for the past two or three years. He has been in the U. S. Army, and stationed in the Canal Zone. I wanted to get to talk to the young man for some time, and listen to some of his experiences, but he had no time, as he was only here for a day or so, after I saw him. He has signed up with Uncle Sam for another three-year hitch. Lester says he hasn't suffered from the depression. He has had three "squares" every day, plenty of clothes, and a little cash for spending money. Sounds fairly good to the rest of us, who are "just getting by," I suppose.

MOBILIZING WORLD OPINION

Edmond Taylor, of the Tribune News Service has done something worth doing for his country in his letter from Paris in The Sunday Tribune. The American public cannot follow the European press on the handling of American news by foreign news agencies, but at a time when the American Secretary of State is talking much about the "mobilization of world opinion" as a substitute for independent defense, Mr. Taylor's disclosure of how opinion is being made by foreign news controlled by British and French government policies or interests is as timely as it is valuable.

The case in point is the juggling of armament statistics to make it appear that the United States is a military menace expending on arms a huge sum, larger han that of Britain or France. This trick, which American pacifists use, is to give the total of our expenditures as military expenditures without mentioning that it includes bonuses, pensions, upkeep of veterans' hospitals, etc. Neither is it mentioned that we do not conscript soldiers as the French do and pay our regulars much higher pay than the British.

Without analyzing this fallacy comparison which we have done before, the fact which should impress our people now is the source of this attack and its prompt use by the British and French newspapers. It is the work of the British Reuter agency, which habitually spreads items of American news which may discredit us throughout the world. The French Havas agency is equally unfriendly. The dispatch of armament expenditures as it first appeared carried a Washington date line. Later it carried a London date line. The London Express, which has been savagely attacking all things American for a long time, accompanied the article with an editorial comment arguing that, although we do not need a navy like Great Britain's of an army, since we are three thousand miles from Europe, a naive implication, by the way, we are spending more money for military purposes.

The object of the fraud is, of course, to give the European peoples the conviction that we are hypocrites urging them to disarm while we build up our own armament. The comparison of our army and navy with those of Europe is not made. That would explode the fraud. What is intended is to strengthen the determination of default on obligations and to discredit our efforts for reduction and limitations of armament.

As an example of mobilizing world opinion we call Mr. Stimson's attention to it. More important, the American public should ponder its meaning when they are invited to make further sacrifices for world peace and recovery.—Chicago Tribune.

HOW ABOUT INFLATION?

One of the reasons given for the present hesitancy on the part of business to go forward is that business men and financiers are hesitating to make commitments because of the belief that sentiment for monetary inflation is growing in congress.

Nobody wants to make an investment or to try to expand his business if he fears the next congress may tamper with the standard dollar. At least he doesn't want to move until he knows what the tampering will be like. Every time there is talk of inflation, the American dollar sells off and the British pound and the French franc rise in markets of the world. This is not due entirely to the practice of selling the dollar short, frequently ingaged in by European speculators. Some Americans are frightened into disposing of their dollars when they hear the talk of inflation.

The country is entitled to know just what the incoming administration is going to do on the subject of inflation. During the campaign we were led to believe that the Democratic party stood for sound money. Now is the time for its leadership to assure us of the fact. The growing sentiment in congress among the majority "statesmen" for inflation is not reassuring.

The American people have known all along that there would be no tampering with our monetary system so long as Mr. Hoover was in the White House. But his term is drawing to a close and soon it will be us to Mr. Roosevelt and his advisors.

If Mr. Roosevelt were to let the public know in no uncertain terms just where he stands on the question of inflation, it might help clear up the situation. One distinguished Democratic President was not afaraid to speak out when the public interest made it necessary. His name was Grover Cleveland.

The selection of Senator Glass of Virginia as secretary of the treasury would be one sign the new administration will frown on inflation. A reassuring statement from the incoming president would be helpful. The defeat of the Wheeler free silver amendment does not end the question, by all means.

Senator Blaine defines intoxication as loss of control. Then congress must be that way most of the time.

The Japs seem to climb over the great Chinese Wall whenever they want to. Nothing like a few cannons to stop excursions of this kind. Soft words and scraps of paper won't do it.

According to one newspaper correspondent the new administration will use the war debt to bargain with for increased world trade. All right, just so we don't agree to cancel the debts in return for increased shipment of goods from Europe.

Self-Bobbing Hair

And now comes word, via The Literary Digest, of a family in Norway, whose hair is "self-bobbing." The curious incident is the only one of its kind known to scientists who are studying the case. The hair grows normally until it is two or three inches in length. Soon after it reaches this length, however, when it has grown a bit longer it becomes brittle and breaks off back to the two to three inch length, all of its own accord.

Chinese Names

Maybe you are one of the many who keep up with the Jap-Chink war which is being waged. If you are like us, though, you come to a lot of Chinese names which you can't pronounce. In the past, when reading about this Chinese business, when I came to one of those words which make one think of an alphabet pie, all I could do was sneeze or grunt. The Literary Digest, however, gives us a bit of help with a few of these big words. Try to remember the following when reading your Chinese news items: Jehol—Rey-Ho, emphasis on the Rey; Shanhaikwan—Shan-High-Gwan; Chinwangtao—Ching-Wan-Dow, emphasis on the Dow; Chinchow—Chin-Cho, emphasis on the Cho as in choke; Peiping—Bay-Ping, emphasis on the Bay; Manchukuo—Man-Chu-Go, emphasis on the Go; Marshal Chang Hsiao-liang—Chang-Schew-Leang; and General Ho Chu-Kuo—Ho-Sch-Go, emphasis on the Go. Maybe that'll help you some.—Man in the Moon.

Another One of My Worries

This weather business has got me worried. The weather prophets say it is time for more tornadoes, which announcement don't help my feelins a-tall. I had rather see another war than another storm like we had last spring. I believe I would take upon myself personally the responsibility of whipping Kaiser Bill in preference to weathering such a storm. I know I have got a perfectly good storm pit, but I aint got much confidence in it. How easy it would be for me to be out of reach of the pit when the storm comes. Oh, well, all we can do is hope it don't come. We will go to sleep and forget it if we can.

"Spanish" Culp Here

Walter L. Culp, whom the boys used to call "Spanish," is in this neck of the woods again. He is staying close by the bedside of his father, Uncle John Culp, who is seriously sick. Spanish used to be as common around Clanton as pig tracks. He went off to the war in 1918, put up his service, and came back to Birmingham. Since that time he has been at work in the radio business around the big city. Last December he got into a serious automobile wreck, which left him with a few scars and marks. Spanish is a happy-go-lucky fellow, and one of the smartest mechanics that ever grew up around Clanton.

The Moving Epidemic Started

The general moving epidemic which we foretold last week has begun in earnest. Buck Gore is carting his flour and feed and soap over to the cafe building next to Woco Service Station. He will be ready for business in his new place by Saturday. The Rockett building is being fixed up for Jesse Baker. Buck is already started to fixing up his old corner place to suit the Clanton Cash Store. There will be more moving right soon.

The $50,000 Relief Fund

Shall Chilton County apply for $50,000 relief funds from the R. F. C.? Here is my answer to the question. We know we have lots of unemployed people in the county who need work to earn something to buy bread. Most of them had rather work for it than to have it given to them. We know we have work to be done on our public roads at which these people can be employed. We know we can safely trust our Commisisoners Court to properly spend the money so as to get the most work done and the most relief distributed. Therefore, I say, if we can get the money, let's have it as quickly as possible. It would mean so much money put into circulation in the channels of business; and that is something worth having, too, at this time.

I Ask You To Study It Carefully

In this week's paper there is printed the agreement which Chilton County would have to sign to get the $50,000 relief funds. It is upon this agreement that our county's obligation would rest. It is as plain as words can make it. If you will not mix any politics or any prejudices or any other foreign substances with your consideration of the question, you will not be in any danger of getting mixed up about seeing through it. For the sake of the needy people of our county who need a job to earn something to eat, I beg you to think straight on this important matter when you come to determine how you will vote on Tuesday, the 21st. Leave the politicians out of it. Think of the people who are in need. They are the ones whom we should help.

DEBT DIPLOMACY

The verbal gyrations of the British statesmen in discussing the forthcoming Washington debt conference would seem at first thought to be confusing, but they are understandable if one grasps the whole sitation. It all goes back to the conference in which Great Britain and France agreed to remit most of the German reparations. At the time British statesmen promised the French that John Bull would go along with them when the question of the debt to America came up and would sign no agreement which was not acceptable to the French. The British made this promise because it was the only way they could get the French to agree to a reduction in the German reparations. The scheme was, of course, to get Uncle Sam ultimately to pay the whole bill.

Next came the question of December payments. France defaulted and Great Britain paid. This looked like a breach of the agreement made by the British with the French on the debt question, but it wasn't.

When President-elect Roosevelt through Secretary Stimson invited the British over here to discuss debts after March 4 and did not invite the French, it put John Bull in an embarrassing position, especially in view of the fact that Uncle Sam's spokesmen indicated that other questions would be discussed. If Great Britain should come over here and finally settle its debt, giving concessions to America without consulting France it would be a clean-cut repudiation of the agreement made with the French to go along with them on the debts. For that reason British statesmen have made assertions recently that they will come over here but will not make any agreement or concessions on foreign trade, international money or pay more than they can get from Germany. This is done to satisfy the French and there is little question that in the final anaylsis Great Britain will stand with the French against Uncle Sam on the matter of the war debts. That is why the French are taking things so coolly.

The situation calls for a little close thinking on the part of the United States. Otherwise he will lose not only his shirt, but his ancient plug hat.

If China had a navy equal to or bigger than Japan's navy do you suppose the Japs would be acting so fresh in Manchuria? Nothing like a little preparedness nowadays.

President-elect Roosevelt expressed himself as pleased with the Lame Duck amendment which cuts off a couple of months at the end of his term. Maybe he figures the job will be getting a little wearisome about that time.

Russia with 18,000,000 trained men warns the world that she is ready for war. But our own pacifists will continue to demand that Uncle Sam drop all his defensive armament and depend on soft words and over-ripe tomatoes in case of trouble.

Of course the Technocrats can promise anything and everything. They don't have to deliver so long as they are in the minority.

The Technocrat is the Florida real estate agent of the industrial world.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

Repentance is the subject for today. The text is found in the Gospel of Luke, 24th chapter and the 4th verse. "And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem."

If I should lay a charge at all against God's ministers today, it would be that they, that is some of them, are failing to preach repentance to a lost world. However, I do not wish to be understood as saying that repentance is not preached at all. But what I do want to say is that most preachers neglect the preaching of repentance too often. I think that we should never close a service without an appeal to the unsaved, instructing and exhorting them to repent and believe the gospel.

In Matt. 4:17, "Jesus began to preach and to say, repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." I gather from the above scripture that Jesus plainly saw that repentance was needed most of all. I will admit that He said "feed my sheep and feed my lambs." But His greatest concern seemed to be the repentance of the people. It is good to feed the sheep. O, how we love to see the church partaking of the spiritual food as we the under-shepards, administer it to them. .How we love to see them rejoice. But we should not loose sight of those unsaved ones that are present that can't partake of the food. They may be amazed at the "flock," as they rejoice over the spiritual food given them and may wish that they could understand the thing, but until they repent of their sins and take Christ as their savior they can't enjoy spiritual food. For we must remember that spiritual food is for the spiritual and not for the carnal.

I fear some time that as we preachers stand in our pulpits on the Lord's Day and "feed the flock," that we lose sight of the fact that there are sitting facing us one or more who are trying real hard to understand us and wondering what it is all about; hence my statement above, that we should never close a service without admonishing the sinners present to to repent of their sins.

Now, to the sinners, Just what is repentance? To repent is to feel pain or sorrow on account of something done or left undone, especially for sin committed leading to repentance; change from past evil. It is evident that I will not repent of any wrong done, either to God or man, until I am convinced of that wrong. And the moment that I am convinced, and not before, I become sorry for my action, then I am ready to make amends for my wrong doings. When you know that you have mistreated someone you try to avoid meeting them. But after a reconciliation is had, that is, after you have asked them to forgive you and they have accepted your apology, you are glad to meet them, because the matter that was between you is in the past and is forgotten by both of you.

That is exactly what takes place when a sinner repents of his or her sins. What we preachers call Godly sorrow for sin, must first take place in the heart of a sinner, I can't conceive of one repenting of sin untill he is sorry of having treated God wrong. Surely you are not going to ask a man to forgive you of your mistreatment of him untill you are sorry of your actions toward him. The same is true of your mistreatment of God. Where is the sinner that will say that they have not mistreated God? I know that some people teach that "feeling" has nothing to do with it. But I am sure that if one never has a feeling of condemnation before God, and if the gospel which Paul tells us, "Is the power of God unto salvation to all them that believe," does not bring conviction of sin and a deep seated sorrow for our treatment of Him, we will never repent.

Now, repentance is not conversion. I have explained just what repenance. As to conversion, that is a change from one state or condition to another. You may ask a man to forgive you of a wrong, but if you continue to treat him wrong there is no conversion. But if you make a change and ever after treat him right then you are changed in your attitude toward him, and instead of being an enemy you become a friend.

Now, my sinner friend, why will you continue to be classed as God's enemy?

When the Bible was given, the church instituted Christ, given to the world of sinful men and the gospel preached all for the purpose of bringing about a reconciliation between an outraged God and lost men. You can be saved just as other man have been but not with your sins still hanging over you. You must get rid of all sin and then take Christ as your personal Savior before you can claim salvation.

I will close now. I ask the Lord to use these words to cause some lost soul to repent and believe the gospel and be saved.—Elder Blossom.

HOOVER'S HEALTH IS GOOD

Washington, Feb. 6. — As he prepares to leave the White House after four strenuous years of residence, Herbert Hoover enjoying—in the words of his physician — "excellent health" and trim physical condition.

Regular exercise with his medicine ball cabinet, which meets with him early each morning whether in rain, sleet or snow, has reduced Mr. Hoover's weight from around 200 pounds to 179.

The cares and worries of the presidency, nevertheless, have left their marks upon him, many of which do not show in the thousands of photographs of him. His hair, touched with gray in 1928, now is white. His face rotund when he entered the White House, now is thinner and more lined.

Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, said today:

"Approaching the conclusion of 18 years of public service, the president is in excellent health.

"He has no apparent physical impairment as a result of his arduous tenure of office."

Mr. Hoover showed the strain, however, at the close of his campaign three months ago. He reached California, after a month of stumping and 12,000 miles of travel, obviously tired and worn.

At present, the president has told his aides he is ready for nine months of rest in his home at Palo Alto, California.

Lesson for February 12

JESUS TEACHING BY PARABLES —FOUR KINDS OF HEARERS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples. John 15:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Story Jesus Told.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Right Way to Hear.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Hear.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Fruitful Christian Living.

In order to understand why Christ at this time began teaching in parables, we must consider the nature of the hour in his ministry. Opposition to him was becoming more definite and hostile. The parabolic method was not employed by Jesus until the rulers had set their hearts against him. When in the light of his wonderful works they turned against him and attributed his works to the devil (Mark 3:22), he denounced them in scathing terms and began to teach in parables in fulfillment of Isaiah 6:10.

A great multitude gathered to hear him at the seaside (v. 1), so that in order to escape the pressure of the crowd he was obliged to enter a boat. From the boat as a pulpit, he taught many things in parables. In the parable now under consideration, the sower and the seed are the same in all instances, but the results are entirely different. The difference lies in the condition of the soil. The central purpose of the teaching of this parable is to show that the results of preaching the Word of God depend upon the condition of the human heart.

I. The Wayside (vv. 4:15).

The wayside means not the road but the tract between the fields beaten down by the hoofs of animals and the feet of men. Because the soil was unbroken and uncultivated the seed could not get underneath the surface, and therefore was devoured by the fowls that came along (v. 4). The great truth taught here is that the heart unbroken and hard is not fit soil for the gospel. Such a heart it penetrates not, but lies loosely upon its surface. The gospel is not given recognition by such hearts as God's means for restoring them unto himself. Because of this condition the evil one finds some way to snatch away the truth (v. 15).

II. The Stony Ground (vv. 5, 6, 16, 17).

This means not stones mixed with soil, but stones with a thin layer of soil on top of them. With such condition the seed springs up quickly and likewise scorches quickly because it has not depth of earth. The great lesson is that hearts superficially impressed receive the word with joy, but when affliction or persecution arises, for the word's sake immediately they are offended. They wither away and die.

III. The Thorny Ground (vv. 7, 18, 19).

In this case the ground is good but has thorns in it. It is mellow enough and has sufficient depth but has not been cleared of the thorns. Such really hear the Word, but "the cares of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful" (v. 19). The thorny ground hearers of this world are those,

1. Who are so immersed in worldliness, business and anxious cares that the good seed cannot come to fruitage.

2. Who are rich. Anxious care in business brings riches and the effect of riches is to blunt the spiritual perception of men and women, thereby rendering them unsusceptible to God's call to higher things in life.

3. Who are running after the pleasures of life. Many of the enjoyments of the world may be innocent in themselves but they attract so much attention and consume so much energy and time that Bible reading, meditation, and prayer are crowded out. All these things choke the Word.

IV. The Good Ground (vv. 8, 20).

This ground is different from all the rest. It is soft and mellow, and deep and moist. Therefore, it is capable of bringing forth fruit—some one hundred, some sixty, and some thirtyfold. This indicates that even the good ground, the honest hearers, gives forth different degrees of fruitfulness. In the measure that the heart is kept free from worldliness, riches, and pleasure, the good seed matures.

Continuing Love

One cannot think that any holy earthly love will cease, when we shall be like the angels of God in heaven. Love here must shadow our love there, deeper because spiritual.

Trust in God

God will not take away our immortality, because we have so little enjoyed the hope of it. Rest your head, childlike, on the one visible arm of the Paternal Deity, though you cannot see distinctly where the other and outstretched arm is pointing. That leads not wrong.—W. Smith.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

I wish to direct your attention to a prophecy found in Ezekial 30:13, A. R. V.: "Thus saith the Lord Jehovah." If the thing prophesied did not I will cause the images to cease from Memphis." Notice please, that these words are specifically and emphatically the words of " the Lord Jehovah." If the thing prophecied did not come to pass there could be no alibi.

Now, it is a strange fact that Memphis, which was founded by Menes, was known as "the great temple city of Egypt." Thus a more unlikely fate could hardly be imagined than the destruction of the idols and images of Memphis. There are also other reasons why this fate was very unlikely.

1. The climate of Egypt, where it never rains, keeps in a state of perfect preservation for thousands of of years anything that is buried in its soil.

2. In all other Egyptian cities, whether in ruins or now flourishing, there are idols and images in superabundance. Thebes, former capital of Egypt, which was in ruins while Memphis was still in her splendor of power and population has them in abundance.

3. At the beginning of the Christian era, which was six hundred years after the prophet lived, it seemed that the fulfillment of this prophecy was almost impossible for Memphis was large and populous, Alexandria being the only Egyptian city that exceeded it in size.

4. Twelve hundred years after the prophet lived Memphis was the residence of the governor of Egypt.

5. In the thirteenth century, Abdul-Latif, an Arabian traveler, tells of the "wonderful works which confound the intellect, and to describe which the most eloquent would labor in vain." Thus eighteen hundred years after the prediction it was still unfulfilled.

But listen to these words from Miss Amelia B. Edwards, Egyptologist, in her book, "A Thousand Miles up the Nile," page 97-99: "And this is all that remains of Memphis, eldest of cities; a few rubbish heaps, a dozen or so broken statues and a name. . . . Where are the stately ruins that even in the middle ages extended over a space estimated at half a day's journey in every direction? One can hardly realize that a great city flourished over this spot, or understand how it should have been effaced so utterly."

Thus remarkably has this improbable prophecy been fulfilled. Bible prophecy must always be fulfilled. It always has been and it always will be fulfilled.—L. A. Butterfield.

Thorsby Cash Store Open For Business

Coffee and Refreshments Will Be Served Free at the Store Saturday

The opening of the Thorsby Cash Store will be welcome news to the people who buy their groceries in Thorsby. It means that Thorsby people will have a grocery store that constantly and regularly affords them buying opportunities in line with the leading grocery stores everywhere.

The management of Thorsby Cash Store is in charge of Mr. A. E. Reagan, assisted by Mr. Reuben Foss. These are two of Thorsby's most popular business men. They offer every assurance that the service rendered at the new store will be jam-up in every respect.

Thorsby Cash Store is a home-owned and home-operated business. It is backed by local capital, and upon this basis makes a strong appeal for the Thorsby people to trade at home and support home institutions. This policy is a popular one at Thorsby, and will doubtless receive hearty response from the public.

Location of Thorsby Cash Store is in the Masonic Building, formerly occupied by the I.G.A. Store.

Saturday of this week Mr. Foss and Mr. Reagan will offer a special favor to their friends by inviting them to come to the new store and have coffee and refreshments. They urge everybody in and around Thorsby to visit them.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE CHESTER CLECKLER

In memory of my loving nephew, who departed this life January 1, 1933:

Dear Chester, we are lonely here,
Since you have crossed the tide,
But your noble record seems to cheer
While we stay on the stormy side.

Earth has lost many happy charms for me,
Since you have gone away,
But heaven will the brighter be,
Since you've gone there to stay.

We miss you smiling face,
We miss your loving voice,
We miss you all about the place,
We miss you everywhere.

We miss you in the early morn,
We miss your vacant chair,
We miss you when the day is done,
When we say our evening prayer,

Farewell dearest Chester; and when our work on earth is done, we hope to meet again.—Written by his aunt, Ella Bailey.

PENNIES FOR DOLLARS

As John V. O'Brien, president of the Standard Gas and Electric Company, recently pointed out, the lessened purchasing power of the public has naturally resulted in widespread agitation for drastic reductions in the rates charged for utility services. The public does not fully understand the differences between the operation of a utility and an ordinary business.

Most businesses are able to make high profits in good times—utilities cannot. Most businesses likewise build up protective reserves in good times—something utility is not alowed to do. In the ordinary business investment, turnover is far greater than in utility—that is, in the course of a year the sales of many concerns will be two or three times as great as their total investment. In the case of the utility, this turnover occurs but once in several years.

At the moment, this turnover, a small saving in the monthly bills of the ordinary user of gas and electricity might destroy the financial stability of the average utility. All possible operating economies have been made, and gross and net revenues have heavily declined. One-half or more of utility expenses are fixed capital charges. Ten to fifteen per cent of their gross revenue goes for taxes and the trend continues upward.

Artificial reductions of utility rates at this time might put pennies in your pocket but would eventually take dollars out—because we need the employment, the purchasing power and the taxes the utilities furnish. We can't afford to ruin them.

COOPERATIVE MOVEMENT STRENGTHENS FARMERS

Cotton is one of the leaders in American export trade.

During the first eight months of 1932 the value of cotton exports was more than seven times that of wheat exports. It exceeded the value of the combined exports of all American machinery, automobiles and parts, cotton cloth, wheat flour and rubber manufacturers—whereas, in 1931, the export value of these articles was more than double that of cotton.

It looks as if the cotton growers were entering a new era. As in pre-Civil War days, they have grasped the two-edged sword of prjce and quality and with it are running the cotton world.

Much of the credit of this must go to the cooperatives. These organizations have led in a movement toward more economical production, a better product and more profitable prices. They have put new "fight" into the grower. They have shown him that he must battle in the economic wars if he is to survive, and that his efforts will be most effectual if he enlists in the cooperative army.

American agriculture, in all its branches, is passing through critical days, and it now appears that those producers who join and loyally support their cooperatives — wherever they may be, whatever they may deal in—will be the properous farmers of tomorrow.

J. N. SCOTT TELLS VOTERS TO SAY NO

"Ignorance Drops" Is Opposed To Getting $50,000 Relief For Unemployed

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space to say a few words in regard to our County Commissioners borrowing that fifty thousand dollars and the calling of the election to be be held on the 21st of this month.

In the first place, I know that the majority of our Commissioners are against the proposed borrow. That being true, they should not have called the election just to please a few people. I like the spirit of letting a majority rule. We have elected, by the majority, four men of this county to attend to the business of the county, and I believe they are fully able to carry on our business without us people having to have elections every time a few men want things to go their way.

I want to say just as long as our Commissioners will listen at a few of these old politicians in the county, you will never get anywhere. Who is it recommending borrowing that $50,000? Just watch them and size them up. What is their purpose for it? It is not to help the needy of our county. It is to help out the Red Cross organization and give them fat jobs paying them from $6 and expenses on up to $10 and more.

Good people, don't you be led to believe you are going to get any good out of that $50,000. Should the loan be obtained, it is to be turned over to the Red Cross, I am told, and they get $30,000, and they are to spend the other $20,000 as they see fit, somewhere in the county.

Our County Commissioners, I am told, have no sayso in the spending of this money. Then if the affairs of our county are to be turned over to the Red Cross, we don't need our Commissioners who we elected by a big majority to attend to the business of our county. I am willing to trust our Commissioners.

Some are telling us people this $50,000 will not have to be paid back from our county treasury—that it is a gift. But the contract says it is a loan with interest from the date it is signed. Good people, don't be misled. Who is it giving away money these days? What is the Reconstruction Finance Corporation? What is its purpose for being out in business? We know it is to make money, and to give people good jobs to run it.

I want everybody in this county to know if the county gets this money, that it has got to be paid back as contracted, with interest at three per cent annually. The contract says that it is to be held back from the state's appropriation. That means that our appropriation in the gas tax and all other appropritions coming through the state treasury are subject to this indebtedness, and in the future the Commissioners will not get this gas tax to spend on the county's roads as heretofore. I don't blame the commissioners for being against such a proposition.

How many taxpayers in this county want to borrow $50,000 to be turned over to the Red Cross to be spent as they say? Who could expect much good out of it for the relief of the people of our county? I can't see where there could be any relief to the people of the county by packing up debt upon debt. It reminds me of people trying to put out a fire by pouring kerosene oil on it.

In conclusion, I want to say that we need to be trying to get out of debt instead of getting in further. I want to say again that indebtedness is the thing that has brought us into the conditions in which we are now placed, as individuals, counties, states, and nations. Debt has ruined the people in all the world. God's word says: "Owe no man anything but to love one anither."

So, let us vote down this $50,000 proposition just like the bond issues. It all means the same. We will get no good out of it. So don't fail to go and vote on the 21st, which is next Tuesday. We want to let these old politicians know that we are not going to vote upon ourselves any more debts; that many of us can't pay our taxes now. Don't forget the day, and let use snow her under.—Yours for a clean slate, J. N. Scott, Jemison, Ala.

PITTS OPPOSES REPEAL AND TAX

Local Representative Declares Position On Two Important Issues

To the People of Chilton County:

Since the special session of the legislature has convened I have received numerous letters either protesting or in favor of various bills that have either come before the house of representatives or will be voted upon by the legislature. Most of these communications have related to the proposed sales tax and to proposed measures which apparently would weaken or break down the prohibition statutes in Alabama. I do not believe that the people of this county and state are yet willing to repeal the prohibition statutes or any part of them and am voting accordingly. For your information beg to advise that I think that our people have more taxes to pay today than most of them are able to pay and it is my idea to support all ligitimate economy measures and to be opposed to further burden the people with more taxes in the form of a sales tax as porposed.

I appreciate all of the letters that I have received and all suggestions that I have received in the past, or that I may receive in the future, however, it is practically impossible for me to acknowledge receipt of the various letters that I have received and I am taking this method of communicating with you.—Respectfully yours, Percy M. Pitts.

ONLY QUALIFIED CAN CAST VOTES

In Election To Be Held On Tuesday, February the 21st

Only those persons on the list of qualified voters of Chilton County may participate in the election to be held next Tuesday, according to an order passed by the Commissioners Court February 13th.

The order as passed, has been certified by Judge Reynolds, and has been given out for publication, as follows:

That the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County desiring an expression of the qualified voters of Chilton County to the advisability of making application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for relief funds; it is the desire and order of the court that qualified voters only as shown, be the list of voters in said election on February 21, 1933.

The above is a copy of a resolution passed by the Commissioners Court February 13, 1933.—L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate.

This order clarifies the matter of who shall vote on the proposition to be submitted to the people next Tuesday. A former order of the court calling the election, had been interpreted to mean that the vote of all adult citizens would be allowed. The last order passed on the 13th, as quoted above, leaves no uncertainty about who shall vote. Only those who are on the list of qualified voters will be allowed to participate in saying whether or not the Commissioners shall make application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $50,000 relief funds.

Conway Calls Mass Meeting Saturday

Chairman of Campaign Wants the People to Have the Facts About the Proposed $50,000 Relief Fund To Be Obtained From R. F. C.

To the People of Chilton County:

Please let me urge that everybody come out to the meeting at the court house next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 to hear discussions on the question of our Commissioners making application for the $50,000 relief funds. This is a very important question before our people and it deserves your careful study.

Those who are opposed to the $50,000 are especially invited to come to this meeting and explain their objections. We want to do the right thing. We want to know the truth and be governed by the truth. If it is not good for our people to have this relief fund, and is in any way detrimental, we want to know it, and we want the people to know it.

Likewise, if it is good for our people to have it, as I believe it is, then we want the people to know and understand it fully. I urge everybody to come out in order that we may have the fullest understanding of all the phases of the question.

As I understand it, the Commissioners Court will have full charge of all phases of administration of this relief measure. They will designate the relief agency to make investigations and determine who needs the work. All persons thus employed will be Chilton County people, and the money will be spent in Chilton County to the destitute and needy people.

If you vote against your neighbor having a chance to work for this money and getting relief, don't you think it will, in a way, be detrimental to yourself to do so?

The people who do not need relief have an opportunity at no cost to themselves to vote for this relief fund, and thereby help a poor needy neighbor to get some money to feed and clothe his family and pay his taxes to save his home. Is not such an opportunity for service worthy of the sincere support of all good citizens?

In conclusion, I want to again urge every citizen to come to the courthouse next Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Come with an open mind, prepared to hear and understand the truth. Remember it is the interest of the poor people we want to serve, and let us not make the grave error of throwing away an opportunity to help them.—Respectfully, W. H. Conway, Chairman.

Reynolds Challenges Opponents of Relief

Probate Judge Says That Should the Measure Pass None Of the Relief Fund Money Would Be Spent Through His Office

Dear Editor:

Next Tuesday, the 21st, the people of this county will be permitted to vote for or against the Commissioners Court making application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $50,000 to furnish employment for the needy and unemployed to work on the public roads.

It seems to me that it is useless to discuss whether this money will be a loan to Chilton County or whether it will be a gift. This matter has been discussed pro and con for six or eight months. Congressman Oliver said in Clanton last summer that this money would not be to pay back. Both papers of this county have published a contract which Chilton County would have to sign to receive this money, and up to this time not a single person has been able to point to the record and show where Chilton County would have to give any obligation to obtain this money, except to permit Alabama to deduct the amount we would receive from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from any Federal Aid money that Chilton County would be due to receive to build federal roads during the years 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, and 1939, and this is the only obligation that the county would have to give to receive the $50,000.

I ask you people to consider for one moment the position of the few men in our county who have opposed this loan behind closed doors. If they had facts to establish and prove the position they take, why have they not come out in the open and pointed them out to the people and shown them from the record the facts to substantiate their criticism of the county receiving this money? If there is anything dangerous in the proposition, why don't they come out in the open and tell the people what the danger is?

I hope that there will be the largest crowd in Clanton next Saturday evening at 1:30 that ever gathered in the town of Clanton, and I hope that everybody that wants to have something to say will be permitted to have five minutes to explain their views to the people on this question. I urge the few who have been opposing the Commissioners Court making application for the $50,000 to have the backbone and courage to come to this meeting and face the people and tell them why they are opposed to Chilton County receiving this money to furnish employment for the hungry starving people and those half clad.

I am sure Mr. W. H. Conway, the chairman of the committee, whose duty it is to explain this matter to the people of Chilton County will be glad for anybody that is opposed to the county getting this money to come to this meeting and explain their objections.

I want to ask you people of Chilton County this one question: What has the opposition to this matter offered the poor and needy people out of employment in the place of this money? How many jobs have they offered the men whose families are on starvation? How do they propose to take care of a thousand unemployed people in our county this year? What have they been doing along this line this winter? What will become of the unemployed men and their families of this county if something is not done to relieve the situation this year? I say to you that there are hundreds of people in our county right now who are needing clothes and shoes, many going to bed hungry; hundreds of our people cannot pay their tax this summer unless some assistance is furnished them. Ask those who are opposed to the county receiving this money what remedy they have to offer.

I want to mention some of the objections that are being circulated by a few people in this county. It has been reported that poor counties where they are busted could not receive this money and Autauga County has been cited as a county that was suffering and that the government would not furnish them any relief money. Johnnie Easterling, who is said to be one of the high-paid advisors of the opposition, has said that Autauga County could not receive this money. See letter that I have just received from Judge Posey and note what he says this money is doing for them in Autauga County:

Judge L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter relative to R. F. C. loan, wish to say that we are getting along just fine. We have at this time 1,236 people assigned to work and that are given work.

Our people think it is a great piece of relief, and are commending it very much; of course there are some critics just as they always are when people began doing anything that is new and really worth while. Personally I think it is a great work and the only real helpful relief that has been started anywhere.

It is doing a lot of good down here, and I am just hoping that we can get enough money to keep it going until conditions are really better in every way.—Yours very truly, J. F. Posey, Judge of Probate.

Some people say because only the unemployed and the needy can work for this money that they oppose the county getting it. Is there anybody in this county who is so narrow that

HOT COPY WILL BE PRESENTED

The Union-Banner is sponsoring "Hot Copy," a play of newspaper life and politics, in three acts, to be presented b ythe C. D. C. Players, at Chilton County High School Friday night, March 3. The proceeds of the affair will be given to the Parent-Teachers Association of Clanton.

The Harmony Four, a group of popular radio entertainers, will sing between acts of the play. A number of other interesting features will be presented on the side.

Further announcement of the details of this entertainment will be published next week. We are very much pleased to have the opportunity of sponsoring this play for the benefit of our Parent-Teachers Association, and we invite the cooperation of the people of this community in making it the success it deserves.

WESTERN UNION WILL RE-OPEN

Downtown Office Will Be Established Again In the Hayes Building

Business people and the public in general will greet with much satisfaction the announcement that the downtown office of the Western Union Telegraph Company will be re-established in the Hayes Building next to the Exchange Hotel about March 1.

Over a year ago the company closed its office here, and repeated efforts on the part of the Kiwanis Club and other busines interests have been made to get the office re-opened.

Announcement of the plans to reopen the office was made through a telegram from company officials to Mell Martin a few days ago.

The United Singing Society meets next Sunday afternoon at Collins Chapel. We invite all singers and music lovers to be with us. Visitors are always welcome to be with us in our singings.—A. H. Glasscock.

ATKINSON AND FOSHEE FORM LAW PARTNERSHIP

The interesting announcement is made this week that a partnership for the practice of law has been formed between Mr. J. B. Atkinson and Mr. Alvin B. (Buster) Foshee. The firm name will be Atkinson & Foshee, and they will have offices in the Wilson Building.

Mr. Atkinson has been a prominent and active attorney in Clanton for several years. Mr. Foshee recently finished his law course at the University of Alabama. He is the son of Mr. Bazz G. Foshee, of Route 2.

DR. LAWRENCE IS COMING HERE

Popular Calera Physician Will Move to Clanton For Future Practice

It will be glad news to his many friends in Clanton and Chilton County that Dr. C. O. Lawrence, of Calera, has decided to come to Clanton and locate for the practice of medicine and surgery. Advice obtained through some of his friends here says he will move to Clanton about the first of March.

Dr. Lawrence has been practicing medicine and surgery at Calera for several years. His practice has also brought him into contact with people of Clanton and Chilton County to some extent, and he is already very popular and much admired by many of our citizens who have come to know him. Ever since the establishment of the Central Alabama Hospital here Dr. Lawrence has been an ardent suporter of the institution, having served as president and in other official connections. At present he is a member of the Board of Directors.

Aside from his professional activity, Dr. Lawrence is a man who makes a valuable citizen in his community. He is an active worker in the Methodist church, lodge circles, and in behalf of all civic interests. His coming to Clanton will mean that we have one more booster for everything good and progressive.

J. L. BURNETT IN FAVOR OF RELIEF

Former County Commissioner Discusses Question To Be Voted On

Editor Union-Banner:

I noticed where the Commissioners Court has ordered an eection to be held on February 21, 1933 to determine whether or not Chilton County shall make application for the $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to be used in the relief of the needy of our county.

I just want to say that I am heartily in favor of making this application and getting the money if possible. In the first place in reading the contract that the county has to sign and also in studying this matter while I was one of the Commissioners it appears that this loan would not affect revenues or taxes of Chilton County, but is simply advanced by the government to our county, and in the event appropriations in the future are made to the state, then the amount of this advancement will be deducted. This is my first reason for being in favor of this, in that, the same will be deducted from future appropriations.

In the second place, $50,000 distributed among the needy of this county will help in a large measure to relieve the suffering in our county and any person can readily understand that to place a few dollars into the hands of a person who is in needy circumstances that naturally these persons will have to spend this money for the necessities of life, such as groceries, drug bills, doctor bills and other necessities of life and in this way it will not only mean helping the people who are needy, but will also be the means of helping everybody in the county. I also notice that practically every other county in Alabama has received this money or has made application for same, and it appears to me to be very foolish for people of our county to vote down this matter. If you, yourself, are not needy, then it appears to me such a person would be selfish in not being willing to help those who are in needy circumstances.—Yours very truly, J. L. Burnett.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

There will be a fiddlers convention at the courthouse next Saturday night, February 18, beginning at 7:30 o'clock sponsored by Circle No. 4 of Clanton Baptist Church. The admission prices have been set in accordance with the panic. Only 5 cents for children and 10 cents for adults.

Prizes will be given the fiddlers. First prize cash.

All fiddlers are asked to be present by seven o'clock to register and get program ready by seven-thirty. Anyone wishing to register this week see Jean Gore or A. L. Robinson. Some have registered already and we hope to have others soon, but if not registered before Saturday night will be OK.—Mrs. A. L. Robinson.

MRS. HUETT GIVEN VERDICT AGAINST BIRMNGHAM SURGEON

In the case of Mrs. Effie Huett vs. the Birmingham surgeon who operated on her husband, Rev. A. D. Huett, over a year ago and who died following the operation, Mrs. Huett was given the verdict in the amount of $6,000. The trial was held in Birmingham and consumed the greater part of the first three days of last week. The jury returned the verdict after several hours deliberation.

Mrs. Huett was represented by Hon. Percy M. Pitts of Clanton and Chas. W. Greer, attorney of Birmingham. The opposition was represented by Hugh A. Locke and others of Birmingham. This trial was said to have been one of the hardest fought cases of its kind recently held in the state.

It will be remembered that Rev. Huett at the time of the operation was a ministerial student at Howard college. The operation was for tonsilitis. Rev. Huett, the son of Charley B. Huett of Enterprise community, was one of the most promising young ministers of this section. His untimely death was a great shock to the many admirers and friends of the young minister in Chilton County.

BASKET BALL GAME WEDNESDAY

The Chilton County High School basket ball team will play the Montgomery Y. M. C. A. "Whippets" on the local high school court next Wednesday night, February 22, at 7:30. The Whippets are Montgomery's champs. If you like good basket ball games, don't miss this one. Admission, 10 and 15 cents.

Y. W. A. MET AT THE HOME OF MISS CARRIE FOSHEE THURSDAY

The members of the Y. W. A. of the Clanton Baptist Church met last Thursday evening at 6:30 with Miss Carrie Foshee. A good program was carried out with Miss Delene Williams in charge.

After the program there was a beautiful valentine box containing many beautiful and useful presents, which was presented to Miss Mary Foshee, all of which came as a surprise to her.

After a very enjoyable evening refreshments were served to the following: Misses Gladys Williams, Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Francis Moore, Mary Lee Pyron, Carrie Foshee, Zora Guy, Berniece Williams, Annie Mae Foshee, Cleo Broadhead, Cara Colley, Mary Foshee, Frances Higgins, Vivian Gray, Julia Ruth Hester, Delene Williams, Charlesie Pyron, Gertie Fiquette, Odine Thomas, Mrs. Ruth Sessions Martin and Mrs. Renfroe Mullins.

SIGNS AND WONDERS

Before going to heaven, Jesus said to His apostles, "Go ye, into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe; in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." Mark 16:15-18. Did Christ say that these signs should follow them, "that SHALL BELIEVE?" No. Christ said nothing like that. He said "These sings shall follow them THAT BELIEVE."

Christ used the present tense of "believe." Meaning that those who were then believers should have power to perform "these sings" which He mentions. He no where promised that generations to come would have power to perform these signs. But those apostles who were then believers did have power to perform miracles, and do wonders and signs. They also had power to transfer this wonder-working power to others. (Acts 8:14-24; 19:6). But no where do we find where those who received it from the apostles ever had power to transfer it to a third party. The power to transfer this power seemed to be with the apostles only.

The apostles went forth and preached every where, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following. Mark 16:20. This gospel of Christ has been confirmed ever since and needs no other confirmation. To look for new sings and wonders, or a new denomination of the same kind of signs would be to doubt the value of the signs that were performed by the apostles of Christ.

God bore them witness with "signs and wonders, and with verse miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to His own will." Heb. 2:4. To look for more signs is to doubt God's testimony in the ones He has already given us in His word. It means to doubt His word.

When the apostles preached the gospel of Christ, the people of that age had no new testament for a guide, but were entirely dependent upon the inspiration of the apostles of Christ for guidance. But God, in His wisdom, allowed "signs" to be performed by the apostles for a witness to the hearers that God authorized the message preached by them. These apostles moved from place to place, in order for new converts to have the inspired message left with them. The apostles selected whom they would and by laying their hands on them transfered inspiration and miraculous power upon those selected for teachers. But it was the inspired message that saved the sinner when it was obeyed.

We find no where that those on whom the apostles laid hands ever laid hands on a third party. The written message of the New Testament when it was fully delivered to the world, supplanted and ended laying on of hands, and gave to "whosoever will" have it the "perfect law of liberty." Jas. 1:23-25.

God so loved the world that He gave His Son once for all ages. Jesus died once for all ages. Christ chose apostles for all ages. The holy spirit inspired them for all ages. They preached the gospel for all ages. God bore witness of it with signs for all ages, and when we look for "new signs" we had just as well look for a "new Christ." They who through the ages have believed and obeyed the gospel preached by the apostles of Christ have always without exception, become saved and fellow citizens of the kingdom of heaven.—R. L. Huffman.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

CARD OF THANKS

We, the children and wife of Mr. Charlie Williamson, wish to thank each and every one for their help during his sickness and death. There was help in many ways that was surely appreciated. Thanks to Dr. Hayes for his untiring service; also Mr. Brand, the undertaker; and for the beautiful flowers that spoke more than tongue could tell. May God bless every one of you, and your serbless every one of you, and grant that your service may be paid back ten fold.—Mrs. Williamson and children.

REFUGE NEWS

Here we are gain, after an absence of a week or two, taking a new start. We had a very good crowd out to Sunday School last Sunday and received quite a surprise, our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, by misfortune, failed to get to fill his ragular appointment at Mt. Zion and surprised this community with a wonderful message at our church. Altho we gladly received the surprise, we are still pressing forward with our B. Y. P. U., hoping that our crowd will get larger when spring opens up and the birds begin to sing. Maybe the people will get in better heart and fill the churchhouse once more. We know the crowd gets small and we get discouraged, but we must just keep trying and always look for the bright side. Just smile and the world smiles with you.

We wish to announce that there will be deacon meeting at this place next fourth Saturday, February 25h. our regular preaching day. We invite all the members to attend, especially our deacon and deaconess. Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, will deliver the message and I am sure he has samething in store for us worthwhile.

So, let's everybody come if possible and fill the church and watch what a broad smile our pastor will wear, for we all know that it is discouraging to look back at those empty seats.

Emmett Singleton was carried to the veterans hospital at Tuscaloosa last week suffering from foot injuries sustained in an accident.

Raymond C. Smith Says Vote "No" On $50,000 Proposition

Editor Union-Banner:

There has been considerable discussion concerning the question as to whether or not our county should borrow $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. However, the discussion has largely consisted of statements said or written by those who favor this loan and those whose opinion apparently differs from that of the Corporation in the manner by which it shall be repaid. As a further step toward the settling of this important matter, an election will be held next Tuesday for the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of our citizenship.

There should be no greater source of information on this question than the Reconstruction Finance Corporation itself. And the correspondence hereinafter shown should suffice to satisfy us that such a loan will not ultimately constitute a gift as is popularly supposed and claimed by some of those in charge of county finances.

The following is a copy of a letter written by me in reply to an answer to a former letter I wrote:

Februray 9, 1933.

Mr. Fred C. Croxton,
Assistant to the Directors,
Reconstruction Finance Corp.,
Washington, D. C.
Dear Sir:

I have your letter under date of February 6, 1933, as a prompt reply to my inquiry of February 3, 1933.

However, there is one thing more that I should like to ask of you. Referring to the last sentence in subsection (e) of Section 1, TITLE I—RELIEF OF DESTITUTION, OF EMERGENCY RELIEF AND CONSTRUCTION ACT OF 1932, will be found in verbatim these words: "The amount paid to any municipality or political subdivision under this subsection shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the corporation under subsection (b) of this section." I shall appreciate your construction of this sentence in the light of the Act and with regard to this question, viz: If a political subdivision of a state (for instance a county) receives a loan at the request of the governor, may such loan be repaid from future Federal aid to such state for highway construction?

My construction of the sentence as aforesaid, is that it cannot be; and that a political subdivision must fully repay its loan with interest regardless of future Federal aid to its state, and that no deductions can be made therefrom.

Your further prompt reply will also be appreciated.

Yours very truly,

The following is an answer to said letter:

Reconstruction Finance Corporation,
Washington
February 11, 1933.

Mr. Raymond C. Smith,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Mr. Smith:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of February 9, quoting the last sentence of subsection (e) Section 1, Title I of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, reading:

The amount paid to any municipality or political subdivision under this subsection shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the coporation under subsection (b) of this section.

Your construction of this sentence is correct. Funds made available to a political subdivision of a state upon application of the governor under subsection (e) become the obligation of the political subdivision, and as stated in our letter of February 6, are reimbursable to the Corporation under whatever arrangement may be entered into by the political subdivision and the Corporation.

Sincerely yours,
FRED C. CROXTON,
Assistant to the Directors.

This letter is in my office and may be seen by anyone who desires to do so.

Now that we should be reasonably convinced that such a loan must be repaid, let us deal with another phase of the Act creating the R. F. C., and which concurrently prescribes its limitations. The Act also states that the money cannot be borrowed unless the funds we now have are inadequate to meet relief needs. This county now has $16,000 in its road fund and receives an average of $4,500 per month from the state, that being its pro rata share of the gasoline tax. All this for the roads of Chilton County, the place it is alleged, the $50,000 would be spent. In addition to other funds, the county also has $35,000 in the general fund and $10,000 on time deposit in the bank. And with the money the county may appropriate for welfare work together with flour and clothing donated by the Federal Government we should have enough for relief. Do we need the money, and can we qualify under the Act? No. But it has not been contended that we need $50,000 unless it is on the theory that we need all we can get given to us.

Bear this in mind, that the ones who would have the pleasure of spending this money will probably not be the ones who repay it with interest.

I have written this for the purpose of disclosing the foregoing information to our citizenship before they vote. This is not intended as eleventh hour propaganda. It would have been given sooner had it been announced earlier that a vote would be taken on February 21st. However, those who have opposite views have ample time in which to answer this publicly, according to their speaking announcements.

There is an old saying, "Beware of the Greeks Bearing Gitfs." This old proverb may mean something even today. And since we do not need to borrow this money, let us not endeavor to burden ourselves with debt, even though we may possibly have the opportunity.

RAYMOND C. SMITH.

SELMA BAND AT C. C. H. S.

On next Friday night, February 17, the Selma High School Band, consisting of thirty-five pieces, will present at Chilton County High School auditorium, a splendid program of modern up-to-date music. You all like good band music, and you will miss a real treat if you do not hear this band. A short program will be presented at assembly Kednesday at 10:00 o'clock which will give an idea of the program Friday night.

One main feature of the occasion will be a street parade through the main part of the business district of Clanton about 4:30 or 5:00 o'clock Friday afternoon. Be sure to be on hand and give our visitors a glad hand. Popular prices to suit everyone will be made at the door.

Below will be found the program that will be offered:

Band group No. 1. "Imp of Luck," March; "Neola," Waltz; "Happy Lads," March; "Recreation," Overture. Song novelty by Jean Cadden, band drum major.

Band group No. 2. "Eastern Star," March; "Corinthian," Overture; "Black and Gold," March composed by R. J. Dellinger; Clarinet Duet by Wm. Boggs and Lawrence Lee.

Band group No. 3. "Somebody Stole My Gal," Foxtrot; "Shanty Town," Waltz; "Goofus," Novelty foxtrot; "Mood Indigo," Blues foxtrot; "Wang Wang Blues," Novelty foxtrot; Musical nonsense by Russell J. Dellington, band director.

Band group No. 4. "Sleep" Waltz; "Over The Top," Finale march by entire band.

Notes: The above program runs about one hour. Encores will be offered if asked for. The program consists of a variety of music that will please music lovers of all types. Special mention may be made of the clarinet duet by Wm. Boggs and Lawrence Lee, the band's Mutt and Jeff, who offer an unusual novelty. The march, "Black and Gold," was dedicated to the Selma High School for it's colors. Russell Dellinger, conducter, in musical nonsense, offers some comedy for those who care for a good laugh. He plays all instruments in different ways. The band consists of thirty-five pieces.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

Let us study together the subject of "Sinful Men" today. For a text we will turn to 1st Timothy 5th chapter and the 24th verse, which reads thus: "Some men's sins are open beforehand, going before to judgement; and some men they follow after. Likewise also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise cannot be hid."

This first epistle of Paul to Timothy was written in the year 65 A. D. Timothy, a young preacher, was a native of Lystra, the place where Paul was stoned. His father was a Greek, but his grandmother and mother, being pious Jewish women, trained him up in the knowledge of the scriptures.

It would not be proper to say that all who are traiend up in the knowledge of the scriptures become poius men and women. But we are safe in saying that those who are so trained are more likely to become Christians than those who are not. Therefore a pious home and a Christian mother are not to be overestimated.

There is a widespread belief among our people that the best and most effective preachers came from homes that did not reverence God or practise the religion of Jesus Christ. It may be so that a number of our good preachers were exceedingly sinful men before their conversion, but that does not say that the homes from which they came were not God-loving and God-fearing. I had much rather rear my children at the back door of a church than the back door of a saloon. There is more hope of children brought up in the Sunday School than for those who are left to themselves to attend if they choose to do so. I feel that I can't stress this point too strongly. It is not a hard matter to catch Paul's meaning in the words of our text. In the 24th verse he seems to have in his mind just two classes of men. First, that class of people who were or are brought to a saving knowledge of the truth by the preaching of the gospel. They are those whose sins have "gone before to judement." When one of that class comes face to face with the judge of all the earth and His book is opened, there will be nothing found in it to condemn him because all of his sins were nailed to the cross of Calvary when Jesus was crucified. His sins had gone before Him and God, through Christ, had forgiven them, and therefore were not there to condemn him when He arrived at the judgment. If I should have a case in court and the day of trial is set and I know that I am guilty of the charge agaist me, I would look forward to the day of the trial with a certain fear. But suppose a good friend of mine goes to the judge before the day of trial and makes satisfatcion with the authorities, then when I go up to court on the day of trial and there find out that there is no case against me, I become a free man. That is just what Paul meant by "some men's sins go before to judgment."

Now, the other class are those who will not hear the gospel, will not accept the atonment made for them by Christ, and when they come face to face with the Judge of all the earth and his particular book is opened, all of the sins that he is guilty of are there to condemn him. Those are they whose sins are said to follow after.

In the 25th verse, the last part of our text, we read, "Likewise also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise cannot be hid." Here is a happy thought for those Christians who are continually busy in their Lord's work, they are happy in the thought that they can be, and are a great help to others. The true child of God lives as much for others as for themselves, and are content with the blessing that comes from the performance of their duty to their Christ and to their fellowmen. And now here comes Paul in this text and tells us that our good works are manifest beforehand, so when we get there we will find that all of our good works have been remembered and a note made of them.

Christians, let us be careful to maintain good works, not only for the joy that we will get out of it here and the help that we may be to those around us, but to have them, our good works, there in the judgment when we get there.

The last part of the text says, "And they, meaning evil works, cannot be hid." Let the sinner remember that his works of evil doing, other than his besetting sin, cannot be hid. Say your besetting sin is unbelief. That within its self will damn you from the presence of God forever, but all other evil works will follow after you to the judgment. That is, they are recorded there in your own book and will be read out. I refer you to the 12th verse of the 20th chapter of Revelation, for scripture regarding the books. That verse reads as follows: "And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works."

My friend, let me urge you to hear the call of the gospel today. Will you believe on the Lord Jesus Christ? As that is the only way known to men or angels for you to have those pages in your book cleared of the awful things recorded there against you. If you are not saved through Christ, you will be lost. The case against you was settled by Jesus on the cross provided that yau avail yourself of that atonement made by Him. How long have you been writing in your book? How many days have you spent in the service of Satan? Count them up and you will be surprised at the number. I must leave the matter with you now, as my space is filled already. Be careful what you write in your book.—Elder Blossom.

ARE WE SLEEPING AND OPPORTUNITY PASSING?

I am just wondering if the men and women of this great country of ours are thinking, or doing anything to help the school situation in our county and state. Have you seen in person, or written to your Representative or Senator, telling them what you desire them to do about this deplorable condition? The legislature is in session now—and now is the time to act. Each day that passes puts us one day nearer the summer, when children are needed at home, also, one day nearer the close of a legislature. We have the opportunity today to get in touch with our governing body. They may not listen to one or two people, but they will to the thousands. A small sum spent by each family in Chilton County, informing our law-making body what we are expecting of them, I believe will be appreciated and do much good.

The school situation is more deplorable than one might think. Everyone knows that boys and girls are going to do something. We cannot give them better employment at this season of the year, than keeping them in school and training them to make better citizens. Our schools are stressing the more practical side of education year after year—teaching more essentials needed in solving the problems of every day life. For examples in English: How to write business letters; in history, formation of government; in physics, application of mathematics and mechanics; in agriculture, kinds and amounts of fertilizers; in home economics, health, foods and clothing; and in addition to these, there are thousands of other lessons taught that give students wholesome employment and assist them in making a living.

It is regrettable that some of our students have had to leave our county and go to neighboring counties for school, or pay high tuition to local private schools, while Chilton County is waiting on our legislators to act and most people believe they are going to do some constructive work this time. Would it not be wise for the education authorities, parents, and teachers to get together and devise some feasible plan whereby our schools could open Monday, or Monday week. Our superintendent and board of education have proven their ability to solve the educational problems of the past. With the parents and teachers cooperating with them I have no fear of the future. If the legislature doesn't do something within the next few days, I believe if the educational authorities have the above cooperation something will be done to save our splendid school system.

Our county, which is near the top in the assessed valuation of property, has powerful hydro-electrical plants, fertile soil, numerous truck crops, paved highways to market and nice school buildings will keep on going forward, and will not let its citizenship go untrained. I say again, are we sleeping while opportunity is passing?—Respectfully, J. A. Peterson, president of County Teachers Association.

JESUS TEACHING BY PARABLES—THE GROWTH OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:21-34.

GOLDEN TEXT—They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea. Isaiah 11:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC — Sharing Our Stories for Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Into All the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Great Growth From Small Beginnings.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Spread of Christianity.

I. The Parable of the Candle (vv. 21-25).

The Word which is sown in the parable of the Sower (vv. 1-20) is not only to bear fruit, but to shine forth in testimony. This obligation is enforced by a solemn command and warning. "Take heed what ye hear" (v. 24) means that there should not only be attention to what is taught, but whole hearted reception of it.

II. The Parable of the Growing Grain (vv. 26-29).

This parable is peculiar to Mark. In the light of the purpose of Mark, it is clear why it should appear here. It is the parable for the servant. In the previous parables (vv. 24-25, cf. vv. 1-21), the responsibility of the hearer is set forth. The responsibility here is that which devolves upon the servant who proclaims the message.

1. The attitude of mind of the gospel preacher (vv. 26, 27). He should with the utmost fidelity "cast seed into the ground," preach the Word, and leave the results with God. The spiritual processes of God's Word in the soul of man are shrouded in the deepest mystery. The seed should "spring and grow up, he knoweth not how" (v. 27). When the sowing has been intelligently and faithfully done, the sower should not be burdened with anxiety. He can "sleep and rise night and day," confident that the Almighty will take care of the processes and results.

2. The processes of the spiritual life are gradual (v. 28). "First the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear." We should not expect maturity of Christian character at once any more than the farmer should expect the crops to mature at once. The farmer has a time of sowing, of growing, and of harvest.

3. The consummation of the spiritual processes (v. 29). Though the sowing of the seed be done under difficulties and the processes of development long drawn out, the harvest will surely come.

III. The Parable of the Mustard Seed (vv. 30-34).

In this parable the plant with its great branches, called a tree in Matthew 13:32, which springs out of the small seed, exhibits the Kingdom in its mystery form, Matthew 13:11. It shows the condition of things in the world in the interval between Christ's going away and his coming again. In this parable three things claim our attention.

1. The unimportant beginning (v. 31). It begins as the least of all seeds but grows to be the greatest among herbs. The parentage and humble circumstances of Jesus greatly perplexed the people. That twelve unlettered men, most of them fishermen, should be selected as his royal advisors was still more amazing. The prophet had said of him that he would be despised, rejected, forsaken, cut off, having nothing.

2. The vigorous growth (v. 32). From the very beginning of the movement inaugurated by Christ his influence has gone forth so that there is no power or influence today in the earth so great as that which calls itself Christian.

3. The lodging capacity. The birds which find lodgment in the branches do not represent, as is commonly interpreted, the children of men who find safety and salvation in the church, because church truth is not now under consideration. It is the mystery of the Kingdom which was proclaimed as at hand by John the Baptist. This Kingdom passed into abeyance when Jesus was crucified and it shall come into realization when Jesus comes back to earth again. The believer in Christ becomes a vital part of his body and even is necessary to its strength and fruitfulness. The bird in the branches is something foreign to and independent of the tree. The branches increase the growth of the tree but birds are injurious and burdensome to it. They are predatory—waiting to pluck off the tender buds or to prey upon the ripened fruit. The effect of such lodging is evil and blighting to the tree.

Love

Love is known by its gifts, not by its receipts. "God so loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son." God loved; he gave. If we love, we will give. Christ said, "If ye love me, keep my commandments." Then if we love him, we will demonstrate our love primarily by obeying him. And when we obey him, we will fully realize the meaning of giving because we will be anxious to tell others of Christ. Only by obedience and self-sacrifice can we walk in his steps.

Mr. Earl Ellis made a business trip to Birmingham Tuesday.

REUNION OF THE FAMILY OF RILEY ROBINSON LAST SUNDAY

The sons and daughters and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Robinson enjoyed a family reunion at the old home place near Providence, in Beat 16, last Sunday.

The occasion was in celebration of the 82nd birthday of Mr. Robinson, which was Saturday, February 11. His wife, Mrs. Savilla (Mims) Robinson, will be 80 years old on April 4th, this year. They have been companions in marriage for 63 years.

At the birthday celebration last Sunday a total of 51 guests were registered. Forty-five of this number enjoyed dinner together.

The sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are as follows: Rev. W. W. Robinson, Mrs. Beanie Bates, Mrs. Frances Bates, Mose Robinson, Mrs. Filey Wyatt, Lum Robinson, and John Robinson. One daughter, Mrs. Fariby Wyatt, and one son, Cary Robinson, died a few years ago.

The grandchildren are Grady Bates, Dee Bates, Archie Bates, Mrs. Beatrice (Nelson) Bates, Mosie Bates, Emmett Bates, Lonza Bates, Mrs. Jewell Mims, Emmett Bates, Leedie Bates, Lawrence Bates, Mrs. Irene (Robinson) Mims, Carlis Wyatt, Dalene Robinson, Marie Robinson, Alice Mae Robinson, Evelyn Robinson, Hazel Robinson, Mack Wyatt, Jean Wyatt, Mrs. Alice (Wyatt) Baker, Mrs. Edna (Wyatt) Bice, Calvin Robinson.

The great-grandchildren are Lucile, Forest, Audrey, Leonard, and Earl Bates, children of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Bates; Vera, Tempie, Agnes, Pearl, Arlie, and Floyd, children of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bates; Ludonie, Esther, Homer, Cary, Gladys, and Morris, children of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Nelson; Earl and Lola Mae Bates, children of Mr. and Mrs. Mosie Bates; Melba Dee Mims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Mims; Theda, Jim Alex and Pat Wyatt, children of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wyatt; Inez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt.

In addition to the members of the immediate family, the following friends were present during the day Sunday at the Robinson home:

Flora Mae Mims, Dorothy Ellison, Marvin Ellison, Mary Lucy Parrish, Rev. M. J. Parrish, Mrs. Elizabeth Bates, A. M. Powell, Ada Powell, Leitha Powell, Loyd Powell, Grady Wyatt, Tom Rockett, Marion Mims, Estelle Bates, Donie Robinson, Sallie Robinson, Lillian Robinson, Maggie Robinson, Mrs. W. W. Robinson, T. J. Mims, Rev. J. D. Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Robinson live today at the same place where they have lived since the first years of their married life. For over a half century they have held a place of high respect and confidence among their friends and neighbors.

They had a very delightful time last Sunday, when surrounded by their children, grandchildren, neighbors and friends, they sought quiet and peaceful reflection over their years of the past. We hope they may live to see many more happy reunions in the future.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and relatives of our community for their kindness and help during the illness and death of our infant child, who died February 5, 1933. Especially do we thank Mr. Hightower, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Culp, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Elighten Easterling, Mr. and Mrs. Moodie Jones, Miss Laura Jones, Miss Bobbie Jones, Bro. F. E. Clements, and those that made the coffin, and all other loving hands that helped.—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gladden and their child.

Mrs. J. C. Jones is in Selma this week as a delegate to the annual conference of the Womans Missionary Society.

WOMENS MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS AN INTERESTING STUDY

The missionary society of the local Methodist church had its regular weekly meeting Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The program was in charge of Mrs. L. C. Warr, superintendent of Bible and Mission study. After an interesting introduction to the new text which is being used this year, Mrs. Warr presented Mrs. Reid Mullins, who had charge of the remainder of the program. The first chapter was taught by Mrs. Mullins in an endeavor to make it as instructional as possible. "The World Today" is the first chapter, and the author gives a vivid description of the vast need of work to be done, and workers to do the work. One outstanding quotation will here be given to show the line of thought: Lloyd George said, "It is Christ or chaos; magnanimity or militarism; life or death and desolation."

On next Monday afternoon, Miss Norris will have charge of the Mission Study and will discuss the chapter on, "Christ and the Ministery of Missions."

Miss Callie Watts of the Watts Hat Shoppe has returned from her buying trip and will soon have in her store a complete line of the most up-to-date millinery and ladies ready-to-wear ever shown in Clanton.

Central Singing Society

The Central Singing Society held its regular singing at Walnut Creek last Sunday afternoon. The attendance was good and the singing was very interesting, although the church books were used.

Singing for next Sunday afternoon has been announced for Refuge. Singers and the public have a cordial invitation to attend.

There is considerable talk of having a singing at the courthouse one Sunday a month, and the idea seems to meet the approval of most of the singers of the county. Since the people have a piano in the auditoruim, it seems that it should be used occasionally. The courthouse is the best place in the county to meet, so the question arises: Why not have a singing there once a month? Singers, talk over the matter among yourselves and let's decide what to do about it.

COMPANY AGAIN ANNOUNCES CROP PRICE GUARANTY

The International Harvester Company of America, through their thousands of local dealers and representatives over the United States, have just released another crop price guaranty plan on purchases of their equipment, (excepting motor trucks and repairs) that in effect will mean considerable saving to the farmers during 1933.

On a portion of the purchase of any equipment made through local dealers, their guaranty covers wheat, cotton, and corn. Their utmost faith in the future of American agriculture is shown through their guaranteed prices recently released.

Their plan is to assure the farmer of a fair price for his wheat, cotton and corn. Where the purchase is less than $150 on one-half of 80 per cent of the price of the equipment he buys, they guarantee 8½ cents per pound for cotton middling basis, New Orleans delivery. On corn it is 45 cents per bushel for No. 2 yellow corn, Chicago delivery. On purchases of more than $150, the same guarantee prevails on 40 per cent of the purchase price. Where cash purchases are made the adjustment is made at the time of the sale, but where purchases are made on the deferred plan, the adjustments are made on the basis of notes maturing this fall.

Their local dealer, Clanton Thactor & Implement Co., will be glad to go into detail with you and explain this matter more fully, as they have all the figures showing just how to arrive at a net cost of eqhipment to you.

NATIONAL MEAT STORY CONTEST

High school girls of this city, and throughout Alabama are to be given an opportunity to win a university scholarship.

Local teachers of home economics have just received announcement of the 1933 National Meat Story Contest, in which the scholarships, together with other prizes, are offered students writing the best essays. This contest is sponsored by the National Livestock and Meat Board, which works closely with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and leading colleges and universities, in furthering research and education on the subject of livestock and meat.

The contest, the tenth annual event of this kind, is said to be attracting wide attention througout the state on the part of girls who are studying meat in their school work. Hundreds already have enrolled.

These enthusiastic students are seeking up-to-the-minute information on the relation of meat to health, the value of meat in the low cost diet, the selection and preparation of meat, as well as facts about the industry from a national and a world viewpoint. It is stated that more than 100,000 home economics students have participated in this contest since its inception.

The contest closes March 15. It will be judged by nationallly known home economics authorities. Last year the chairman of the judging committee was Miss Francis Swain, president of the American Home Economis Association.

For purposes of competition, the United States is divided into districts, Alabama being in the southern district. Winners in each district are awarded university scholarships and other prizes. The winner of the state prize in Alabama last year was Miss Tillie Christie of Birmingham.

Alabama teachers, who are cooperating in every possible way, assert that state-wide interest in this contest increases each year. They point out the excellent opportunities offered by the scholarships and stress the fact that knowledge gained in writing meat stories should be of practical and permanent value to every entrant in her future profession as a homemaker.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q. In buying lawn seed and other seed for planting we often get many weak seed. How can we detect them before planting.?

A. When buying seed, avoid buying mixtures. Get the separate seed and do your own mixing to suit yourself. Before buying seed, look at the sample in the following way: Wet your thumb or finger, dip the ball of it into the seed, and then examine the seeds which cling to the finger. There you can detect the seed which are not of the right kind. If the seed is supposed to be clean, you should not see any that differ from the main kind.

Q. How can the worms in peaches be prevented?

A. When the buds on the peach trees are in the "pink" but before the blossoms open, spray with a summer strength of lime-sulphur to which has been added one ounce of arsenic of lead to each two gallons of the liquid. Make a good spraying job of it and do not skip any of the buds. A second spraying should be applied when the blossoms have lost their petals about the time the brown chaff is leaving the little fruit. This spray consists of the same materials as before. These two sprayings will control nine-tenths or more of the worms and make sound fruit. A third spraying with the same materials may be repeated two weeks later if desired. Then all the fruit should be free from worms.

CO-OP BUSINESS IS NEAR FIVE MILLION

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 14.—Cooperative purhchases and sales in Alabama for the year 1932 totaled $4,762,101.87, according to reports received here from county agents. In additoin, sales by farm women and girls on curb markets totaled $267,319.32. Savings resulting from doing business cooperatively are estimated at $239,160.66.

In the cooperative purschasing 59,350 farmers participated and in the cooperative sales of farm products 42,416 farmers participated.

Of the cooperative sales poultry accounted for $358,102.52; eggs for $56,721; and turkeys for $37,284.95.

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama poultrymen are arranging to place entries in the Second Annual Alabama Baby Chick Show to be held at the Municipal Market, Birmingham, February 23-25, through county agents and E. E. Nelson, Auburn student and advertising manager of the show.

DAILY POULTRY MARKET

Evergreen, Ala.—By cooperating together in Farm Bureou Associations, farmers of Conecuh County have now made available a daily market for poultry and eggs. Cooperative sales in January resulted in the disposal of 7,500 dozen eggs and 12,000 pounds poultry, County Agent P. R. Pettis reports.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Dairy cows should now be getting the benefit of temporary grazing from rye, oats, vetch, Canadian and Austrian peas. If these srops are not available now mark the September calendar for a fall sowing of these milk-making green feeds.

There is no better time than the second week in February for a few minor repairs to the barn doors, gates, pasture fences, and farm roads may be somewhat out of order.

Now is a good time to make out that order for spring planting of farm and garden seed.

While at work on the seed order give thought to mangels, rutabegas, pumpkins and root crops as possible fall feeds, also to flowers, bulbs, and shrubs ornamental planting of the yards and spaces near the dairy.

KUDZU SPLENDID AS A LAND RECLAIMER

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 14.—Attention of many Albamama farmers is being turned to preparations for growing kudzu, one of the most promising Alabama crops for foreage and soil building, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Lowery said that kudzu furnishes excellent temporary grazing and is fine as a soil builder, being useful in stopping landslides and washes and in utilizing waste land. He said that it is also a splendid hay crop.

On the Alabama experiment station at Auburn kudzu produced annually more than two tons of hay per acre over a period of six years. Analyses show that it has a slightly higher feeding value than alfalfa. All kinds of livestock find it palatable.

As a soil builder it stands in the front ranks, Mr. Lowery said. Turning under a rank growth of kudzu on the experiment station farm resulted in an increased yield in sorghum of 2,536 pounds per acre, in corn of 19.3 bushels per acre, and in oats of 7.9 bushels per acre.

Kudzu is propogated from crowns which should be transplanted in early spring. Mr. Lowery said that the crowns should not be allowed to dry out between digging and planting, and that they should be planted 5 to 10 feet apart.

He added that kudzu is not a pest, as frequent mowing and close grazing will kill it. He emphasized its value for furnishing temporary grazing on badly washed land which it is desirable to reclaim.

PRIZES FOR 4-H CANNING GIRLS

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 14.—Hundreds of gold medals, gold wrist watches, prize educational trips and agricultural college scholarships comprise the grand list of awards to be made to 4-H club girls this year for the best records in canning, announces the National Commitee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

These handsome and valuable prizes are offered in the national 4-H canning achivement contest sponsored by the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation of Sand Springs, Oklahoma, as an incentive to club girls to master food preservation and to promote national thrift and health. In last year's contest thousands of housewives were taught by contesting club girls to preserve foods which would have been wasted, and which now are saving them from deprivation.

How canning projects are helping club girls is shown in the records of last year's winners in this contest. Waneta Guthrie of Kansas, national champion and only 15 years old, realized an income of $861 from her canning projects. Gene Sheppard of Alabama, 17 years old, is paying her way through high school and helped a brother and sister reduce their college expenses to a total of $300 per term.

Elvis Dutcher of Michigan helped many families to make themselves secure against want this winter by showing them how to can on a budget plan. Each of these girls earned a gold medal, a gold watch, a scholarship and a trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago.

Nine trips to the 1933 club congress to be held in December in connection with the International Livestock Exposition are included in this year's awards. Three girls will be awarded cash scholarships of $300, $200 and $100. The contest will be conducted under the supervision of county agents, home demonstration agents, club agents and state agricultural colleges.

QUARTET AT POPLAR SPRINGS

In connection with other services, there will be a quartet to sing some special numbers at Poplar Springs Sunday night. It will be composed of Jesse Jones, Herbert Lowery, Floy Devaughn and Tom Frank Teel. The public is invited to hear them.

NAMES VEGETABLES FOR PLANTING NOW

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 14.—Vegetables which should be planted in the garden now include beets, turnips, mustard, English peas, tendergreen, spinach, carrots, lettuce, onions and Irish potatoes.

The list was given by Julia Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who stressed the importance of breaking the garden thoroughly and the use of an ample quantity of barnyard fertilizer. He said that most vegetables respond favorably to a complete commercial fertilizer but that where this is not obtainable, unless the land is very poor, it is possible to have a good garden if plenty of manure is used.

Due to the increased need for living at home, Mr. Brown expects 1933 to be a banner year for home gardening in Alabama.

GAME AND FISHERIES NOTES

Montgomery, Ala. Feb. 14. — Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the Alabama Department of Game and Fisheries, has designated Friday, February 24, as conservation day and urges the public schools and citizens of the state to appropriately observe this date.

This day is observed annually in the public schools of Alabama and the teachers generally set aside a part of their class periods for a conservation program.

In the midst of the depression, and at a time when all of us are called upon to practice economy of the strictest kind, it is natural for us to become conservative in the utilization of the material things about us, said Commissioner Quinn.

"To the end that all citizens of the state may concentrate their efforts and activities in bringing about conservatism in the utilization of the state's wild life resources, I am requesting the teachers in all the schools of the state to devote a part of their school day program on Friday, February 24, 1933 to a study of the conservation, protection and economic use of Alabama's wild life resources of field, forest and stream.

"I hope that in the preparation of a conservation program for this day that the teachers will invite the citizens of the community to their exercises and solicit their participation in the program.

"Conservation means 'wise use without waste,' and this principle is fundamental in teaching the rising generation the importance, not only of the economics of all useful forms of birds, animals and fish, but is the only program which we may follow that guarantees a perpetual and continuous supply of all economically and esthetically useful wild forms.

"I hope, therefore, that every teacher, whether in public or private school, will conduct a conservation program on February 24."

FARMERS FIGHT FIRES

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 14.—During the calendar year 1932 approximately 12,225 Alabama citizens, most of them farmers and other forest land owners, turned out to fight fires threatening their property or that of their neighbors, according to the summaries just completed by the state commission of forestry. That this sort of cooperation among the community residents constitute the backbone of the forestral development of the state is the view of the commission. The extremely limited funds available for public work in forestry permitted the employment of but forty-one foresty agents and patrolmen during the year, and were it not for the coordinated efforts of the citizens of the forest land sections of the state, fire losses would be extremely high.

The total number of fires occurring in Alabama during the past calendar year was 14,273. The forest area burned was 1,433,345 acres, constituting approximately six and four-tenths per cent of the total of 22,427,000 acres of forest land in the state.

On the 9,165,000 acres to which it was possible for the state to assign agents and patrolmen the percentage of area burned was but two and three-fourths per cent. On the unorganized territory comprising about 13.262,000 acres the percentage mounted to eight and nine-tenths per cent. This comparison clearly shows the enormous savings to the state possible through public coordination of effort in timber growing.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Since Thorsby section farmers and other people depend on what they grow for their success or failure in their undertakings on the weather and since during the past week we have had that a plenty, we called on Manager Smith at Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association to learn if possible, how much damage has really been done. We found him decidedly optimistic in regard to the chief element of their business—the strawberries which the unfnitiated would imagine would have all been killed. Although they have been blooming freely for several weeks and many young berries had formed, all of which had been destroyed, the plants apparently are not injured and if no further severe freezing is experienced are likely to bear a good crop this coming season. In fact the manager is arranging for about 40,000 crates or 125 carloads, which, because the acreage has been largely increased recently goes considerably ahead of the number of cars ever shipped by the Association in one season.

In a small way the writer is "achieving the impossible" with daffodil flowers. He was told by the man in charge of the bulb department of the government at Washington that this early variety of Dutch bulb had never been successfully grown so far south as Alabama, and we know of at least one grower in about the same latitude in Georgia, who told us he had tried it quite extensively and had to give it up because so many of the bulbs rotted in summer.

3 bars of Woodbury soap with tube of Woodbury cream FREE a $1.00 value for 59c at Wyatt Drug Co.

Regardless of weather conditions we have not only had good success with the bulbs, but also in long distance shipments of the flowers. In fact we ship them as far as Maine to the east and Idaho to the west, and in spite of the extreme cold at times experienced in those sections, there are no reports of failure to deliver the goods in good condition.

Last Saturday Thorsby Cash Store had a real opening day, and treated about 150 people to coffee and crackers and doughnuts. Incidentally they report a thriving business. Thorsby people are pleased to find another of our estimable citizens behind the counter in their new dry goods department in the storeroom adjoining the food shop. Mrs. Emmett Billingsley, who is well known as an experienced sales lady, has taken up that work here under management of Messrs. Reagan and Foss. We congratulate them on having secured such an agreeable and efficient assistant.

Teachers of Thorsby Junior High School entertained at the home of Mrs. Claud Billingsley Tuesday evening, the faculty of Thorsby Institute, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive.

Recently the senior class of 1933 of Thorsby Institute elected the following officers: President, Carl Ekblad; vice preseident, J. C. Faircloth, secretary, Gladys Smith; treasurer, Brady Billingsley. Other elections were poet, Edna Lee Wilder; historian, Lois Thompson; prophecy, Conradine Pate and last will and testament, Katheryn Lenoir.

Miss Catherine Price of Cedar Grove community spent the week end with Grace and Gladys Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Monroe Smith Sunday.

The Ladies Guild social will be held next week on Thursday afternoon, February 23rd, at Thorsby Institute dining hall. Misses Jenkins and Leech are hostesses.

Saturday night at the dining hall the Helen Keller Literary Society had a very pleasant valentine party. The hall was prettily decorated, red being the color scheme. After two games were played Katheryn Lenoir, Edith Foss and Dulcie Hayes with Miss Phillips as accompanist sang the "Shoogy-Shoo," an Irish song. This was their first appearance as a trio and they sang well. Alice Polk gave as a reading "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," while Miss Phillips played softly on the piano. This was very much enjoyed. After this some games were played, after which cocoa and cookies were served. A rising vote of thanks was given to all who had helped to make the party such a success; also to Mrs. Ekblad who had generously made and donated the delicious cookies served.

Reverend Rexford Raymond, D. D., formerly pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Chattanooga, but now associated with the Atlanta Seminary foundation which is affiliated with Vanderbilt University, made a brief call at Thorsby Institute Friday morning. He was on his way to meet a speaking engagement at Daytona Beach, Florida. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter. Dr. Raymond's son-in-law is pastor of the Congregational church at Melbourne, Florida.

School will be held on Saturday of this week. It will begin at 8:30 and close at 1:10, omitting chapel, the noon recess, and the last period which is devoted generally to music and health work.

Next Sunday at 7:30 the girls' club will sing at the community Congregational church, Birmingham. It is on 8th Avenue near 18th Street, not far from the city auditorium. The church at present is using the old Axis building. Plans are being made to build before long. This service is open to the public. Dr. Mordecai will preach as usual.

A week from Saturday night the annual Declamatory Contest of Thorsby Institute will take place. The girl participants are Mary Louise Reinhardt, Christina Dopson, Elwyn Robinson and Mary Sue Porter. The boys are Brady Billingsley, Carl Ekblad, Phares Raybon and S. E. Maddox. A friend of the school each year gives a $5.00 gold piece to the boy who does the best and $5.00 to the girl who does the best. Admission is ten cents for everyone. This is not a Literary Society meeting.

The Christian Endeavor members and visitors last Sunday night enjoyed one of the most interesting meetings of the winter. "When is Friendship Christian?" was the topic and J. T. Faircloth enthusiastically led the meeting. Everyone present caught his spirit and heartily joined in the discussion of "Friends and Friendship's requirements." On next Sunday night the society will meet in the main S. S. room. The public is invited and especially the married people. Ask your friends to come and be with us. The hour is 6:30.

There was a well-filled auditorium at the Thorsby Grammar school building on Monday evening to hear J. M. Hustis, of Montgomery, explain the terms and conditions for Chilton County to borrow $50,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Mr. Hustis is clerk of the board of revenue of Montgomery County and spoke from first-hand knowledge of the loan from the R. F. C. for his own county. He was followed by Mr. Sanders, of our own county board of education, who told of the pressing need of help for the destitute families in our county. Later Mr. Hustis answered a number of questions that made clear some points in regard to this proposed loan of $50,000 for Chilton County to be decided in the election on February 21. The Thorsby Band furnished good music for the occasion.

Mrs. E. L. Pate entertained her club Wednesday afternoon. The valentine idea was carried out. A salad course was served to the following guests and members: Mrs. Loren Smith, Mrs. Joe Higgins, Mrs. Grover Bice, Mrs. Relious Franklin, Mrs. W. Z. Love, Mrs. J. L. Mixson, Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, Mrs. Earl Marcus, Misses Edith Johnson, Dorothy Butler and Doris Freeman.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Health of this rommunity is good at present, excpet Mr. James Kitchen, who has been very ill, but is some better now. He was carried to the Naval Hospital at Pensacola Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gore announce the arrival of a baby girl on Monday morning. We have not been able to learn her name yet.

Our Sunday school is progressing fine. Our pastor, Rev. J. R. Bean, is with us every Sunday morning, and we sure are proud of him. We enroll new members nearly every Sunday; also we are having prayer services Sunday evenings, beginning at 6:45 o'clock, with very good attendance and with very good spirit manifested.

I hear people talking about the 5th Sunday meeting at Friendship, which will be April this spring. The annual fifth Sunday meeting has been a great success for the past three year and we are expecting even a greater success this year.—Yours for the glory of God, H. F. McCary.

FAMILY REUNION ON BIRTHDAY

Tuesday, January 31, was a very enjoyable day for Uncle John Campbell, of Jemison, it was Uncle John's eighty-third birthday. It was an anual home-coming day for his children, only one of the family circle was absent, Mrs. W. H. Thrash, of Sylacauga, Alabama.

Uncle John was able to walk about and talk with his children and friends who came to show their love and respect. The ones that were present as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Campbell of Calera, Miss M. H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Campbell, Miss Lou Campbell who is still at home with her father.

Those of the grandchildren were Bernie Martin and wife and little daughter of Calera, Ila Campbell, Clanton Route 6, Aubrey Campbell, Bessie Campbell of Silura, Mr. and Mrs. Reubin White, Mr. Walter Campbell, Vester Campbell and wife, Mrs. Jeanie Barefield and son, Dolphus, Marvin and Jinnie Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Merrell, Charles Foshee and wife. There were seven great-grandchildren present. Of the many friends were:

Mr. P. R. Robinson and family, Mr. T. J. Glass, Miss Thomasine Dorminey, Mr. Richard Busby and daughters, Lillian and Lois, of Calera, Mrs. Mary Honeycutt, Mrs. Laura Northcutt.

When noon time came a very beautuful dinner was spread for all present. Mrs. P. R. Robinson brought a beautiful cake with eighty-three candles on it, representing his age. The table was graced by Rev. Green, of Jemison. The dinner was one that will be remembered by those present many years to come.

In the afternoon some beautiful songs were sung and Rev. Green delivered a very heart-felt and enspiring sermon to Uncle John and loved ones. The sermon was enjoyed by everyone, after which Uncle John made a little talk, he and Mr. Busby. Then Mr. Marvin Vester and Mrs. Joe A. Campbell sang a very beautiful song for Uncle John. The title was "Midnight Memories."

Everyone began to leave for their various homes with a sad heart, but with hopes in their hearts that they would be permitted to gather together again on another birthday celebration with Uncle John next year. And if it is the Lord's will, many more years to come.—A Friend.

—lagging appetite

There is a reasonable way to correct this condition. Pause and reason. You know that body weakness is frequently the result of a weak blood "picture"—lowering of the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin—that are so very necessary to strength and vitality.

Then why not try S.S.S.—the proven tonic for decades? Its value has been proved by extensive scientific research and by millions of happy users.

Take S.S.S. and note the way your strength and appetite are restored. Two convenient sizes at all drug stores—the larger size is more economical. Don't permit any one to "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content for regaining strength. © The S.S.S. Co

ALL "CENTRAL PARK" ACTION TAKES PLACE IN SINGLE DAY

Like "Union Depot," "Grand Hotel" and "Life Begins," all of the action of the First National picture "Central Park," sceduled to be at the Wadesonian Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, February 21 and 22, takes place in one central location. The place, as the title indicates, is the great playground situated in the heart of New York City.

All of its thrilling drama, its exciting scenes, its comedy and its romance, takes place also in twenty-four hours. It begins with the meeting of a boy and girl, broke and stranded and hungry, on a bench in a shaded nook in the park. It carries the spectator to an exciting episode at a hot dog stand, through the zoo from which a ferocious lion escapes, to the famous park Casino, and through the roadways and bypaths in a mad theif chase.

Joan Blondell and Wallace Ford head an unsually strong cast of players which incudes Guy Kibbee, Patrica Ellis, Henry B. Walthall, Charles Sellon, Spencer Charters, John Wray and Harold Huber.

The story was written by the famous Broadway dramatic critic and columnist, Ward Morehouse, who has spent years in and around Central Park. He has hit upon a romantic phase of park life with which the famous playground is teeming. His story picturizes with thrilling intensity the heart throb of life that daily surges through its confines.

The screen play was handled by Mr. Morehouse and Earil Baldwin and directed by John Adolfi.

CARD OF THANKS

'THE CHAMP' WITH TWO STARS HEADS PROGRAM AT THEATRE

Wallace Beery And Jackie Cooper Paired In Story of Prize Fighter

Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper as a team!

Such is the unique combination heading the cast of "The Champ," Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer's vivid drama of life on the Mexican border, which will be at the Wadesonian Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 16, 17 and 18.

Beery plays a broken-down fight champion, and the hero of "Skippy" is seen as his son in a poignant heart-interest tale in which much comedy and a few thrills are intermingled. King Vidor directed the production, from an original story by Frances Marion.

Filmed In Mexico

Life on the Mexican border is vividly shown, many of the scenes in the picture having been filmed on Mexican locales, through courtesy of the Lower California government. The "iside" of the "fight racket," the Caliente races, actually filmed at the Mexican track, the great gambling halls of the "American Monte Carlo" give unique interest to the picture, and other striking intimate details most of this having never before been shown on the screen.

Among the dramatic highlights are the race, the sensational prize fight in which Berry essays his "comeback" the dramatic sacrafice for the sake of the boy, and the battle with the Mexican police.

A notable cast appears, including Irene Rich, Roscoe Ates, Edward Brophy, Hale Hamilton, Jesse Scott and Marcia Mae Jones.

It is King Vidor's first directorial effort since his highly successful "Street Scene."

CHARLES K. GREEN DIED

Charles K. Green, age 49 years, died last Saturday at his home at Isabella. Burial was at Isabella cemetery on Monday morning in charge of Martin. The funeral was conducted by Dr. O. C. Anderson, of Montgomery.

Some years ago Mr. Green lived in Clanton, where he worked for J. Lee Smith Wholesale Grocery. During the past year he has lived at Isabella where he operated a country store.

Mrs. Hugh Thompson is visiting her mother, Mrs. F. J. Goodgame and other relatives in Clanton this week.

WHAT OUR NAVY NEEDS

Prefessianal pacifists in the United States who like to take the false position that Uncle Sam is the real military and naval menace to the world peace ought to be interested in the latest comparison of the Navy Department at Washington to the effect that Uncle Sam will have to construct 135 new ships with a total tonnage of 316,530 tons, during the next four years if we are to bring our naval strength up to that allowed in the London figure, it will be remembered, was conceded to be the very lowest which would give the United States a naval defense adequate to its safety.

According to this report, which has been prepared for the Naval Affairs Committee of the United States Senate, Japan has already provided for all replacements allowed her under the treaty except 5,200 tons of destroyers which cannot be laid down until 1935 and a similar tonnage to be laid down in 1936. Great Britain, the report adds, has maintained a steady naval program of three cruisers, nine destroyers and three submarines a year since the naval agreement was authorized, while Uncle Sam has been falling just as steadily behind John Bull and the Japs in naval strength.

The report declares that the United States needs the following 135 warships to keep up to its treaty strength: three aircraft carriers, 9 cruisers, 98 destroyers and 34 submarines with a total tonnage of 316,530.

Yet our professional pacifists not only are seeking to block necessary naval construction in the United States but by a juggling of figures are helping spread the impression in Europe that Uncle Sam is the big military and naval agressor of the world.

Isn't it about time the people of America awaken to the real situation? Never in peace times has there been greater unrest in the world. The scuttling of our navy now would be an invitation to the rest of the world to come and get us.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A few days ago the directors of the United States Steel Company reduced the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock of the company from $1.75 to fifty cents, putting the stock on an annual $2 basis instead of the 7 dollar basis which had been the rate for payments since the organization of the company. This indicates the present low condition of the steel business of the United States, a condition due in great part to our present general economic plight, but not altogether so. A great deal of the steel is being brought to our countries which are now able to put it here at a price defying competition because of the depreciated currency in the manufacturing country.

In a hearing before the House Ways and Means Committee at Washington recently, J. A. Farrell, former president of the U. S. Steel Company, stated in no uncertain terms what is the matter with a great many of our industries. He declared that the legislation now before Congress to increase duties against foreign countries which have cheapened their currencies was the most important thing before Congress and added that the apodption of protection against this foreign menace would put Uncle Sam in a much improved condition to negotiate when the matter of foreign debt adjustment comes up. Mr. Farrell is a business man of standing and judgment and his opinion carries weight wherever he is known.

But it is not only the steel industry which is suffering from this foreign drive made possible by the depreciated currencies abroad. A great many of our other manufacturing industries are feeling the pinch, too. Some of them are now virtually paralyzed because the goods which they manufacture can be laid in America by the Japanese and the Europeans at a price which would not represent the bare labor cost in America. If we are to get back to prosperity soon, if the meat, the eggs, butter and wheat produced on American farms is to have a real market, our factory wheels must commence turning once more. This cannot be until our industries are protected from the goods produced in nations where there has been a depreciation of currency which grinds down the labor market still further and permits the production of goods at unheard of prices.

That the people of the country are beginning to realize this menace is evidenced by the gradual change of sentiment in Congress. Two bills have been introduced to give American industry and labor protection against the cheap money menace, one by Congressman Hill, Democrat, Washington, and the other by Representative Crowther, Republican, New York. Speaker Garner announced rather nonchalantly the other day that his majority in Congress would block the consideration of such legislation during this session. A caucus was called of the Democrats in the House to get an agreement to cut off consideration of such legislation. But Speaker Garner and his friends could not put it over. They found that there is a great deal of sentiment in the Democratic ranks for the protection of American industry against the tin money of Europe and the Orient, and that a revolt was brewing. If the plan is shut off, consideration of this legislation is to be made effective it will have to have more powerful pressure brought to bear on it than can be applied by Mr. Garner.

There is little argument as to the merits of the legislation promised in the bills to protect us from cheap currency production abroad. The results are visible on every hand. Go into any department store or ten cent store and note the labels on the goods, as to where these are manufactured. And then try to swallow the bunk of the professional free trader and his brother the New York importer that our tariff is so high that foreign nations can no longer trade with us.

NO BOGUS DOLLARS NEEDED

There seems to be, in a not inconsiderable section of the public mind, a great deal of confusion of credit expansion with currency debasement. Naive quacks and unscrupulous politicians eager to play upon public ignorance have united to inspire much wild Congressional mouthings in advocacy of some of the most fantastically impossible legislation, with just enough of the truth proclaimed to make some of the schemes have an appeal to those who regularly think superficially on most subjects.

No objection can be found, of course, to the restoration of commodity prices and the normal flow of money into the channels of business. Indeed, for some time, the government has followed a policy designated to bring about these results. But any measure designed to destroy the dollar, suspend the gold standard or issue fiat money is political shysterism of the most poisonous sort.

Cheapening of the dollar or the circulation of printing-press currency would inevitably impair the value of money and thereby rob the American people. But there are many ways in which liquidation can be arrested, a "reflatation" accomplished, and economic pressure applied with a view to turning commodity prices upward.

The Federal Reserve Banks hold $1,857,000,000 in government bonds, which means that those banks have placed that amount of money at the disposal of their members; and this credit can be used for the issuance of a certain amount of currency, if indeed there is really need for expansion of the circulating medium. Another benignly "inflationary" factor is the increase of gold stocks by about 12 per cent since last July. And every dollar in gold may serve as the base for $11 in credit. There is no need whatever for bogus dollars.—Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel.

MEXICO TO WITHDRAW

The going certainly has been a little rough for the League of Nations of late, and strange to say the rough going does not all seem to be in Europe and not all due to the world political situation.

One of the toughest problems with which the League has to deal is the Manchurian situation. If the League takes a firm position against Japan as many of the smaller nations want it to do, then there is little doubt that Japan will withdraw from the League. But if the international body glosses over its criticism of Japan then it will stand badly compromised in world opinion of the small nations who will begin to wonder why the League should have the power to chastise a small nation when it is unable to do anything about some supposed trespass on the part of Japan or any of the other great nations of the world.

But the depression, as well as the political situation is having an adverse effect on the League. Many nations, feeling the pinch of poverty, are looking around for new places in which to economize and some of them may end up by taking it out on the League as an unnecessary expense.

For example, according to press dispatches, Mexico has given notice that she will withdraw from the League of Nations two years hence. Mexico is not particularly peeved at the League and hopes it will get along well without her, but she feels that the cost of League membership to Mexico is not worth the money. Now the expense as far as the Mexicans are concerned is said to run from $60,000 to $90,000. That is not a great sum so far as nations go, but evidently the Mexican government doesn't value membership in the League even that highly.

Of course Mexico was not one of the original "joiners" of the League. She has only been a member a short while. Perhaps she has been disappointed since she got inside and saw just how much or rather how little was being accomplished in the way of settling world problems.

So far as the United States is concerned, membership in the League of Nations is a closed incident.

For a number of years the Democratic party sought to keep alive interest in the international organization, but did so only at the cost of millions of votes in every part of the United States. Prior to the recent campaign many Democratic leaders, including the President-elect, repudiated the idea of American membership in the League of Nations, a position which the Republican party has held from the beginning.

Thus as a political issue U. S. membership in the League of Nations has gone the way of free silver, government guarantee of bank deposits, and other great issues of the past. Additional efforts will of course be made to get Uncle Sam into the League court, but these, if successful, will not be crowned with victory until the resolution of membership has been amended until its own parents would fail to recognize it coming down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Bandits who robbed a Colorado bank refused to carry off "gilt-edged" securities and left them scattered on the floor. Maybe these bandits were former Wall Street employes.

The period between the election and the inauguration might well be referred to as the strange interlude.

A spendthrift is one who spends his money. A tightwad is one who saves it for somebody else to spend.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All— Overlooks None

Mirage

The mirage, fearful phenomenon of the desert wastes of the West, is the worst thing against which the desert traveler must fight. If he loses his way out on the great plains, the experienced desert traveler's first thought is for his water supply. Next, he sets himself to guard against the mirage. But the inexperienced traveler, when lost, cannot know to take these precautions. So, suffering from the intense heat, with lips and throat parched, he rushes on, and sees what appears to be a water-hole—a place of refuge—relief from the terrible torture he is undergoing. He rushes to this seeming oasis—but there is nothing—nothing but the burning sand in his hands as he seeks to dip what appears to be water, to his parched lips. Then he realizes more than ever that he is lost, hopelessly lost, and the ever-increasing fear of death soon drives him mad, and he rushes about aimlessly until his strength is exhausted and soon perishes—another victim of the mirage. I believe the people of the United States have been and are suffering from an economic mirage. In the tangled condition of world events brought on by the depression, they have become "lost". No one, not even the greatest leaders of the nation, seem to know what to do to restore confidence and lead us back to normalacy. And so the people, fearful of what might be before them, and inspired by promises held out to them in the campaign last fall, allowed themselves to see in Roosevelt and the Democrats a temporary oasis to which they might rush and save themselves. They allowed a hope, born of despair, to get the better of sound judgment and reason, and rushed for this oasis—and reached it. Now, since they have had time to think over the matter—to apply reason and common sense—they are not so sure they have acted wisely. Democratic leaders, themselves, assert that it will take time for the conditions of the nation to right themselves, and many people are reading in these assertions the possibility, and ever-increasing probability that they have rushed to an oasis and found dry sand.

Radio On the Farm

Not long ago, I listened to some speaker as he told of the advantages of having a radio on the farm. I thought the address a good one, with plenty of good, common sense to it, so I am passing the gist of it on to you. He said: "The farmer and his family, more than any other people, need the radio. First thing in the morning, they may get weather forecasts for the day. Then there are the market reports, in case he may have something to sell. Later, the housewife, as she goes about her home duties, may listen to labor-saving suggestions, new recipes, etc. In the afternoon and evening there is music, comedy sketches, and again market reports and weather forecasts for the amusement and interest of the whole family. So much for the week-day. On Sunday, if the weather is inclement the family may sit by their fireside and listen to music and religious lectures to suit their own belief, no matter what their creed. In order for the farmer to keep abreast of affairs, it is almost compulsory that his home have a radio receiver in it."

Your Postal Service—Part 5

LOW PRICED SERVICE—Have you ever stopped to think how little it costs you to take advantage of the postal service? Let's follow a letter from here to, say, Spokane Washington, which is about as far you could send the letter and still keep it in this country. A carrier calls on Monday for the letter; that afternoon it starts on its long journey by rail; day and night the letter continues on its way, until about the third or fourth day, maybe Friday, it arrives in Spokane; it is placed in another carrier there and rushed to the addressee. Your letter has carried your message thousands of miles in four or five days—it has been handled by many hands—automobiles, trains, mail trucks, all kinds of speedy carriers have been utilized to rush that message through. And, at what cost? Three cents! Less than the price of one cheap cigar or a candy bar. If you so desire, you may yet speed it even faster than that, by the payment of a premium of five cents. For this smll sum, your letter will be carried by plane, and delivered to your correspondent not later than the third day. Truly remarkable, yet so low in price. No wonder the postal service of the United States has been called the greatest personal service organization in the world. It has earned this high appraisal.

Alabama Is A Hot-Bed

The tax burdens and intolerable measures which have been forced upon the people of Alabama in the last few months are such that they have just about come to unanimous conclusion that the only way to stop this "reign of terror" is to take matters into their own hands and deal with those responsible in a manner which would be the tyrants' just due. Alabamians have begged, pleaded, threatened, and begged again and again, all with the same result—an absolute lack of recognition. They have seen their taxes raised and raised again, new taxes added, and, at the same time they have seen their public institutions falling to ruins, their roads going to pieces, their schools closing. People would not mind paying the enormous taxes if they could see any benefit they were deriving therefrom. But such is not the case. It seems that their money—blood money, in a way—is being poured into a bottomless pit, which only calls for more and more, but never fills. If such conditions continue—and not for long, either—there MUST come a reckoning day. It cannot go on forever—there must be a "straw that broke the camel's back." Conditions such as exist today in this state produce an ideal breeding place for radicalism. Unless some relief is afforded, an eruption of public opinion, born of despair, must certainly flare up. This could have but one result—RUIN!

The Biggest Flag

The largest truly proportioned American flag in existence hangs in the glass-covered and glass-floored court of the Post Office Department building in Washington, D. C. Each stripe is a yard wide, and each star is two feet and six inches across; the blue field measures 20 by 28 feet; the entire spread is 39 feet by 70 feet and four inches. It is made of the finest wool, weighs 90 pounds, has been in constant use since 1920, when it was bought at a cost of $300. It is unfurled each day of the year except one—Flag Day—when it is furled to permit better view of spectators of the Flag Day exercises held in the Court. Other than for cleaning purposes, this flag has been removed only once, that being the occasion of the return of Col. Lindbergh from his non-stop flight to Paris.

CONTROLLED INFLATATION IMPOSSIBLE

"Controlled inflatation" is a disarming sephra because it assumes that an inflationary price can be deliberately engineered without bringing with it the economic maladjustments and the individual losses that past experience has shown to be inseparable from inflationary policies.

The active discussion which is now revolving about schemes of controlled inflatation is closely related to the familiar controversy regarding the use of bank credit to control prices. The professional economists and the bankers who have long been urging adoption of credit policies designed to influence the price level show little appreciation of the stupendousness of the task implied in their program. To this day there is a complete lack of agreement among the experts as to the extent to which credit policies can or should be developed with a view to controlling prices. Such being the case, there is no ground whatever for believeing that the bankers, the government, or the bankers and the government acting in control would be able to direct an inflationary movement after they had succeeded in getting it will started.

Putting money or credit into circulation without exacting a quid pro quo would, in time, undoubtedly cause nominal prices to rise; but nobody knows which prices would advance most sharply or how high they would go. The new price relationships would not only be a matter of chance, but we have no means of determining whether they would be better or worse than the old ones. If we lived in a communistic society in which prices were fixed with reference to a predetermined production plan and consumption schedule, we might change the volume of purchasing power at will and then establish price relationships which would send money into desired channels. In a comparative society, however, credit or money, when released finds its way into all sorts of enterprises and has unforeseen effects upon the existing price structure.

The elusive and unpredictable character of price movements and the innumrable factors that help to determine specific commodity prices, severely limit monetary control over prices, evein in periods of relative stability. The advocates of controlled inflatation are trying, therefore, to bring about an engineered price raise that, in the vary nature of the case, would escape from the control of its originators. The latter have neither the power nor the knowledge essential to bring about a readjustment of relative prices which is the real, if often unacknowledged, goal of their endeavors.—New York Journal of Commerce.

HITLER TAKES THE WHEEL

Adolph Hitler, the former Austrian house painter, has become the head of the German government. His ascendacy has not brought the crash in the world's securities markets which would have been inevitable a year ago. Wall Street took but a passing interest in the affair and the following day on the Stock Exchange was the quietest of the year.

More than one reason has been assigned for this. It is said that the world has had so many shocks it can now contemplate almost anything without getting excited. It is declared that the Hitler bogey is not so fearful as it was a year ago and that he will be more conservative than was expected, because of his accession to power. Then, the optimists assert that our financial markets have steadied so much during the year that they are almost shock proof. Let us hope that there is at least a little truth in this last connection.

Anyhow Hitler now has his chance to demonstrate. He may become another Mussolini and then again he may not. If he is successful he will get the plaudits of the world, and if he fails he will soon be forgotten. He will now find his road much more difficult than it has been heretofore. As a leader of the minority he could criticize without stint and promise everything. But now the time of promising has passed and he must begin to perform. Can he make good on the extravagant promises and satisfy the people who have elevated him to power? If so, all well and good; if not he will have the sad experience of many politicians who have gone on before.

The only chance the new administration has to repeat is that the farmers were promised so many things in the last campaign they may not be able to remember all of them.

Remember the old fashioned statesman who predicted back in 1920 that gasoline would be selling for a dollar a gallon inside of ten years? Of course it may, before long, if they keep on boosting the tax.

The proposed Wheeler amendment to the Glass bill, providing for the free and unlimited coinage of silver was defeated in the Senate, 56 to 18. This is not quite in the ratio of sixteen to one but is near enough.

The Private Schools

When the public schools were forced to close recently, many people, wanting to give their children an education at any cost, began looking about for some way to give them this education. A few private schools—trial ventures, in a way—were started. And these private schools are saving the day in a wonderful way, if one is to take the words of the patrons as a barometer of their success. Almost every day I hear someone say: "My Johnny is certainly doing fine at private school." And, "My Mary is learning faster, if any difference, than she did in public school." And the Johnnies and Marys like it, too. Says one: "Say, this private school idea is great. Not so crowded—Miss So-and-So don't seem so cross since we have only a few for her to look after and keep straight." Another: "Yep! And I know I am learning something now. This school business CAN be interesting, and I'm finding it out more and more every day." Well, it's a good thing that some clouds have a silver lining, isn't it?

Jesse Baker Moves

Everybody wants to move, it seems. Jess Baker says: "The world moves, and so do we. 'Buck' Gore started it—blame him. But, then, if 'Buck' just WILL go, any way, I'm going with him. And I am going to sell the people the things they need, must have, and can't do without." Jess is moving down on Sixth Street, just two doors above the Banner office, right by "Buck." Tell you the truth, folks, I believe they both moved down here so they could keep closer track of that peckerwood when he shows up this spring. Won't be long now.—Man in the Moon.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

YESTERDAY AND TOMORROW

Our nation must either go ahead or go to pieces. A conflict is going on with great vigor.

That conflict is between the men who are thinking in terms of tomorrow and the men who are thinking in terms of yesterday; between the men who are looking forward to the rainbow promise of a new day and the men who cannot get from under the shadow of the stormy clouds of yesterday, men who are thinking in terms of national isolation, national competition of a mean, ungenerous unkindly sort, leading, in the long run, and in the short run often enough, to national combat. The world today is being weighed in the balance between these two states of mind.

REPUBLICAN PARTY PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

We gather the following interesting dispatch from Washington, through the Associated Press, February 5th:

A militant drive to reclaim the country from the Democratic party was announced tonight with the formation of the National Republican League, headed by vice-president Curtis.

John A. Campbell, of White Plains, N. Y., who is to be national director of the organization, made the announcement.

Senator Felix Hebert, of Rhode Island, former Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, and Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Deleware, are to be the vice-chairmen.

"The purpose of the new organization," Campbell said in a statement, "is to reach the young people of the country and educate them in the principles and traditions of the Republican Party."

Campbell said the organization was designed to "be one of the means of which they hope to win back the country to their party in the Congressional elections of 1934 and the presidential election of 1936."

Talk of a complete reorganization of the party machinery has been heard on Capitol Hill, with some Republican leaders urging the replacement of Everett Sanders as chairman of the national committee.

INDIANS KNEW ABOUT OIL IN TEXAS

Texas is known as the greatest oil producing state in the world and the history of the development of the industory is an interesting one. The greatest field is the newly discovered one in East Texas. But, according to Carrie J. Crouch, who writes interestingly in the current issue of the National Republic on the history of the Texas oil fields, the presence of oil in East Texas was known even to the Indians. In part, Mrs. Crouch says:

"When wild Indians roamed over east Texas, years before they fought the white man on the western frontier and made their only record in Texas history, they roamed in the midst of nature's storehouse. Yet they never developed one part of it, never lingered for the length of time needed to raise a crop. Lazily they rested under the shade of the growing pines, killed the game that required the least chase, gathered the nuts and berries when hunger prompted, and in nomadic enjoyment took their livlihood where they found it.

"Whatever was not understandable was accepted as supernatural, whether good or evil, and with their 'untutored minds' there was much they did understand. But the rare and the unusual had the same human appeal that it has to be civilized. In east Texas there was a blue-black water which stood around in crevices, seeping in from somewhere unknown, and the pools of smelly, greasy mud.

"The medicine men, utilizing their imagination and the handy compounds of nature to conjure up a remedy for ay developing disease, said the curious water was a gift of the Great Spirit, that it would cure achy, stiff legs and backs. So the aged and the ailing drank the blue-black water and wallowed in the greasy mud.

"The cures are not recorded. Traditionally, all that has come down is that Indians' belief in the healing water and their own descriptive wording, 'sour dirt', the term most probably having been given by healthy, sarcastic, young braves.

"The first discoverers did not know it was oil.

"That was long before the famous Drake well gave oil to the American world in 1859, and it was thirty-four years after the discovery in Texas. Even then the first production did not come from the region where oil was literally seeping out of the earth. East Texas found its oil after derricks had dotted the coast, the Panhandle and western Texas.

"White men, however, early observed this seepage which they knew to be oil, and after the discovery at Titusville, Pa., they were quick to think of the possibility of Texas. Accodingly tests were made in a small, crude way at Oil Creek, Nacogodoches, and while traces of oil were found, the equipment was too crude to bring in even a shallow field.

"Ten years later, in 1877, there was a revival of interest and another test went down near the little town of Nacogodoches. This proved more encouraging; the test went to two hundred feet, oil was found, and excitement went so far as to lay a five-inch pipe line to the city. But when the production decreased in this 200-foot well, the interest vanished, too, and the citizens converted the pipe line into a water main, deciding the latter was of greater usefulness.

"Commercial oil first came from the central part of the state, at Corsicana, Texas, and it was discevered entirely by accident. But it started the search which has not yet ceased in Texas, the laborious piercing into the earth for oil which may spout into fortunes, and this has gone on and on until Texas has become the greatest petroleum state in the union."

THE PRIMITIVE (Original) CHURCH

Text Matt. 16-18

The church was established during the ministery of Christ. Matt. 4 chapter. Matt. 18-17. Its foundation, Christ, was its head and founder. Eph. 1-22. Col. 1-18. It was not founded upon Peter's faith, neither on the faith of any other man. But was builded upon the foundation of the Apostles, Jesus Christ Himself. Eph. 2:19-22.

There was no other foundation upon which Christ could build His church. See 1st Cor. 3-11. Because, His church should stand forever. Matt. 16-18. His church will stand all the storms of time and be prepared to receive Him when He comes to take her to be his bride.

All other institutions known as churches, which are not built on the foundation, (Christ) will be rejected and rooted up. Matt. 15-13. He invested her with the greatest mission of any institution in all the world. Go carry the gospel to all the world. Matt. 28:19-20. Unless, we as churches, are preaching the gospel and upholding the doctrines and principles of Christ, we are not witnessing for Him. Acts 1:8.

As to her name or kind, His church was built of material prepared by a Misionary Baptist Preacher. So must have been composed of Missionary Baptist material and if composed of Missionary Baptist material, it most assuredly was a Missionary Baptist church. I am glad to have membership and fellowship in a body of this kind. All saved people should join the church, be baptized and follow their Lord. He is coming back to earth again one day, and then we shall claim Him as ours and be owned by Him.

Let all who may chance to read this study these thoughts closely and see if I am not correct.

If this little write up does not find the waste basket I may have something more to say later. I have only recently moved into this county and am liking it fine. I surely do enjoy reading the Union-Banner. Why don't more of you preachers have a few words to say? I enjoy a mixture, some preaching, some politics, some general news, together with all the local news. Yours for good government and a pure gospel.—K. U. Hull, Rte. 6, Clanton, Alabama.

MARION LEON GLADDEN DIED

On February 5th, 1933 the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gladden, and carried away from them their darling little baby boy, Marion Leon. He was only four weeks and one day old when Jesus prepared a place in heaven for him and said: Come little child unto me. Your place cannot be filled by any one else.

All that Dr. N. S. Johnson and loving hands could do was done, but God said I need you little Marion Leon. He left this world of sorrow to be with Jesus forever in that beautiful home, where sorrow is unknown. If Marion could only know and say, I am sure he would say: "Weep not dear mother and father, for I am only sleeping. All is well and heaven is so beautiful. Teach little brother so that you all may live to meet me on that blissful shore, where all your hardships and heartaches will cease, and will be joy forever more."

We cannot thank Miss Laura Jones and other loving hands enough for their help and kindness during his life and through death.

Rev. F. E. Clements conducted the funeral services, which were held at Walnut Creek Methodist Church.

Marion Leon is survived by his mother and father and brother; also a host of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plier, of Baxley, Georgia, will return to their home today after a pleasant visit with relatives and friends here.

SENATE CLERK LIVED AT SELMA

Was Not Mrs. N. S. Johnson, Wife of Dr. Napoleon S. Johnson, of Clanton

Some time ago a published list of Senate and House clerks at the legislature in Montgomery, contained the name of Mrs. N. S. Johnson. It was understood by some that the lady referred to was Mrs. N. S. Johnson, wife of Dr. Napoleon S. Johnson, of Clanton.

Dr. Johnson has received from Mr. J. E. Speight, Secretary of the Senate, a letter of explanation about the matter, which is reproduced herewith, as follows:

"Dear Sir: Re: Mrs. N. S. Johnson. For your information the above-named lady, who appeared on the Senate payroll for the last Special Session of the legislature, and who was assistant comparing clerk of the Senate, and assistant to Mrs. Hattie M. Ross, whom I understand is her sister, resided in Selma at that time. In other words the Mrs. N. S. Johnson referred to does not reside in Clanton.

"I am advised that it is understood locally by a few that your wife was possibly on that payroll, by reason of the similarity of the names; and for that reason, if you see fit, you may use this letter to correct this apparent error.—Very truly yours, J. E. Speight Secretary of Senate."

SHOULTS NEWS

Interesting items of Pleasant Grove B. Y. P. U.: Newly elected officers are—president, Sara McAfee; vice president, Lavern Shoults; secretary, Lucy Walker; treasurer, Kay Latham; group captains, Edwina Latham and Lumon Hicks; chorister, Bessie Mae Moore; organist, Lucy Walker. Our B. Y. P. U. is a growing organization. Four new members were taken in last Sunday night: Lindsey McAfee, Oscar Raney, Anglis Moore and Ira Kelley.

Mr. Oscar O'Neill Raney from Tulsa, Oklahoma is visiting relatives here, Mrs. J. R. McAfee and family. A number of brilliant social events have marked his arrival, among which was a birthday party February 5, in honor of the guest. The hostess and host were Sara and Lindsey McAfee. The guests were Misses Edwina Latham, Monteen Latham, Vera Lee and Bessie Mae Moore, Messrs. Anglis Moore, Clayton McGee and Oda Kelley. Very appetizing refreshments were served.

We regret to say that one of our charming young ladies, Novice Garner, has gone on an extended visit to Montgomery. We all are hoping for her return.

COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

What Negroes Are Doing

After school closed January 27th, plans were effected that would permit vocational activities to continue. The plans, as set up, make the present program much more tangible than the former schedule. The all-day boys are given more actual practice in shop work, mostly farm implement repair and more timely supervision in project work.

The outlook for supervised practice work is very bright due to the fact that more boys are able to carry a greater number of projects than ever before. Only a few years ago, a vocational student thought he had done good project work when he had carried a one-acre cotton project to completion. Today he thinks he has done little unless two or more projects are carried to completion each year.

This must be done in order that a boy may get a fair cross section as to the operation of the farm during the four-year course.

The interest in project work has grown so rapidly that boys complete with each other in the number of projects they carry each year. The result this year is quite interesting. The following are a few of more than thirty competitors:

Carl Brown—½ acre sorghum; ¼ acre sugar cane; 2 acres corn; 4 acres cotton; 2 pigs; and 50 baby chicks. Archie Hall. Jr., ½ acre of peanuts, 1 acre corn, ½ acre cow peas, ¼ acre melons. Friyzell McKinney—2 pigs, ½ acre peanuts, 2 acres corn, 2 acres cotton. Charles Sistrunk—2 acres corn, 2 acres cotton, ½ acre peanuts, 1 sow and litter. Clinton Calloway—25 hens, 125 baby chicks, 3 acres corn, 4 acres cotton. George Wilson, Jr.—2 acres corn, ½ acre peanuts, 3 acres cotton, ¼ acre sweet potatoes.

Boys of the above type are our only hope of future prosperity.

In addition to the all-day groups of boys, there are part time boys and adult evening school groups who come in for instruction in shop work. The part time boys are taken from over age and undergrade folk who may or may not be in school. Usually this type of boy finds it difficult to cope with his younger and more apt class mates and because of discouragement drops out of school. The plan to teach this type of individual was prompted by a consciousness of the fact that he can do nothing but try to farm. So, why not get him in and give him some new ideas about his future business?

The adult group includes those persons who are actively engaged in farming. They are now being given special instruction in terracing. An effort is being made to teach the farmer how to terrace his own land. About fifty acres have been terraced already, with a schedule of fifty or seventy-five more acres to be terraced.

The shop is open for community work on Wednesday of each week, at which time any farmer may bring in repair work.

Contests have been launched with these adult farmers in sweet potato and corn production. The purpose is to get farmers to see the economic importance of greater acreage yields.

Home Economics

Miss R. V. Lee, teacher of home economics has just completed a unit course in home improvement. Quite a bit of effective work was done. She reports the repairing of furniture in a number of homes.

Board Meets

The board of trustees met last Monday night. A committee was appointed to effect plans whereby another school bus will be put into operation for next year.

The board gave the principal authority to canvass the county to get chickens to help pay the school debt. —A. G. Gordon, Chairman, Prof. Benj. Anderson, principal of vocational agriculture.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

We had preaching at Mt. Springs Sunday afternoon. Rev. Arnel Nelson conducted the service. Everybody enjoyed it fine. They have changed our meeting days on account of our pastor having so many churches to serve. Our preaching days will be the second Saturday night and Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. We want everybody to come back to Sunday school. We notice that some of our regular Sunday school scholars and teachers have been coming have quit. We wonder where they are going. Come to Sunday school first. Our Sunday school must grow and grow and go, and we must go to make it so. So, everybody come back to Sunday school next Sunday and bring someone with you. Come with a well-studied lesson. Don't let the cold weather stop Sunday school.

GEORGE B. DERAMUS DIED

George B. DeRamus, age 39 years, died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth DeRamus, in Maplesville, Wednesday night, February 8. Funeral services were held from the home Friday at 11:00 a.m., conducted by Rev. Grady Williams.

He was survived by his mother; one brother, C. G. DeRamus, of Tuscaloosa; three sisters, Mrs. Lula Fletcher, of Selma; Mrs. Cora Stanford, of Okaloma, Mississippi; Mrs. Bertha Adams of Montgomery. Interment was in Maplesville cemetery with Sepigner in charge.

Mrs. J. E. Gowan, the Misses Ruth Gowan, Eloise Rasberry and Elizabeth Lawrence were the guests of friends in Verbena Sunday afternoon.

SCHOOLS KEEP PACE WITH OTHER BUSINESS IN COSTS

School costs per child per day have been reduced in three years from 62.7 cents to about 48.7 cents, according to the United States Office of Education. The cost per child per day in Alabama has never approached 48.7 cents. In 1929, the year of highest costs, it was 30.2 cents per pupil per day of attendance for white schools. In 1926 it was 27.2 cents. It is estimated that for the scholastic year 1932-1933 it will be less than 20 cents per pupil per day in the white schools of the state.

It is also shown by figures published in the January-February issue of the Alabama School Journal that while the per cent of increase in current expenses in white schools over the preceding year diminished from 10.3 per cent in 1928 to 2.2 per cent in 1930, and actually amounted to a decrease in the next two years, yet during that time the aggregate attendance has constantly mounted, the increase being more than 11 per cent in that time.

These figures for Alabama showing costs at less than one-half the national average may be accounted for in three ways:

1. The comparatively low per capita of Alabama makes less funds available. This affects for instance the average of teachers' salaries. The average wage of all techers, principals and supervisors in the nation for all public elementary and high school was $1,440 in the year 1930-31. In Alabama it was $762. It is estimated that for the current term this figure will be reduced to about 30 per cent, leaving the average wage at approximately $532, or $43.60 per month on a year basis when the warrants are paid.

2. The mild climate of Alabama makes possible a slightly lower maintenance cost, such as for fuel and janitor service.

3. The care and economy exercised by Alabama county and city boards of education in the administration of schools.

The above figures do not take into consideration the shorter term in Alabama. Our average school term is 148 days. The average term for the nation is 172 days.

HOW SCHOOL COSTS OF 1933 COMPARE WITH 1926

Comparison is being made between expenditures for education in 1926 and in 1933, a space of seven years. Basing estimate upon census figures during that time the population of Alabama has increased 7 per cent. The compulsory attendance age has been extended and the child labor laws have been strengthened, these factors rightly increasing the attendance and consequently the teaching load.

The average length of term in these seven years has been increased from 137 days to 148 days. The aggregate attendance, that is, the total number of days attended by all pupils has increased from 54,254,174 pupil days to 74,537,701 pupil days, an increase of 30 per cent. This alone would call for material increase for the support of the schools even at the same expense as that of 1926.

It is an anomoly of depressions that school enrollment and attendance increase faster than population, especially in the higher and costlier brackets. In the present instance this is shown by the fact that the high school enrollment for white pupils has increased in Alabama from 94,432 in the year 1926 to 116,161 in 1932. The aggregate attendance of all white high school pupils has increased from 12,238,866 in 1925-26 to 16,572,215 in 1931-32, an increase of 35.4 per cent in six years. The number of accredited public high schools has increased from 247 in 1926 to 296 senior and 62 junior high schools in 1933. Transportation expense has greatly increased by reason of the fact that the number of transported pupils has increased from 27,482 in 1925-26 to 75,124 in 1930-31.

IN MEMORY

On January 28, 1933, the death angel visited the home of J. M. Hathcock and bore away the sweet spirit of his aged mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hathcock, who had been suffering a long time with heart trouble. Mrs. Hathcock was the wife of Fonzy Hathcock who died 25 years ago.

To the best of our knowledge she was 86 years old and had lived in the old home near Bethsalem. She leaves ten living children; H. M.; J. M.; G. C.; and W. C. Hathcock of Alabama; C. C. Hathcock of McAlester, Oklahoma; Mrs. C. E. Levins, Mrs. J. T. Middlebrooks, Mrs. W. F. Friday, Mrs. A. F. Brown, Mrs. C. Williams and 65 gradchildren, 38 great-grandchildren, 1 great-great-grandchild.

We loved her. Yes, we loved her. But angels loved her more and sweetly called her to yonder shining shore. Mrs. Hatchcock joined the Baptist Church years ago and her entire heart and mind was to serve the Lord and stand a brave soldier and true Christian, devoted to her church and her children. The many relatives and friends over the country wide. She was laid to rest at Bethsalem cemetery. A large crowd attending to pay the last respect and awaited their coming.

Active pallbearers were Leon Hathcock, Barnie Hathcock, Barnie Levins Boris Levins, Grady Friday and Joe Brown. Burial was in charge of Speigner Funeral Home and the services were conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery.—One who loved her.

Mrs. Earl Gore is spending this week in Birmingham with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Busby.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

The Lord spoke to Abraham in a vision, long before any child was born to him, saying:

"Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and shall afflict them four hundred years; and also that nation, whom they shall serve, will I judge: and afterward shall they come out with great substance. And thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried in a good old age. But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again; for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full." Gen. 15: 13-16.

Here is a very plain prophecy. In the process of time Abraham died, being an old man. His people went down into Egypt and became servants in a strange land. The centuries rolled by, and when the time came that God had said they would be delivered from the bondage of Egypt, it seemed an impossibility. Another king was on the throne of the Pharaohs, who did not know Joseph. Joseph had saved the land of Egypt from suffering during the terrible famine but now he was forgotten and his people, the children of Israel, were regarded as a very servicable nation of slaves. In response to the request of Moses that his people be allowed to go, Phoraoh said, "I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go." Ex. 5:2.

The case looked hopeless. How could Israel go out of Egypt? But Pharaoh was not fighting against a nation of helpless slaves only, but against a prophecy uttered by Jehovah Himself. Pharaoh and his host were battling in vain against God's word. God had said that they should "come out;" as well seek to stop the ebb and flow of the ocean tides, or the sun in its course, as to seek to hinder the fulfillment of a Bible's prophecy.

"It came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt." Ex. 12:41.

This prophecy was accurately fulfilled as are all the prophecies of the sacred scriptures.—L. A. Butterfield.

Reynolds Challenges

they would be opposed to the government giving us $50,000 to furnish employment for the poor needy suffering people of our county just because they could not get any of it when they do not need it? We all know that if $50,000 was spent in this county among the unemployed that every dollar of it would be put in circulation as soon as it was paid out; that every form of business and every business man and every professional man in our county would feel the results of it because these laboring people would have to spend it.

Just a few words about how this money is to be spent. It will be spent on the public roads under the supervision of the commissioners, and I have never seen a time that Chilton County could get as much work done for the same amount of money as they can today and $50,000 properly spent on our roads now would equal to $100,000 a few years ago. The commissioners court selects some one to handle this money. They have full control of the work. They select every official that has anything to do with the administration of the $50,000 if we get it. There is one thing that the Commissioners Court cannot do. They cannot hire their relatives just because of their relation. They cannot hire their political friends just because they are political friends. They have to employ the unemployed who are in needy circumstances and they can only work them a reasonable length of time, according to the needs and requirements of them and their families. To make it plain, the United States government is not going to give us $50,000 to pay political debts with and to turn over to kin folks; and those who handle this money will have to treat every citizen of the county on an equal basis and no partiality can be shown on the account of political factions or policies. Is there any citizen of our county who would object to this?

Not one dollar of this money will be spent through my office. Neither will any of my people handle one penny of it; but on the other hand, it will add a great deal of work to my office and I say to the people of this county that I am not trying to advise a single voter how to vote on this quesion. The only effort I have made has been to explain the facts and I hope every person over 21 years of age in the county will understand this matter and that they will go to the polls next Tuesday, the 21, and vote their conviction. As for me, I expect to vote for it unless somebody is able to come out in the open and show me something better. I have spent a great deal of time for the last six months trying to get the facts in connection with the $50,000 relief money. I feel like I have done my duty and now the responsibility is on the people of our county and I say to you people that vote against the county receiving this money, if you are in the majority, I hope that you will be able to point to some other remedy, and that you can present a better plan that will take care of the distressed, needy people of our county.

I close by again urging as many of you people, men and women, as can, to come to the court house next Saturday evening at 1:30 and hear this matter explained.

I do hope that those who are taking an active part in trying to defeat this matter will be present next Saturday and point out to the people of this county the danger they see. I hope we can have one election in Chilton County without politics.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

SALES TAX COSTLY TO CHILTON

Enactment of a 3 per cent sales tax would cost citizens of Chilton County approximately $107,420 annually in addition to the taxes already paid, according to an estimate compiled by Mr. Chauncey Sparks, representative from Barbour County, a member of the group of legislators in the house who are seeking to balance the budget and fund the state's obligations without further taxes.

In a statement issued here today Mr. Sparks explained how this estimate of taxes to be paid by citizens in this and other counties was determined. He said:

"Estimates of F. W. Gist, statistician of the Agricultural Department show that a 3 per cent sales tax would produce a total revenue for the state of $14,842,000 annually. This pre-supposes a sales tax on all retail sales not taking into consideration any exemptions, exceptions or exclusions.

"We may safely presume that retail sales in Alabama are distributed among the 67 Alabama counties in about the same relative proportion now as they were in the last census figures. We have therefore figured what percentage of the total retail sales in 1929 were made in each of Alabama's 67 counties during 1929, and applied this percentage to the estimated total sales tax receipts of $14,842,000 to determine what part of this proposed sales tax each county would have to bear if it were passed.

"It should be borne in mind that the cost of this tax to different counties has been computed on the basis of a 3 per cent tax. But the administration has proposed a tax of 5 per cent—two fifths more. If such a rate were fixed the cost would be proportionately greater.

"These figures are staggering. It is unthinkable that citizens of this or any other county should be called upon to bear this huge additional tax burden at a time when they are struggling so desperately to meet the taxes which are already levied.

"When the full effect of this tax threat is understood by citizens of Alabama there wil be an outcry which will reverberate throughout our state.

"This is no time to pass any tax raising measure, if possibly avoidable. During this depression every citizen who has any earnings is helping support directly or indirectly, through private and public charitable aid, that great army of unemployed which now numbers upwards of 350,000 Alabamians or practically one-seventh of our total population. To pass further taxes at this time, unless absolutely necessary, would be to force citizens to buy government services which they cannot afford to pay for. This is why a large group of legislators in both houses have served notice that they will oppose to the bitter end any tax increases which are not shown to be 100 per cent essential."

FATE OF DRY LAW UP TO THE STATES

Resolution Passed In Congress For Repeal of the 18th Amendment

Washington.—Congress Monday put repeal of the prohibition amendment up to the states. The House vote was 289 to 121 to submit a repeal amendment to the states.

The House of Representatives mustered the two-thirds vote required, after a brief but fervid debate that roused the packed galleries.

The Senate already having voted 63 to 23 to submit the repealer, the states now for the first time in history must act on such a change to the constitution.

Conventions in 36 states must approve to put the new amendment, the twenty-first, into effect. It requires federal protection from liquor imports for dry states.

The House vote saw many changes from the position recorded on that taken the opening day on the Garner outright repeal resolution, assuring the majority required to suspend the rules and submit the new amendment. On the previous vote the resolution lost by a margin of six.

As soon as Monday's outcome was known, the congressional quarrel on how state conventions should be called to act swung into full light.

Chairman Sumners, of the House judiciary committee, introduced legislation authorizing the calling of conventions to pass on the proposed amendment.

Roosevelt Pleased

New York.—President-elect Roosevelt expressed gratification Monday at the adoption by Congress of the repeal resolution and added a hope that this session also will enact beer legislation.

Informed immediately of the House vote, Mr. Roosevelt said he was very happy in the fact that this part of the Democratic platform had been carried out at the short session.

It was said in his belief that he is very hopeful this session of Congress also will act on the other parts of the Democratic platform for beer. The beer measure is now in the Senate.

HURT IN ACCIDENT

Will Vinzant, of Siluria, was very seriously injured in an accident on the highway just north of Jemison Monday night. Martin's ambulance was called to the scene. The injured man was brought to the hospital here. Both of his legs were broken. It was necessary to amputate one leg below the knee. At this time it is reported that he is resting fairly well.

It is reported that Mr. Vinzant was walking along the highway when he was hit and run over by a passing automobile or truck. It is stated that the driver of the machine did not stop, and that his identity is not known.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION HERE

Criminal Cases On Non-Jury Docket Will Come Up Thursday

The grand jury of Chilton County went into session Monday morning after being empanneled and charged by Loyd Tate of the Circut Court. Mr. J. A. Sample of the southwest part of the county, is foreman of the grand jury.

In addition to the foreman, the grand jury is composed of the following citizens:

Charley S. Howard, F. Eugene Davenport, Will P. Lowery, J. Eramus Dean, Lorenza Williams, John T. Cooper, George T. Tippett, W. Bryant Crowe, J. Monroe Smith, Henry H. Armstrong, Will T. White, Samuel L. Gray, John D. Cooper, Charles B. Huett, Ernest M. Atkinson, James B. Gardner, Ernest H. Davis.

Monday and Tuesday were spent by Judge Tate in holding equity hearings, and in disposal of a number of cases on the civil non-jury docket.

Thursday Judge Tate will take up for discussion a number of cases on the non-jury criminal docket. The work of the grand jury will perhaps take up the better portion of this week.

OFFICIALS OF A. & P. TEA COMPANY VISITED CLANTON

A group of high officials of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, on a tour of the Alabama territory served by this company, visited Clanton Tuesday morning. While here they made an inspection and get-acquainted visit to the local A. & P. Store.

The group included Mr. Gallager, vice president of the company; Mr. Black, and Mr. Pilson, superintendents of store operations.

The A. & P. Store in Clanton is under management of Mr. G. C. Armstrong, assisted by Mack Wyatt.

Warren W. Wingard has bought the Ed Plier property just north of the Methodist church in Clanton, and will make his home there in the future.

Mrs. Earl Gore has returned home after a visit of several days in Birmingham.

MOVING PROGRAM IS GOING THRU

Remodeling Building Gives An Improved Appearance In Business District

The moving program which was announced a few weeks ago is well under way now. Several business houses will be in their new locations before many more days.

Buck Gore and Jess Baker have already moved. They are on Sixth St., south of the courthouse. Mr. Gore is in the old cafe building next to the Woco Pep Station. Mr. Baker is next door below Mr. Gore, in the Tom Rockett Building.

Clanton Cash Store is now engaged in moving into the former location of Mr. Gore on the corner. A complete overhauling of the Gore building has made it one of the most delightfully arranged places in Clanton.

Alterations and repairs are being made on the buildings vacated by Jesse Baker and Clanton Cash Store. A new brick front will be built, making these buildings a fitting contribution to the good appearance of the business houses on Clanton's Main Street. Before many weeks Ben Margolis will move his shoe store into the building formerly occupied by Jesse Baker.

Plans for the future occupancy of the old home of the Clanton Cash Store have not yet been announced. According to previously announced plans, Joe Calloway will move his drug store across the street to take the place now occupied by the Sample Shoe Store.

OPENING DAY AT CLANTON CASH STORE TO BE SATURDAY WEEK

It is announced that next Saturday week will be opening day at Clanton Cash Store, introducing their friends and customers to their new store on the Marion Gore corner.

The stock and fixtures are being installed this week, and business is going forward uninterrupted. But the boys of the Cash Store want to have a real "show out" when they get everything in its proper place.

They have named next Saturday week as the day. They will arrange several kinds of demonstrations and will serve refreshments to their visitors. Everybody will have an invitation to attend.

LIQUOR SMUGGLED ON FREIGHT

Smuggling liquor into Clanton on freight trains at night is the latest scheme, which was discovered by officers in the past week. Two negroes got off a train about two o'clock in the morning with their cargo of five gallons, and walked directly into a whole covey of officers waiting for them.

Deputy Norris relates how the plan has been working as follows: Certain negroes have been catching freight trains here and going to the vicinity of Siluria in Shelby County. There they would get their liquor. They would then catch the local freight that comes down the line behind the Pan American at night. When the freight arrived at Clanton to drop off its merchandise car, the negroes would alight with their liquor.

During the past week the Sheriff's office has made eight arrests, as follows: Two on peace proceedings; two for transporting whiskey; one for resisting an officer; one for public drunkenness; one for driving while intoxicated; one for abusive language.

The jail register Wednesday morning showed 18 prisoners in confinement.

Many Changes Made In County's Business

Report of Doings of Three-Day Session of Commissioners Court Which Was Held Here Last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 13, 14, 15

At the session of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, many important items of business were transacted. From a review of the minutes of the Court, we give below a digest of the most important matters that were taken up and acted upon.

The Court agreed to go in a body on February 24, to see about building a bridge on the Hawkins Road in Beat 13.

An order was passed changing the voting place in Beat 12, Box 2, from Robinson's Store to Union Grove. The other voting place in Beat 12 remains at Mineral Springs as heretofore.

W. W. Slaton, of Centerville, made application to the court for a job as county road engineer. The application was rejected.

Commissioner Atchison made a motion to call off the election on the $50,000 relief fund for the 21st. The motion received no second, and therefore was not acted upon.

The following changes in salary schedule for county employees was adopted:

Clerk of the Commissioners Court reduced from $65 to $50 a month; janitor at courthouse from $50 to $40 a month; gasoline truck driver from $60 to 40 a month; Dewey Rockett's job checking lumber for county was cut out; jail watchman from $45 to $40 a month. These changes in salary to take effect March 1st.

It was suggested by the Commissioners that they take the applications for driving the gas truck and for clerk of the Commissioners Court and retire to themselves for the purpose of discussing and getting the best men for the places that they could. Judge Reynolds said he would not go into a secret meeting with the court and he stayed in the Commissioners Court room.

Judge Reynolds was sick and unable to attend the session of the court Wednesday. At the opening of the day's business Commissioner J. E. Cobb was elected chairman, after which they proceeded to the consideration of business.

On motion of Commissioner Mims and seconded by Mr. Atchison, the court adopted the tax levy for the county the same as it was in 1932.

Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway, County Treasurer, presented to the Court the following written statement concerning her salary:

"As you recall, I was elected Treasurer of this county on November 8, 1932, and at that time I was receiving $1,000 per year as salary. It was not mentioned to me during the campaign that if I were elected, that I would be compelled to accept a reduced salary, and I believe the people of the county thought they were electing me to serve at the same salary. But in December of that year the Court of County Commissioners saw fit to reduce my salary to $800 per year.

"I have discussed this matter with Mr. J. J. Haynes, assistant attorney general, and he informs me that you may set my salary at any price that pleases you. I am therefore asking that you please place it back at the price of $1,000 per year or $83.33 per month, as the official duties are so great that it is not possible for one person to do all the work, which necessitates my having to employ an assistant, and when I pay this person I do not have enough to pay my other living expenses."

It was moved by Commissioner Duke and seconded by Mr. Atchison that the salary of Mrs. Calloway, as County Treasurer, be set at $1,000 per year. All commissioners voted for the motion.

When the question of employing a driver for the county gasoline truck was taken up, Mr. Duke nominated J. E. Easterling for the job. Mr. Mims nominated Lee Pate. Mr. Duke and Mr. Atchison voted for J. E. Easterling. Mr. Mims voted for Lee Pate. Commissioner Cobb, who was presiding did not vote.

Commissioner Atchison nominated I. P. Kennedy for Clerk of the Commissioners Court. Mr. Mims nominated Miss Ressie Burks. Commissioners Duke and Atchison voted for I. P. Kennedy.

Commissioner Mims nominated Mr. Grady Reynolds for County Attorney. Mr. Atchison nominated Percy Pitts. Mr. Mims voted for Grady Reynolds. Mr. Duke and Mr. Atchison voted for Percy Pitts. Commisisoner Cobb, who was presiding, did not vote.

All county employees who were named by the court will take up their duties on March 1st.

Mr. Cobb, presiding, suggested that M. D. Foshee move his abstract office out of the courthouse. Mr. Mims moved that M. D. Foshee vacate his room and that said room be used to store old records. The motion was seconded by Mr. Atchison. All Commissioners voted for the motion except Mr. Cobb, presiding. It was further ordered that Judge Reynolds notify M. D. Foshee of this action of the court.

By order of the court Commissioner Duke was authorized to go out on the roads, and see about roads, Culverts, bridges and road machines until the next meeting of the court; also to make a trip to Birmingham to get machine parts.

Hot Copy Coming On Friday Night March 3

Play Depiciting Newspaper Life and Politics Will Be Given At High School For The Benefit of Clanton Parent-Teachers Association

A wide program of advertising and all necessary preliminaries are being worked out for the presentation of "Hot Copy" at the High School auditorium in Clanton Friday night, March 3, by a group of talented and experienced players. The program is sponsored by The Union-Banner, and the proceeds will be for benefit of the Parent-Teachers Association of Clanton.

"Hot Copy" is a newspaper play, depicting some of the harrowing experiences of a young editor in dealing with hard-boiled and exacting politicians. An outline of the play, as furnished by the director, is as follows:

Kenneth Wade, young owner of The Union-Banner, played by James Pilgreen, incurs the animosity of Dudley Kay, played by Pete Eason, an aspiring and unscrupulous politician, determined to make the young editor "walk out of town." From then on Kenneth is literally fighting for his financial life.

Jane Corwin, played by Miss Edwards, a college friend from a big city newspaper, steps into the scene and with the help of Bill Gregory, played by Eric Elliot, a young wise cracking reporter who writes "Hot Copy" and Sylvia Daye, played by Lillie Pearl Shaw, just out of high school and doing society and want ads, puts on a valiant fight to save the paper from insolvency.

In the end a mysterious "publicity hound" by the name of Hazel Winston, played by Miss Mamie Bishop, dubbed the "pest," saves the day.

Bud Rice, played by Chester Crim, the foreman, and Peggy Wilson, played by Ruth Collins, who claims to have been "born in a print shop," combine with Randolph, played by Jack Harris, a colored messenger boy, and Mrs. Devine, played by Mrs. Lillian Collins, a young "tittle tattle" to create comedy and tense situations.

JACKSON CHAPEL BOYS TO MEET

The boys of Jackson's Chapel community expect to hold a meeting next Monday, February 27, at one o'clock p.m., for the purpose of organizing their 4-H Club. County Agent Stapp will meet with them.

Commissioners Court will meet today (Thursday(to make the official count of returns of Tuesday's election.

HILL'S HAS SOMETHING OF INTEREST TO THE FARMERS

Mr. Ernest Arant, manager of Hill Grocery Company, has a proposition of special interest to farmers at this time of the year. In calling this matter to the attention of the public, Mr. Arant said:

"I want to say to the farmers of this county that Hill Grocery Company is prepared to offer them something of special interest when they come to consider the important matter of laying in a supply of food stuff and groceries for the crop-making season. Farmers can save money by taking advantage of our prices on heavy groceries in quantities. The farmer who makes arrangements for cash to supply his needs, can come here with the cash and buy in large quantities, and thereby get prices that will amount to a substantial saving in the provision bill."

Mr. Arant will be glad to have farmers who might be interested in this proposition to call upon him for a complete discussion of the subject.

ADAMS-JESSEE

Of interest to friends throughout the state is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson D. Jessee, Decatur, Alabama, of the marriage of their daughter, Bessie Finnie, to James Walter Adams, Montgomery, Alabama, which was solemnized at 8 o'clock on the evening of January 28, at the Presbyterian Church in Centreville. The Rev. P. L. Perry officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride was graduated from the University of Alabama in the class of 1930, and has acquired master's credit at the University of Berkeley, California. At the Jemison High School she has been an instructor in English and music appreciation; she is also a talented pianist and organist.

Mr. Adams is a graduate of Clemson College, obtaining his degree in civil engineering with outstanding honor. For the past four years he has been connected with engineering projects in Honduras and points in the Panama Canal zone proper. At present he is in the States on official leave of absence.

CONWAY THANKS THE PEOPLE

Mr. W. H. Conway, who was chairman of the citizens committee for securing the $50,000 relief fund, in a statement Wednesday morning said:

"I do not know yet whether the proposition is carried or defeated. But I can say that I appreciate the interest of the people of the county in the matter. I was gratified at the response of the people at the meeting which I called at the courthouse last Saturday.

"I feel that I had a chance to serve the best interests of our county in advocating this relief proposition for the sake of the needy and suffering. The people of our county have spoken their wishes on the question, and I am satisfied and grateful to all for their honest consideration, whether they agreed with me or not."

RAILROAD WILL DELIVER FREIGHT

Popular Plan is Announced By Freight Department of the L. & N.

Store-door pick-up and delivery of less-than-carload freight will be inaugurated by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad on March 15, according to a recently published tariff which becomes effective on that date.

This service is to be performed by local transfer or truck operators under contract with the railroad, and will be available at nearly 500 stations in the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, North Carolina, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Missouri. Additional stations will be included in the plan from time to time, it is said.

Under the provisions of the tariff less-than-carload freight, with a few minor exceptions, will be handled by the contract truck operators, from the shipper's place of business to the freight depot at the shipping point and from the freight depot at destination to the receiver's place of business, upon request. This service will be accorded without extra charge between points with Southern territory on basis of the current depot-to-depot rates on shipments moving to destinations within approximately 230 miles of the shipping point, computed via the shortest rail route. Shipments moving further than 230 miles will be collected or delivered, or both, at the rate of ten cents per hundred pounds in addition to the published depot-to-depot rate.

The scope of the pick-up and delivery arrangement, so far as the tariff is concerned, is not expressed in terms of milage. The distances or scope is reflected by the measure of the first class rate, and provisions are made for "one-end" pick-up or delivery service on traffic interchanged with other lines in the south not parties to the tariff, either free or at the ten-cent rate, according to distance. One-end service is also available on shipments originating at, or destined to points outside the Southern territory, at the rate of ten cents per hundred pounds.

One of the provisions of the tariff is that when the consignor or the consignee performs his own pick-up or delivery service, an allowance of 5 cents per hundred pounds will be made to such consignor or consignee, for such service, under the conditions and exceptions noted in the tariff.

Traffic representaties of the L. & N. Railroad have expressed the opinion that this new service is a forward step in meeting present-day conditions and provides a public convenience for which there has been a growing demand.

T. B. Curlee, freight agent at Clanton, advises that under the above outlined plan, Mr. J. W. Franklin has contracted with the railroad to make delivery of freight in the territory served by the Clanton office. The plan goes into effect March 15th.

SHED TO BE PUT UP AT THE DEPOT

Railroad Agrees To Improve Facilities For Shipping Berries Here

Advice received by Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer last week from the officials of the L. & N. Railroad say that decision has been reached for loading of strawberries at Clanton.

This will be welcome news to our berry growers. For several years past the Clanton Berry Growers Association, through its manager, Mr. Diefenderfer, has been seeking to get the consent of the railroad on this point.

With the construction of a shed, the berry shippers will not have to fear the weather in loading and grading their berries. If it happens to rain they will have a place where their berries can be protected.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Mullins, Mesdames C. Reese Mullins and J. C. Jones attend the Womans Missionary Conference in Selma last week.

"Procrastination"

To procrastinate is to put off to a future time; defer; to be dilatory.

We have at least four scriptures in the Old Testament and seven in the New Testament dealing with this subject. But in Acts 24:25, we find the most direct example of the act of procrastination, which I will use for a text. "And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgement to come, Felix trembled and answered "Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient reason, I will call for thee."

It seems that Felix, the governor, communed with Paul often. It is intimated that Felix hoped to receive money from Paul for his release, but this was not forth coming so Felix kept Paul a prisoner for two years, or until another governor, Porcius Festus, took Felix's place. Paul was discussing the subject before Felix and his wife Drusilla, a Jewess, concerning the faith in Christ. The text then follows. "And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgement to come, Felix trembled and answered, go they way for this time; when I have a convenient season I will call for thee."

Aaron Myers was a very sick man, his wife's mother sent for me. I went to his home and found him dying of pneumonia. I know him to be a very wicked man, a man who spent all of his earnings for drink. He didn't attend church and used profanity even in his home among his children. I approached the bed and spoke to him and asked what I could do for him and he asked me if I thought that as a wicked man as he could get forgivness for his sins. I told him that God would not turn a penitent sinner away unheard. I then asked him if he wished me to pray for him. He said just wait a little while. So I waited for some time and fearing he would wait until it was too late I asked again if he wished to pray. Just wait a little he said. I asked a third time if I should pray but each time he said wait. And while we were sitting there waiting for him to get ready for us to pray I saw that he was dying. I closed his eyes and that was the last of Aaron Myers. No one can say that he was not praying secretely, but if he was, his lips did not move. I have always felt that his was a case of procrastination all the way through, not only during health but when death was at the door. Just why he asked me to wait I will never know.

One can get by, in a way, in putting off till tomorrow the things that they should do today, when it concerns the things of every day life, but when it comes to putting off the salvation of one's soul delay, or procrastination, is a dangerous thing. Jesus said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness." That should be the first thing to be attended to. There are two reasons why that should be done in early life. The first one is, that we can never tell just when we will be called to go. It might be while we are yet young in years and if the necessary preparation is made we will be ready when the call comes. The second reason is that when the heart is young and tender it is more easily touched, because sin has not hardened it as in the case of the mature person. And I might add just here that the longer one delays the important matter of hearing and believeing the gospel the more apt they are to procrastinate. This, in my opinion is caused by the mind being preoccupied with the things of life and also sin having worked its way into the very fibers of life in such a way that one hesitates to upset the whole order of life. In other words, satan has succeeded in lulling to sleep his victims and says to him, why try to change your life now? You are a very busy man just at this time, why not wait more favorable time when the affairs of life are not so pressing?

Men, you who are the fathers of grown children, let me urge upon you the great necessity of acting upon the spirit knocking at the door of your life and these impressions will come less often as you advance in years.

An old man stood up in one of my services and said, "If I had just listened to the promptings of the spirit years ago, I would be a Christian today. But it seems that I can't have the feeling now that came to me then. Three of his daughters with their husbands and granddaughter were members of my church and were present and heard his words. Some one has said that "Procrastination is the thief of time," and I might add, and of men's souls also. That old man walked over to me and extended his hand and said, "Young man, I want you to take me with you wherever you go." I took that man to mean that he wanted me to pray for him at all of my services. If he ever professed Christ I never learned of it. One of his daughters wrote to me of his death a few years later.

I close here, breathing a prayer for the procrastinator.—Elder Blossom.

JESUS SHOWS HIS POWER

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:35-5:20.

GOLDEN TEXT—For the which cause I also suffer these things: nevertheless I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day. II Timothy 1:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Stilling a Storm.

JUNIOR TOPIC—With Jesus on a Stormy Night.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Power of Jesus to Help.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of Jesus in the World Today.

I. Jesus Calms the Storm (4:35-41).

1. Crossing the sea (vv. 35, 36). Weary with the teaching of the day, Jesus proposed that they take a ship to the other side of the sea, doubtless to escape the crush of the multitude.

2. Overtaken by a storm (v. 37). Violent storms are of frequent occurrence on the Sea of Galilee. Even though Jesus was in the boat with the disciples they were overtaken by a storm. It is not God's will that we should escape the storms, but those who have Christ in their boat are safe in any storm.

3. Jesus asleep in the storm-tossed boat (v. 38).) In the midst of the turbulent elements he was resting in sleep. He who made the sea could well lie down and sleep, though the storm violently raged. The believer who has committed his life, his time and eternity to the will of God should be able to be at peace in the midst of all disturbances.

4. The terrified disciples (v. 38). In their minds disaster and death awaited them. They were not only terrified but chided Jesus for sleeping while all were in such great danger.

5. Christ's rebuke (vv. 39, 40).

a. To the wind (v. 39). The ceasing of the wind demonstrated his power over the elements of nature.

b. The disciples (v. 40). He rebuked them for their lack of faith.

6. The effect upon the disciples (v. 41). A little while ago they were afraid in the face of the storm; now they are afraid in the presence of the Lord.

II. Jesus Heals the Gadarene Demoniac (5:1-20).

Having calmed the storm-tossed sea, he now proceeds to calm the storm-tossed soul.

1. Met by a demon-possessed man (vv. 2-5). This man was in a desperate condition. He was so fierce that travelers could not safely pass that way. He wore no clothes (Luke 8:27). No chains were strong enough to hold him and no one was able to tame him. In the night time his hideous cries could be heard while he vented his rage by cutting himself with stones. Demon possession is common today. As the coming of the Lord draweth nigh these things will increase (I Tim. 4:1).

2. What the demon knew about Christ (vv. 5-9). He knew that Christ was the Son of God and that he had come to destroy the devil and his works. Among the demons there is no doubt as to Christ's deity and the coming judgment, facts which many theologians and preachers say they do not believe.

3. Christ's power to deliver from the devil (vv. 10-13). He cast out the demon from the man (v. 8). The demons quailed before Christ, not daring to dispute his power, and begged to be permitted to enter the swine. As soon as the Lord gave them permission, they entered the swine and hurled them to destruction. In this destruction of the swine is a rebuke to the Jews for indulging in a forbidden traffic.

4. The effect upon the people of the city (vv. 14-17). The keepers of the swine fled to the city and reported what had occurred. This miracle brought the people out, but when they realized their hogs had been destroyed they besought Christ to leave their coasts. This is indeed a sad picture.

5. The man who was healed was sent home to testify (vv. 18-20). No doubt it would have been safe and pleasant to abide with Jesus, but the man's friends needed his testimony. The best witness for Christ is one who has been saved by him. The best place to begin that testimony is at home where one is best known.

Fault-finding should be regarded as a fine art. For it is the necessary aid of every other art.

The reason why fault-finding is in such bad repute is because it is usually destructive rather than constructive.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

SAVING AUSTRIAN PEA SEED

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 21.—J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is emphasizing the importance of saving seed of Austrian peas as the largest crop of this legume ever planted in the state grows on to maturity.

Farmers in several counties have been successful in saving these seed, thereby reducing the cost of planting the soil building crop, Mr. Lowery said. Farmers who met with success averaged over 500 pounds per acre in 1931.

In suggesting that an acre be left for seed, Mr. Lowery stated that if seed production failed a complete loss is not sustained because the vines can be turned under and followed with corn or a hay crop.

SHELBY 4-H EGG YIELD GOOD

Columbiana, Ala., Feb. 21.—By following the instructions of county agent A. A. Lauderdale, Shelby County 4-H club boys and girls are achieving splendid results in poultry production.

Rex Payne of Aldrich is getting an average of 120 eggs a day from 170 pullets, Wilbert Anderson of Montevallo is getting an average of 80 eggs from 116 pullets, and Mary Lowe of Vincent is averaging 102 eggs from 132 pullets.

Mr. Lauderdale expects the demonstration conducted by club members to be a great stimulus to the poultry industry of the county, as they are serving as a means for both education and promotion.

TELLS HOW TO ADD TO FEED SUPPLIES

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 21.—To supplement feed crops, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, suggests the planting of spring oats. He said that though spring oats have not proved as successful as fall oats in Alabama, where feed supplies are running short they furnish an excellent source of feed.

"Fortunately most farmers have an ample supply of feed on hand," he added.

To those farmers who wish to fertilize fall oats now growing he recommends 100 pounds of nitrate of soda as a top dressing the first week in March. Though not enthusiastic about this application he quotes results of a 5 year test conducted by the Auburn Experiment Station showing that 100 pounds of nitrate of soda applied the first week in March has increased the yield an average of 10.8 bushels of oats per acre.

Another suggestion offered by Mr. Lowery was that farmers begin efforts to secure seed of soybeans which is excellent hay crop for all forms of livestock, including poultry. There is a large quantity of home-grown seed in Alabama, he said.

The Otootan variety of soybeans has been found the best for hay but the Laredo has proved a good producer on land infested with cotton wilt.

Other feed crops mentioned by Mr. Lowery include kudzu, sorghum, and lespedeza. The last of February and the first of March is the best time to set kudzu crowns. The agronomist recommended that crowns be set in checks 10 feet by 10 feet or closer if crowns are avaiable. He cautioned growers to avoid letting the crowns dry out in transplanting.

In planting lespedeza for hay, 25 pounds of seed per acre should be used and the planting done in late February or early in March he said, adding that seed should be covered lightly, if at all.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

Alabama ranks 47th in the gross farm income, the average of the state being $487, according to the latest figures available. California is first with $3,460, Mississippi last with $407.

In cotton production in 1932 Alabama was fifth among the Southern states, being exceeded by Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, and Oklahoma in the order named. Texas, as usual, produced about one-third of the total crop.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Milk cows should be fed liberally now on an ample supply of legume hay and silage. Feed concentrates in proportion to milk yield, one pound to each three pounds of milk is considered a fair ratio.

Many dairy cows may have trouble during February with cracked and chappet teats. Consult a good book on cattle remedies for the best methods of treatment.

The farm work stock are well groomed daily. This is a good time to try out the curry comb and brush on the milking herd. You will find that the cows like this beauty parlor treatment, and it will prove an aid in clean milk production.

There is ample time left in February and the month of March for improvements to the permanent pasture. If plans are not definitely made talk this matter over with the county agent today.

Shelby R. Barnes of Stanton was here Monday to serve on the grand jury. He was excused from service by the court for this term.

HARD AND SOFTWOODS ARE NOT GOOD NAMES

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 21. — The frequent classification of trees into hardwoods and softwoods is not very exact, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Early Amercian lumbermen adopted the name hardwoods for the broad-leaved species and designated the pines and other conifers as softwoods. This system has proved very unsatisfactory to lumber users, since it has been found that wood from a certain broad-leaved trees is really softer and lighter than that from some of the so-called softwoods.

Balsa, which has the lightest wood known to commerce, is a broadleaved tree, and under the old system of classification is known as a hardwood. Its wood weighs but from seven and one-half pounds to twelve pounds per cubic foot. On the other hand, the Yew, which is a conifer and consequently known as a softwood, furnishes very hard and tough wood weighing approximately thirty-seven pounds to the cubic foot. In view of such inconsistencies the growing tendency in the timber industry is to designate each species by a suitable trade name and to discontinue the use of such broad classifications as hardwoods and softwoods.

ALABAMA FARMERS ARE INCREASING LIVESTOCK

Alabama farmers have more mules, cattle, milk cows, hogs and sheep and lambs than they had a year ago, reports F. W. Gist, statistician of the state and federal department of agriculture, who says that the number of all live animals increased except horses.

Despite the increase in the number, the total value of all animals on the farm January 1, 1933 was $38,214,000 compared with a total value of $40,542,000 a year ago, or a loss in aggregate value of $2,328,000, Gist said.

"The general increase in farm animals for meat and milk purposes reflects the tendency toward the production of livestock for home consumption rather than any effort toward entending the industry for commedical purposes, although it is believed that further analysis will show some increase for the latter purpose, he said.

Mr. Gist reports the following number of livestock animals on farms and the increase over last year with the per cent of increase. Mules, 322,000, a 3,000 or a one per cent increase; all cattle 875,000, 65,000, or 8 per cent increase; milk cows, 413,000, a 23,000 or 6 per cent increase; hogs, 1,053,000, a 96,000 or 10 per cent increase and sheep and lambs, 52,000 a 2,000 or 4 per cent increase. The report shows 55,000 horses which is a 3,000 or 5 per cent decrease of last year.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q. What is the benefit of bare fallowing the ground before planting spring crops?

A. The bare fallow is produced by plowing the ground three to six weeks before planting is to take place. During this time the ground should be harrowed two or three times, say one or two weeks apart. This warms the soil by letting in warm spring air, causing the crops to start more promptly. Free water is caused to percolate downward and be out of the way of the growing crops. Cutworms and other insects are starved for want of green feed to eat. Weed seeds are caused to sprout, are killed, and thus are out of the way for the whole season. Every harrowing of the soil makes the seed better.

Q. Are fresh sterile eggs better for human consumption than stored and feritle eggs?

A. Sterile or non-fertile eggs are better than those fertilized by the male birds in the farmyard, because they contain no germs which will develop into embryo chicks in case the eggs are left in a warm condition for twelve or more hours. Two or three days of chick development may ruin the eggs entirely for use as food. Fresh eggs are better than stored eggs, because there is less formation of sulphur gases which develop in the eggs or in the intestinal tract of the user of the eggs. The whites of fresh eggs beat better and make better cakes than the whites of stored eggs. The yolks of the eggs are less likely to break when the eggs are opened if the eggs are very fresh. The nauseating gases formed from stored eggs are often very noticeable to persons familiar with the use of fresh eggs.

Central Singing Society

The Central Singing Society met at Refuge last Sunday afternoon. There was a rather fair crowd present, and the singing would have been very good had there been a sufficiency of books. Services were called to order by the chairman, O. L. Devaughn, and prayer was offered by the chaplain, R. M. Robinson. Following is a list of the directors: Marion Easterling, J. W. Clackler, Emmett Wilson, C. H. Robinson, Gerthie Easterling, Rev. M. Lockhart, Calvin Robinson, Jasper Jones. Pianists were: C. H. Robinson, Marion Easterling, Delene Robinson. The closing song was sung by the chairman and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. M. Lockhart.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Although the public naturally knows little about it, there can be no doubt that the preliminary negotiations for the readjustment of the allied war debts to the United States are being put under way. Whether a satisfactory agreement can be reached, one which will be approved by Congress, remains to be seen. We are now only in the preliminary stages of the negotiations and doubtless a great many stories will be heard on the subject in the next few days, a great many of which will not prove to be founded on fact.

The preliminary "feeling out" process got off to a bad start owing to a blunt statement of Mr. Chamberlain, the British Councellor of the Exchequer, to the effect that there was nothing to barter about. He took the unusual stand that cancellation would be as much to the advantage of the creditor as of the debtor. This might be true so far as other nations are concerned but the American people will have to be shown. When Smith owes Brown a hundred dollars and tries to convince Brown that it is as much to his advantage as it is to Smith's to cancel the debt, there is apt to be some difficulty.

Mr. Chamberlain intimated strongly that it was therefore up to Uncle Sam to make the sacrifice, as Great Britain had nothing to offer in the way of a promise to return to the gold standard or any trade agreements for debt cancellation. The effect of the British stateman's remarks on public opinion in the United States was such that it nullified a great deal of the good feeling toward Great Britain which had been engendered by the British debt payment last December. The British, evidently, were too quick to see the mistake in Mr. Chamberlain's psychology. As a result, the old method of covering up a mistake was resorted to, and we were told that Mr. Chamebrlain's remarks were not to be taken seriously in the United States, that they were for home consumption only, calculated to applease the soverign voters of Great Britain. But at the same time the lid was clamped on explosive utterances in Great Britain and since then, so far as debt criticism is concerned, John Bull has maintained an attitude of golden silence. The statement made by Mr. Snowden, it will be noted, was a great deal more conciliatory than that of Mr. Chamberlain.

Next came the report that Great Britain was going to offer us a "lump sum" payment representing about ten per cent of the present size of the debt. This ninety per cent reduction would about equal the reduction given Germany in the matter of reparations and would help bring Uncle Sam's paying for the war, an idea which is decidedly popular in Europe. Later it is said that this lump sum might be raised to seventeen per cent of the total but that it would represent a payment from all the allies, not from Great Britain alone.

Evidently these reports are something in the nature of diplomatic "feelers." The real poker playing will come later. The new administration, following the custom of previous debt conferences, has expressed the determination of dealing with each debtor separately. The debtor nations of course want to deal with us en bloc so that they can put the entire odium for any possible failure to adjust the European debt question solely on the shoulders of Uncle Sam.

A lot of water will go over the wheel before the debt question is finally adjusted. All sorts of proposals will be made and withdrawn, and the stock markets of the world probably will go up and down, with the conference, either naturally or otherwise. But it is not to be forgotten that after all Congress has the last word, and it is not going to be an easy one, unless there is a decided change of sentiment on Capitol Hill during the next few months.

A man who bit a worm in a plug of chewing tobacco has won a judgment for $800 damages. Evidently the worm wasn't represented in the case.

Europe is willing to clear off her war debts to the United States at the rate of 10 cents on the dollar. And we bet before the negotiations are finished she'll want us to take that out in immigrants, charging us by the pound.

Although Franklin Delano Roosevelt garnered a record vote on his promise to give us beer by Christmas, it is dawning on some of us that he didn't specify which Christmas.

It is said that members of the senate consumed 500 aspirin tablets at the expense of the taxpayers during the past year. But just think how many aspirin tablets the taxpayers had to consume because of the senate.

The More the Merrier

A very high church missionary—a good and devoted soul—was sent out to the Adirondacks, where most of the people had grown up Baptists. An old man of that persuasion died, and his family wanted him buried from the church. The missionary, uncertain whether he might use the churrh for an unconfirmed sectarian, telegraphed to the bishop, asking what he should do. Back came the cordial answer: "Bury all the Baptists possible."

AN ARROGNANT ATTITUDE

The idea, promulgated by Mr. Chamberlain, the British chancellor of the exchequer, that the European nations intend to bring about a reduction—a cancellation—of a great part of these debts without giving anything in return, may be popular on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, but it will strike no chord of sympathy here. France, by her default of the December payment due the United States, has indicated her position on debts in a way that is quite easy to understand. More recent expressions of opinion in Paris are indicative that the French may take the same view of the debts owed this country as that apparently taken by Mr. Chamberlain.

The arogance of the attitude of the foreign nations, their assumption of the right to dictate terms to the United States in regard to these debts, is a new if not pleasing wrinkle in the age-old controversies between debtors and creditors. These debtors undertake to arrogate to themselves the authority and the moral right to say to this country just what they are going to do about the debts, no matter what the United States may desire. The money loaned to these foreign countries by the United States was not forced upon them by this country. It was granted at a time when these nations were glad enough to get it. Furthermore, contrary to the idea which has been propagated so widely abroad, many of these loans were made after the World War had ended.

If the foreign debts are to be cancelled by the debtor nations it is quite clear that the taxpayers of the United States will foot the bill. By the so-called Lausanne agreement the foreign nations have virtually written of the reparations demanded of Germany. It must be well understood, however, that the United States did not share in those German reparations. Nor did the United States acquire huge tracts of territory in Africa and elsewhere, possessions of the former German empire, as did the allied nations of Europe at the close of the war and under the terms of the treaty of Versailles. For years the foreign debtor nations have undertaken to link their debts to the United States with the German payments to themselves. There is not the slightest justification for such a course.—Washington D. C. Star.

FRENCH TOURIST INDUSTRY SLACKENS

One of the principal industries of France which has suffered a decided slump during the past year has been the tourist trade. Less than a million alien visitors went to France during the year 1932, according to official reports, and the number was nearly 600,000 less than the year before. The biggest drop of tourists to France was from Great Britain, which nation sent about 350,000 fewer visitors across the channel in 1932 than in 1931.

No doubt one of the principal reasons for the falling off of the British tourists was the "buy British" campaign which has been waged relentlessly all over the tight little island for about two years. The British people are not only advised to buy British made goods, but are being told to do their traveling inside the British Empire and so keep their money at home. This campaign, coupled with the tightness of money due to hard times has brought about a great falling off in the number of British going to France.

But this is only part of the story. Americans going to France last year numbered 143,000, a decline of 62,000. There has been a steady decline in the number of American tourists going to Europe ever since the stock market debacle of 1929. The "buy American" campaign is just now getting well under way, and the chances are that there will be an even greater decline in the number of American tourists going abroad during the present year.

Now the American tourist has always been welcomed in Paris, for financial if not sentimental reasons. He has spent his money freely and the money he has left there has helped to take care of the unfavorable trade balance which France has with the United States.

It is likely now, however, that the ebbing tide of tourists to France may be accelerated by the fact that the repudiation of the December installment on the debt owed to America has not calculated to increase French prestige in the United States. European governments, especially Great Britain and France, seem to have assumed the attitude that there is no room for argument on the debt question, that Uncle Sam will have to cancel and there is nothing he can do about it. Well the American tourist trade is one thing to be taken into consideration. Already there is talk around Washington to the effect that a prohibitive fee should be charged by our government for passports to defaulting nations. It is easy to see where France might lose more than the annual debt installments by cancellation.

An Atchison minister politely informs the Atchison Globe that he likes short editorials. And the Globe, not to be outdone, informs the minister with equal politeness that it admires short sermons.—Kansas City Star.

When John Bull sends his war debt commissioners over here, they will be expected to come back with Uncle Sam's coat and shirt. If they don't, they will all be made Lame Ducks in short order.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

"Running Against The Red"

When a locomotive engineer rounds a corner with his train, no matter how far behind time he may be, if the board shows red, he stops. He knows that the red light is there to show him that danger awaits farther down the line than he can see, if he does not heed it. One part of the government of this country may be likened to the locomotive. Such occurrences as that which happened a few days ago in Miami, Florida, when the fanatic, Zangara, took five shots at the President-elect, Mr. Roosevelt, shows us that we are "running against the red." That event is just another strong reminder of the proportion to which Communism has grown in this country. Zangara's first words, after he was overpowered and arrested were: "I am sorry I missed Roosevelt. He was the one I wanted to get. My mission is to kill all rulers—presidents and kings." Communism's first aim, as expressed by it's leaders, is the destruction of organized government, and rulers are a sign of organized government; hence their desire to do away with them. One of the main contentions of the Democrats has been, in the past, that it is better to lower the immigration walls of our for the life of Roosevelt will change their great nation. But let's hope that the trial ideas along this line, inasmuch as the greater part of these Communists, "reds", or whatever you may care to call anarchists, are foreigners, and to lower the immigration walls is but to invite more of this kind of human rubbish into the country. To ignore this dangerous situation is much like ignoring a snake in one's path. If we continue on our way, taking no notice of such warning may result in governmental death and destruction. Much better to take full cognizance of the danger, use precaution, and proceed to stamp out the danger while it is no greater than it is. It is dangerous to "run against the red."

Good Business

Those in charge of our county's affairs during the last few years have received much unwarranted censure for their action in setting aside every year a certain amount to be placed in a sinking fund with which to buy outstanding county warrants (interest-bearing) any time and anywhere they might be found. The wisdom of this action was evidenced a few days ago. The Commissioners Court was offered $6,000 of the five per cent bonds, due to mature in 1947. They were offered for redemption for 98 per cent of their face value. Needless to say, the Court lost no time in taking the necessary action to redeem them. If these bonds had been allowed to run to maturity, in the long run, they would have cost the county, principal ($6,000) and interest for the remaining 14 years ($4,200) which would have totaled $10,200. By buying them in for $5,880 the county was saved a sum of $4,320 in cash. Not such bad business management, after all.

They're At It Again

Down in South America they're at it once more—the old war game. Those people certainly like to fight. This time, though, the scrap happens to be between Colombia and Peru, two of the "little fellows," so to speak. Well, as long as it can be held down to these two, not much damage can be done. But let's hope that none of the "big boys" decide to take a hand in it. It's just like any other kind of scrap. If two small boys decide to swap punches, it isn't so bad; but if their "big brothers" decide to take a hand, it could keep on growing until it might get to be a free-for-all grand dog fight, and that COULD be bad. Maybe they haven't forgotten 1914-1918 and the World War yet, though. Let's hope they haven't anyway.

Page the Scripture Searchers

There seems to be a growing desire to "search the Scriptures" for purposes of argument. If you like to "search," here's a little problem you might solve while you're about it. If you care to try your hand at the solution, I would be glad to have you let me have your answer—I'd like to have several take a hand, too. Here's the problem—work it: Methuselah's age, less Moses' age, divided by the time Jonah was in the belly of the fish, less the number of priests sounding trumpets at the dedication of Solomon's temple, less the number of people in Noah's ark, divided by the number of stones in David's scrip, plus the number of days Christ was in the wilderness tempted by the devil, less the time required for Jonah's shade gourd to grow, divided by the number of virgins who went out to meet the bridegroom. What's the answer?

An Itemized Account

Here's a clipping to tickle your ribs: An artist was employed to retouch a large painting in an old church in Belgium, and rendered a bill for $67.30. The church trustees, however, required an itemized bill, and the following was duly presented, audited, and paid: Correcting the Ten Commandments—$5.12; Renewing Heaven, adjusting stars—$7.14; Touching up purgatory and restoring lost souls—$3.06; Brightening up the flames of hell, putting new tail on the devil, and doing several odd jobs for the damned—$7.17; Putting new stone in David's sling, enlarging the head of Goliath—$6.13; Mending the shirt of the Prodigal Son and cleaning his ears—$3.39; Embellishing Pontius Pilate, and putting new ribbon on his breast—$3.02; Putting new tail on the rooster of St. Peter and mending his comb — $2.20; Replumbing and regilding left wing of the Guardian Angel—$5.18; Washing the servant of the High Priest and putting carmine on his cheeks—$5.02; Taking the spots off the son of Tobias—$10.30; Putting earrings in Sarah's ears—$5.26; Decorating Noah's Ark and putting a head on Shem—$4.31; total, $67.30. How was that for an itemized bill?

Pass The Dollars, Please

At Blair, Nebraska, in an effort to find out how frequently money changes hands, a newspaper recently sent out a $1.00 bill with a slip attached, asking all who came into possession of it to endorse it, and asking that it be sent back to the paper after a certain number of days. In a week it came back with 21 endorsements, including those of a hardware store, clothing store, two drug stores, confectionery, restaurant, a building and loan company, the telephone company, three groceries and a barber shop. Not bad for one little measley dollar, eh? While I'm thinking about that, I believe I'll try it out, right here in Clanton. I'll tell you about it later—just how many signatures I get on one sent out in like manner. Watch for it—you might get a crack at it. And—so long, until next week.—Man in the Moon.

THE MANDATE OF JAPAN

The threatened withdrawal from the League of Nations by Japan will serve to explode another Word War fable, if it comes to pass. It will be remembered that at the close of the war, and under the Versailles treaty, the allied nations divided the various territorial possessions won from Germany by a series of mandates. The allies were still committed to the idea that they had waged the war solely for the high and mighty purpose of saving the world for democracy. So often did they repeat this slogan that they may finally have come to believe it themselves.

At any rate, having waged the war so "unselfishly" they did not regard it as fitting that they should gobble up this territory under the time-honored Jacksonian slogan that "to the victor belongs the spoils." So the system of mandates, throught the League of Nations was cooked up. By this system the nations receiving German territory did not get it in fee simple, so to speak, but took the territory as a mandate to be governed solely in the "interest of humanity"—not for selfish profit. Generous impulses around Versailles got so thick that even Uncle Sam was offered a mandate—one to Armenia, doubtless on the theory that it was full of potential trouble and barren o fprofitable exploitation. Fortunately, the United States Senate was too wise to fall into the trap and a lot of trouble was avoided.

Japan got a mandate from the League to rule some of the German islands in the Pacific. But now it develops that if Japan leaves the League she may refuse to give up the mandate on these islands. Evidently the Japs possessed a sense of humor during the Versailles deliberations of mandates, and have not yet lost it.

But if Japan withdraws from the League and refuses to return the mandated islands to the league, then what will happen? Will the League insist that the islands be returned, or will it ignore the whole matter and still further lower its prestige in world affairs? The answer is easy. The League will do whatever Great Britain and France want to do.

IMPROVING OUR IMMIGRATION LAWS

"Improving Our Immigration" is the title of an interesting article in the current issue of the National Republic, in which Mr. Robe Carl White, the Assistant Secretary of Labor, discusses in a convincing way the record of his department during the past twelve years in better controlling the tides of immigration. Mr. White also gives some suggestions for a further improvement of our immigration laws. In part, he says:

"I feel that under the basic laws we have solved the problems relating to arriving immigrants. Under the 1924 law the approximate number of European aliens permitted to come in yearly is 153,714. This is not a large number, especially when you take into consideration the departures each year. In fact, under this law our immgration problem has changed from one of receiving aliens to one of deportation. Ellis Island is no longer solely a receiving station for arriving aliens but is mainly a detention station for those in process of deportation.

"The defect in the law, if any, is probably the failure to limit the number who may come in from countries of the western hemisphere. If it is advisable to control immigration from the western hemisphere and further reduce the number coming from European countries, it could be done by further reducing the present quota from quota countries of the western hemisphere to a percentage of arrivals in any one year. It it is deemd wise to permit the present law to stand, then the number coming in can be still further limited by rules and regulations. To illustrate, following the 1929 stock market crash and the start of our depression that threw millions of our people out of employment, President Hoover ordered the State Department to refuse visas to applicants who were coming here for the purpose of working or to seek work. The State Department issued regulations along this line to its consuls, who have the right to issue or refuse visas. Under these new regulations immigration from foreign countries, including countries of the western hemisphere, have dropped to almost the disappearing point. The president, in a message to congress, called attention to these regulations and suggested that they be perpetuated in the form of a law. This as yet has not been done.

"My own thought is that some kind of limitation should be placed upon countries of the western hemisphere. As I suggested, this does not necessarily mean placing a quota upon these countries. This, for various reasseems feasible to me to limit the number persons, may not be advisable, but at least it mitted to come in from these countris, as well as European countries. As just stated, I believe we have now solved our immigration problems and now have control of the same. It is true we still have powerful forces in this country that desire to break down our present policy. These forces will continue active, and unless constant vigilance is exercised by a sniping process or by the use of the force of propaganda, the present policy will be undermined and destroyed. I am speaking now of the arriving immigrants. We still have a very serious problem that is not yet solved and that is the deportation of the undesirable alien in our midst. It is true the immigration service can go on (provided they are furnished money) in the work of deporting aliens, and no doubt show a larger number deported each year. However, at best this is only scratching the surface and does not solve the problem.

"For years I have been convinced that the only way in which we can finally rid our country of the undesirable aliens in our midst is by enactment of some kind of a registration law. I realize there is strong opposition to the enactment of such a law. I am free to say I never could understand the position taken by the opponents of this measure. It may be that some other method would accomplish the same result. If so I am perfectly willing to accept it. But up to date no one has proposed or suggested any other method that would accomplish the results. The present method used by immigration officers in locating the undesirable alien is far from satisfactory, and so long as aliens in our midst are not in possession of any paper or document showing their right to be in the United States it is impossible for the officers to locate and take them into custody without making mistakes, which invariably brings criticism and dissatisfaction."

A reader in a letter to the Washington News suggests that European nations pay us what they owe us by turning over to us some of their magnificient buildings. We refuse to take the Leaning Tower of Pisa. It's damaged.

Now the girls are beginning to smoke pipes. We presume next they will take up cigars and chewing tobacco. But we dare them to start raising mustaches.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Political and official circles of Chilton County have been in a state of turmoil during the past few weeks, precipitated by the action of the Commissioners Court in hiring and firing county employees and otherwise rearranging the business of the county.

While parties directly interested have been busy at the old wirepulling game, Mr. Average Citizen has stood at a safe distance and enjoyed the reverberant popping of many political firecrackers.

Politics, always a fertile field for rumors, has run true to tradition in these few weeks. Dissatisfaction has been freely and more or less violently expressed by many who did not get the turning of tricks to their liking. Others express delight at the "new deal" which has been handed out.

The road business has come in for much cussing and discussing. Charges are being made that the Commissioners Court has employed too many kinsfolk on the roads. Some have pointed out that overseers have been placed in charge of roads in other beats than where they live.

The "bogy man" called illegal tenure of office has crept up again to haunt certain officials who stand in the line of attack. It has been asserted freely that certain county officials are illegally holding office because they failed to comply with the law concerning matters in their campaigns for election last fall.

That the Commissioners Court is engaged in a wholesale effort to pay political debts of the members is being charged by many.

And to cap the whole disturbance, the ancient desire to have the legislature abolish the Commissioners Court of Chilton County has been dug out of the political closet again. Some declare that a bill for this purpose has been prepared and is ready to be advertised for passage in the present special session of the legislature. Hopes of political opponents of the county administration are running high with prospects of having the Commissioners Court abolished.

One may hear in the current discussions many charges being offered as evidence to place before the legislature to convince them that the best interests of Chilton County would be served by having the Commissioners Court abolished, and a Board of Revenue appointed by the governor.

Yes, sir. We have a plenty of politics in Chilton County. It is politics for breakfast, dinner, and supper. Politics between meals, and politics all the time. Politics to haunt us in our sleep. I am sure it will be universally agreed that he was entirely correct who said "Politics makes strange bedfellows."

THINGS LEARNED IN 1932

That trying to keep pace with the Joneses isn't essential to happiness.

That a man may be broke and yet be intelligent and a gentleman. That the largest fortunes can collapse very easily. That even our best minds are not so awfully profound. That the deflation of our conceit has been considerable. That no one of us is so terribly important. That we are all very dependent upon each other for our welfare.

And yet that these things learned make us more fit for the New Year ahead of us and more deserving of the ultimate return of true American standards of living.—Daniel Rand.

A little girl attending an Episcopal church for the first time, was amazed to see all kneel suddenly. She asked her mother what they were going to do. Her mother replied, "Hush, they're going to say their prayers."

"What, with all their clothes on?"

THE BE-DEVILED DEMOCRAT

A caustic description of the situation at Washington which may help to arouse the Democratic leaders to a realization of its dangers, and to a renewed effort to fashion a balanced financial program, for adoption after March 4 if not before, has been printed by Frnak R. Kent, veteran political writer in the independent Baltimore Sun. His record over many years as a frequent defender of Democratic figures and causes adds to the sharpness of his present attack. Mr. Kent writes:

"It is now frankly admitted that no tax bill at all will be passed at this session, no effort made to bring the government finances into approximate balance. This, in effect, is the gist of the last Democratic declaration. It ends all pretense of a Democratic program, throws into the discard the public pledges jointly made by Democratic senators in December, and makes a complete joke of the Democratic conference with president-elect Roosevelt, after which a program for balancing the budget was proclaimed. This program is now officially scuttled by the very men who proposed it."

The Democratic party, which dominates this congress, is now left with no legislative plans whatever, with no sense of direction, and no pretense of order. They have rejected the sales tax. They refuse to touch—or even talk about—the veterans' compensation load. They have blocked the proposed consolidation and mergers of bureaus until 'we can do it ourselves.' They have deserted their own increase income tax suggestions. They are reduced to whining about their faults, flaws and failings of Mr. Hoover, and promising to make 'great economies' in the appropriation bills, knowing full well that the bulk of these are paper economies, and that next December a deficiency appropriation bill will restore most of the cuts."

With all the adroitness in the world a president-elect cannot exert the same influence over congress that he may exert after being established in the white house and becoming the actual rather than the potential head of the government. Yet it is obvious that the situation which has developed in Washington constitutes a new and graver challenge to Franklin D. Roosevelt's powers of leadership.—Springfield Republican.

A fellow dialed his home telephone number.

"Hello," he said, "Is that Mrs. Brown?"

"Yes."

"This is Jack speaking. I say, dear, will it be all right if I bring home a couple of fellows to dinner?"

"Certainly, darling."

"Did you hear what I said?"

"Yes, you asked if you could bring home a couple of fellows to dinner. Of course you can, dear."

"Sorry, madam," said the fellow as he hung up, "I've got the wrong Mrs. Brown."

Add optimists: the would be saloon keepers of Milwaukee who have already organized to fight high liquor licenses.

PATES CHAPEL

Misses Ruby Maddox and Maude Wallis were Thursday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Maddox of Pleasant Grove, and attended prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. Roxie Price.

A delightful party was enjoyed by a crowd of young people Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wess Gletty. Those who were present are as follows: Misses Lorene Cleckler, Mildred Hayes, Lida McCary, Ruby Maddox, Janie Hubbard, Maude Wallis, Gail Gletty and Messrs. Erastus and Eugene Cleckler, Lee and Pink Hayes, Ernie and Lee Childress, Eve Dawson, Milton Hubbard, Grady Scott, Henry Ray, Oscar Pate, Esco Pitchford, Herman Freeman, Ervin Pate, James Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion, Mr. and Mrs. Wess Gletty. A nice time was reported by all.

Among those that attended the W. M. U. meeting at Pleasant Grove are as follows: Mrs. E. J. Hayes, Mrs. Archie Cleckler, Mrs. Marvin Champion, Mrs. Chester Maddox, Mrs. Walter Maddox and Misses Lucille and Lorene Cleckler, and Mildred Hayes. A good time was reported by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and Misses Ruby and Maude Wallis visited Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Manning of Thorsby Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes and little girl, Mary Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion and two little sons, Alfred and Albert, spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox.

Mr. Cecil Each of Birmingham spent Saturday night with Mr. Alex Maddox and son, S. E., and they attended a movie in Clanton Saturday night.

Among those that were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Maddox and son and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Rascoe Maddox of Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and children, Rubye and Roscoe, and J. V. Blow and Maude Wallis.

The singing at Pates Chapel was splendid. We were very glad to have all our visitors. We invite them all back. We enjoyed the Pleasant Grove visitors. Come again some time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Maddox visited relatives in this community Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Mims of Liberty Hill community were visitors in this community Sunday.

Misses Mildred Hayes and Lorene Cleckler were Saturday night guests of Miss Martha Hayes.

Mr. Esco Pitchford is visiting his home in Birmingham this week end.

Miss Clara Smith of Thorsby visited relatives in this community Sunday, and attended the singing at the church Sunday afternoon.

REFUGE NEWS

Just a few words in regard to this place. We had a good crowd at Sunday School Sunday. We are expecting a larger crowd next Sunday.

The singing society met at this place Sunday with a good number present and the singing was fine. We were glad to have our visitors from other churches and we extend to them a hearty welcome and invite them back to see us again.

Every body don't forget next Sunday is our regular preaching day. We want to announce again that we are still looking forward to having our deacon meeting on Saturday, February 25, and gladly welcome all who wish to attend. Our Pastor Rev. M. Lockhart will deliver the message and I am sure he has something worth while in store for us. So let's every body come and hear the message.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all for their kindness shown towards us during the sickness and death of our loving father, John L. Culp, Mrs. Irene Popwell, Mr. Jack Bullard, Mr. A. C. McMinn, Mrs. Will Edwards, Dr. Hayes, and a host of others for lending a hand of kindness. May God bless you all.—Ida Bell Fulmer.

J. C. EDWARDS WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Pupils in the school of Christ are a good deal like the little girl that had her first day of public instruction. She came home and her mother said to her, "Well, dariing, what did you learn?" The child made answer "Not much, I've got to go again."

And now isn't that the way it is with all of us. When we get so we think we know something, we have to learn it all over and every time we learn it we have to take out some thing and put in something to keep our knowledge up to date. The one that knew it all in 1918 is a sorry looking object today and of about as much use to the Lord as a last year's watermelon.

The above is a clipping in Golden Age.—J. C. Edwards.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mr. Proctor Nix, of Birmingham, came down here and went rabbit hunting last Wednesday.

Miss Willie Mae Childress, of Mars Hill, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Childress and family last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley, Messrs. Will Clements and Briggs Hodgens all attended the Educational Rally at Clanton last Wednesday.

Miss Laura Adair delightfully entertained a number of friends with a Valentine social last Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley had as their guests last Friday evening Mrs. Miskelley's brother, Mr. E. E. Bellenger, of Blount County. Mr. and Mrs. Miskelley went home with Mr. Bellenger and spent the week end with relatives at Cleveland and Locust Fork.

Our S. S. and B. Y. P. U. are progressing nicely. Group II will have charge of the B. Y. P. U. next Sunday night. The Junior B. Y. P. U. program will be rendered by members of Groups I and II.

Next Saturday night, immediately after prayer meeting, the regular monthly business meeting of the church will be held at the churchhouse.

The cottage prayer meeting this week will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Franklin.

Miss Leacy Newell, the home economics teacher of Jemison, is teaching a sewing school here. All the ladies of the community are cordially invited to attend.

FRIENDSHIP SEWING CLUB

The ladies of the Cedar Grove community met at the home of Mrs. F. E. Mastin on the afternoon of February 15th and organized a sewing club, and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Aline Smith; first vice president, Mrs. Gracie Littleton; second vice president, Miss Gertrude Jones; third vice president, Mrs. Neacie Mims, secretary, Mrs. Estelle Melton.

The club held their second meeting Tuesday afternoon, February 21 at the home of the president, Mr. Alvie Smith. The afternoon was enjoyed by all present. The members were increased to twenty. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith.

The purpose of the club is for the ladies of the community to get together more and exchange ideas as well as for enjoyment. A cordial invitation awaits all the other ladies of Cedar Grove community to join the club. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Naeomi Pate on Tuesday afternoon, February 28th.—Mrs. Estelle Mastin, Secretary.

MAPLESVILLE CLUB ORGANIZED

New officers of the Maplesville 4-H Club are announced as follows:

H. M. Nix, Jr., president; Charles Parnell, vice president; Jim Boykin, secretary and treasurer.

These boys were at the office of County Agent, Stapp, this week getting supplies, literature, etc., preparatory to launching their work on a big scale for the coming year.

Maplesville boys are very enthusiastic over their prospects of the future, even going so far as to venture that they will wine Kiwanis cup for efficiency and accomplishment in 1933.

THINGS TO BE CONSIDERED

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you let me have space in your valuable paper, as it has been some time since I have written any?

I am going to write concerning our relief plans, as we have some things to be considered. Now, Mr. Editor, we see as we have tried the system it has been run for some time, and it doesn't get our suffering any relief; only just while it is lasting. It is not anything more than giving a dose of morphine. Now, we don't want to make dope-eaters; so, let's change our system again. Try it. Let's take this government stuff and put these boys that's out of jobs—put them to the plow, and let them make some bread while they eat and wear this.

Let's turn to the Bible—turn to Exo. 18-17—try Jethroes plan, Moses's father-in-law. It seems that he had some trouble concerning some conditions, and he tried it and they came out conquerous.

Now, Jethroe said to Moses: "Moreover, thou shalt provide out of all the people, able men such as fear God men of truth, hating covetousness, and place such over them to be rulers of thousands and rulers of hundreds and rulers of fifties and rulers of tens, and let them judge the people at all seasons, and it shall be that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, and every small matter they shall judge. So shall it be easier for thy self and they shall bear the burden with thee."

Now, boys, if we get our $50,000 loan, let's see that it is equalled out and given everybody equal share, and let's be one and equal. Do unto others as you would that they do unto you. I will close by thanking the editor for same.—C. J. Moates.

HIGHLAND NOTES

We had a very large crowd at Sunday School Sunday. Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everybody is invited to attend.

Messrs. Greeley Powell, Hughie Carnell and Misses Lucille Powell and Blanch Culver took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Sunday.

Misses Virginia, Lamurel Littlejohn and little Willie Nell Burnett spent the week end with their grandmother, Mrs. Jasper Giles, of Clanton.

Miss Rosie Lee Harris of Mt. Pleasant spent the week end with Miss Virginia Eubanks.

Mr. Haron Thornton, of Coopers, spent Saturday night with Mr. Herman Littlejohn.

Mr. Tom Gibson, of Texas, and Jack Coleman, of Birmingham, called to see Misses Lamurel and Virginia Littlejohn Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Philmore Lockhart has been on the sick list. We hope her a very speedily recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Littlejohn and sons, Clyde and S. J., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Littlejohn.

DR. LAWRENCE IN NEW ORLEANS

Dr. C. O. Lawrence is in New Orleans doing special clinic work in the eye, ear, nose and throat hospital.

He writes requesting the announcement made that he will be located in the offices formerly occupied by Dr. Wood, over Upchurch Drug Store, after March 5th.

Since the announcement last week that Dr. Lawrence will come to Clanton to practice medicine, he has received very hearty and cordial encouragement from his many friends in this vicinity.

As quick as he gets back from New Orleans, Dr. Lawrence will make arrangements for moving his family to Clanton.

HARMONY FOUR GETS KIWANIANS GLAD HAND

One of the most entertaining programs given at the Kiwanis Club meetings of Clanton was presented on last Thursday night at the regular club meeting. This program was put on by the well known "Harmony Four" radio entertainers of Calera.

Composing this quartette are R. B. Dodge, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Leon Busby, W. B. Ousley, with Mrs. R. B. Dodge at the piano. They rendered several vocal numbers.

A rousing welcome was given Dr. Lawrence by the club, on his moving to Clanton to make his home and open his practice.

ODD --- BUT TRUE

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Health is very good in our community at present, and hope it will remain, but we are sure having bad weather.

Our Sunday school increased some last Sunday. We hope they will keep coming back and bring someone with you. We have changed our Sunday school hours. We have changed it to the afternoon, at 2 o'clock. We were vary sorry that some were mistaken last Sunday afternoon and came to Sunday school. We just changed our hours last Sunday morning. Those who were at the church come back next Sunday afternoon and bring someone with you. We invite Cane Creek and Pinedale folks to come to our Sunday school, and help us out. We changed hours on account of these church's hours. So everybody come with a well-studied lesson next Sunday afternoon, and be on time. Be sure and don't forget Sunday school at Cane Creek, Mt. Springs and Pinedale, and everybody go and help each other out, and we will all have a good Sunday School.

APOSTOLIC AUTHORITY

(Selected by R. L. Huffman)

"God Almighty, in his infinite wisdom embalmed the vegetable, the animal, and the spiritual kingdoms in the seed. To destroy the vegetable kingdom, it would not only be necessary to destroy every herb from the face of the earth, but also the life-germinating principle in every seed on earth, because as long as the seed is preserved the kingdom can be reproduced. The one unchangable and unalterable law God gave in the beginning to govern these kingdoms is that every seed shall produce after its kind. The great wizard, the late Luther Burbank himself, while making wonderful improvements in the plant creation, could not change the species. Let us learn from this not to try to change those laws that owe their origin to divine authority, whether in the kingdom of nature or in the kingdom of grace. The efforts can only result in our eternal shame.

The man that plants the seed, tills the crop, prays God to bless his labors, and waits for the harvest, is the man who believes in prayer and recognizes the power of God. To pray God to cause the grain and the fruit to grow without seed, because he did it in the beginning, would be to ignore God's power and laws, and such prayers could only be an abomination to God. Now, study the explanation Jesus gave of the parable of the sower in Luke 8:11:15.

There is a striking analogy between the reproduction of the vegetable kingdom and the kingdom of grace. Both are perpetuated and reproduced from the seed. If the word of God is the seed of the kingdom, there can be no fruit in the spiritual kingdom without the word. Therefore, the preacher who preaches God's word faithfully, and prays God to bless his labors, recognizes the power of God and believes in prayer. The preacher who prays God to save sinners without obedience to his word ignores the power of God to save sinners—the gospel—and such prayers can only be an abomination to God. "He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination." (Prov. 28:9.)"

God does not pour His kingdom out of heaven with a sudden burst into the hearts of people. The kingdom must be produced in our hearts by the message of God's word, the seed. It is a process of growth. We must study God's word and obey its commands. We had just as well look for bales of cotton, cribs of corn, lots of cows, pastures of hogs, and dozens of mules to fall out of heaven full grown, as to look for the kingdom of heaven to fall out of heaven into our hearts.—R. H. Huffman.

MONTGOMERY

GAME AND FISHERIES

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 21.—Warden A. R. Burleson of Fayette, who keeps an eagle eye on game law violators in Fayette and Lamar Counties, has reported the capture of what is believed to be Fayette county's first alligator, perhaps as far north as this animal has ever traveled in Alabama.

On January 20, Olen Moore and Thermon Watkins, who live near Berry, were down on North river and captured an alligator about four feet long and 16 inches around, Warden Burleson said.

North river is in the eastern part of Fayette county and, so far as known, this is the first time an alligator has ever been reported in this county.

Captivity was fatal, however, for the alligator died a few days after it was taken from the river.

W. D. Bishop, president of the Jefferson County Commission, has equipped an office in the pretentious new court house at Birmingham for district game wardens Ted Cottrell and Marvin Whatley.

The new office is located in room 401 and from this headquraters they will work their territory, which includes Jefferson, Walker, Shelby and Blount counties.

This is the first county in the state to equip an office in its courthouse for state game wardens.

C. V. Hines, district game warden of Monroe and Escambia Counties, on February 4 flushed a covey of pheasants in Monroe County. "Going down through the swamp to Davis ferry on the Alabama river, I flushed a covey of pheasants," warden Hines reported.

"There were about five in the bunch and I was very glad to discover we had pheasants in Monroe County."

The pheasants, noted for its plumage as well as its food value, is not a native bird of this state and is seen infrequently within its borders.

The National Forest Service lists the big game population of the 150 national forests in the United States and Alaska at 1,176,000 animals. California led in two of the big game variety, with 284,360 deer and 8,480 black and brown bear.

Henderson Hayes of Jemison was a business visitor to Clanton Monday.

Joe Mullins of Birmingham was in Clanton this week visiting his mother, Mrs. P. D. Wilson.

SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of genuine Bayer Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so before gargling take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Bayer Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. You may use it freely, it does not hurt the heart.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Feb. 21.—United States Commissioner of Education, William J. Cooper will lead the fifth annual education conference in the University of Alabama summer school June 19-23. Dr. Cooper is receiving no remuneration for his service, and no fees will be charged those attending the conference. All school officials are invited. Special rates of fare and one-fourth are being granted by railroads.

The Alabama basketball team, holding second place in the conference, played their last game of the regular season Monday night against Mississippi State, and will enter the conference tourney Friday in Atlanta. Coach Crisp's team is expected to be seeded second in the tournament.

The University Blackfriar Players will present Philip Barry's "Holiday," in their second performance of the year the latter part of March.

The Junior Prom will be staged on March 2. A battle of music between John Hart's Alabama Crimson and the Auburn Knights will be the musical feature.

The University School of Commerce ranks thirteenth in size of enrollment of 71 four-year undergraduate schools in the United States, a survey by H. G. Wright, grand secretary-treasurer of Delta Sigma Pi shows. This institution ranks first in the south.

Dean Agnes Ellen Harris is in St. Paul for the meeting of the national Association of Deans of Women of which she is president.

The Roundhouse, oldest structure on the University campus has been given into the custody of Jasons, oldest honorary fraternity on the campus. It will be used as a meeting place.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

There is perhaps no more striking instance of the fulfilment of Bible prophecy than that concerning the Jewish nation. The Lord said that He would scatter the Jews from one end of the earth to the other and further that they would become "a proverb and a byword." Deuteronomy 28:36, 27.

When these predictions were made the Jews were the chosen and adopted people of the Lord. To them had been committed the holy oracles of God's law. They had the priesthood, the shekinah of glory, and the covenants. Through them the promises made to the fathers were to be fulfilled and through them the Messiah Himself was to be born. Had they been faithful in obeying the commandments of the Lord and in walking in the light the Lord had given them they would have been used by the Lord till the end of time to shed abroad the glorious light of the gospel in ever age and in all lands.

What a change has come. They stand as a warning of the consequences of rejecting light and an example of the fulfilment of prophecy. The Jews are scattered in every land, as the prophet foretold. As some one has said, "They drink out of every river from the Ganges to the Mississippi."

True to the prophetic word, they are a "proverb" and a "byword" among all people. They have experienced terrible national calamities.

"That a nation, deprived of its fatherland, wandering over all the earth without any home or rallying place, deprived, too, of the chief ceremonies and institutions of the religion which has been the main instrument in binding them together as a people, that a nation so placed should not be absorbed by the peoples among whom they sojourned, and should not disappear as a distinct and separate race, is contrary to reason and experience."

The Jews have always remained a separate and distinct people wherever they have wandered. They persecutions and calamities which have fallen to their lot would have meant the extinction of any other nation. But not so with the Jews. They are scattered but they have maintained their nationality at all times and in all places. Nothing could furnish a more positive proof that God's word is the truth, and that He will fulfill prophecy, than the history of the Jewish nation, and its millions who today are scattered in all lands.—L. A. Butterfield.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

The teacher of agriculture is still carrying on terracing demonstrations. He has terraced land for Archie Hall, Ralph Oden, Robert Williams, Moses Brown, Obie Collins and Felton Pierson. He has on his schedule land for N. K. Calloway, Ben Love, George Williams, Bud Wilson, Gentle Barbour, Esan Bethel, and Anthony Holifield. If one wants to see the best system of terracing in the county, he has but to come out in the training school community.

Because of the inclement weather on last Wednesday and Friday the part time boys were not able to meet. Many of them are eager for instruction. Monroe Gordon, Dock Wilson, Deramus Varner, Cebian Williams, Rogers Bryant, Jude Wilson and others are determined to show the way in cotton projects this year.

Look out everybody! The training school community is in line for real spring gardens.

The board of trustees met last Monday night. Most of the time was taken in discussing means of paying the long past due school note, and operating school busses the next school term. Mrs. Emma Benjamin and Mrs. Joshua McDaniel were selected to put on a drive in Clanton to raise funds for the school debt.

The following men were elected to the Board: J. L. McDaniel, A. B. Craig, Roosevelt Varner, and Jim Knight.

Farmers in the training school community are busy getting in line for planting. From the road one may see leaves scattered here and there, which is evidence that the farmers are using what they have. Ralph Oden and Felton Pierson have hauled out more than forty loads of leaf mole which has been scattered over their fields. Other farmers are doing the same.

Many farmers, heedless to their instruction, planted oats in November. Consequently, our recent cold spell did much damage to the crops. Old man winter taught them a good lesson. For best results oats should always be sown before October 20.—Benj. Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

Here's a believe-it-or-not. Did you ever hear of a well freezing over the top solid with ice? Well, such is a report coming from Uncle Bill Duke of Poplar Springs community. This was an occurrence of the recent cold spell; and the well was on the south side of the house too.

SINGING AT MT. PLEASANT

There will be a singing at Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse next Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. All singers are invited. Bring Morris-Henson books.—J. E. Miner.

Concord-Billingsley

Sunday was our regular preaching day at this place. Rev. Johnson preached a wonderful sermon, and everyone seemed to enjoy it. Chilton Circuit is certainly fortunate in securing a man with the talents of Rev. Johnson as their pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Emily George of Birmingham spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dickinson.

Miss Virginia Little spent Saturday night with Miss Allie Williams of New Cedron.

Rev. J. S. Johnson was the Saturday night guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fonso Williams of New Cedron community attended the preaching services at this place Sunday. They were the dinner guests of their sister, Mrs. Willie Tindol.

Miss Sallie Shaw visited her sister, Mrs. Elvin Stewart, of New Cedron community.

Mr. Porter Williams spent Friday night with his uncle, Mr. J. P. Williams.

Misses Bessie and Jettie Williams spent Monday afternoon with the Misses Myrtis, Esten and Eula Mae Brown.

Mr. Arthur Crane of Pletcher was a business visitor to this community Tuesday.

We are glad to report that Mrs. C. L. Dickinson is improving. Mrs. Dickinson fell over a piece of wood the 6th of February and broke her arm. We all hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. C. H. Herrod and children of Haynes were visitors to this community Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Stewart visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw, Sunday.

Rev. J. S. Johnson spent a short while with Mr. and Mrs. Carson Williams Saturday afternoon.

Charley Howard of Thorsby was here the first of this week attending Circuit Court.

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN BY CHARLES FOSHEE

On Monday night, February 13, Mr. Charles Foshee entertained a number of friends with a birthday party which was emmensly enjoyed by all those present. He entertained with three kinds of music which were string, piano and Victrola.

Those that were present were as follows:

Charles Foshee, Holland Popwell, Pauline Durbin, Howard, Vondell and Alfred Penton, Ethel Ruth, Mary Lou and Bill Gaines, Bruce Mills, Elsie Conway, Mary Frank Smith, Rubye and Willodean Collins, Frances Moore Woodrow Durbin, Jessie Ellison, O. T. Scott, Pernell Ratliff, Evelyn DeRamus, Odis Ellison, Hobson DeRamus, Gerthie Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Edwards, Charlie Burnett, Willie, Eula Mae, Myrtis and Esther Brown, Jim Burnett, Jim Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. John Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Shaw, Lucile and William Patillo, Sallie Shaw, Paul Vinson, Woodrow Smith, Howard Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Fonza Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Culver.

After the entertainment refreshments were served, which were very deiclious, lemonade and cake. Every hour was enjoyed by all, even to the last minute. His many friends wish him many more happy birthdays.

NEW HOME CHURCH

A table and a book case with contents were taken from New Home church, near Pletcher, three or four weeks ago. If the party or parties who took same will return them, or just the books, either to the church or to any of the members, the matter will be dropped.—I. M. Deason.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadus Connatser were called to Tennessee this week on account of the serious illness of an uncle of Mr. Connatser. They were accompanied by S. M. Connatser and Mrs. Joe Fox.

"WHAT IS A KILOWATT HOUR?"

JUST the other day one of our good customers, who uses eight or ten of the newest electric appliances in her home, asked us this question:

"What IS the meaning of a kilowatt hour?" "It always bothers me when I pay my monthly bill."

As other good customers may also be uncertain, the simple explanation of the term may be interesting:

A "kilowatt hour" is the use of one kilowatt (1000 watts) for one hour. It is a unit of measurement. Just like a QUART of milk, a YARD of cloth, a PECK of potatoes, a POUND of meat.

You can't see electricity at work, but you can measure the work it does just as accurately as you can measure any other article. For example:

One kilowatt hour (or KWH as it appears on your bill) will light your 60 watt lamp for two nights—over 16 hours. It will run a smaller lamp of 40 watts for 25 hours. It will operate your electric refrigerator for 12 hours. It will run an electric fan for 15 hours.

Under Alabama's low electric rates, kilowatt hours for residential use cost 37% less than five years ago and 15% less than the average for the country as a whole.

Beginning with this issue and continuing during the school term there will appear each week a column of news from the Chilton County High School.

Last Friday night a concert was given in our auditorium by the Selma High School Band. This interesting program was attended by a good crowd. We were glad to welcome this fine band to our school, and invite them to come back.

Chilton County High School is very proud of the science club here, organized last year under Mr. J. B. Varnell, science instructor. This worthwhile organization has accomplished many things during its two years of existence. Recently the club presented to the school four mounted specimens, which are of a major importance to the biology classes. These four specimens, costing approximately fifteen dollars, are a skunk, crow, partridge and a blackbird. Money was raised for the expense of these valuable specimens with the presentation of the play "A Box of Monkeys" several weeks ago. For the benefit of those who wish to inform themselves on this club, a list of the members and the rules of the club are given below: The requirements of new members are: 1. All members must haye an average of not less than eighty on all their studies. 2. Each must show a decided interest in scientific research. 3. Each must keep dues up and be cooperative each year. 4. The group must contribute something worthwhile to the school each year. 5. Each member must conduct himself in an orderly and mannerly way every day. 6. Each member must be willing to take part on the programs. 7. Each member must be approved by the membership committee and the club director. The members of the club at the present are: Joe Moore, president; Elizabeth Gragg, vice president; Dixie Johnson, treasurer and social secretary; John Ezell, secretary; Jesse Frank Foshee, reporter, Louie Alford, critic; Louise Knox and Pearl Vinson. The science club, with Mr. Varnell as director strive to promote scientific interest among the students and contribute something worthwhile to the school each year.

The "C" club at its meeting last week filled several vacancies and elected the following officers: Jesse Frank Foshee, president; James 'Gabby' Tiffin, vice president; Jarrell Burdett, secretary and treasurer and Joe Moore, reporter.

The tennis club is becoming very popular among the students and teachers of C. C. H. S. this year. At their regular meeting last week, they elected officers for the last semester of this school term. The officers and members are: Joe Moore, president; Miss Sara Colley, vice president; Morgan Reynolds, secretary and treasurer; Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Miss Josephine Martin, Miss Bernice Williams, Grady Reynolds, H. T. Walker and Jesse Frank Foshee. The following rules were adopted: 1. Membership fee for one semester is fifty cents. 2. Only members who have paid their dues will be allowed to play on the court. 3. Players must wear tennis shoes while playing. 4. A club member is permitted to have a non-member play by paying twenty-five cents for the time he plays. 5. The membership expires at the end of the school term.

Emerging from the study of land, labor and capital by the Senior III Democracy class is the revelation of two talented students in the persons of Pearl Vinson and Jarrell Burdette. Jarrell, with the wonderful knack for drawing, portrayed in an excellent cartoon how land, labor and capital were very close friends when production began; and when the profits were to be divided capital received the much larger portion, labor received a much smaller portion, while land was made even poorer. This cartoon is in the office and it is worth stopping in and looking at. Pearl portrays this in a poem entitled, "Captital and Labor." This piece of poetry is indeed worth reading.

"Capital and Labor"

Sunshine is but a name,
Unless to me you stint that flame.
But listen to his story labor tells,
About capital, the one friend he loved well.

Now, capital and I were the best of friends,
We thought we'd be so to the end;
So hand in hand, on the way
To production we went day by day.

I labored almost night and day;
For me, capital would say,
Now you do the work and I'll pay cash,
That we may to distribution come at last.

To distribution, one day we came,
I thought we would receive the same;
But silently by my friend I stand,
While he takes all that should be in my hand.

Now, no longer friends are we;
He's now my staunch enemy,
For since to distribution we came,
Our friendship is only a name.

Monday of this week, the Civil War was relived in the Senior II history class, when Mr. Little read a letter written during the war. This letter was written by a Confederate soldier to his sister, relating to her the death of her husband. The letter, though yellow with age, is very legible. Below is a copy of the letter, which is very interesting, especially to history students, for it shows the personal side of the war.

Camp near Morristown
January 20th, 1864.

To Caroline Kelley:

Dear sister, it is through the mercy of God that I am permitted to write you a few lines which will inform you that I am well at present, hoping these few lines may find you and your little children well.

Dear sister, I have the painful task of informing you that Marion is dead. He was killed on Saturday the 16th inst., in a skirmish with the enemy about 8 miles below here. He was shot through the bowels. He only lived about 25 or 30 minutes. The only words he spoke were, "Go ahead boys, give it to them." The doctor came up, and had him taken off. He told them to lay him down and let him die. These were the only words he spoke that I have heard of. Caroline, we buried him decently as we could. He was buried at a church in a grave, and we made him a rough box. It was the very best we could do.

We left here on the 15th inst., and went down near Dandridge, a little town on French Broad River, and camped for the night. I was from there sent out on picket with 30 men from our regiment. We were attacked about 12 o'clock by the yankees, and we fought one of the hardest fights I have ever been in almost.

I was not with the regiment when Marion was killed. While I was fighting with the picketts, our brigade moved around on our right to keep the yankees from cutting us off while marching along. They ran into a squad of yankees which fired into them, and one ball struck Marion. He was the only man that was hit in our regiment.

Caroline, we taken care of Marion's money and papers. The doctor taken care of them and gave them to me. I have 71 dollars of his money and some notes. I will collect them and send you the money as soon as I can. Caroline, I can't describe to you my feelings when I found Marion lying cold, and I feel so lonesome. He has been with me ever since he came back. Dolphus stayed with him when he was shot, a few minutes, and then went to let James know that Marion was hit, and did not get a chance to go until he was dead. I suppose he went off without a pain. Caroline, weep not after him for I trust that he is a great deal better off than we are. He is done with this troublesome world. I must close by subscribing myself your brother until death.—William C. McGrady.

Letter written by William B. McGrady to his sister, Mrs. Caroline Kelley, Rockford, Route 2, notifying her of the death of her husband, Marion Kelley.

Life still has its humorous side, despite the recent depression. Recent? Anyway, a teacher in the Jr. High grades asked a bright looking little fellow to name her a small member of the camel family. Without hesitation, he innocently and honestly replied, "a baby camel."

To keep in style, our school should have a class in Technocracy. We have a Democracy class, why not a class of Technocracy? So far, we have only one confessed Technocrat, none other than John Ezell. Anyone wishing a few pointers on this national party should see John Ezell, a Technocrat erg.

FARMERS PAY 1932 CROP LOANS

Of approximately $1,620,000 loaned to Alabama farmers for the production of 1932 crops, 91 per cent has been collected either in cotton collateral or cash, reports James H. Godwin, supervisor of crop production loans in the state for the U. S. Department of agriculture.

In no instance has it been necessary to foreclose on feed or food crops, and at least 20 counties are expected to pay their loans in full, he said. Other counties are expected to pay 98 per cent or more.

The percentage of collections was attributed by the supervisior to the cooperation of the farmers, county agents, warehousemen and business men.

36,177 ALABAMA FAMILIES AIDED

The federal government, through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, provided relief to 36,177 families in 36 counties of the state during the month of January, according to the report of the Alabama relief administration, made recently by Algernon Blair, chairman, to Governor Miller. Of $316,366 received, $209,591.27 or 40.6 per cent was expended in the 36 counties that had made application for relief. Since the report was made several other counties have applied for help.

It is estimated by the commission that 65,804 families, or 17.1 per cent, of the total number of 585,229 families in the 36 counties, are destitute. Relief was provided for 55 per cent of those in distress. The work in February, Mr. Blair estimates, will almost double that in January.

Since December 1, 1932, Montgomery county has received $40,000 from the R. F. C., several thousand dollars of which has been paid since January 31. Of 21,927 families in the county, it is estimated that 3,000 are destitute. A total of 2,089 persons were given work by the R. F. C. Board in Montgomery. They were used on 32 public work projects.

Administrative expenses in January were 4.96 per cent of the total federal funds received, but the commission points out that the overhead will diminish materially after organizations for administering relief have been set up.

Government aid in Alabama was augmented by almost $90,000 from individuals, the Red Cross, and other agencies cooperating in relief, the deport shows. Total funds expended in January were $298,046.14.

UNCLE BUD AND HIS BOLL WEEVILS COMING

The Pilot Club of Clanton announced this week that they have been successful in their attempt to get the famous troupe known as "Uncle Bud and His Boll Weevils" to present a program of music and other entertainments in Clanton.

They stated that this presentation will be made in the next few weeks, with extra low admission prices. This troupe of entertainers have become famous over the radio and are at present broadcasting regularly over a Birmingham station. Don't fail to see and hear these radio entertainers when they come here. Definite announcement of date will be made next week.

WESTERN UNION HOLDS UP PLANS

The very disappointing information that plans of the Western Union Telegraph Company to re-open their down town office in Clanton are temporarily held up was conveyed to Mr. J. Mell Martin last week.

It was formerly announced that the office would be re-opened, and everybody was feeling good over the announcement.

Advices from officials of the company say that there is yet a possibility that the office will be reestablished, and the people of Clanton sincerely hope this may yet be possible.

LARGE CROWDS SEE THE NEW FORD V-8 DISPLAYED

A steady stream of visitors viewed the new Ford V-8 cylinder 122-inch wheelbase motor cars when they were put on display at the showrooms of Clanton Motors, Ford dealers, at Clanton, Saturday.

Throughout the day the crowds about the cars showed unusual interest in the new bodies and their appointments. The new Fords are the most powerful ever built, it was stated by the Clanton Motors. Fourteen body types are available, including both standard and deluxe types of the roadster, phaeton, coupe, tudor and fordor sedans. The cabriolet and victoria are exclusive deluxe types.

The new Ford bodies are characterized by a new and distinctively modern note, with flowing streamlines. The front and ensemble of sloping vee radiator grille, new skirted fenders, newly designed lamps, horn and bumpers, is most attractive. The windshield has a 20-degree slope. A wide choice of body colors is available. Colored wheels are optional on the deluxe types.

Bodies are all-steel construction, and many sections are joined by electric welding.

Body interiors are exceptionally roomy, the bodies being materially wide and almost a foot longer than formerly. Seats are wide and deeply cushioned. Front seats are adjustable. A choice of broadcloth or mohair upholstery is used in the standard body types; broadcloth, mohair and bedford cord in the deluxe types.

The interiors reveal a number of convenience features. The instrument panel is directly in front of the driver with a roomy package compartment at the right. The coincidental ignition and steering lock is located on the steering column bracket.

The doors are unusually wide, allowing easy access to the seats. Doors on all closed models may be locked from the inside. A single key operates both coincidental lock and door locks.

On all deluxe models a concealed ash receiver is located in the center of the instrument board with a cigar lighter just above it. The deluxe tudor and fordor sedans and victoria are also provided with an ash tray in the rear compartment.

Safety glass is used in the windshields of all body types and in the rear windows of cars with rumble seats. Deluxe body types are fitted with safety glass throughout, while standard body types may be similarly equipped upon special order.

All closed cars are fitted with dome lights while the deluxe body types have cowl lights and rear compartment arm rests. The tudor and fordor sedans and victoria have a convenient radio aerial.

All deluxe type cars are equipped with twin matched horns and two tail lights.

James Horton Suicide Feb. 16

The death of James Arthur Horton, age 43 years, occurred near his home in the northern part of the county last Thursday. The body was buried Friday at Providence, Beat 13, with Martin in charge. Mr. Horton is survived by his wife and four children.

Coroner J. Mell Martin was called to the scene of the death to make investigation. His inquiry into the circumstances revealed substantially the following story:

Mr. Horton with Marvin Brantley and some small boys were out rabbit hunting. The party had only one gun. Horton took the gun saying he wanted to see if he could hit anything. He told the others to go around the other side of a briar patch and see if they could run a rabbit out for him.

In a few minutes they heard a gun shot. One of the boys, a son of Horton, went running back to see what his father had killed. When he got to the man he way lying on the ground with his head shot off.

After completing the investigation, hearing all the evidence, and summing up all circumstances, Coroner Martin rendered a verdict of suicide.

PENGUIN REVEALED AS CAMERA DODGER

You can't fool a penguin; nor can you force him to turn screen star unless he wants to.

During the filming of RKO-Radio Pictures' "The Penguin Pool Murder," coming to the Wadesonian Theatre, Friday and Saturday, February 24 and 25, it became necessary for Director George Archainbaud to get a close-up of Oscar.

Oscar, be it understood, is the penguin procured at a cost of tremendous effort, a great deal of time and considerable money; for penguins are rarer in the United States than billboards in the Louvre.

In "The Penguin Pool Murder" Oscar occupies the spot of honor, the star dressing-room tank in the New York Aquarium set wherein the action takes place. The tank, set in a wall, is glassed in, and normally Oscar is proud to show himself. But the camera annoyed him. Inevitably he'd duck and dodge when the cranks wanted to turn.

Nonetheless, film directors can outsmart a penguin any day. Archainbaud left one camera near Oscar's tank permanently, and at moments when Oscar was off guard some lovely close-ups of him were obtained.

"The Peguin Pool Murder" features Edna May Oliver, James Gleason, Robert Armstrong, Mae Clarke, Donald Cook, and other notables. Stuart Palmer's best selling novel as adapted to the screen is a comedy-mystery of an amazing murder solved by the persistent schoolmistress, played by Miss Oliver, who discovers a broker's dead body in the penguin's tank at the New York Aquarium.

Mr. Josh Downs died last Thursday and was buried at Cooper Friday with Masonic rites.

E. H. Freeman of Mt. Creek was in Clanton Wednesday.

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty.
And feels like forty.
At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better. You will never need another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way.

WILL APPLY FOR RELIEF MONEY

Order Passed By Commissioners Court at Meeting On Last Thursday

After completing the count of votes in the election of February 21, and finding that a majority voted in favor of the $50,000 relief fund, the Commissioners Court of Chilton County on last Thursday passed an order directing the Probate Judge to make the required application for securing the funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through the Governor of Alabama.

In accordance with this order the following application has been forwarded to the governor by Judge Reynolds:

By authority of the county officials of Chilton County, and speaking for the entire county and the cities and towns therein, we respectfully request that you make application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under Title I of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932 for account of Chilton County for supplementary relief funds to be used in furnishing relief and work relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardship resulting from unemployment.

Accompanying this request is supporting data in accordance with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Emergency Relief Bulletin No. 1 (revised). Letters from a number of citizens familiar with the relief needs and available resources of our county are included.

This application is made with the understanding that the administration of such funds as may be allocated to our county will be in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed by yourself through the Alabama Relief Administration.

When the application with its supporting data has been approved, notification will be made to our county commissioners to come to Montgomery and sign the contract under which the money will be allocated to Chilton County for relief purposes.

After that step has been completed then the County Commissioners will complete the relief organization by designating some existing agency to make investigation of those who are entitled to work under the approved regulations. The Commissioners also will designate some person who will receive the money and expend it to people who have done work under the relief plan.

QUILTING AND RABBIT HUNTING

Mrs. S. E. Morris and Mrs. Ernest Varden entertained with a quilting last Wednesday afternoon, Washington's birthday, while the men folks went rabbit hunting. They killed 26 rabbits. Those at the quilting were Mrs. R. F. Holley, Mrs. Janie Chambers, Mrs. Linnie Melton, Mrs. Nellom Littlejohn and Mrs. W. M. Blalock, and Miss Ressie Jones served the quilters with refreshments, which was peaches, whipped cream and delicious devil-food cake. This was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullins of Mobile were visitors to Clanton last week.

ARM TORN OFF IN CAR ACCIDENT

Frank Eubanks In Hospital With Serious Injuries and His Arm Gone

Frank Eubanks, age 23, of Birmingham, happened to a very peculiar and very serious accident at Jemison last Sunday night. He was returning to Birmingham from Montgomery, driving his mother's car. Near Jemison his car was sideswiped by a fruit truck, driven by L. M. Richards, of Tuscaloosa.

Eubank's arm, resting on the window ledge of his car, was caught by the projecting side of the truck, and was torn off below the elbow. The bone of the upper arm was crushed, and most of the flesh torn away.

Accompanied by Jim Stewart, of Birmingham, Eubanks sought medical aid at Jemison. His injuries were so serious the doctors there could not attend to him. He headed back toward Clanton.

Upon arrival at the hospital here it was found that amputation of the arm was necessary. Reports from the hospital Tuesday said that Mr. Eubanks went through the terrible ordeal with amazing nerve and fortitude. His condition is favorable, with chances favorable for his recovery.

WILL VINZANT DIED WED.

William Thomas Vinzant, age 57 years, died at Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton last Wednesday night. Death was said to have been caused from a fractured skull which he is supposed to have sustained when hit by a truck on the highway north of Jemison a few days before his death.

Suffering from severe injuries, Mr. Vinzant was brought to the hospital here. Both of his legs were horribly mangled, and one of them had to be amputated.

The body was buried by Martin at Union Grove Thursday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

The deceased was a native of the Mineral Springs community. He had lived in Shelby County for some years past.

NEXT SATURDAY IS OPENING DAY

Clanton Cash Store Will Throw Open New Store To Their Customers

Formal opening of the new Clanton Cash Store will be held next Saturday. Mr. O. D. Deloach, manager, is completing all necessary arrangements to entertain his friends and customers, and to introduce them to one of the finest food stores in this section of Alabama. The new location is on the Marion Gore corner, the handiest place in Clanton.

As a special feature of the opening next Saturday Mr. Deloach has arranged for a number of food demonstrations and free sample service to all visitors. (These demonstrations will include coffee, crackers, wesson oil, Omega and White Ring Flour.

The store will give a souvenir with each purchase of a pound box of Belle Meade crackers; and a surprise will be given to every kiddy who visits the store. Sandwiches will be served by a representative of one of the packing houses.

The management of this popular store is hopeful that everybody will make them a visit on next Saturday. Their many friends and customers throughout the rural districts are especially invited to come.

For those who want to buy food stuff there will be a great many very special bargains in different lines for the opening day. You will do well to read their advertisement in this paper and come prepared to lay in a supply of these special offers.

But remember, whether you buy anything or not, you are invited to come, go through and inspect this new store and meat market, and enjoy the many treats that will be there for you.

UNCLE BUD AND HIS BOLL WEEVILS AT COURTHOUSE

Under auspices of the Pilot Club, of Clanton, Uncle Bud and His Boll Weevils, popular radio entertainers, will render a program at the court house on Friday night, March 10th.

Word from Uncle Bud this week says Z. Y. Hamilton, champion fiddler of the state, will make it hot for everybody who attends. Hamilton is not only a prize fiddler, but he is a very funny comedian.

"Happy" Dobbs, famous blackface comedian, blues singer and yodler, is also included in the Boll Weevil entertainers.

DR. BARTON TO SPEAK TO UNITY-CHILTON BAPTISTS

An inspirational meeting, at which plans for the year will be outlined and discussed, will be held at the Clanton Baptist church on Friday of this week at 2 o'clock. It will be a joint meeting of the Unity and Chilton associations, composed of the executive boards of both, all pastors, Sunday school superintendents, W. M. U. officials and B. Y. P. U. leaders.

Dr. L. E. Barton, secretary of the Alabama Baptist Board, will speak to the assembly. The meeting is called by J. Z. Mims and Rev. J. W. Jones, moderators respectively of the Unity and Chilton County Associations. All of the above named church and auxiliary leaders are urged to attend. Dr. Barton will have something worth while to offer.

LEGION AND AUXILIARY TO MEET NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary will be held at the courthouse next Monday night, March 6th.

Ladies of the Auxiliary will have a specially interesting program, including a group of patriotic numbers rendered by the school children, and an address of Miss Norma Smith, of Montgomery. Wives of all ex-service soldiers are urged to come.

TEAMS INVITED TO ENTERPRISE

Basketball Tournament Planned at Enterprise For Next Saturday

Cecil Yeargan, manager of the Enterprise Basket Ball Team, makes an announcement this week that will no doubt be of much interest to basket ball players and fans in Chilton County. He says:

"The basket ball season is nearly over, and there are several teams wishing to play together to see who has the best team in the county. We have planned to have a big day at Enterprise School on next Saturday, March 4, and all teams wishing to play are asked to be present before eight o'clock that morning.

"All teams bring your lunch, because the games will all be free and there will be no funds to provide meals. Every player must have tennis shoes and every team must have a manager. The manager may play if he wishes to do so.

"There will not be any night games, as there are no lights available at Enterprise. Everybody who likes basket ball is invited to come and see the games."

We are glad to make publication of the statement of Mr. Yeargan in regard to this matter. No doubt there are enough persons interested in this event to make it a great day at Enterprise next Saturday.

GOOD NEWS FROM WALTER CLARK

Although a little late, here is an item from Walter Clark which he says is "good news." He says "last October 30, I married Miss Lonnie Guins. I am not going with the circus this year, but will make a crop with E. D. Vanderslice in Stumps Hills. We were married in Columbiana."

Well, we hope it will always be good news for Walter and his bride, and we extend our good wishes.

KITCHEN CABINET SPECIAL ON AT TIFFIN-KLINNER NOW

During the past week and continuing this week the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company are making a very special sales effort on Sellers Kitchen Cabinets. Mr. Booth, a factory representative of the Sellers Company is here assisting the sales force of the Tiffin organization.

Some marvelous designs of the Sellers Cabinets are being displayed, and it is very interesting to hear Mr. Booth explain their structure and varied uses. He has one kitchen cabinet that can do everything but whistle.

These cabinets are the finest kitchen furniture built in America. The present prices are amazingly low. And the terms upon which Tiffin-Klinner offer them for sale are very attractive.

SEVENTEEN ARRESTS PAST WEEK

The Sheriff's office reports seventeen arrests during the past week, as follows:

Nine for violating prohibition law; three on peace proceedings; one for false pretense; one for assault to murder; one for receiving or concealing stolen property; one for assault and battery; one for abusive and obscene language.

The jail register Tuesday night showed 11 prisoners in confinement.

Miss Irene Wood and Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence of Calera were visitors in Clanton last Friday.

Mrs. Renfroe Mullins was shopping in Birmingham Monday.

KEEP TRASH OUT OF PUBLIC ROADS

A Request From Uncle Jim Mims, Chilton County Commissioner

Uncle Jim Mims, County Commissioner, makes a request in the interest of the county road work, which he wishes to be brought to the attention of all citizens.

He says the county road crews frequently run into difficulty caused by people putting brush, chunks, rocks, and other refuse into the ditches alongside the roads. This, he says, causes the road workers to lose considerable time by having to stop the road machines and clean out the way before they can proceed with their work.

Mr. Mims points out that while the citizen who may be guilty of this practice of leaving things in the roads may not think it amounts to anything, neverthless, it causes considerable delay and expense on the part of the county.

Building storm pits in the banks of the road is another thing which Mr. Mims cautions people about. "We do not object to storm pits," he says, "and we want the people to have them as handy as possible; yet they could build them in a way not to interfere with the working and upkeep of the roads, if they would think about the matter from our standpoint."

These matters are mentioned by Mr. Mims, not in a spirit of causing anybody any worry or irritation; but in the interest of the county's road working business. The commissioners want to do as much road work as possible, in the best and most economical way, and the cooperation of the citizens of the county in every way is solicited.

WOMAN SHOOTS BOY WHO HAD COME TO GUARD HER HOUSE

While spending the night at the home of Mrs. Willie Walker, in the Mt. Pisgah community, six miles south of Clanton, as a protector in case of intruders, Ben Knight, a 14-year-old neighbor boy, was shot by the woman when she mistook him for a burglar early Monday morning. The load from a 12-gauge shotgun blew away a part of his right hand.

Mrs. Walker explained to officers who investigated that she had heard noises and had mistaken young Knight for a burglar. She was arrested and held in the Clanton jail pending further investigation.

Sheriff Gillespie declared that the woman is demented and in a dangerous state of mind. Her husband is in jail here under indictment for beating her.

Their five small children were turned over to Miss Kitty Claire Austin, county child welfare worker.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 42 went on a hike Friday night, February 24, about 4:30 o'clock. We left for Pepwell's Woods, which took us about forty minutes to walk. After we arrived we built fires to cook supper and after cooking and eating we chose up for a game of "capture the flag," which took up about forty minutes. In this game John Ezell's side won out.

Then we said the Scout Oath and began our march home. I think some of us walked all the way and the rest rode in the Scout master's car.

Friday night, March 3rd, we have another scout meeting and we want all the boys over eleven and one-half years of age to come.—Troop Reporter, John Thomas Marlar.

"Hot Copy" At High School Friday Night

Play Depiciting Newspaper Life and Politics Will Be Given At High School For The Benefit of Clanton Parent-Teachers Association

Tomorrow (Friday) night is the time for presentation of the play "Hot Copy," at the county high school auditorium in Clanton. The presentation is made by the C. D. C. players sponsored by The Union-Banner, for benefit of the Parent-Teachers Association of Clanton.

The attendance of the people of this community is earnestly requested, with the assurance that an evening of delightful entertainment will be furnished. The players are well-trained, having put on this show at a number of places where they were received with hearty approval by their audiences.

"Hot Copy" is a play that depicits newspaper life and politics. Tense situations arise when politicians contrive to dominate a newspaper. A young editor makes a life and death struggle to keep his business free and untrammeled from the designing influences of the politicians.

Who will win the fight, the editor or the politician? You will be thrilled by the scenes enacted in this true-to-life drama. Don't fail to see it. The prices of admission are 10 cents for all school children; 15 cents for other children; and 25 cents for adults. The show will start promptly at eight o'clock.

Between acts of the play the Harmony Four, delightful radio entertainers, will present some select numbers of songs and other amusing features.

GIRLS LOOK PRETTIER BY SELLING THE UNION-BANNER

May Earn Cosmetics by Soliciting Subscriptions

The Union-Banner has a supply of the famous Outdoor Girl Cosmetics, which it is going to distribute among the girls of Chilton County who will do a little missionary work for the paper. We have an advertisement elsewhere in this issue that explains the proposition fully. Turn to it and read it; then get busy among your friends getting up the subscriptions.

ROBINSON-COST

A wedding of much interest to Collins Chapel community was that of Mr. Vernon Robinson and Miss Vergie Cost, on February 18, 1933, at the home of Rev. J. W. Jones at Thorsby, Alabama. After the wedding they left for a short honeymoon and returned Sunday afternoon and will make their home with the groom's parents.

FRUIT STORE SOLD TO COOLEY

Howard Cooley has bought out the fruit store of J. H. Gore. The conduct of the business in the future will be in charge of Mr. Dorcas Maddox.

The location will remain the same, on the highway back of Mullins & Moore. Mr. Cooley and Mr. Maddox solicit the continued patronage of the people who trade in Clanton.

GRAND JURY FIND 45 TRUE BILLS

Report Rendered To Judge Tate After Three Days of Investigation

The following report was rendered by the grand jury last week at the conclusion of the business before them for investigation:

We, the grand jury, empanelled for the January term of the Circuit Court after receiving your Honor's most able charge, entered up our investigations of the matters that came before us as grand jurors, and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 61 cases and have examined 65 witnesses and are returning herewith 45 true bills.

We have examined the fee book of the probate judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public and in our examination of the Sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners, we find it being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and in so far as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being given a variety of good wholesome food and cared for with reasonable comfort.

The grand jury inspected the almshouse and found that the inmates were contented and all of them had the appearance of having received the very best of attention and food. The people of our county should feel proud of the manner in which the poor of the county are cared for and the grand jury takes this opportunity to highly praise the officials charged with the duty of looking after the poor of the county and for the satisfactory and efficient manner in which this duty is being discharged.

We desire to express our gratitude for the painstaking and faithful discharge of duty on the part of the circuit solicitor, deputy solicitor, bailiff of the grand jury, the sheriff and his deputies, without whose aid, our efforts to ferret out the matters we have investigated would have been very difficult.

The grand jury wishes especially to thank your Honor for the clear and impressive charge given us when we were first empanelled. It has been most helpful to us thoughout all our investigations.

We having complied to the best of our ability with you Honor's charge we respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convened.

This the 23rd day of February, 1933.—J. A. Sample, foreman.

NEW MACHINERY ARRIVED MONDAY

Tractors and Graders To Be Used In Road Work of The County

Delivery of new road working machinery for Chilton County was made this week, carrying out the terms of a purchase made by the Commissioners at a recent session.

The new machines include one 50 Caterpillar Tractor, one 35 Caterpillar Tractor, and one new grader. The purchase price of these machines was $7,435, upon which a credit for old machinery traded in was $750.

The new 50 Caterpillar tractor and the new grader were delivered in Clanton, and will be used by Commissioner Duke in road work of his district. The new machine takes the place of the old 30 caterpillar, and will be used to pull the new grader.

The new 35 caterpillar tractor goes to Mr. Cobb's district, and will take the place of an old machine. The old 60 Caterpillar is being overhauled, and will continue to be used in Duke's district. Mr. E. V. Lewis, mechanic of Birmingham, is here doing the repair work on the old machines.

Reese Mullins is spending this week in Gadsden.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We are still progressing nicely, even if you haven't heard from us in several weeks.

Mrs. Lena Mims spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Traywick.

Miss Glady Wilson was the dinner guest of Miss Pearl Patterson Sunday.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are holding up nicely.

A large crowd attended Sunday school and preaching Sunday morning. The singing society did some fine singing Sunday morning. The directors were: Prof. W. M. Devaughn, chairman, Archie and Floy Devaughn, Latham Wilson and W. F. Gilliland. We invite everyone that can to come out and help us every Sunday.

The Central Singing Scoety met at this place Sunday afternoon, and because of plenty of books the singing was better than usual.

Don't forget Sunday school, singing and B. Y. P. U. every Sunday.—Secretary and Treasurer.

Y. W. A. MET AT THE HOME OF MRS. SAMUEL MARTIN

The Y. W. A. of the Clanton Baptist Church had its regular meeting Thursday evening at 6:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Samuel Martin, in charge of Miss Gladys Williams.

Our regular meeting has been changed, we will meet again Thursday (tonight) at 6:15 o'clock with Miss Gladys Williams.

Refreshments were served to the following members:

Misses Cleo Broadhead, Annie Mae Foshee, Mary Lee Pyron, Gladys Williams, Neeta Campbell, Carrie Foshee, Zora Guy, Gertie Fiquette, Sarah Colley, Dorothy Sessions, Mable Harris, Mesdames Samuel Martin and Renfroe Mullins.

Mrs. Arthur Willis and the Misses Josephine Martin, Burnice Williams, and Margaret Kendrick were shopping in Birmingham Saturday.

COLD!

Some men and women fight colds all winter long. Others enjoy the protection of Bayer Aspirin. A tablet in time, and the first symptoms of a cold get no further. If a cold has caught you unaware, keep on with Bayer Aspirin until the cold is gone. Bayer Aspirin can't harm you. It does not depress the heart. If your throat is sore, dissolve several tablets in water and gargle. You will get instant relief. There's danger in a cold that hangs on for days. To say nothing of the pain and discomfort genuine Bayer Aspirin might have spared you! All druggists; with proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism.

HOLY SPIRIT BAPTISM

(By R. L. Huffman)

(1). The Holy Spirit Baptism was promised to the apostles of Christ, which they received at Jerusalem. (Acts 1:4-5, 8; 2:1-22). Paul was later made an apostle (Acts 26:16-18) and received inspiration. The apostles had power to transfer mircaulous gifts to others, but nowhere do we find where the ones who received this power from the apostles ever transferred it to a third party. The apostles of Christ only are the ones shown to have had power to confer miraculous gifts.

(2). The baptism of the Holy Spirit came with a sound of a rushing, mighty wind; (3). Clovened, forked tongues, like as of fire, sat upon each of them; (4). They spoke so that the whole world could understand, every nation in its own language; (5). They were forbidden to speak to or in the presence of an audience in a language the audience could not understand. I Cor. 14:27-28. (6). The inspired prophets were to speak one at a time (I Cor. 14:31) that all the audience might learn; (7). The miracles and signs were to confirm the message of the apostles; (Jno. 20:30-31; (Heb. 2:4); (8). Under the guidance of the holy spirit those apostles and their inspired cohorts gave to us in their word "all things that pertain unto life and godliness." (II Pt. 1:3). And the scriptures are inspired of God and are given to us to furnish the man of God unto every good work. (II Tim. 3:15-17). (9). No man was ever baptized by the baptismal power of the Holy Spirit to receive pardon, or to be regenerated, but the apostles received this baptismal power to preach the message of salvation to others. This message is still in the scriptures given to us by these apostles. This message will save today as it did then when it is obeyed.

Christ prayed for those who should believe on Him through the message of His apostles. (Jno. 17:20-23). (10). The Holy Spirit dwells in the hearts of God's people today, but not in its baptismal power. It dwells in their hearts today through the message of the apostles as found in the New Testament. He that abides in the doctrine of Christ has both the Father and the Son. (II Jno. 9-10). (11). The baptismal measure of the Holy Spirit gave the apostles power to raise the dead, take up serpents, and drink deadly poison and feel no hurt. (Mk. 16:15-20). (12). If only those who raise the dead, take up serpents and drink deadly poison go to heaven from this generation, it is my candid opinion that Alabama will have no representation there.

But Jesus said that His word was spirit and life. We can have eternal life believeing and obeying the New Testament. —R. L. Huffman.

REFUGE NEWS

Just a few words in regard to this place. The services at our church Saturday and Sunday were just fine. Especially the one on Saturday, I am sure it is one we will long remember. There were 49 present Saturday and 100 present Sunday and good number Sunday night, which we were more than glad to have.

Our pastor's subject for Sunday was on "Easy Street," and I am sure there is too many of us trying to get to heaven on easy street.

There were two additions to our church last Sunday, Mrs. Lucinda Johnson by restoration, Lee Easterling, by Baptism. They received a hearty welcome.

The ladies of our community enjoyed two quilting parties at the home of Mary Easterling Thursday of last week.

We were glad to have our visitors with us. We extend to them a hearty welcome. Everybody come back to Sunday School next Sunday and bring some one with you and lets make ours one of the very best.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

"Unbelief"

The women, Mary Magdalene, Joanna, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, and other women that were with them after witnessing the burial of Jesus returntd to their homes and prepared spices and ointments wherewith to anoint the body, but rested the Sabbath day according to the commandment. Then on the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre, and on entering the body of Jesus was not there and in the midst of their perplexity two men stood by them in shining garments and said to the women, "He is not here, but is risen." Then they returned and told all those things unto the eleven and to all the rest.

My text, the 11th verse of the 24th chapter of Luke then follows. "And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not."

Suppose that you should attend a funeral on Friday evening and return to the grave Sunday morning to deposit flowers and two strange men should meet you there and tell you that the one buried in that grave was not there, would you believe them? I dare say that you wouldn't. You would feel that some trick was being played on you.

The doctrine of the resurrection was new to the disciples — in fact, to the whole Jewish nation. Of course they had a faint idea about it but did not expect it to be demonstrated so clearly in this time. The greater part of the people rejected Christ's claim as the promised Messiah. That, coupled with their lack of knowledge of the doctrines of the resurrection caused them as well as the disciples to doubt the truthfulness of the assertion of the women that He was not there. I wish to say that tho we take it for granted that everyone in our day accepts the doctrine of the resurrection, I find a goodly number of church members who, because they can't just understand it are hard to make believe it; and as for those who are not Christians, they would be glad to know that they could just lay there in their graves and sleep forever and never have to face an outraged God, whom they had sinned against all of their lives, here on earth. Let me apply the words of the text. "And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not."

To the doctrine of repentance. When the preacher stands and preaches the gospel of repentance to sinners it seems as idle tales to them and they won't believe the preacher. I make the assertion that enough gospel has been preached here in Chilton County to save the whole world if it had been heeded. Just why sinners will not hear the gospel is hard to understand, but it does seem that an intellegent person would know that sin will destroy the soul and whether you believe it or not that body of yours will come up out of the grave on that day of all days, the resurrection day, and all men, rich and poor, small an great, will stand before the great judge. Jesus says, "I am the resurrection and the life." And if a man believe on Him, he will not only be freed from his sins, but will have real life an He, Jesus, will "raise him up at the last day." What more does a man want? What more could he ask than that he has eternal life?

Sinner, do you believe the Bible? If so, the next time you hear your favorite preacher beleive what he says. Don't look on it as an idle tale. What can you promise yourself if you continue as you are? You have no promise but eternal destruction, eternal banishment from the presence of God. If a man should ask me what would be the best thing that he could do in this world, I would ask him if he was a Christian and if he should say no, I would not hesitate to tell him the best thing that he could do would be to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. That is the first thing of importance that every one should do and when they find themselves safe in Jesus Christ then will be time enough to think of other things. It is so easy to become a Christian that I wonder lots of times why everybody is not saved.

My friend, hear Him today as He calls you to repent. Heed the gospel. Get right with God and all will be well with you, then you will look back on your old life and shudder at the risk that you have run for so long.

May the Lord bless you and save you is the prayer of—Elder Blossom.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school is still improving in numbers. We thank the Cane Creek folks for coming and taking part in our classes. We thank those who came from Pinedale; for every body come back next Sunday at 2 o'clock and bring some one with you. Come with a well studied lesson. We sure had a good lesson last Sunday. Teachers of the Sunday school, come back. You don't know what you are missing. We sure have a good Sunday school at Mt. Springs church one more time. I wonder why some that were coming have quit, for we have lots of new-comers with us. Everybody go to Sunday school at Cane Creek and Pinedale in the morning and Mt. Springs in the evening. Wake up, East View, let us hear from you. We haven't heard from you in a long time.

Walter Mastin, son of Dr. O. C. Mastin, has gone home after an appendicitis operation at the Central Alabama Hospital.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

GROWS TURKEYS AS CHEAPLY AS PORK

Luverne, Ala.—A pound of turkey meat can be produced for the same cost as a pound of pork. This has been demonstrated by Dr. George H. Smith, a physician and farmer living near here, who has had considerable experience in raising both turkeys and hoys.

Dr. Smith began raisinp turkeys about two years ago. He uses peanuts as the principal feed. In 1932 he raised and sold at Thanksgiving and Christmas 730 turkeys averaging 14 pounds each. He received a premium of two cents per pound because of superior quality.

Dr. Smith bred his own turkeys. He kept them in a brooder house and fed them a starting ration for baby chicks until they were 10 or 12 weeks old, at which time they were thansferred to a field of Spanish peanuts and cowpeas. This was done around July 15, the poults having been hatched early in April.

During the first half of September they were changed from Spanish peanuts and cowpeas to runner peanuts where they remained until sold at Thanksgiving or Christmas. The turkeys got all of their rations from the field from the time they were turned on pasture in July until sold.

Dr. Smith's work has attracted the attention of the poultry department at Auburn where his turkeys were examined and pronounced of superior quality. A test was conducted at which a group of county agents were judges and each one expressed preference for the peanut turkeys produced by Dr. Smith.

H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman at Auburn, is said to be of the opinion that turkey raising can be made a profitable business throughout Alabama by farmers who will produce peanuts for feeding them.

OTOOTAN IS BEST SOYBEAN FOR HAY

Auburn, Ala.—Otootan continues to lead as the best variety of saybeans for hay in Alabama, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who stresses the importance of soybeans as a crop for hay, grazing and soil improvements.

A five-year test conducted by the Experiment Station at Auburn gives the Otootan, Biloxi, Chiquita, Tarheel Black, Mammoth Yellow, and Laredo, as the six leading varieties in yield of hay. The Otootan and Chiquita have fine stems and produce hay of excellent quality while the Laredo has shown good production on land infested with cotton wilt, Mr. Lowery said.

He is suggesting that farmers secure seed now in preparation for planting.

KINGS AMONG TREES

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 28. — The tallest trees are found in Australia, and not in California as has often been thought. An Australian species of Eucalyptus is credited with individual trees approximating 500 feet in height. The tallest known Redwood of California is located at North Dyerville Flat, near Dyerville, in Humboldt County, and towers upward 364 feet.

The various species of Eucalyptus, with few exceptions, are native to Australia and Tasmania. They are commonly called gum-trees, or stringy bark trees, from their gummy or resinous substance, or fibrous barks. They are rapid growers.

The sequoias, of which the redwood is the more prominent, are conifers, as contrasted with the broad-leaved trees to which the Eucalyptus belongs. The redwood grows quite rapidly during the younger periods of its life, but later its growth is quite slow. Were it able to maintain a more constant rate of growth it might possibly equal or exceed the height of the giant species of eucalyptus, since it is a very long-lived tree. However, with the limitations as imposed by nature, the distinction of the world's largest tree species is borne by eucalyptus amygdaline, one of the so-called gum trees of Australia.

Three quarters of a ton of well rotted and pulverized stable manure applied to 1,000 square feet of thin, sod-bound Bermuda will often work marvels.

GAME AND FISHERIES

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 28.—A proposal that a series of field trials be held in Alabama each year, culminating in a grand final at which state champions would be selected, was placed before sportsmen attending the tenth annual trials of the Central Alabama Field Trial Club by commissioner I. T. Quinn of the game and fisheries department.

Lauding the development of fine field trial dogs as a stimulus toward breeding and traing better hunting dogs, Commissioner Quinn expressed regret that so few trials are held in Alabama.

He told the group, which gathered for the drawings preliminary to opening the trials February 22, that the central trials were the only trials slated for the state this year, and pointed to the popularity and national recognition given field trials in the adjoining states of Tennessee, Mississippi and Georgia.

Commissioner Quinn suggested that a series of trials might be held each year and climax in a final event that would crown the state champions. The central trials were held on the Sedgefield hunting preserve of A. G. C. Sage, New York sportsman, near Selma.

Representative R. J. "Bob" Goode of Gastonburg, has been elected president of the newly organized central Alabama Fox Hunters Association, which has a charter membership of 60 fox hunters.

The association was organized at Orrville on February 17 and in addition to electing a president, named H. T. Edwards of Orrville as secretary-treasurer and appointed an executive committee.

This committee is composed of the officers, Dr. J. G. McDonald of Marion Junction, Pete Hian of Selma, and the Rev. Carl Preer of Marion.

Another meeting has been set for March 17 when other officers and a board of directors will be selected.

Fox hunting has become one of the most popular sports in the state and the association has extended an invitation to all Alabama fox hunters, regardless of their place of residence, to join the organization.

Representative Goode also is president of the Alabama Coon Hunters Association.

Enroute from Mobile one night recently, H. C. Knowles of Chatom, an automobile dealer, reported that his automobile struck a deer on the highway about a quarter of a mile south of Wagarville.

He was a husky fellow, Mr. Knowles said, because after the collision he discovered that one of the headlights of his car had been knocked off and one fender was bent so badly he had to have it removed to repair it.

BRIEF FARM ITEMS

Seventy per cent of the world's population is engaged in agriculture, reports Country Life, London publication.

In periods of declining prices and hazardous investments the home garden is one of the few places where a dollar invested will be returned with dividends.

It is estimated that a raise of 1 per cent in price of farm products would do farmers as much or more good than a 10 per cent cut in taxes.

Although the amount of pork consumed by the Amercan public in the last three years varied less than 3 per cent, the price of hogs at farms dropped from $9.40 per hundred lbs., to less than $3.00.

By modifying the weight of gold in the dollar, any desired price level can be established and maintained, George F. Warren, head of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell University, says.

COTTON ACREAGE NOW GROWS FEED

Auburn, Ala.—Figures compiled here show that the "live-at-home" program sponsored by Alabama county agents has resulted in an important shifting of crop acreage from cotton to feed crops.

For example, cotton acreage has been reduced since 1930 by 611,000 acres and the acreage planted to corn, hay, sorghum, sugar cane and cowpeas has increased during the same period 638,000 acres.

In addition, cowpeas, peanuts, and velvet beans planted in corn for feed and for soil improvement have since 1930 increased 276,000 acres.

Lesson for March 5

JESUS GIVING LIFE AND HEALTH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 5:21-43.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad. Psalm 126:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Making a Little Girl Live Again.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Raising Jairus' Daughter.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life and Health Through Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity and Human Suffering.

The accounts of the raising of the damsel and the healing of the woman are so interwoven as almost to constitute one narrative, but since the principles are diverse and the places separate, and the one an interruption of the other, they should be treated separately.

I. Jairus' Daughter Raised From the Dead (vv. 22-24, 35-43).

1. Jairus' urgent mission (vv. 22, 23). His only daughter (Luke 8:42). Perhaps his only child lay dying. In this time of utter helplessness he came to Jesus for he had faith in his ability to raise her up. In the providence of God sorrow, sickness and death are often used to bring needy men and women into contact with Jesus. He showed the proper attitude toward Jesus, "he fell at his feet" (v. 22).

2. Jesus goes with Jairus (v. 24). Jairus believed that if Jesus would lay his hand upon his daughter she would live. Such faith always gets a response from Jesus. No one destitute of faith can receive his blessing.

3. News of his daughter's death (v. 35). This was a most startling message. The messenger who brought the news of her death suggested that Jesus should be excused from going further as it was now too late.

4. Jairus' faith strengthened (v. 36). As soon as Jesus heard the word spoken concerning the death of this girl, he said to the father, "Be not afraid, only believe." This is the message still to every distressed soul.

5. The mourners rebuked (vv. 37-39). He dismissed the crowd and allowed only three of his disciples and the parents of the damsel to enter this chamber of death with him. The tumultuous wailing showed the despair of the friends. In connection with this death-wail the Lord was ridiculed, but he declared that the girl could be awakened from her sleep of death.

6. Jairus' faith rewarded (vv. 41-43). He took the damsel by the hand and commanded her to arise. The expression "Talitha cumi" in the Aramaic may be freely translated, "Wake up, little girl." She straightway arose and walked and partook of food. Her walking was proof of the reality of the miracle. There was no sign of the weakness which usually follows a severe sickness.

II. The Woman With an Issue of Blood (vv. 25-34).

1. Her helpless condition (vv. 25, 26, cf. Luke 8:43). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years. In addition to physical suffering her malady involved ceremonial uncleanness which was perhaps harder to bear than the physical suffering. This ceremonial uncleanness meant her exclusion from the places of worship and divorce from her husband, as well as social isolation.

2. Her faith (vv. 27, 28). She possessed a real and earnest faith. Having heard of the fame of Jesus as a healer, she likely journeyed a considerable distance. For a poor emaciated woman after twelve years of suffering to press her way through a thronging multitude, shows that she possessed a determined purpose. The test of the actuality and quality of one's faith is the determined activity which it engenders. Her faith was so strong that she believed that contact with the Master's garments would secure the needed help.

3. Her healing (vv. 29-32). As soon as she touched the hem of his garment, she experienced in her body his healing power. Jesus was conscious of the outgoing of virtue from himself.

4. Her confession (v. 33, cf. Luke 8:47). She thought secretly to get the blessing of healing, but Jesus perceived that virtue had gone out from him and had her make a public confession.

5. Jesus' words of encouragement (v. 34). With the communication of his healing virtue he spoke most gracious and comforting words to this poor woman. He told her that it was her faith, not her touch that had saved her. Faith does not need to face danger and to exhaust itself in active endeavor in order to gain Christ's blessing. All that is required is a trusting prayer. She obtained the blessing immediately.

"Heavenly Visions"

"I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision." Thrice unhappy are they who have never had a heavenly vision, i. e., a vision of something higher and better than the life they have been leading. It may have come in a sermon, a biography, a holy life, a face, a deathbed scene illuminated with the light of another world. How if shamed, rebuked, cast down with infinite regret, then raised to a new hope and determination. Act, act, in the living present.

Central Singing Society

Despite the fact that the announcement was inadvertently left out of the paper last week, there was a crowded house at the singing last Sunday afternoon at Poplar Springs. One of the best singings of the season was held; and one of the contributing factors was the fact that there were plenty of books. The society has purchased three dozen new Stamps books, over half of the cost of which was taken among the congregation last Sunday afternoon. A collection will be taken at every singing until they are paid for.

Those directing were: W. M. Devaughn, Dr. J. B. Williams, Emmett Wilson, Jean Wyatt, L. T. Grant, Archie Devaughn, Floy Devaughn, Marion Easterling, and Jesse Jones. A. O. Boswell, O. R. Robinson, Jasper Jones and W. J. Gilliland were on the program, but at their request were excused from directing.

The singing next Sunday afternoon will be held at Concord. The public is cordially invited to attend. Try and be there by 2 o'clock and bring your books.

Holly Franks is still in Central Alabama hospital. He had an appendicitis operation of a very serious nature several weeks ago.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

On Saturday afternoon, February 25 Mrs. H. G. Franklin sponsored at the home a miscellaneous shower for Miss Doris Freeman, who expects soon to be married to Hubert Reinhardt, both young people of Thorsby.

The weather on Saturday was rather discouraging but the cozy little home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin had been converted into a bower with vines and blossoms. In the archway between the living and dining rooms hung wedding bells and beneath the arch sat the bride elect, robed in white rough crepe, and looked very sweet as she awaited the bringing of gifts from her many friends.

On either side of her were the ladies in waiting to help with the unwrapping of the many packages and the placing of them on exhibition in the various rooms. Beside the entrance door was a table with the bride's book for the registering of the guests. Mrs. Webb Parrish was in charge of this. Many beautiful articles of linen, glassware and other useful articles for housekeeping—all things to be appreciated as the young couple plan to go to house keeping immediately after the marriage.

Many beautiful vases of snapdragon carnations and daffodils were seen throughout the rooms. Those assisting on this pleasant occasion besides Mrs. H. G. Franklin as hostess, and the bride elect were: Mrs. Webb Parrish, presiding over the bride's book; the Misses Conradine Pate, Lucille Each and Lena Burrnett Williams and Dorothy Vaughn served refreshments. Mrs. V. E. Wyatt assisted in the living room. The misses Lena Bell Reinhardt, Marie Each and Marjorie Popwell served as ladies in waiting. Mrs. J. E. Each was in full charge of the serving.

The marriage of Mr. Hubert Reinhardt and Miss Doris Freeman both residents of Thorsby, is set for Saturday evening, March 4th at 8 o'clock in Thorsby Baptist church, Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor, officiating.

An unusual entertainment is promised to those who will attend a social at Thorsby Junior high school Saturday night, March 4th. Fun, coffee and cake only 10c. Don't forget to bring your handkerchief. Time, 7:30.

There will be the regular morning service at the Congregational church Sunday, March 5th. In the evening at 7:15 there will be stereopticon pictures with a lecture by Rev. Each. The title of the lecture is, "Friend Meets Friend in India."

The Congregational ladies aid social will be held Thursday, March 2nd at the home of Mrs. C. S. Howard.

The annual Declamatory contest of Thorsby Institute was held Saturday night, February 25. In spite of unfavorable weather a good audience attended. A five dollar gold piece was awarded to one of four girl contestants and one to one of four boy contestants. Elwyn Robinson was awarded the girl's prize and Carl Ekblad was awarded the boy's prize. Both are members of the Senior class of the Institute. The Reverend E. L. Benson of Elgin, Illinois gave the prizes for the contest. He has given these prizes for a number of years and is especially interested in this activity of the school.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say a few words in regard to the joint birthday celebration which was held at the home of R. N. Connell, the 22nd of February.

The celebration was in honor of R. N. "Bob" Connell and his son, Jodie. The former being 50 years of age and the latter 25. While the women were preparing dinner the men were enjoying a most interesting rabbit hunt. Useless to say, a bountiful dinner was served.

Those participating in the rabbit hunt and dinner were: Rev. M. Lockhart and family, A. N. Minor and family, Jodie Connell and family, Clark Powell, Carl McDowell. — A reader.

DEATH OF MRS. SORENSON

The body of Mrs. Nicoline Sorenson was brought from Chicago this week for burial at Thorsby. She had been living with an adopted daughter, Mrs. Brink, since the death of her husband, Mr. J. P. Sorenson, in April 1931.

Mr. Sorenson was a useful and highly respected citizen of Thorsby for a number of years. Mrs. Sorenson was very much an invalid and took no part in social or community life. She was, like her husband, of Danish birth, and when well must have been a strong character and a very good woman.

The body was brough to Clanton Tuesday afternoon on L. & N. train No. 3, where it was given in charge to J. Mell Martin to prepare for burial beside her husband at the Thorsby cemetery. The funeral was conducted at Thorsby Congregational church Wednesday afternoon by Rev. J. E. Each.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

We have come to a time when "men's hearts are failing them for fear." Every 48 minutes, on an average, some one in the United States commits suicide. Every 50 minutes some one is murdered.

A prominent physician has computed that at the present rate of increase of insanity in fifty years there will not be enough sane people to care for the insane.

Marcus Kavanaugh, a judge of the superior court of Cook County, Illinois, recently wrote a book entitled, "The Criminal and His Allies." His opening sentence is this:

"At this hour the most urgent and persistent call of patriotism in the United States demands the rehabilitation of justice, and requires that the nation take heed to the wide and spreading extent of crime."

Then as if to prepare the reader for what is to follow, he adds:

"However much it hurts to hear the truth, the situation obliges its utterance. Within twenty-five years the United States has become the richest and most powerful, the most lawless and the most law-ridden country on earth."

He then declares:

"In spite of all these laws and the uncounterable fortunes spent for the protection of our citizens, twelve thousand unshielded inhabitants perished last year at the hands of assissins. Stay a moment. . . . Unless the national mind becomes saturated with the realization that under the dreadful pall of these figures lie stretched twelve thousand stark, pathetic bodies, and that above them weep at least sixty thousand agonized kindred; and unless the men on the street and the women at their task are made to feel that for all this crime and suffering, they themselves bear a part of the responsibility, there will fall twelve thousand more next year and a like number every year after . . . . There is no crime wave, merely a constantly rising tide. It is sinful to minize the situation."

Many today are crying "peace and safety." But the apostle Paul says that when they make such declarations, "then sudden destruction shall come upon them." I Thess. 5:2, 3. In II Tim. 3:13 we are told that "evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse." The encouraging par of this situation is that it is an omen of the soon coming of the Savior to usher in the reign of peace and righteousness. For we find in II Tim. 3:1-4 the following:

"This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, . . . unholy, . . . without natural affection, . . . fierce, . . . lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God.—L. A. Butterfield.

A medicine that brightens people's lives

Fortunately for most of us, a state of happy health does not depend on strength. But like any other piece of machinery, the human machine must be properly regulated to run right.

There is a simple means of regulating the system. It makes an amazing difference in the way your organs function and the way you feel.

It pays most men and women to try this regulation. You may consider yourself in fairly good health today, and after only two weeks' regulating realize you were only half alive.

This means of stimulating the system to new life is a prescription, and it is known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It's derived from fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Every druggist keeps it on hand. Get some today, and take some tonight.

Whole households have blessed this family doctor's prescription. It has saved old and young from sluggish spells—and from downright sickness. It's the only tonic you may need; the only laxative you need. It is the most likeable and remarkable medicine you ever tasted.

Try one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and compare your condition with how you felt before!

W. J. DOWNS

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Amand Lodge No. 250, A F & A M:

We, the undersigned committee, heretofore appointed by you to draft and present suitable resolutions upon the death of our late Brother, William Joshua Downs, respectfully submit the following:

Brother Downs was born in Coosa County, Alabama, February 13th, 1848, and soon thereafter moved to Chilton County, Alabama, which was then a part of Autauga County, Alabama. In 1868, Brother Downs was married to Miss Diadem Askins, who departed this life some twenty years ago. To this union there were born three sons and three daughters, namely, Dr. E. H. Downs, Billingsley, Ala., J. A. Downs, Montgomery, Ala., J. L. Downs, Birmingham, Alabama, Mrs. Sada Pilgreen, Selma Alabama, Mrs. Maggie Vinson, Birmingham, Alabama, and Mrs. Lula Pilgreen, Birmingham, Alabama, all of whom survive Brother Downs.

Brother Downs was a Mason, true to the tenets of the order, and leaves a record of noble acts and duties well performed. He was initiated an entered apprentice in Amand Lodge No. 250, on January 29, 1871; passed to the degree of fellow craft on August 28, 1880, and raised to the sublime degree of master Mason on October 23, 1880. During the fifty-three years of his membership in the Masonic organization, he was very active until his health failed him a few months ago. During the last past few years, Bro. Downs made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Sada Pilgreen of Selma, Alabama, where he departed this life on February 15th, 1933. On February 16th, 1933, the remains of Bro. Downs were deposited in its resting place at Chestnut Creek cemetery, Cooper, Alabama, with Masonic honors. His life and record was worthy of emulation and he was a true and faithful brother among us, therefore,

Be it resolved that in the death of Brother William Joshua Downs that his family has lost a kind and affectionate father; this lodge a true and faithful member and the state a good and peaceful citizen, whose memory we shall always cherish and whose spirit we commend unto the God Who gave it.

Be it further resolved that we extend to the immediate family and relatives of Brother Downs, our heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of sorrow and irreparable loss, and,

Be it further resolved that suitable space in the minutes of our Lodge be set apart and these resolutions be inscribed theron and a copy of same, under the seal of this lodge be presented to the family and published in the county papers.—Respectfully submitted, M. A. Pinson, J. L. Smith, J. R. Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Willis, and Misses Burnice Williams, Sarah Colley, Margaret Kendrick, and Bonnie Clyde Griffins visited relatives in Tuscaloosa Sunday.

Mrs. Jake Shepard of Birmingham visited friends and relatives in Clanton this week.

Two lady school teachers from Brooklyn, spending their sabbatical year exploring western Canada, stopped at a small and old-fashioned hotel in Alberta recently.

One of the pair was inclined to be worrisome when traveling, and she couldn't rest until she had made a tour of the corridors to hunt out the exits in case of fire. The first door she opened, unfortunately, turned out to be that of the public bath, occupied by an elderly gentleman taking a shower.

"Oh, excuse me!" the lady stammered, flustered. "I'm looking for the fire escape." Then she ran for it.

To her dismay, she hadn't got far along the corridor when she heard a shout behind her and, looking saw the gentleman, wearing only a towel, running after her. "Where's the fire?" he hollered.

The annoying thing about this crowd of applicants for federal jobs under the incoming administration is that they all labor under the delusion that there's plenty of room at the top.

A professor says that within the next hundred generations the various races of humanity will merge, leaving only one race. If you don't believe him, wait and see.—Sioux Falls Daily Argus-Leader.

GOVERNMENT BY SCHOOLMASTERS IS UNDESIRABLE

The report is in circulation that President Roosevelt is being guided in the formation of his policies by two professors—Moley and Tugwell of Columbia University. One of these professors, it is declared, is to handle the war debt question, while the other is to be responsible for the administration's economic program.

The other day one of the professors put out what he declared was an outline of the financial policy of the new administration. This outline was summarized in six points, one of which was to borrow $5,000,000,000 at a low rate of interest for the purpose of launching a vast public works program to relieve unemployment.

It is obvious that Mr. Roosevelt will need all the assistance he can muster in meeting the stupendous task that faces him after March 4. No criticism can be directed against his seeking information and advice from all sources that are available. But the intimation that the complicated problems that face this nation and the world today are to be turned over to two professors, and that the president is to follow their direction as completely as those who speak for him suggest, is another matter.

Schoolmasters in politics have not tended to strengthen public confidence in this type of official. This is no slur on the schoolmaster so long as he sticks to his last. His profession, however, makes his a theorist, and as a rule separates him from the world of practical affairs. As a result his views are usually made to order to be fitted to the facts. This account for the over-ready approval that is given by members of this profession to so many millennial panaceas, which though good in themselves, fail to fit our present problems. This kind of a new deal does not, we believe, hold promise as a method of procedure today.—Manchester Guardian.

It is said that a petition signed by 430 New York clergymen has been sent to president-elect Roosevelt asking for recognition of Soviet Russia. Doubtless this is in return for the great service performed by the Soviets in the interest of religion.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Frederick H. Prince, president of the Chicago Stockyards Company, returning from a trip to Europe some time ago, had some harsh things to say about the part played in our government meddling by professors. The Chicago Tribune, of February 1, quotes Mr. Prince as declaring that these professors of the government-meddling type form one of the "chief curses of the country."

"You have only to think back the last ten years upon the difficulties into which we have been drawn because of the influence of the professors to realize that the sooner we get away from this influence the better we will be."

The professors to whom Mr. Prince referred are not, of course, the earnest and patient men and women who are quietly devoting their lives to science and to proper training of the young men and women of America. They are the professional gentlemen who seem to have a yen for running the government or at least telling Congress and the president how it ought to be run. These men, intensely impractical themselves, (many of them would get lost if turned loose unattended in the business district of a city as large as Kansas City or Seattle) become imbued with the idea that they could run the United States better than any other class of citizens could run it, but steer the course of the world better than providence can do it—some of them in fact even denying the existence of Providence.

Occupying professional chairs endowed by American business men they propose methods for destroying American business, and for placing the welfare of Europe over that of their own country—a system of biting the hand which feeds one, which could hardly be improved on for its efficiency and ingratitude.

That this statement is not exaggerated is evidenced by the fact that most of this political professional group has during the past decade advocated every internationalist doctrine calculated to benefit Europe at the expense of America, and every socialistic scheme calculated to undermine American business stability and individual initiative and enterprise. Free trade, the League of Nations, government ownership—these are sufficient to prove the case.

To go back to Mr. Prince. Asked about war debts he said:

"Never mind about Europe. If we take care of our own back yard she'll take care of hers. We aren't so poor and we aren't so miserable, but it's time we were engaging in a big measure of common sense. Chuck out the professors; declare a moratorium on farm and general business debts, and forget about Europe. That will lead us somewhere."

Here is some excellent advice for the professional group which Mr. Prince criticises so severely. If they will adopt it, the benefit will accrue not only to America at large but to the so-called higher educational institutions of the United States as well.

FARMERS AND THE TARIFF

Congressmen and senators, especially those from the agricultural states of the Middle West and far West, are being deluged with letters from their constituents urging that something be done for the relief of agriculture, and many of them adding that there will be open revolt and chaos if things are permitted to go as they are much longer. Some of the letters are said to carry an air of pathetic hopelessness while others are filled with suggestions of what ought to be done. Most frequent among the suggestions are those relating to inflation. Many of these farmers and real estate men seem to believe that if the government would only print more money, things would come around all right again.

A number of these letters were printed recently in a metropolitan newspaper and the same edition of this paper carried a statement from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to the effect that there are now more than 12,000,000 jobless workers in the United States.

It is passing strange that so few people seem disposed to link together the plight of the farmers and these twelve million idle workmen. The farmers are in their present condition because the prices of commodities which they raise and have to sell are so low, they can no longer pay taxes and interest on mortgages. The price of these commodities is so low because there is no market for them. The reason there is no market for them is there are twelve million American workers who have no jobs. If work could be found for them they would soon eat up the farm surplus. The price of farm commodities would then go up and the farmers be able to buy the products of the workmen with the result that the vicious circle of deflation would be reversed and become a circle of constructive effort.

Despite all these facts there as a great many statesmen who profess to believe that what we ought to do is to lower our tariff barriers still further and so add to the flood of cheap foreign goods which is even now in a great part responsible for the millions of idle workmen in America. That there is such a flood can be gathered by any person who will take the trouble to visit some of our stores and take a brief inventory of the goods on the counter. The foreign invasion has been made possible by the fact that a depreciation of currency in many nations has enabled their manufacturers to surmount our tariff walls which were built when most of the nations of the world still had sound money.

The internationalists who revel in this flood of foreign goods say that we must take it so that the foreign worker can buy the products of our farmer. The answer to this argument is not hard to find. The foreign workers are paid so poorly and in such cheap currency that they would be able to buy little of our agricultural products if so inclined. It is difficult to imagine an Oriental worker who lives on a handful of rice and a cup of tea a day, buying any American ham or porter house steak, even if he had the money which he hasn't and never will have if he works twelve hours a day, year in and year out.

Wouldn't it be a lot better to stop the holes in our tariff walls, shut out this flood of cheap foreign goods and turn the task of supplying our people over to the idle workmen who would buy good American meat and grain products, and good American butter and egg, if they had a job?

You are capable of doing your own work as well as any man living in any foreign country. No man living in a foreign land gets as much as you for doing the same kind of work as yours. Take pride in goods "Made in U. S. A." and buy them!

Scientists who propose to change to an electric dollar would be surprised to know how much shock we get out of the possession of the kind now in use.

A knitting machine has been exhibited in New York that does the work of 3,000 persons knitting by hand. If these come into general use, what are the firemen going to do?

Senator Logan says that the United States Senate has the "jitters." Dr. Copeland ought to be able to prescribe something for that.

Some of the people are in favor of sound money and others would just like to listen to the sound of money.

Our candidate for the Hall of Fame is Senator Bulow of South Dakota. He is quoted as saying that he hasn't any plan for saving the country.

One optimist declares that business will start again soon because nearly everything which the people had in 1929 is now worn out and they must start buying again. The trouble is that the old reliable head of the family is about worn out, too.

The statesman who wants to inflate the currency just a little bit and then stop, reminds us of the fellow who used to go in the corner saloon for just one drink and didn't get home for three days.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

Passing the Buck

When the presidential campaign was in full swing last fall, we heard from all sides much praise of the wealth of material Mr. Roosevelt would have to draw from in filling his cabinet positions. We heard the names of the greats and near-greats rattled off, one after the other, as sure to be in the cabinet. But it wasn't as simple as all that, when the real business of filling the Roosevelt cabinet became a reality instead of a dream. The "big men" who were expected to fill the positions had a word to say about that. Such men as Owen D. Young, Alfred E. Smith, Bernard M. Baruch, Carter Glass, and others quite as well known in political and economic America were exepected to be sure of appointment. And they might have been, too, if they had desired. These men have been called smart. Smart? They have proved themselves more than smart. True, they are proved men of ability and good sense, and that same good sense warns them to steer clear of the predicament they might find themselves in if they accepted places in the cabinet. They have political and economic reputations to uphold, and they realize fully the inability of any set of men to fulfill the promises and bring about the magic changes which have been promised to the American people, and which the people will be expecting under the new administration. They are not willing to risk their big reputations and assume the blame to follow, if and when this new administration fails to work miracles. They cannot be blamed for "passing the buck." But it leaves Mr. Roosevelt and the Democratic party in a tough place when the cream of the party's statesmen give that old Democratic train the high-ball signal as engineer Roosevelt stops for them to board it. Yes, they are smart—too smart to be caught in an impossible situation and risk coming out again with their whole political hides. And, so, after a manner, they say: "No, thanks—we don't care for the plums—they have stones in them, which would have to be swallowed, and they might bring aches and pains afterward."

"Grandma" Looks 'Em Over

And while we are on this cabinet business, let's look at good old "Grandma's" view of it, too. If consistency is a jewel, then "Grandma" (The Montgomery Advertiser) is a diamond mine, insofar as her loyalty to anything Democratic is concerned. "Grandma" always backs to the limit any Democrat or Democratic act, just so it stays under the Democratic emblem, be it good, bad, or indifferent. But she has yet to find anything wrong with any Democrat or his deeds. But even good old "Grandma" is put to it just a bit in trying to explain away the big Democrats' flat-footed refusal to become cabinet members. She bewails the fact that Young, Smith, Baruch, and Glass cannot be inveigled into the big net. And she finds herself forced to make some concessions which, I am sure, scraped her old case-hardened heart to do. Here are a few of them: "He (Roosevelt) owes a great deal to the independent Republican vote of the country." "We have a country to save. Genius is not the exclusive property of the Democratic party." If our party measures up to expectations after March 4, it will need a lot of help from many sources." Judging from these passages, "Grandma" must realize that the donkey is in a bog, with a big load to pull, and would not wave aside a few hunches from the old elephant now and then.

Our New Deal

Our "new deal" is here, and we have drawn the first card. And what is it? According to the general comment we hear from people who have studied the matter over, and from "gentlement of the press" the country over, both Democratic and Republican, with a liberal sprinkling of Independents thrown in for good measure, the general opinion is that this first card is a deuce—a deuce of a cabinet. One big Democratic daily has the following to say in regard to the matter: "The new cabinet can hardly be called a collection of the best talent the Democratic party affords." Another: "Not much regard for experience and proved ability is manifest in the selection of the new cabinet." A mid-Westerner says: "Better for all the country, in a crisis of this kind, if a little less of the "spoils system" and more broad-mindedness had been exhibited in this important item of picking the cabinet." One Republican paper says: "We find sapling timbers where steel girders should be placed." And an Independent sums it all up in one word: "Weak." From all this, we gather that the whole country, very near, considers that we have drawn a lowly deuce as our first card. Now, we must wait for the next one. What will it be?

A Mile in 13 Seconds

Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, brought his Bluebird" racer to Daytona Beach, Fla., a few days ago and set a new world's speed record—a bit over 272 miles per hour. Now, that's going some. He held the former record of 254 miles per hour, too. Just after he finished the run last week in which he made the new record, he said: "That is the worst ride I ever had." And I wouldn't doubt it a bit. Think of it. Over 272 miles an hour—nearly five miles a minute—a mile in a little over 13 seconds. No, thanks, I wouldn't care for a spin.

Relief or Repeal

It seems to me like the present Washington Congress has taken a strange view of what the people of this country need and want at this time. With thousands out of work, starving, shivering, and growing more and more impatient for something to be done to relieve their suffering, one would think the legislative bodies would bend their every effort to the relief of this forlorn situation. Too, it wouldn't be a bad idea to make a pass at trying to figure out some way to give a bit of help to the taxpayers. It seems to me they should think of this kind of legislation FIRST. Instead of this, they have spent weeks trying to get a repeal bill put over. Time and again I have heard it said that the best way to end the depression is by repeal of the 18th amendment. I have never been able to understand that view—I don't believe anyone, no matter how rabid a repealist he may be, conscientiously believes this idle statement. I would like to have someone explain in just what way a return of free liquor is going to furnish three square meals a day, or a new shirt or pair of shoes or a job to the average person. And, how is it going to help anyone to pay his taxes, just because he can step out to the corner saloon and buy a quart every time he wants it. That argument is the most foolish one I can imagine. That is why it seems so strange that our law-makers (or repealers) think of repeal before relief. "We ask for bread, and they give us a stone."—Man in the Moon.

DON'T CUT NAVAL INSURANCE

The proposed five per cent cut in federal expenditures, according to Secretary of the Navy Adams, if applied to his department, would reduce the number of American warships in commission to 66 per cent of the active British vessels and sonsiderably less than the Japanese. The cut would make it necessary, the Secretary added, to keep the entire fleet on the Pacific coast, slow down the work on naval construction and modernization, thus throwing 4,500 men out of employment, stop naval enlistments, reduce the personnel of the navy by 9,000 men, and reduce the Marine Corps by 1,150 men.

At the present time, Mr. Adams declared, the navy is 20,000 short of the number of men necessary to properly man our ships in commission. The further cut of more than 10,000 men, he added, would seriously cripple our national defense, seriously injure the morale of the service and add to the total number of unemployed.

The American people are certainly in favor of governmental economy, but they are not in favor of it at the expense of national safety. Now when everyone is being advised to cut down personal expenditures until the family budget is balanced, nobody is suggesting that this be done by curtailing the family life insurance. Yet econominzing at the expense of the United States navy is accomplishing it through cutting down the amount of insurance which the nation carries. There are many places where waste could be eliminated without touching this important arm of our national defense.

The world is now in a serious state of unrest. Surface conditions are much worse than in 1914 when the world seemed at peace and there was no universal depression and despair. And yet the great war descended upon the earth later in that year. Surely the prospects of peace are no more assured than they were in February 1914. The Orient is aflame and Uncle Sam is in real danger of trouble there, if he does not watch his step. Certainly it is not a good time to weaken the navy further. On the other hand, it should be strengthened in these troublesome times.

ANDREW JACKSON AND THE FRENCH DEBT

With the approach of the conference between British and American representatives on the question of the foreign debt, there have been some editorial references to date of the French debt in the time of President Andrew Jackson and how "Old Hickory" handled it. Needless to say, Jackson's methods were effective and France finally paid. In an interesting article in the current issue of the National Republic on "Jackson and the French Debt," Mr. George M. Battey, Jr., writes, in part:

"It seems to have been pretty generally overlooked in public discussions of the French World War debt to the United States that 100 year ago the Treasury Department was struggling valiantly to collect an obligation of not quite $5,000,000 from France for depredations on American commerce during the Napoleonic conquests from 1800 to 1817, a circumstance that nearly brought on war.

"After twenty-five years of haggling, the recall of ministers and finally a threat from President Andrew Jackson that he would wage war, the French paid the debt.

"The claims arose when American commerce was ground between the upper and nether millstones of Franco-British aggression. The claims were not pressed for some years because France was in a titanic struggle with England and other countries, culminating disastrously for her at Waterloo. Further, this country soon engaged in war with England, since English aggressions on American commerce had far exceeded those of the French. The effect of fighting England in 1812 served to aid the French greatly, but was not sufficient to bring final victory to French arms, and the decision to engage the British was made independently of the French treaty considerations.

"The French held back payment of $5,000,000, according to the American interpretation, because of the service rendered by the gallant LaFayette and the American failure to come to her aid as expected; but the reason given for failure to pay was that Andrew Jackson's opinions of France as expressed in each one of the eight annual messages, and in one special message to Congress, were offensive to that proud nation.

"This attempt to link up matters more or less foreign to each other and separated by many years is paralleled in the recent attempt to make the repayment of war debts dependent upon reparations from Germany and security pledges from the allies to France, whereby when President Wilson agreed to make the loans, no such things were written into the contract.

"The first step toward repudiation of a debt is a discussion of the merits of it and the lapse of time. While national debts made by one administration are held to be binding on its successors, the changes which politics bring about breed the evils of procrastination and indifference, which are at first pitied, then endured then embraced. Thus as the French debt of $5,000,000 assumed a venerable age and those who were responsible for it were out of office and many in their praves, the importance of paying it steadily diminished. King Louis Phillipe promised Minister Edward Livingston that France would pay, but for a long time the French Chamber of Deputies would not make the necessary appropriation or go through those formalities which are the very essence of any settlement. Jackson's messages, starting in 1829, had nettled French officialdom, and French officialdom took its time."

MARK ALL FOREIGN GOODS

A bill requiring all foreign goods sold in the United States to be marked with the name of the country in which manufactured was introduced in the National House on January 3 by Representative Martin of Massachusetts.

"This bill does not call for any discrimination against foreign goods," Martin said, "it merely broadens the knowledge of the American buyer so he can, if he wishes, buy goods which will take American workmen off the streets and put them back to work, where the earning power will help expand the purchasing power of the country and help end the depression."

The bill is entirely meritorious and such a law would prove expident. It certainly ought to have the unqualified support of industry and industrial workers.—Industry and Labor.

Political life in France and Germany is surely uncertain. You are liable to be an office holder over there today, and nothing tomorrow—not even a lame duck.

Oue of our friends says he is going to save a lot of money this year by patriotically declaring to his ambitious family that he won't go to France until the French pay us what they owe us.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Politics Continues Hot

About all I can hear on my corner is politics. Now and then I shift over to another corner, and still it is politics right on. It would take a whole page in the paper to list all of the opinions, rumors, guesses, and comments one can hear about county politics in a day. And I guess if a fellow were to repeat all he hears, he would be shot before sunrise or hung without a trial.

Hotter Than Hot

By reports coming from those who saw and heard it, I conclude that the hottest outburst of politics seen in Chilton County in many years was when Judge Reynolds took a few minutes off last Thursday afternoon to tell the Commissioners what he thought of them. It is the general conclusion that the Judge did not leave any room for doubt or uncertainey as to his feelings about a number of political and official actions that have recently transpired. Some political history was written on that little occasion.

Rumors Continue in the Wind

As I said last week, political rumors continue to fly thick and fast. So far the bill to abolish the Commissioners Court has not appeared as predicted. But another step is reported in the movement to set up court proceedings to turn out of office those Republican officials who were elected last November. About all one can hear about the proposition in Clanton is questions. Answers to the questions are few, if any. The fame of our latest political upheaveal has already spread to regions beyond our own borders, however. An article published in The Birmingham News Tuesday attempts to enlighten the world to some extent. It says: An investigation headed by H. N. Smith, of Cooper, and said to have been selected to represent a group of more than 100 citizens who held a meeting in the law offices of Grady Reynolds here, may result in quo warranto proceedings being filed against four Chilton County office holders in regard to the expending of campaign funds in the last November election is reported in Clanton.

The investigation was instigated after it is alleged to have been found that an expense account filed in the office of Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds does not conform with the requirements of the corrupt practice act. The law requires that all sums in amounts above $5 expended in a campaign for office must be itemized. Reports are that this phase of the act was violated along with others.

Should the accusations be substantiated, charges may be brought in Circuit Court to have the officials accused removed from office, it is understood.

A meeting of the committee is to be held this week it is understood, to determine steps to be taken in continuing the investigation.

Friends of the officials who are being investigated charge it is merely a political backfire by Judge Reynolds, evolving out of drastic changes made recently in the personnel of county employees over his disapproval.

A rift in the Republican party, which has been power in Chilton County for more than 25 years, has been evident for the last three years, and there is an open breach between members of the Commissioners Court and Judge Reynolds, who is the leader of one faction.

There is Joy and Sorrow

Every question has at least two sides. So has politics. To throw some Republicans out of office by any means, regardless of how violent, would bring joy to the hearts of some people on the other side of the political fence. It has been tried many times in Chilton County, but has never been accomplished. That is the record of the past. What is in the future no one can foretell. Sorrow over the discord that exists in the Republican party is heavy upon the hearts of many people. There are those who cherish the record that the Republican party has made in the affairs of Chilton County in the past years. They grieve to think of situations arising that brings their party leaders into disagreement and bitterness with each other. Yet there are some Republicans who declare they do not care if certain Republican officials are turned out. So there you are. Two sides to the question.

A Natural Consequence

It does not require a statesman or wise man to see that the present turbulent situation of the Republican party in Chilton County is the natural outgrowth of sinfulness in the hearts of men toward one another. I have predicted this fatal day would come sooner or later. I have been criticized for predicting it. Now, I ask you was I right or wrong? Every man who disregards the rights and priviledges of the other fellow will soon run into a snag. That is what is the matter with our Republican politicians in Chilton County. There are too many who have taken the bull by the horns and tried to run to other fellow's business harder than he has tried to run his own. I have a rule which I have found works mighty well. I commend it to some of my friends in the Republican party. I spend half of my time looking after my own business and the other half in letting the other fellow's business alone. And in conclusion, I want to say that I have decided that politics is just about the same thing Sherman said war is; and you know that.

Some men gain fame after years of toil by great scientific achievement—others by becoming fugitives from a chain gang and bragging about it.

The British king will not lose his horses. The national budet will provide for their maintenance for another year. It's all right with us for them to retain the king's horses, just so they don't write any more songs about them.

The old fashioned man who got his education in a little red school house and then made money now has a son who goes to a big university and then spends money.

It is said that Hannibal cut a way over the top of the Alps by melting the ice with vinegar. Just think how much easier it would have been if instead of vinegar he had had some 1933 American hooch.

Wouldn't you like to be able to turn back the hands of the clock of Father Time for four or five years and sell that stock you neglected to dispose of in October, 1929?

Some of our professional prison reformers won't be satisfied until each convict is provided with a chisel, a steel drill and a twelve cylinder car for a quick get-away.

WANTED — Seventy-five flowers, wild flowers, tame flowers, wall flowers or what have you?

If you see some bothered student ruffling his hair over drawings of triangles within circles, hexagons, octagons, and other geometrical ascriptions he is without little proof, a member of the geometry class. Be not afraid of any student walking in circles because he is not a jig saw puzzle addict, he is only attempting to solve some entangled geometrical ism.

Conscientious student—Mr. Varnell, I spent hours every night studying biology, causing me to lose hours of helpful sleep.

Mr. Varnell—Yes, killing bed bugs.

A very interesting program, commemorating George Washington's birthday was given in chapel last Wednesday morning. Sarah Hollis rendered a wonderful talk on "The Character of Washington," which was followed by "The Estimates of George Washington," by Dan Smith. John Ezell concluded the program with "The Rules of Conduct of George Washington." These students were the guests of the Kiwanis Club at their regular meeting last Thursday night and gave their speeches before the club.

From the Junior III civics class's study of transportation have come many beautiful and attractive booklets entitled "transportation." These booklets picture the growth and value of transportation in all parts of the world.

The average man lives 31 years longer than he did in 1800. He has to in order to pay up his taxes.

Students really use note book paper here. And it is hard to keep in a supply when a dime's worth of notebook paper gets tired of its surroundings, develops legs, usually two, and ambles off.

I wonder:

Why a certain teacher ended one of his or her comical habits.

Where are the good old days when freshmen were freshmen and the sophmores made them like it.

What the student body likes to sing.

Oh Boy, are we proud of our basket ball team.

There are being shown many good examples of real honest-to-goodness school spirit around here recently. If all students were as school spirited as the few (should I say few) were, what a grand school this would be. Yet, who knows, these other students if given a chance could show their mettle.

Much can be learned from grading papers was the statement of a teacher here recently. The pupils were surprised to hear him or her say this, because they were of the opinion that he was a very learned teacher. Here are just a few of the things this teacher learned from grading papers: A coddling moth lives in clothes; flu should be spelled flue; a forest has control of ten thousand acres; a forest ranger is in charge of one hundred thousand acres; influenza is spelled influence. Now don't go and look in Webster to see how you really do spell it.

This week marks the first week of the second month of our existence as a private school, and things are running along rather smoothly, except like many other businesses, we are not abounding in wealth.

The Senior II class is proud to have in its midst James Dennis. James is slated to be a winner in a recent essay contest of the 4-H club. James is doing great work and is president of the 4-H club of Chilton County.

Vatchel Lindsey spent Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gore of Mineral Springs community. He visited the springs Sunday, and spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. Wash Heflin. He reports a mighty fine time on the whole visit.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Mr. Worthy Hughes, local county agent, spent a busy day in the County Training School community last Wednesday. Terracing was the order of the day. Old terraces were changed and a few new ones were laid off for Ralph Oden and Ben Love. Instruction was given on the method of eliminating deep ditches. Those present at the demonstration were Felton Pierson, A. G. Gordon, Arthur McKinney, A. B. Craig, Ralph Oden, and Benjamin Anderson. The teacher of agriculture assisted in the demonstrations.

Shop Work

The shop was a very busy place during the entire week. The articles brought in for repair were as follows: wagons, fire dogs, saws, single trees, axes, scrapes, scooters, and single stocks.

Quite a bit of interest was manifested in our first day's work. A number of persons who have been farming for many years made attempts to sharpen their first scooter. It is anticipated that a larger number will be out each week.

Poultry Plan

I have decided to try the business of poultry raising.

Selecting breed—I will select the Rhode Island Red because it is a general purpose breed and is best suited for my use.

Building House—I will build a house out of material picked up on the farm. I see lots of tin and old lumber around home I can use.

Securing chickens—I shall buy some baby chicks for an early start. Then I will hatch as many as possible. I would buy all, but I don't have the money.

Feeding chickens—I will feed my baby chicks starting mash and growing mash. I will feed my hens laying mash and corn, because that is all I have on hand.

Making nest—I will make my nests out of scrap lumber and pine straw, because they can be secured cheap and make fine nests.

Culling the laying flock—I shall cull my hens by the Purina method.

Sanitation—I shall keep my vessels clean and disinfect my poultry house in order to keep my chickens healthy.

Selling fryers—I will sell my fryers to the market and to the people.

Selling culls—I will sell my culls to any person who pays market price.

Selling eggs—I will sell eggs to any person who pays market price. Eggs are usually highest in the fall of the year, for that reason I shall get my pullets off to laying about that time.—By Clinton Calloway.

Plan for My Cotton Project

I had decided to grow and market four acres of D. P. L. 4-8 cotton with the intention of growing more next year if possible.

I will select my land in sandy loam soil; it is the best I have for cotton.

I will select D. P. L. 4-8 seed, because the lint from these seeds sells fast.

I will lay off rows 3 feet wide with a Ga. stock. I shall make the long rows near the terraces.

I shall use my father's planter setting it so that it will put out not less than 1 bushel per acre.

I shall use the Auburn minimum which is as follows: 200 pound acid, 100 pounds soda and 25 pounds of potash per acre. This will amount to 800 pounds of acid, 400 pounds of soda and 100 pounds of potash. I shall mix all of the acid, potash and 100 pounds of the soda, and put it out with a distributor at planting time. I shall side dress my cotton with soda, at the rate of 75 pounds per acre, immediately after chopping.

I will cultivate with a scrape and scooter, and a Ga. stock, because they are good implements for that purpose.

I shall do as much of the chopping as possible, so to try to keep down cost.

I shall also pick as much of my cotton as possible. Anything I can do will save money for me.

I shall haul cotton with my father's 2-horse wagon.

I will gin my cotton where local farmers gin.

I will sell my cotton to the one who offers the best price.

Mabel—What's worrying you, David?

David—I was just wondering if dad would see to the milkin' while we're on our honeymoon, supposin' you said "yes" if I asked you to marry me.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

THE PAST OF MARY HOLMES

Helen MacKellar analyzed the difficulties of portraying a charcter with a brilliant history while discussing her role of the Goose Woman in "The Past of Mary Holmes," at RKO-Radio.

Louise Dressler played the same role in the silent version of Rex Beach's story, "The Goose Woman" from which "The Past of Mary Holmes" was adapted.

"Louise Dressler's was a great performance," Miss MacKellar said, "and by reason of that, my own preparations were so much more difficult. If I would be willing merely to cop her characterizations, I could hardly call myself an actress.

"I attacked the role as I would if I were playing it on the stage. I read it, re-read it, dreamed it, ate it, lived it. I tried to evolve a charcaterization that would be something unique.

"My opinion always has been that an actress cannot think herself in terms of how well she looks on the stage or screen, or how much she hogs the scene. It is a matter of developing a characterization that will live forever in the minds of the audience. That's my goal!"

"The Past of Mary Holmes," will show at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton, Monday and Tuesday, March 6 and 7.

Eric Linden plays the important role of the son whom Mary Holmes, as the mother, hates because his birth ruined her voice and brought her great operatic career to an inglorious end. Jean Arthur and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher portray other leading roles.

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Plans to use a century of progress—the 1933 international exposition—"as a show window" for the display of Mississippi's resources were revealed here today by E. H. Bradshaw, of Jackson, Miss., chairman of the Mississippi Commission to the World's Fair.

Mississippi has alerady reserved 2,000 square feet of space in the Hall of States on northerly island for the exhibit of its agriculture, industries, raw materials, health, recreation and education.

"Few people realize the great advantages that Mississippi offers to American youth in the way of opportunity, natural beauty, recreational advantages and health," said Bradshaw. "And we intend to show them here. Go south, young man, will be our new slogan.

"In Mississippi is located a potential oil field that will make the state the oil center of the future. Jackson, the capitol, is located over a huge gas well.

"Mississippi is the home of the new tung oil industry and is the best adapted section in the country for growth of these trees. Already 2,000,000 are growing, and it is estimated that within five years there will be 100,000 acres of them. The nuts produce essential oils for the manufacture of paints, varnishes, linoleum and other water-proof compounds, the potential American market for which is estimated at $90,000,000 annually.

"Mississippi is fast becoming a leading dairy state and affords the best grazing for livestock for a greater period of the year than any other state in the union.

"The laws of Mississippi are more favorable to capital than those of practically any other state in the union. The largest single industry is wood-working but there are also wood by-products plants, notably the Masonite Corporation of Chicago, whose plant is located at Laurel, Miss."

As potentate of the Wahabi Temple Mr. Bradshaw plans to bring a delegation of Shriners from New Orleans, Shreveport, Birmingham, Mobile, Little Rock, Jackson, Memphis, and Pine Bluff to Chicago next July, on their way to the national convention in Atlantic City.

Mr. Bradshaw will leave Chicago on Friday night for Little Rock, location of the Federal Home Loan Bank, of which he is a director. He is staying at the Palmer House.

Mrs. Garland Foshee (Myrtle Popwell) was carried to a hospital in Kansas City last week for treatment for cancer. She was accompanied by her husband and brother, Horace Popwell. The trip was made by automobile. A telegram from Horace Sunday said they reached Kansas City all right.

Unless the county pays a land company $5,000 for a right-of-way on a half-mile stretch on Bankhead Highway east of Leeds, paving of the road through Jefferson County may be blocked, officials declared.

Five Alabamians will be among those to enter the air corps primary flying school of the United States Army at Randolph Field, Texas, March 1, according to information received in Birmingham.

Robert E. Hyde will assume management of the Bankhead Hotel, Birmingham, succeeding W. N. Porter, who for the past 11 months has been manager of the hotel for the Nashville operators.

Officers of the Birmingham Republican Club were reelected at the Lincoln Day dinner at the Molton Hotel.

A long-expected event materialized when the Birmingham Civic Symphony Orchestra gave its first concert at Phillips High School auditorium under the direction of Dorsey Whittington.

Tom Roan, magazine writer, will be tried for the third time in connection with the death of Dr. W. P. Hicks, Collinsville physician, in DeKalb County Circuit Court Thursday, Feb. 23.

Gov. Miller honored extradition papers from Louisiana asking for the return of W. E. and Jesse Walker, wanted in Mansfield, La., to answer charges of burglary and larceny.

ABOUT CREDITS IN PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Statement Comes From B. Lawrence, County Superintendent

There is much talk about the credit children are to receive in the private schools which are being operated in the county at this time. I am unable to make any definite statement at this time as to just what will be done. Everyone will readily recognize the fact that it is going to be a problem as to what to do because some of the children are going to be ready for promotion to the next grade and most of them will have completed the first half grade. Of course our program next year will have to be built around the regular term work.

I understand that some teachers are guaranteeing that if the children are sent to them they will be promoted. Any such guarantee is impossible even in a regular school. I would say without hesitation that a child would have better chances for promotion in those regular operated private schools than in some which are being operated in a private home. To illustrate what I am attempting to say I will mention one school. The Clanton community has a private school which is being operated in the school building with the same teachers who taught in the public school. They have the same equipment and the same program they operated on the first half of the year. To say that just as good work could be done in a private home where the necessary equipment is not available is the same thing as saying to a surgeon that as good operation could be performed in my home as in the hospital. It is just as necessary to have equipment to teach as it is to do some other things.

I think now that an entrance examination will be given all pupils next fall to determine which pupils are ready for the next grade. We wish to be fair to all children, and I know of no other plan at this time than to give an entrance examination. However, I am not willing to make any definite statement at this time as to just what plan will be followed but we will try to do something about it to give every child a square deal in so far as it is possible.—B. Lawrence, superintendent.

"HOT COPY" PRESENTED BY THE CALERA DRAMATIC CLUB

Although the attendance was small, due to the upheaval of business conditions when the banks closed last week, the Calera Dramatic Club came to Clanton last Friday night and carried through their presentation of "Hot Copy" according to schedule.

It was a fine play, well presented, and thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. The scene of the play was a newspaper office, which for the sake of local color, was represented as being the office of The Union-Banner. The story dealt with newspaper life, coupled with the pressure of politics directed toward controling the editorial policies of the paper.

Members of the cast in the play were Lillie Pearl Shaw and Eric Elliot, newspaper reporters; Chester Crim, foreman of the shop; Ruth Collins, his assistant; Miss Edwards, a friend of the editor, with experience on city newspapers; James Pilgreen, the editor; Miss Mamie Bishop, a wealthy lady who had been elected president of the state voters league, and who was also the paper's good griend; Mrs. Lillian Collins, secretary of the town's civic league; and Jack Harris, who played the part of a colored messenger boy.

The Harmony Four, consisting of Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Bert Dodge, Leon Busby, and R. L. Holcombe, with Mrs. Dodge, pianist, sang several numbers between acts. A young man preached a negro sermon which was full of pep and drew the loud applause of the audience.

The play was given for the benefit of the Parent-Teachers Association of Clanton. It is regrettable that so few of our people attended. But thanks to the good spirit of the Calera Dramatic Club, the entertainment was carried out with just as much zeal and effort as if the house had been full.

Farm Hands Wanted

Boys who are interested in securing a good place to work on a farm this spring and summer are asked to call at the Child Welfare office on Mondays or Saturdays. References are required.

In responce to last week's advertisement, Miss Austin says a number of farmers have applied at the office requesting names of boys who may be secured for work. She has had more applications than she has workers to fill.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE COMPANY

It has been agreed between the board of directors and the operators of the Peoples Telephone Company that no calls will be answered by the operators after March 15th for people who have not paid their central fees.

The time of those who paid one dollar was out March 1st, so they will not be granted central service after March 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Copelan accept anything that they can use in their home. But they must have some money to live on. So, those who can pay cash will please do so; but if you can't raise the money, bring them something to eat or some fire wood or pine.

THORSBY TEAM WON IN FINALS

Play-Off Period Gave Them Victory By the Score of 29 to 28

Thorsby went home with the county championship last Saturday when they played Enterprise in the final game. The last game was a game, and didn't any one know until the last whistle blew who was going to win.

At the end of the first quarter Thorsby was leading by one point, 9 to 8. At the half the score was 15 and 15. Then at the end of the third quarter Enterprise was in the lead 24 to 20 and at the end of the game they had tied again. After playing an extra period, Thorsby gained one point when Enterprise called time out for the fourth time, this being a penalty an Enterprise gave Thorsby a free shot which Bull Littleton made count.

The line-up for Thorsby was, forwards; Cleckler (8), B. Littleton (5), center, Peterson (11), guards, Nix (2) Littleton (3), Sub., Lowery.

The line-up for Enterprise: forwards, Yeargan (4), Martin; center, Broadhead (12); guards, Tucker (9). Cagle (1), Silas (2).

There were seven teams that entered: Thorsby, Enterprise, Pleasant Valley, Thomas, Verbena, Mt. Pleasant, and Collins Chapel.

The first game stared with Pleasant Valley and Thomas Jr. Pleasant Valley won 28 to 9. The next game Thorsby and Collins Chapel, with Thorsby winning 37 to 10. The third game was Enterprise and Verbena which Enterprise won 19 to 12. The fourth game was with Mt. Pleasand Collins Chapel which the latter won 29 to 13. The fifth game, Enterprise and Pleasant Valley, and Enterprise won 18 to 11. The sixth game between Thorsby and Collins Chapel with Thorsby winning 56 to 28. The last game Thorsby 29 and Enterprise 28.

Mr. Hiten, coach of Verbena High School, called all the games but one. He certainly kept everything moving nicely and we thank him very much for that. The day showed a large crowd. Some good basket ball games sent every one home with a good spirit to keep.—Cecil Yeargan.

TOOK IN ONLY A QUARTER

Business done at the Probate office Monday offers a fair sample of the effect of the business holiday which we are now in. Judge Reynolds stated Tuesday that the cash business done by his office Monday reached a total of twenty-five cents. According to Judge Reynolds that was the smallest day's business he has ever recorded in his office over a period of more than twenty years.

SHERIFF'S NEWS

Business has been light with the Sheriff's office the past week. Only two arrests have been made. One for assault and battery; one for violating the prohibition law.

The jail register Wednesday morning showed twelve prisoners in confinement.

4-H Club Boys Plan Meeting March 16

Annual County Rally Will Be Held At The Courthouse On Next Thursday. Plans Made For Entertaining About Four Hundred Boys

County Agent Stapp announces that on Thursday, March 16, the 4-H club boys of Chilton County will hold their annual club rally at the courthouse in Clanton. Mr. Stapp states a very interesting program is being worked out to begin promptly at 10:00 o'clock. He is expecting more than 400 boys to attend this year. Those who remember the rally last year recall the boys had a big time hunting Easter eggs. The eggs were provided by the Kiwanis club of Clanton.

This year the members of the Kiwanis Club are going to eat lunch with the boys. Mr. Stapp is arranging to provide sandwiches for lunch.

One interesting feature of the program this year will be the awarding of the silver loving cup offered last year by the Kiwanis Club to the 4-H Club making the best record in 1932. This cup was won last year by the Concord club. If Concord club wins the cup again in 1933 it becomes theirs, but we understand Maplesville and Jackson Chapel clubs and possibly some others say they are going to win the cup for 1933 and take it away from Concord. All 4-H club members are urged to attend this rally. Boys who have not done 4-H club work heretofore but wish to carry projects in 1933 are urged to attend also.

While here the day of the rally, each club will be asked to assemble and elect officers for 1933. James Dennis, president of the countywide 4-H club, is especially anxious for a large attendance on the 16th.

Recently Mr. Stapp sent out the following letter about 4-H club work:

Would you like for your boy to do 4-H club work in 1933? The object of club work is to prepare boys for better life. Read the enclosed card.

If you have a boy and would like for him to become a member of the 4-H club, let him attend one of the meetings as scheduled on the back of this letter.

We had twenty-two organized 4-H clubs last year, with officers and leaders. Last year the Kiwanis Club of Clanton offered a silver loving cup to the club making the best record and reporting same. The cup was won by Concord Club. Verbena Club pushed pretty close. The cup and watches will be awarded at the club rally in March or April. The following is a part of Concord's report of activities:

"We have avereged holding a meeting once a month for the entire year and all of the meetings were very good. We had discussions on various subjects each time. There was an average attendance of about two-thirds of the membership at each meeting.

"We have put on three plays during the year, raising a total amount of $30.20. Out of this we have given one community picnic and three socials. The balance of the money we gave to the P.-T. A. of Concord Junior High School to be placed in the building fund.

"We held a public debate at the County Courthouse with the Verbena Club, the subject of the debate being, Resolved, that the farmers of Chilton County should follow the live-at-home program instead of depending on cash crops to buy living necessities. The Verbena Club won.

"Our members had a wonderful time on the 4-H club camp last summer.

"We are endeavoring now to organize a 4-H basket ball team."

If your boy lives too far from any of the places listed below and cannot be in an organized club, if he would like to, he may be a lone 4-H club member by writing to me and telling me what kind of work he wishes to do.

The following is a list of the projects from which a boy may select: Corn, cotton, garden, truck crops, purebred sow, the meat hogs, purebred Jersey heifer, and a beef animal. The boy may take any one or more of these projects, study the best methods and keep records on his work.

If you give your boy a project and allow him to become a club member have some understanding as to what the boy is to get out of the work. If he does his work well he will get good training, but in addition to the training let him realize some monetary value. By this I mean that if the boy would be interested in caring for all your meat hogs for the year, tell him that you will try to cooperate in helping him do the things that will enable him to produce meat as cheaply as possible, and at the same time you will give to him one of the hogs to sell. You might specify the smallest hog or the largest hog. A similar understanding should be had relative to cotton, corn, or any other of the projects.

The organized clubs will be furnished programs to be carried out each month. At each place we have an organized club, we will select some adult person to meet with the boys and help them with their meetings. If you are selected by the boys of your community, I trust that you will meet with them every time and help them to have the kind of meetings you would like for your boy to attend.

I am in position to do more work with the boys this year than I have been able to do in the past, and I trust that I may have your full cooperation.

30 PER CENT ACREAGE REDUCTION REQUIRED TO SECURE CROP LOANS

Reduction of 30 per cent in the acreage planted to cash crops will be required this year of farmers who procure crop production loans, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde announced today in making public the regulations governing the 1933 loans.

In making available for crop production loans this year $90,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds, congress specified that the secretary of Agriculture might require, as a condition of the loan, "that the borrower agree to reduce his acreage or production program on such basis not to exceed 30 per centum, as may be determined by the secretary." The secretary's regulations, however, stipulate that acreage reduction will not be required of farmers who, in 1933, plant no more than 8 acres of cotton; 2½ acres of tobacco; 40 acres of wheat; 20 acres of corn; 2½ acres of truck crops; 12 acres of sugar beets; 8 acres of potatoes; 30 acres of rice and 8 acres of peanuts.

Farmers seeking crop production loans this year are advised to obtain application blanks and copies of the regulations in their home counties, rather than from Washington. Field agents of the Crop Production Loan Office are now designating representatives in each farming county to inform prospective borrowers of the requirements governing loans and to distribute application blanks and other necessary forms. These agents will assist farmers in filling out applications, without charge.

Accompanying the required 30 per cent reduction in acreage planted to cash crops, above the established minimum, the 1933 regulations limit the amount available to any farmer to $300. In 1932, crop production loans were made to 507,632 farmers, averaging $126 each. No loans in excess of $100 will be made to any applicant who is in arrears on as many as two previous loans made by the secretary of agriculture. As last year, interest is fixed at 5½ per cent, to be deducted when the advance is made. All notes are due October 31, 1933. Advances to borrowers may be made in installments, the regulations state, inasmuch as expenditures for crop production are usually made over a considerable period.

One million dollars of the $90,000,000 funds is available for livestock feed in drought or storm stricken areas.

Charging a fee for the preparation of a borrowers application is expressly forbidden this year in Section 3 of the Act of Congress authorizing the crop production loans. Congress further declared these loan funds "to be impressed with a trust to accomplish the purposes provided for by this resolution—and it shall be unlawful for any person to make any material false representation for the purpose of obtaining any loan or to assist in obtaining such loan or to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any loan made under authority of this resolution, except for the account of the secretary of agriculture, and for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this resolution.

Teeth for Section 3 are provided in a clause which orders a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding six months or both, for any person found guilty of violating the above provisions.

Clanton's Banks

Confindence and faith in the sound condition of the local banks in Clanton has served as a stabilizer for our community while we are laboring under the handicaps caused by the nation-wide suspension of all bank operations.

This community believes in its banks. There is confidence in our bankers. Everybody feels that the weight of the present emergency will lighten as quickly as possible, and that our banks will come out of it with heads up.

The good old American spirit of smile, grin and endure it is still predominant. There is always a joke on every occasion. The present serious condition has not been without the leaven of levity.

Everybody feels that the resourcefulness of our national leaders can be depended upon to put our financial house in order again. Awaiting that time our people are content to make the best of a bad situation, which they have universally accepted as necessary and unavoidable.

NEWS OF COUNTY BAPTIST AFFAIRS

Executive Committee of Unity And Chilton Associations Held Here

Last Friday, March 3rd, the executive committees of the Unity and the Chilton County Associations met in joint meeting at the Clanton Baptist church. After a fine devotional conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones, Thorsby, Dr. L. E. Barton, State Secretary of Misions, delivered a wonderful inspirational address in which he called upon us to trust God and go ahead.

Several matters were discussed, and it was agreed to urge upon all our churches to push the mission offerings in all our Sunday Schools March 26th. This is fery important to give some pressing relief to our mission agencies just now. It is hoped that every Sunday School will talk this matter and also make best possible offering on the above date. It was also agreed to cooperate in raising some cash for our work by cooperating in the southwide movement to gather up all the old gold and silver articles now in discard and sell them to help our mission causes. This campaign closes the last of March. Any church or individuals who have old watch cases spectacle frames, spoons, etc., and wish to give them to the cause of our mission work, may send them direct to Dr. Barton, Montgomery, or to Rev. S. J. Ezell, Clanton, Alabama, and he will send them in for you. Much good could be done if each church community would appoint a committee to solicit this useless stuff to us, and give it to our missionary work.

The two committees also went on record unanimously opposing the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment against liquors and urged upon our people to be on guard against false promises of no saloons.

UNCLE TOM HENDERSON DIED LAST FRIDAY AT MT. CREEK

Uncle Tom Henderson, age 75 years, died at his home in Mt. Creek last Friday night. Funeral services in charge of Rev. S. J. Ezell were held at the residence Sunday at three o'clock in the afternoon, after which the body was carried to Montgomery by Spigener and buried in Elmwood Cemetery. Final rites at the grave were in charge of the Masonic Lodge, of which he had been a member for many years.

Mr. Henderson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Effie Henderson; four sons, T. J., of St. Louis, Mo., F. O. of Birmingham, W. C. and C. A. of Mt. Creek; three daughters, Miss Mary Henderson, of Mt. Creek, Mrs. J. C. Woodley, of Montgomery, and a married daughter, Mrs. G. W. Narman, who lives in the Canal Zone.

For close on to fifty years Mr. Henderson has been one of the leading citizens of the Mt. Creek community. He always took an active part in fraternal and civic affairs. He was honored and very useful citizen. was an honored and very useful citizen. The funeral was held on the 51st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson.

Dr. and Mrs. Amzi Gowan, William Gowan and little daughter, Sarah Frances, of Brewton, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

BANK OPERATION STILL RESTRICTED

Stress Put on Supplying Necessary Functions of Existence

Washington, March 7.—The nation's banks were put on a restricted operating basis Tuesday to allow transaction of the normal function necessary to human existence as President Roosevelt and his cabinet devised a plan to be made effective after the holiday.

Conditional authority also was granted for state and local clearing house associations to issue certificates to be used as scrip during the period. This was made subject to substitutions of a national scrip plan.

Keeping a close grip, meanwhile, on the nation's gold supply, President Roosevelt studied a system for complete opening in the near future of the strong banks of the country and a gradual extension of the plan to other institutions that prove their soundness.

Continued support for the president in his emergency action was echoed from Capitol Hill where leaders promised quick action on Thursday for whatever he proposes.

Every emphasis was given in the day of bustling activity to making sure of relief for the people so far as protection of the gold supply from hoarders and foreign raiders would permit. Institutions were opened for payments with this broad order:

"Any national or state banking institution may exercise its usual banking functions to such extent as the situation shall permit and as shall be absolutely necessary to meet the needs of its community for food, medicine, other necessities of life, for the relief of distress, for the payment of usual salaries and wages, for necessary current expenditures for the purpose of maintaining employment and for other similar essential purposes."

Remaining at his desk through the noon hour to eat his lunch, Mr. Roosevelt went into a two-hour conference with his cabinet at 2 p.m. There was no statement and no hint that there would be one before he sends his message to congress on Thursday noon.

The president linked his discussions Tuesday with the government reorganization program by which he intends to balance the budget as a further bulwark to national credit.

The operation of the clearing house scrip plan is demanding almost all attention just now of the financial leaders busy at the capitol, and it is not believed full details of the emergency action Mr. Roosevelt will seek on Thursday from Congress have been worked out beyond the request for formal ratification of his moves and continued authority for them.

An order issued late in the day by Mr. Woodin authorizing Federal Reserve Banks to conduct their normal operations as fiscal agents of the government on federal obligations was interpreted variously.

It was regarded by some as a move to assure the regular government refinancing on the quarterly period of March 15. Others interpreted the step as a move for larger issues of reserve notes in the place of the clearing house certificates now under contemplation as an emergency medium of exchange.

The temporary scrip plan was the subject of a lengthy conference late in the day at the White House. Secretary Woodin went into this parley with Arthur Ballantine, the retiring undersecretary of the Treasury, and George W. Davison New York banker and author of the clearing house certificate system employed in the 1907 panic.

Difficulties in working out the system were readily admitted, but the order for state and local operations of it still stood Tuesday night. Leaving the white house, the smiling Mr. Woodin simply said: "I am very happy. Everything is fine."

There was talk of a limitation upon withdrawals after the holiday ends—up to as high as a ban on two-thirds of deposits—but nothing has been indicated for certain by the president on this step.

Whatever he proposes to the special session of Congress, Mr. Roosevelt obviously is going to keep a firm hold on the national banking system until he is sure things are all right. He will submit a permanent reorganization plan, probably based on the principles embodied in the Glass bill which was passed by the Senate this session, at an early day.

A girl met an old flame and decided to high-hat him.

"Sorry," she murmered when the hostess introduced him to her, "I did not get your name."

"I know you didn't," he replied, "but that's not your fault—you tried hard enough."

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

"But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." Matt. 24:27. Here is a prophecy which points specifically to our time. When we see conditions today paralleling those of antediluvian times we may know that His coming is near at hand.

God bestowed upon the antediluvians many and rich gifts; but they used His bounties to glorify themselves and turned them into a curse by fixing their affection upon the gifts instead of the giver. The same situation exisis today. Men and women who are the constant recipients of heaven's abundant blessings are bestowing their entire attention and adoration on the gifts, not the giver; on the creation, not the Creator.

The Creator, as such, has been lost from sight by the majority of our modern Christians, having been eclipsed by the superficial theory of evolution. And God's great memorial of creation is today being trampled under the feet of surging multitudes.

In the days of Noah men were so absorbed in worshiping human genius and the works of their own hands that they commenced to make images so they might have something more tangible to worship. These they clothed with human attributes and passions.

The psalmist describes the effect produced upon individuals who worship idols. He says, "They that make them (idols) are like unto them; so is every one that trusteth in them," Psalm 115:8.

It is a law of the human mind that by beholding we become changed. Men will rise no higher than his conception of truth, purity, and holiness. Through the worship of idols, human attributes and passions become the ideals of men and they were defiled in consequence.

"God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually . . . and the earth was filled with violence," Gen. 6:5, 11.

Today image worship may not be very popular in this country, but one who bows down in reverent obedience to the glistening dollar, sacrificing much to obtain a desired fortune and because of his rushing business neglects his Creator—such a one is as verily guilty of idolatry as are those who bow down to wood and stone. And because this modern idolatry is so prevalent today we find the results the same as those obtaining in antediluvian days—the imagination of mens' hearts are only evil continually, and the earth is filled with violence.

Polygamy had been introduced in the world though contrary to the divine arrangement. At the beginning God gave Adam one wife, indicating His order in this respect, but men chose to follow their sinful desires and thereby increased their own wretchedness. Today polygamy is practiced as much or more than in antediluvian days. A man may have as many wives as he desires, the only modern stipulation being that he have but one at a time. We have come to a time when a divorce is issued in the United States every three or four minutes day and night.

These things we take as omens of our Lord's return.—L. A. Butterfield.

"Can you direct me to the bank?"
"Sorry, madam, I'm not a bank director."

ALABAMA WOODMEN MEETING TO BE HELD IN BIRMINGHAM SOON

Members of the Woodmen of the World of Alabama will gather at their bi-annual head camp meeting in the hotel Tutwiler at Birmingham, March 17 and 18, according to an announcement today by Head Consul Grover C. Herren of Tuscaloosa.

A large attendance is expected because De E. Bradshaw, newly elected president of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association, will attend the meeting. Other National officers to be present will be W. M. Crawford of Birmingham, Ala., and R. G. Plunkett of Macon, Ga., auditors.

State officers of W. O. W. in Alabama are:

John A. Cochran, Florence, Jr. Past Head Consul; Grover C. Herren, Tuscaloosa, Head Consul; W. H. Nation, East Lake, Head Adviser; W. W. Beasley, Carrolton, Head Banker; Harry A. Cook, Montgomery, Head Clerk; L. L. Williams, Huntsville, Head Escort; J. T. Vickery, Cordova, Head Watchman; G. C. Propst, Fayette, Head Sentry.

The Woodmen of the World is particularly interested in the welfare of Alabama because the National Association has a large investment in Alabama municipal, county and state securities.

Many new members are now being obtained and will be initiated in one large class, to be known as the "Bradshaw Class" in honor of the new president, at the time of the head camp meeting, according to Head Consul Herren.

Woodmen of the World has made an enviable record during the past two years in spite of the economic crisis which has affected all types of companies. Total assets of Woodmen of the World, as for February 1, 1933 are $111,995,654, as compared to $102,264,754 on February 1, 1931. The association has more than $102,000,000 of government, county and municipal bonds. Since its organization in 1890 Woodmen of the World has paid in death losses and disability benefits more than $225,000,000. The membership of the association is estimated to be near the half million mark.

Col. Patterson, ranking national officer at the South Carolina meeting, has been a member of W. O. W. since March 26, 1897, joining Camp No. 6 at Chattanooga, Tenn. He served during the Spanish American war and has been very much interested in the United States Spanish War veterans. Col. Patterson was elected to the office of Soverign Auditor in 1905 and was appointed vice president by the late president W. A. Fraser upon the death of B. Wood Jewell on May 12, 1929. Col. Patterson's devotion to the cause of Woodcraft is one marked with long, faithful and efficient service. During the interim following the death of president Fraser until a special meeting was held, Col. Patterson was acting president of the association.

Woodmen of the World has risen under the leadership of such men as J. C. Root, W. A. Fraser, De E. Bradshaw and Col. Patterson to the foreground of progressive fraternal insurance associations. Among its nationally known enterprises are the War Memorial Hospital and Bird Sanctuary at San Antonio, Texas, and Radio Station WOW in Omaha, Neb.

The National Head Camp meeting of the Woodmen of the World will be held in Chicago in July, during the World's fair, and a large delegation is expected from South Carolina. Special trains will carry Woodmen of the World delegates and members.

UNION GROVE

Health of this community is very good at present. Mr. Leonard Chandler has been real sick, but was able to be out Sunday.

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school is very good. There is lots of room for improvement.

Miss Leacy Newell, the home economics teacher of Jemison, has organized a girls club in our community, and invites all the girls to join. The club has been named "The Girls Wonder Club." The purpose is "The Improvement of Self and the Improvement of Our Homes." The officers are: President, Pearl Chandler; vice president, Thomasine Dorminey; secretary, Edna Robinson. The club meets at 8:30 each Tuesday morning. This week will be at the home of Edna and Winnie Kate Robinson; next week at the home of Thomasine and Lafoyl Dorminey. Last week the club met at the home of Pearl Chandler. They are doing sewing, but will do various kinds of work in improving the home and themselves.

Miss Delene Collum spent Sunday with Miss Pearl Chandler.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Northcutt and children of Gorgas, Mrs. Laura Northcutt, Misses Leila Northcutt and Iris Robinson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Robinson and family.

Miss Jessie Dorminey returned to her home Wednesday from Birmingham, where she went to have her tonsils removed.

Miss Winnie Kate Robinson returned home Saturday from Gorgas, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. V. Northcutt.

Miss Vira Glass spent Sunday with Miss Thomasine Dorminey.

Miss Edna Robinson spent Sunday night with Miss Leila Northcutt of Oak Hill.

Ocie J. Powell, of Chunchula, was a visitor to Clanton last week. Mr. Powell is a son of the late Billy Powell, and before going to Mobile County a few years ago, was proprietor of the Powell Pressing Shop in Clanton.

JESUS MINISTERING TO THE MULTITUDE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:30-44.

GOLDEN TEXT—Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many. Matthew 20:28.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Helping Hungry People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Feeding a Hungry Crowd.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Meeting Everyday Needs With Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Ministering to Human Need.

I. The Apostles Making Report to Jesus (v. 30).

They had just returned from a most strenuous campaign of preaching and healing. Their ministry had occasioned a great stir. This was accentuated by the continued ministry of Jesus. They reported to Jesus what they had taught and what they had wrought.

II. Jesus Alone With the Apostles (vv. 31, 32).

The result of the combined ministries of Jesus and the apostles was such a commotion, with the people coming and going, that there was no opportunity for resting or eating. In this time of stress and strain Jesus invited the disciples to retire from the crowd and rest. Periods of withdrawal from the crowds in fellowship with the Lord are frequently desirable and necessary. The benefits of such retreats are:

1. Physical recuperation. We have this treasure in earthen vessels. It is absolutely imperative that there be periodical retirement for physical recuperation.

2. Spiritual refreshment. Even those who are engaged in witnessing for Christ need constant renewal of their spirits by personal contact with the Lord.

3. To get one's eyes off of self in case of either success or failure and fixed upon Jesus Christ.

III. Jesus Teaching the Ignorant Multitude (vv. 33, 34).

1. Thronged by the people (v. 36). The wonderful words and works of the Lord and the disciples, brought the multitudes to them. To escape the throng they took departure to a desert place (v. 32). Seeing the Lord and his disciples leaving, the people from the surrounding cities anticipated their landing place so that upon the arrival of the ship they were already there.

2. Jesus moved with compassion (v. 34). Instead of becoming irritated by the intrusion of the crowd, his personal interests were forgotten as the needs of the shepherdless sheep pressed upon his notice. Therefore, he began to teach them many things.

IV. Jesus Feeding the Hungry Multitude (vv. 35-44).

1. Conference with the disciples (vv. 35-38).

a. The disciples requested that the multitude be sent to the surrounding villages to buy bread (v. 36). According to Matthew Jesus made the proposition that the multitude be fed (Matt. 14:16).

b. Jesus commanded them to feed the multitude (v. 37).

c. The disciples' perplexity (v. 37). Their perplexity was due to the fact that they were depending upon their own resources instead of Christ. To come face to face with the humanly impossible has a threefold benefit:

(1) It makes us realize our dependence upon Christ.

(2.) It drives us to him for help.

(3) It leads us to give him the glory for the results. Though our ability to teach, preach, or to give be meager, when coupled with the Lord's ability, it is equal to any demand which may be made.

2. Jesus' method in feeding the multitude (vv. 39-44).

a. The Lord's part. This was to give instruction as to the method of procedure and to create the provision. He so increased five loaves and two fishes that the need of the hungry multitude was met.

b. The disciples' part. They were to have the people sit down in companies so as to facilitate distribution. They then took that which the Master had blessed and distributed it. The disciples' responsibility was not for the creation of the provision, but for its distribution to the people.

c. The peoples' part. Their part was not to create, nor to distribute, but to partake of the provision. Unless people receive Jesus Christ and the salvation which he has provided, they will eternally starve.

Stands Forever

Wait Upon God

That life is most holy in which there is least of petition and desire, and most of waiting upon God, that in which petition most often passes into thanksgiving. Pray till prayer makes you forget your wish, and leave it or merge it in God's will.—F. W. Robertson.

"Dry Wells"

We will take for a text today, 2nd Peter, 2nd chapter and the first part of the 17th verse. "These are wells without water."— There are few who know that the ordinary wells were used in the Bible to illustrate the emptiness of some lives as well as a spirit-filled life. It could not be said that the holy land was a well watered country. Wells were sunk to obtain water for their cattle and folks as well as for household uses. And it seems that water was carried a great distance sometimes on account of its scarcity. Sometimes a considerable strife arose between the herdmen of one party and the herdmen of another over the use of certain wells.

We of this country do not know just how hard it is to obtain water in some parts of the world. Water is one of the God-given blessings without which it would be impossible to live. And realizing this fact, Peter, in our text, likened certain lives to "wells without water." Just imagine yourself while real thirsty approaching a well to obtain a drink, and when the bucket went down it struck bottom and brought up no water, you would then realize just what an empty well realy is. The well was there, the chain and bucket were there and as you approached it you felt confident of obtaining a satisfying drink but you was disappointed.

When I hear men talk of creeds and argue points of doctrines on the streets and elsewhere and know the emptyness of their lives and either hear them or hear of them using language that no Christian would use, I think of "wells without water." Such men can speak great swelling words and presume to teach others the scriptures, even taking preachers to task for their interpretation of the word and their lives just as empty as an empty well.

Of what use is an empty well? You might carry water by the bucket full and pour into it and it would just drain out through the porous bottom and each bucket full would disappear while you went for the next one. It is the same way with empty hearted and empty minded men, you may sow the seed of the gospel in their hearts and they will not suffer it to take root and grow. One reason for this is because they think that they know more than the man who tries to teach them.

A man having a dry well asked a young negro half-wit what was the best thing to do with it, fill it up? He answered, no, jes leave it alone maybe some water will come in it some day. So I guess the best thing to do with these smart-alecs is to just leave them alone and maybe there will come a day when they will listen to some one instead of doing all of the talking themselves.

In the 4th chapter of the gospel of John, Jesus told the woman at the well, "But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." Did you ever visit an artesian well and watch the water flow out? It makes no difference how large, it is full like a pipe, through which water is forced by a pump.

If a man will drink of the everlasting water that Jesus gives, his life is full to overflowing and continues to flow on and on, exhibiting the spirit of Christ in all of His actions, at church, at home and in His dealings with His fellowman. There is no emptiness in a spirit-filled life. I am glad that I am not like a man that I heard last week. He said that there were no spirit-filled lives in the world today, which was equivalent to saying that there was no religion in the world today. I feel sure that I know lots of men and women, boys and girls who are just as good Christians as ever walked on this earth—men whose life is like an overflowing well, men who will treat you right under any and all circumstances and who love the church of Jesus Christ with all their heart.

But how many there are in this country today who are like wells without water? We have some of these empty hearts and lives in our churches today; we may know them by what flows out from their lives. The spirit-filled life is the sweetest life on earth today. I would not exchange the hope that is within me for all of the empty wells or empty lives with all of the wealth that goes with them.

Friend, why be an empty well when it is so easy for you to be an overflowing well? Your life would then count for something here and then you would have eternal life with God beyond the grave.—Elder Blossom.

WHEN TO TURN WINTER LEGUMES

Auburn, Ala.—Turn hairy vetch and Austrian peas when the vetch growth cut from a 10-foot square weighs 12 pounds and when the winter pea growth cut from a 10-foot square weighs 14 pounds, is the recommendation of the Alabama Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The station said that weighing should take place immediately after cutting and that it would be advisable to take several measurements at various points in a large field.

"If hairy vetch cuts 12 pounds of green matter per 10-foot square and Austrian winter peas cut 14 pounds of green matter per 10-foot square aboht 45 pounds of nitrogen per acre, or nitrogen equivalent to that in 300 pounds of nitrate of soda, has been storen and there is sufficient growth to justify turning," said J. C. Lowery, Auburn extension agronomist.

Mr. Lowery gave additional information as follows:

"It is a good rule to turn winter legumes before so much growth has been made that they cannot be turned with a good two-horse plow with a rolling colter is essential in turning winter legumes.

"Do not wait until winter legumes are in full bloom to turn. Dry weather will result in the land becoming so hard that it cannot be turned; a generation of worms may appear; and the planting date of the crop that is to follow the legumes may be delayed to the extent that the yield is seriously reduced.

"Corn and cotton following winter legumes should not be planted to decay before the crop to follow is planted."

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Lespedeza, carpet and Dallis grass may be expected to do well when sowed during March. Mother nature is wonderfud but the dairy farmer should assist her in the way of improving the pasture.

The calendar says March 21 is the first day of spring. This is spring house cleaning month and with the Ides of March the dairy and premises should be freshened up. The dairy farmer should plan to carry over a bit of this spring cleaning into each remaining day of the year.

Chlorinated lime, creolin, or other disinfectants should be used freely in the calf pens and box stalls.

CIVIC BEAUTY MEET SET FOR BIRMINGHAM

The first meeting of the conference for the promotion of Civic Beauty in Alabama will be held in Birmingham April 4 and 5. This is announced by Mrs. Charles R. Bricken of Montgomery, president of the Alabama Federation of Garden Clubs, which is sponsoring the meeting.

Several hundred leaders in home and highway beautification and advocates of a system of state parks for Alabama are expected to attend. Sam F. Brewster, Auburn landscape specialist is cooperating with the garden club in this movement to make Alabama a more beautiful place in which to live and travel.

DATE FOR PLANTING VEGETABLES GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.,—A year-round garden every year should forever be the slogan of all farmers, both during hard times and days of prosperity, said Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. For the spring garden he suggests vegetables to plant, varieties and dates for planting as follows:

Beans, bush snap, stringless greenpod, March 15-August 15; beans, pole snap, Kentucky wonder, March 15-August 1; beans, bush lima, Henderson's lime white, April 1-July 1, beans, pole lima, small white lima, April 1-July 1; English peas, Alaska, Thomas Laxton, telephone, February 15-March 16.

Carrots, chantenay, February 15-March 15; beets, Crosby - Egyptian, March 1-October 1; radish, long scarlet, March 1-April 1; turnip, purple top globe, March 1-April 1; tendergreen, March 1-April 1; mustard, southern giant curled, March 1-April 1; lettuce, New York, Big Boston, February 15-March 15.

Tomato, marglobe (wilt resistant), April 1-30; cucumber, white spine, April 1-15; squash, giant straight neck or white bush, April 1-15; eggplant, black beauty, April 1-30; okra, white velvet, April 1-30; pepper, California wonder (sweet), cayenne (hot) April 1-30; onions, white Bermuda, perennial tree, shallots, March 1-April 1.

He said that the planting dates given are based on central Alabama conditions and that in the southern part of the state vegetables should be planted 5 to 10 days earlier and that in the northern part of the state plantings should be delayed in the same proportion.

He suggested the addition of sufficient Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes to supply home needs.

GAME AND FISHERIES

Montgomery, Ala., March 7. — Coon hunting is a science with Representative R. J. "Bob" Goode of Gastonburg, president of the Alabama Coon Hunters Association.

With man sport lovers, there is no other that he gives as close study or as much attention.

"The sport of coon hunting is like any other game or sport," explained Representative Goode. "It is necessary that there be a fair understanding of the purposes, technique and fine points to be properly appreciated.

"The primary requisites are coons and coon hounds, given which, the sport may be pursued with that degree of satisfaction and success as the ability of the hound and the endurance of the hunter justifies.

"There is no kind of hunting in which the dog is used for pursuit of game which requires a higher degree of ability, skill and training than is demanded of the coon hound.

"To yield the maximum of sport, the hound must have the appearance of a hound; he must have a good tongue on the trail and especially at the tree; he must have the courage and endurance to take the hardest kind of going, such as briars, brush and icy water; he must have nose enough to follow the trail under the most adverse conditions, and must have sufficient experience and intelligence to fathom the wiles of the quarry so that the tree to which the final retreat is made, is accurately and correctly pointed out."

The raccoon has put up a brave fight for existence, eluding traps, dogs, and guns. Few animals are more widely known or excite more popular interest than the raccoon.

Hunters are cautioned by the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department to be careful of fires. Fires not only destroy timber, but also destroy the game. Forest fires are the most destructive forces faced by wild life.

The hunter should be careful to cover his campfire before leaving it, and extinguish matches and cigarets before tossing them away. Help preserve game by preventing fires.

Warden C. F. Hill of Montgomery, is a Sherlock Holmes with his ears. He can almost tell by the popping of the guns whether the game laws are being violated.

Several days ago he heard shooting at a distance of 14 miles away and landed four game violators. On another occasion he heard shots a distance of five miles away and led to the arrest of four more persons for violating the game laws.

"Mother, that man sitting next to me kissed me when the train went under the tunnel back there."

"Good Heavens! Why didn't you tell me at once?"

"I didn't know there weren't any more tunnels."

A Kansas woman won a $1,000 prize for a short story. There ought to be another prize for the one who discovered a woman who could really tell a short story.

He—My uncle in Venice is sending me a gondola. How am I going to learn how to play it.

She—You don't play it, you throw it over your shoulder like a shawl.

"Drink," said the Irish preacher, "is the greatest curse in the country. It makes yer quarrel with yer neighbor. It makes yer shoot at yer landlord, and it makes yer miss him."

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

She was only a luggage maker's daughter but she knew her grips.

FEWER INCENDIARY FIRES

Montgomery, Ala., March 7.—Current economic and civic conditions are often reflected in the origin of forest fires, according to the Alabama State Commissione of forestry. Practically all such fires are caused by human beings, and the reasons or lack of reason, responsible for the intentional burning of other people's property are naturally of great concern not only to the landowner but also to the general public.

Incendiarism or the deliberate setting of fires, is one of the chief sources of damage to forest property. In 1931 about twenty-four per cent of all the forest fires occurring during the year comprised burnings from this cause. In 1932, however, only about thirteen per cent of the fires were attributed to incendiarism.

It is probable that a number of factors entered into the situation resulting in this reduction. The education campaign carried on by the public and coordinated agencies has been particularly effective with the younger generation. With the passage of years the younger people are maturing and forming a greater proportion of the active rural population, with the result that a smaller percentage of the woodland residents are disposed to set fires.

Another factor that enters into the situation is that current uses of timber for domestic and commercial purposes include much smaller sized trees than formerly. Since these are the trees easily damaged by fires, the fact that they constitute merchantable material undoubtedly has acted as something of a deterrent to wilful burning.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., March 7.—Debaters from West Virginia University and University of Alabama engaged in a non-decision word battle here Friday.

The visitors debated the negative of the question, Resolved: That the United States should agree to a cancellation of inter-allied war debts. H. Evans, rector of Christ Episcopal Church of Tuscaloosa.

During the camp problems of the Y. M. C. A. on this campus were surveyed and plans for the remainder of the semester were formulated.

Prof. E. Baskin Wright of the department of political science, University of Alabama, will be initiated as an honorary member of Phi Eta Sigma, national scholastic fraternity for freshmen, March 2.

SECRETARY OF STATE'S OFFICE IS ABOLISHED

The constitutional amendment to carry out the recommendation of the Brookings Report by abolishing the Secretary of State's office and consolidating its duties with those of the governor's private secretary, does not become effective until the expiration of my term. Since I cannot succeed myself it could not affect me as secretary of state. However, I consider it my duty to the citizens of Alabama to express an entirely unbiased opinion thereon.

It impresses me as a ridiculous measure. I was informed by the Brookings employe who made the recommendation that it would effect no economy whatever but merely take the election of the secretary of state from the people and cause him to be appointed by the governor. It is only a step toward that undemocratic centraligation of power recommended by the Brookings Report. The governor's private secretary has ample to do. No time remains for him to be secretary of state. The governor would naturally appoint someone to perform these important duties at a salary certainly as large as mine, which was reduced about twenty-five per cent on October 1, 1932, by the passage of the Fletcher bill.

Since I can conceive of no good argument which can be advanced in favor of this amendment, I do not anticipate its passage by the legislature. Should it be submitted to the people I will afford them more detailed information from which to reach a conclusion whether they wish to so centralize their government. — Pete B. Jarman, Jr., Secretary of State.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Reinhardt-Freeman Wedding

One of the notable events of the season was the marriage of Miss Doris Freeman of Thorsby and Hubert Reinhardt of Thorsby, which was solemnized at eight o'clock Saturday evening in the Baptist church.

The decorations were beautiful and impressive in their simplicity. Ivy was festooned over the altar, which made a delicate tracery with pink and white candles placed at intervals among the ivy. Ferns and potted plants were placed to form a banked semi-cricle about the altar and baskets of pink and white carnations accentuated the effect.

Before the bridal procession entered the lovely song, "I Love You Truly," was rendered as a violin duet by Miss Mary Louise Reinhardt and Mr. Grantland Davis. Following this Miss Lois Thompson sang very sweetly, "Oh Promise Me."

Miss Dorothy Vaughn Franklin and Robert Johnson and Linnie Bell Reinhardt and Ralph Pate composed the maid and groomsmen group.

The bridesmaids wore pretty frocks of white organdy and carried arm bouquets of shaded pink snapdragons tied with pink tulle. The little flower girls were Imogene Lowery and Tommy Rose Reinhardt. They wore pink silk dresses and carried rose-shaped baskets filled with rose petals which were strewn in the pathway of the bride. Little Frank porter dressed in white entered the opposite aisle with the ring in the heart of a rose.

Miss Freeman entered with her sister, Mrs. Theron South, of Birmingham, matron of honor, and met at the altar Mr. Reinhardt with his best man, who was Mr. V. E. Wyatt. Rev. Jones of the Baptist church performed the ceremony, using the ring service.

Mrs. South, matron of honor, approached the altar attired in a frock of white French net over pink taffeta. She carried a fan bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, showered with sweet peas. For her marriage, Miss Freeman wore a white crepe dress, the bodice was fashioned of angel-face lace. The veil was caught into a princess cap with a half circlet of orange blossoms. She carried a fan bouquet of pink brides' roses, tied with embassed tulle.

The bride of Mr. Reinhardt is a member of a well-known Thorsby family. She completed her high school work at Thorsby Institute, attended Piedmont College in Demorest, Georgia, and received her A. B. Degree from the college with her class graduating in June 1932.

Mr. Reinhard belongs to a prominent Wilsonville family. He completed his high school work in Columbiana. At present he is employed at the Wyatt Drug Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reinhardt are at home to their friends in Thorsby.

A group of Thorsby folks went to Birmingham Tuesday night to attend the lecture at the municipal auditorium on, "The Doom of Capitalism and the Way Out," delivered by Norman Thomas, who was for two successive campaigns Socialistic nominee for the president of the United States. The party as reported to the writer consisted of Dr. O. C. Mastin and sons, Frank and Orville, Rev. E. W. Butler and daughter, Dorothy, H. V. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Maddox and Misses Fairbank and Klingelhoter.

Mrs. J. L. Moore and little daughter, Jeanne Laurell, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Laurell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon and Grandma Primm, accompanied by Rev. J. E. Each, attended a lecture by a prominent Methodist bishop, whose name we did not get, in Birmingham one evening last week. While there they visited Miss Edna Raybon, who is employed there.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Brink of Chicago, who accompanied the body of Mrs. J. P. Sorenson to Thorsby for burial, were entertained a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peterson, and then went on to New Orleans. They are expected to return in a few days to make a more extended visit in Thorsby.

Messrs. Carl C. Peterson and Ernis Hansen appeared before the Commissioners Court in Clanton requesting the admission of Mr. J. A. Lindquist to the county almshouse.

Mrs. N. Laurell is spending a few days with her husband in Birmingham.

Mrs. John Pruitt of Pleasant Grove, Jemison was buried Sunday afternoon at Collins Chapel cemetery. Rev. J. E. Each officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pate went to Selma on business Saturday.

The supper which was planned for Thorsby Band has been postponed on account of the financial situation at the present time.

The Misses Lillie and Vivian Roebuck of Birmingham visited friends in Thorsby during the week end.

Mrs. Theron South of Birmingham is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. George Freeman.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham is home for an extended visit.

Miss Edith Johnson spent the week end with her sister, Miss Esther Johnson in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and Helen Louise and Miss Agnes Leary were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peterson at Jemison Friday night.

Miss Agnes Leary and Mrs. Clyde Meade spent Wednesday afternoon with Miss Marie Powers.

Miss Naemi Turnquist of Selma is spending a month's vacation with home folks in Thorsby.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen spent Monday with Mrs. Frank Thompson.

Miss Carolina Skinnis is at present making her home with Mrs. Anna Villadsen.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson spent Sunday afternoon with friends in Clanton.

Miss Jenkins, Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Gerald and Mrs. Thornburg spent Wednesday in Birmingham and went to the Baptist hospital to see their friend, Miss Elizabeth Robinson. who though reported improving, they were not permitted to see.

Mr. W. N. Dennis of Elmore visited his daughter, Mrs. A. A. Jackson, in Thorsby last week.

Mrs. D. H. Gentry spent Sunday with Mrs. John Barnett near Selma.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Porter and little son, Frank, visited Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bates in Selma Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Mims of New Salem and Mrs. Dewey Collins visited Mrs. Ola Kelley Sunday.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin and Peggy Mims and Mrs. J. L. Mixson spent Saturday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Coral Mixson returned to Montgomery after several days visit at the home of her son, Mr. J. L. Mixson, in Thorsby.

Saturday afternoon Miss Phillips entertained the Thorsby Institute girls glee club and Miss Jenkins at a very pleasant party at the campus cottage. Various contests and interesting games were participated in after which delicious refreshments were served.

A week from Sunday the glee club expects to sing at Judge McCord's Big Brothers Bible Class in Montgomery.

The Christian Endeavor had its regular meeting Sunday night. The title of the lesson was "Discovering Jesus's Principles." Juanita Each led a backward meeting. It was real interesting, and was discussed by all. Everybody come and join us next Sunday night.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SOCIAL

Classes number 3 and 4 or the young people's division of the Mt. Pleasant Sunday school were delightfully enteretained at the home of Mrs. G. H. Sassey last Thursday night.

Miss Ilar Massey, looking exquisite in salmon pink, with matching accessories, welcomed the guests and had them register as they entered. Their home was tastefully arranged for the occasion. Many interesting games and contests kept the large number present in a hilarious mood for several hours. Those winning prizes were: Miss Myrtice Logan, Messrs. R. B. Johnson, Dick Massey, and Woodrow Price. The social was unanimously voted a huge success.

A who's who contest was held, results are as follows: Prettiest girl, Miss Ilar Massey; most handsome man, Bill Wilson, neatest girl, Miss Bessie Marie Eiland; neatest man, Houston Nivens; most friendly girl, Miss Gertrude Blalock; cutest girl, Miss Gertrude Jones; most friendly boy, Morris Jones; Wittiest, Miss Gertrude Foshee; biggest booster, Frances Massey; biggest grumbler, Dick Massey; best all-around girl, Miss Elvia Kelley; best all-around boy, Harvey Melton; biggest sissy, R. B. Johnson; biggest talker, Ottis Martin.

At a late hour delicious refreshments of banana pudding with whipped cream and garnished with red cherries were served the guests by Misses Frances Massey and Gertrude Blalock. Those included in this delightful affair were: Mr. Lee. A. Popwell, Mrs. Frank Mastin, Mrs. Estelle Melton, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Scott and Mrs. G. H. Massey.

Misses Martha Kennedy, Pearl Wilson, Gertrude Foshee, Annie Lee Fox, Bessie Marie Eiland, Gertrude Jones, Mamye Logan, Mazie Logan, Gertrude Blalock, Ilar Massey, Mrytice Logan, Frances Massey, Birtie Logan, Elsie Kelley and Reasie Jones. Messrs. J. P. Culp, D. L. Massey, Dick Massey, Earl Wilson, Harvey Melton, Woodrow Price, Dolphin and Delphin Popwell, Wilton Massey, Bill Wilson, Stanley Kennedy, Wendell Massey, Clifford Jones, Ottis Martin, Morris Jones, Hugh Nivens, Urshell Mims, Luther Mims, and R. B. Johnson.

Charles S. Barrett, of Sylacauga, representing the American Marble and Granite Company, was here this week. This company designs and builds marble and granite memorials. Mr. Barrett is well known here, having represented another company in this territory for a number of years. J. C. Jones is the local representative of the company in Clanton.

The French Class, recently organized, is doing interesting work. The members of the class are writing letters to students in France. These letters are written in English and the French students answer in French. A list of French boys and girls are supplied to the schools wishing to carry on this correspondence by Piedmont College in Georgia.

Since depositors can withdraw only 5 per cent of their deposits at the banks now, the clerks are kept busy figuring 5 per cent of the deposits. What they need is the business arithmetic class to go up there and show them the P's and Q's of percentage.

Did you ever stop to think that Columbus when he started out on his first voyage did not know where he was going, when he got there he did not know where he was, and when he returned to Spain he could not tell where he had been?

The chapel speaker on last Wednesday was Rev. M. Clements who is doing some fine mission work in Chilton County. Last Wednesday during the chapel period Rev. Clements gave a most interesting talk on "Preparedness." We thank Rev. Clements for his inspiring address and cordially invite him back again.

It seemed that several students and maybe a few teachers were sort of sitting on pins Monday of this week when a Mr. Marvel came and entertained us during chapel with some very interesting and mystifying tricks. This magician began to tell things about students and some were afraid he was going to tell too much. His statements kind of upset a few of the students, I believe.

The study of debating is being taken up in the Junior II, Senior I and Senior III English classes under the direction of Miss Kendrick. As the result of this achievement several interesting and strong debates have been given. Wednesday a debate between the Sr. I class and the Sr. III class was given in chapel. The question was: Resolved, that men of thought have been more beneficial to mankind than men of action. The negative side was argued by Helen Roberts and Dixie Johnson, who represented the Sr. I Class and the affirmative side was debated by Pearl Vinson and Louise Knox of the Sr. III Class. At the time of this writing the results were not available.

Folks you had better begin to save your dimes and nickels and pennies, because it is rumored that several good plays are to arrive on the scene pretty soon. Three plays are slated to appear soon.

Last week the biology class began the interesting study of bird life. Not only were facts about birds studied but several poems on birds and bird lore were written by the students after reading poems written by famous authors. After careful selection and grading Mr. Varnell chose two of the best poems. They were written by Helen Roberts and Dewey Williams.

I Wonder

I wonder if birds up in the sky
Have feelings like humans do,
If they sit and ponder over trouble
I've often wondered, haven't you?

And when they fly above,
I wonder if they think it through,
Of the future and someone they love,
I've often wondered, haven't you?

I wonder if they have moral thoughts
As same as people do,
Of life after death—
I've often wondered, haven't you?

And when they perrh for sleep at night
I wonder if they say a prayer too,
They should, they have the right—
I've often wondered, haven't you?

And I've wondered if the humming bird and owl
The killdee, dove and wren
Have thoughts the same as men—
I've often wondered, haven't you?

A Bird Riddle

My throat is of red,
While my feathers are brownish black,
I'm of medium size,
And of friends I don't lark.

I'm found in the woodlands,
My nest is in the tree,
My song, which is cheery,
Can be heard with the breeze.

I'm found almost always,
Especially in this state,
And when flowers bloom in springtime,
I'm calling my mate.

Now all that I've told you
About me is no lie,
So answer this question
I ask you, who am I?

Some interesting facts were learned about birds. For instance, did you know that the humming bird, the smallest of all birds, could whip a blue heron and many other birds larger than itself? Did you know that the wings of a humming bird move 200 times per minute; that the eagle nests sometimes are 12 feet deep, 8 feet across and weigh almost 2 tons? It is very interesting and entertaining to study the contrast between the humming bird, the smallest, and the eagle, the largest of the bird group.

Our Senior III class is to be highly complimented when the "Howard Crimson," the student paper of Howard College will carry a story about Chilton County High school, featuring the Senior III class. A student from Howard who is trained in this line will arrive there soon to begin this work.

Beginning next week the editor of this column will write a series of articles dealing with the alumni of C. C. H. S. Each week a short school history will be written about a former graduate who has made a name for himself or herself in the world.

Mrs. Herschel Gore has returned home after a pleasant visit to Mobile.

ODD --- BUT TRUE

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. INEZ DURBIN

On last Wednesday morning, March 1st, about nine a.m., the death angel visited the home o the Rev. H. D. Durbin and bore from him the spirit of his loving wife, Inez.

She had been in ill health for several years. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but God, in His goodness and mercy saw fit to call her from the walks of man to His eternal home of peace and love, where there is no heart ache or care.

Sho suffered here but she is sweetly resting in a mansion prepared by God's own hands for her. She was a devoted Christian worker and held membership with the Liberty Hill Baptist Church at Clanton.

Inez has gone to the sweet beyond,
Where there is no heartache or care
Where the angels play sweet music
In that beautiful home up there.

She had been with us such a short time:
Just forty years I'll say.
And we are praying to meet her
In a better world some day.

No one can fill her vacant place
No more on earth she'll trod.
For she is sweetly sleeping
In the heavenly home with God.

No more on this old wretched earth
We'll see her smiling here
But some day we will meet her
Where there is not a sigh nor tear.

We know that the Father planned it all.
We know it was His will.
And she has left a lonely place
That no one can ever fill.

We are sad at the thought of parting,
But weep not dear loved ones;
For she is only sleeping
With the only begotten Son.

She was laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery Thursday, March 2nd. Rev. Ezell spoke comforting words to the bereaved family. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, two children, Dalene and Irma, an aged father, two brothers and one sister.

Weep not dear father and children, for God doeth all things well and strive to meet her in the heavenly home up there. One who loved her.
—Myrtle Powell.

East View News

The ladies aid society met last Thursday in the home of Mrs. Estell Rushing. They report one new member received. They will meet next at the home of Mrs. Sallie Strength Thursday, March 16 p.m.

Mrs. Sallie Strength was called Saturday at the bedside of her little grand son, W. C. Morrison, in Birming, who is suffering with pneumonia.

Several from here attended the services Sunday at the Baptist church where Rev. Hull delivered a sermon.

Mrs. Bertha Mims was the guest of Mrs. Elma Mims Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rushing were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Moore Saturday night.

Miss Elizabeth Dobbs visited Mrs. Bama Dennis Saturday.

Mr. Charlie Mims returned home Saturday from Coosa County where he had been hauling logs.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Strength were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rushing.

Our Sunday School is still growing. We received three new members last Sunday. Every body come back next Sunday and bring some one with you.

There will be preaching here next Saturday and Sunday by the pastor. We cordially invite you to meet and worship with us, for one is our Lord and Master and we all are brethren.

Rev. J. L. Culpepper and Messrs. B. U. Pearson and J. A. Hines visited Mr. and Mrs. Riley Culpepper Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dobbs had for their Sunday evening guests Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vinson and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Mims.

Mr. Holley Franklin who has been in the hospital or some time was reported Saturday not to be resting so very well.

Mrs. Ethel Patterson was the Sunday diner guest of her mother, Mrs. Monnie Griffin.

Mr. N. O. Griffith was a visitor in our community Sunday night.

Mrs. Lola Nelson spent Saturday night with her sister, Mrs. Vester Lett.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson spent the week end in Elmore County where they conducted religious services at Union Church.

Come to church here next Sunday. If you find a welcome tell others—If not tell us.

Central Singing Society

With Prof. O. L. Devaughn presiding, the Central Singing Society met at Concord last Sunday afternoon. A very good singing was held. A long line of directors were present, and the class enjoyed about two hours of splendid singing.

The society will meet at Providence next Sunday afternoon. All singers and lovers of music have a cordial invitation to attend. The society has plenty of new books; so all may come with the assurance of having a book to use. But if you have a book bring it along.

Easter, The Fifth Sunday, Etc.

The singing dates around Easter and the fifth Sunday in April are just a little complicated. A recent letter from Mr. Stanley Gulledge in Birmingham urges a delegation of Chilton county singers to attend the Jefferson County convention at Five Points the fifth Sunday. This is the day we are supposed to sing in the afternoon at the courthouse. There will be an all day singing at Poplar Springs Easter Sunday, and then the society is supposed to meet back there the next Sunday afternoon.

In view of the above irregularities, I am going to suggest the following: That there be singing at the courthouse on the afternoon of the fourth Sunday in April, intsead of Poplar Springs; and that we have no singing on the fifth Sunday but that as many of our singers as possible accept the invitation of Mr. Gulledge and go to Birmingham. Then too, there will be no conflicting gathering around here to interfere with the annual old folks and ministers meeting at Friendship the fifth Sunday.

The above is only a suggestion by the secretary of the Central Society. If there is any objection, we will have plenty of time to straighten it out. If there is no objection, then the definite announcement of same will be made in a week or so.

MRS. MARY ELIZABETH RIGGINS

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Riggins, age 78 years, widow of the late Rufus C. Riggins, died at her home last Saturday, March 4. Burial was at Liberty Hill Sunday in charge of J. Mell Martin, who also conducted the funeral services.

Mrs. Riggins was a sister of Rev. Albert Foshee. Her husband died October 13, 1929.

"Lately our apartment has been full of cockroaches."

"That's easy. They come from moisture and stale food."

"Not these cockroaches. These come from the people upstairs."

After the war we talked about "friendly enemies" and now we talk about friendly recieverships.

We think that some of the those who wanted any old change last November are beginning to feel that they got just that.

Well, we all hope that due to the depression Babe Ruth won't have to cut his home runs down to three baggers this season.

Reports from Argentina are to the effect that the farmers down there are putting in as much grain as usual despite the low prices. It's pretty hard to discourage a farmer to the point where he won't work.

Cheer up. It you didn't get an office in November maybe you can get yourself elected delegate to one of those prohibition repeal conventions.

Institution of the Technocrats' four-hour day and four-day week would certainly mean a magnificant revival in the demand for whittling timber.

Among the farmers who need relief the most are those who made the mistake a few years ago of moving to town.

We used to wonder why bankers wore that glacial look. But we don't any more. We'd probably look glacial too if we were sitting on frozen assets.

Gangsters' habit of going without meals before a "job" should put Chicago police on guard against dangerous men who have a lean and hungry look.

It is our opinion that the wets "fumbled the ball" by providing for repeal ratification through state conventions, and not by state legislatures. Most of the present legislatures were elected on wet platforms, and as they are in session now might be counted on to ratify the repeal amendment. But by the time state elections or delegates are held and the conventions have met, the public, which is notoriously fickle, may be interested in some other issue.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

During the presidential campaign last year, all sorts of governmental remedies for the depression were suggested. Most of these were based on the assumption that all congress had to do was to pass a law which, signed by the president, would completely change the picture and bring back prosperity to American people. A great many voters, ordinarily Republican, voted for a change of administration in the hope that, in some mysterious way, Democratic victory alone yould restore good times. That they were fooled by their own hopes is now becoming evident, as is always the case when one believes in a legislative Santa Claus.

There are, of course, many other things which a national government can do in time of financial disaster to ameliorate conditions. But there are perhaps more ways the administration can be helpful by not doing than performing. Examples which come to mind are "not adopting monetary inflation" and "not interfering with legitimate business." These are negative but constructive positions which are bound to be helpful if continued.

But if we are to get out of the depression —and every real American feels that we are going to pull out before long—then the people must do most of it for themselves. This applies, of course, as much to American business as to the American individual. There must be more than criticism of one's neighbors, more than suspicion of this business institution or that. We must have sane cooperation among business leaders, among financiers and the public at large. Nothing will do more to bring back confidence and build a solid foundation for business and financial revival. Confidence and cooperation must displace discord and suspicion.

The difference between individual effort and legislation for a cure of depressions was well summed up the other day by Will H. Hayes, former Postmaster General, when he said in an address to the New York Association of Business Paper Editors:

"Whatever ameliorative measures government or legislation may achieve," "the stabilization of employment must come from cooperation between industry and labor. Only cooperation can result in that adjustment of production to needs which will stabilize the prices of farm commodities.

"The problem before American industry is to consolidate, not destroy, the gains of cooperation. Each of us pulling in his own direction will not budge the stalled wagon of national progress. We cannot shut our eyes to fundamental interdependence. The problems of our vast industrial structure have outgrown the interests of any group within any given industry.

"Only through organization can business meet the challenge of evolving the new methods required for the stability of the American business structure.

"Whether American industry after the depression will be rebuilt on a higher or a lower plane depends entirely upon the higher business standards developed through years of cooperative effort."

There is more than a little truth in this. If we are to restore normal conditions we must depend on our own efforts, in the main. Congress cannot make us prosperous or contented. It is up to the American people to win back what they have lost by pulling together. If each section of the country is interested only in its own sectional problems, and each industry and each institution in its own particular problems alone, if there is lack of cooperation between all classes and professions, then we have a long road and a hard task ahead of us.

WHAT WILL HE DO?

Governor Roosevelt, when greeted with the cry "radical" during the campaign, countered with the statement that he did not intend to try to make any changes in the fundamental principles of our government, but would seek to correct the bad economic conditions.

Throughout the campaign, however, he was supported by the so-called liberal bloc in both the Democratic and Republican parties, as well as the conservative Democratic leaders. Now that the waiting period following the election is about over, and the new administration is ready to take office, a great many people are wondering just how the new president will solidify or satisfy the various, usually discordant elements, which brought about his election. A great many people have predicted that he would abandon the progressives and lean toward the conservatives, while others have been as confident that he would favor the progressives to the discomfort of the conservatives. Sooner or later, it is said, the new president would have to choose one of two paths .

The tentative cabinet selections, however, indicate that Mr. Roosevelt will continue the middle of the road policy he adopted during the campaign. The tentative cabinet includes the names of progressives, conservatives, and so-called Republican allies. The names are well distributed geographically. Only one fact is evident and that is that Mr. Roosevelt intends having none but old and tried friends around him. If the tentative list is confirmed each cabinet member will be not only a Roosevelt supporter, but one who was "for" Roosevelt before the nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt is seeking to do what every president tries to do and that is to keep in line all of the classes and factions which supported him. Whether he will be successful remains to be seen. If he can do so he will prove himself a greater politician than any who has gone before him. Usually there comes a time when the leader of any party made of conflicting interests must choose one horn of the political dilemma. There are several dilemmas in the offing. Some of Mr. Roosevelt's party are for currency inflation and others against it. Some are for one form of farm relief and others for another. Some are for free trade and others for protection. Some are for making concessions on the foreign debt and some are not. Some favor recognition of Soviet Russia and others are violently opposed to such a step.

But Mr. Roosevelt is an optimist and he is going to keep all the boys for him as long as possible. That is, of course, the politic and the human thing to do. Just how long it can be done remains to be seen.

GO SLOW ON EMBARGO

The House Foreign Relations Committee acted wisely the other day when it voted down a resolution which would have given the president of the United States authority in agreement with other nations to declare an embargo against the shipment of arms and munitions of war to any nation which it was sought to punish.

The adoption of such a resolution would have been particularly untimely just now when there is considerable diplomatic friction between the United States and Japan. It would immediately have been construed in Japan as a move against that nation, and would have given the Japanese jingoes more material with which to fan the flames of public opinion against the United States.

Furthermore, it would have been another step toward getting us into the League of Nations through the black door and without benefit of action by the United States Senate. In case the League desired to punish a certain nation, whose national policy it was seeking to control, it might easily get us as an informal member through the application of this embargo if the president so desired it and without congress having anything to say about it. This is not a criticism of the probable intentions of any president we have now in mind, but is a suggestion of what might happen some time in the future.

If at any future time it seems to the best interest of the United States to join other nations in an arms embargo there will be plenty of time to put it over then with the advice and consent of the Senate. There is no need now of a general resolution conferring extraordinary powers on the executive department.

It is true that the House committee adopted a resolution which would enable the president, if he so desired, to join in an embargo on arms being shipped to Latin-America, but this is a different case entirely. Uncle Sam has a direct interest in what is going on in the Western Hemisphere. There are still a great many people who believe, however, that Asiatic politics the better.

It certainly has been quite a shock to ordinary persons the way some of our great captains of industry turned out to be mere second lieutenants.

We believe that Adolph Hitler would look more like a dictator if he would shave off that moustache.

The Japanese may swallow so much China that they will contract acute indigestion.

When those British delegates come over here we might offer to trade 'em cancellation for the farm relief problem.

It Couldn't Be Worse

In the early part of 1929 we were all sailing along pretty smoothly, without a thought, possibly, of what the immediate future held for us. And then came the big crash of the stock market. Predictions of men "in the know" who had seen panics and depressions come and go in the past warned us all that a crisis of some kind was in the offing. Some not quite sa far-seeing arose, saying: "The market has hit the bottom—it couldn't be worse." But not long afterward, some factories began to close, throwing men out of work—others took up the chant: "Surely it couldn't be worse." More factories began to close—more men out of work—by the middle of 1930 the nation felt the full grip of a tight situation. More men and women lost their jobs—others had their wages cut (and were glad to take a cut rather than lose out completely.) A general exodus from the centers of population—a "back to the farm" move had been started in earnest. And then they began talking about Hoover. Hoover this and Hoover that—why doesn't Hoover do something? Mr. Hoover asked for measures to be enacted to combat the situation, and the legislative bodies gave him the horse-laugh for his trouble. Banks throughout the country failed. Human nature WOULD have its fling—someone must be blamed, and Mr. Hoover had to be "it." At every step, times tightened—money became scarce—no jobs—no confidence. And then more and more people took up the cry: "It can't be much worse." Came the presidential campaign of 1932. Captains of industry warned again of impending disaster in case officials were elected whose ideas of dealing with the rest of the world permitted a flooding of the country with cheap goods to sell in competition with our own goods. But by this time the presidential spellbinders were making the most of the "It couldn't be worse" theory, and we heard it on every hand—the people fell for the bait, just as they had been doing since 1929. A president was elected on that idea—"it couldn't be worse." However, a sobering process began, and people began to think that maybe, after all, thing MIGHT get worse. The money powers, fearful of what might be in store for us, as a precaution, took steps to have the bank "holiday" put into effect. And to top off the whole affair, on March 4, the Federal Reserve System, the tap-root of the national money system, closed. FEAR —fear of what may be in the near future is to be blamed for these latest developments in the banking system. We have been promised help—action. But when? How? No inkling was given out during the campaign as to HOW these things were to be brought about—only promises that it would be done. Are things worse than they were in 1929 — in 1930—in 1931—in 1932? But just remember —they said "it couldn't be worse," even back in 1929. When those in charge of the financial affairs of the nation show little enough confidence in the future to tie up the source of supply of money, I think that should be enough to convince anyone that, after all, "IT MIGHT BE WORSE." How does it look to you?

Confidence?

Many rise to say that "a lack of confidence in Mr. Hoover's ability had much to do with prolonging the period of depression." I believe that, too. During the campaign, people said: "Mr. Roosevelt can do things, because he will have the confidence of the people to help him." And, I believe he can do things IF HE CAN HOLD THE CONFIDENCE that was manifest by the overwhelming majority received. But right there, questions arise. Can he hold this confidence? Is he holding it? The degree of tightness into which the financial system has worked itself answers in box-car letters—NO! I am sure no one, irrespective of his politics, wishes to see Mr. Roosevelt fail to bring back better times. To wish thus would be treason of the highest degree to the country and it's people. But failure to observe the signs of a growing lack of confidence, or, rather, a lessening of the great confidence manifest only a short time ago, is foolish. Much like the ostrich, which buries his head in the sand as the storm approaches. Will it not be better if we keep our heads out of the sand, help keep up as much confidence as possible (no matter what our personal political views,) and buckle down to the big job of getting back to the high road to normal conditions? Sure! Let's go! Everyone can and should help! It's your duty.

The Big Stick

There is a way in which Mr. Roosevelt might set out at once to better conditions—by wielding "the big stick." And don't think he hasn't realized it, already. In his speech at the inauguration he asked that he be given war-time authority—the big stick—that he might be able to bring about a better condition in the financial situation RIGHT NOW. If his Democratic congress will give him the big stick, as it was given to his "cousin Teddy" in a crisis, and if he has the courage to wave it over the heads of the money powers as "cousin Teddy" did, he can do good, and lots of it, in a short time. Let's hope these two big IF's can be realized.

One Little Joke

My space is growing short, and I've used it all regarding the "new deal," but I must make room for one little joke. It, too, is about the Roosevelt inauguration. A bunch of the fellows were listening in by radio to the bustle and big time the Demmies were enjoying in Washington on last Saturday, when someone remarked: "Gee, but don't the Democrats have a big time at their inaugural ceremonies. I believe they get a much bigger kick out of it than the Republicans do when they put a new president in office." Somebody came back with this: "Oh, quit your griping. Don't begrudge the folks their big time. You must remember, the Democrats only get that chance once in a lifetime; so why blame them? It is just possible none of them will ever have the opportunity of seeing another man of their choice placed in office. Let them enjoy their Santa Claus. Don't be so hard-hearted." And, boy—oh, boy! Did those Democrats have a time? Nearly as big a time as they had at their national convention. Well, so long—until next week—or rather until the banks open again, so I can see all your happy faces as you meet Old Man Greenback face to face again. Won't that be a grand and glorious feeling?—Man in the Moon.

It is said that hogs were eliminated from the provisions of the farm allotment bill because the statesmen couldn't get Papa and Mama Porker to agree to curtail production thirty per cent.

IT WORKS WELL IN ITALY; WHY NOT IN OUR COUNTRY?

An American newspaper man, arriving in Italy, made an experiment to test the working of the Italian system of checking up on alien visitors. Alighting from his train in Rome he checked his hand baggage at the station and wandered off in the city without going to a hotel to register. In twenty minutes he was under arrest and was accounting for himself at the police station. He had learned what he wanted to know. The Italian system of keeping track of foreigners does work.

Had this American on arriving in Rome, gone to a hotel and registered he would have made the acquaintance of the Italian police. His registration, which the hotel would have reported immediately to the police bureau, would have met every requirement. The police had made note of him, as well as of all his fellow passengers, when he crossed the border from Switzerland. They knew when his train arrived in Rome. When he did not register anywhere they immediately sent out men to pick him up.

This suggests that if the United States had an adequate system of keeping tab on aliens this county would not be full, as it is, of foreigners who have slipped surreptitiously over the border, and would not be, as it is, a happy hunting ground for alien criminals.

In Italy—in all Continental countries for that matter—an alien cannot slip surreptitiously into the country and stay for more than a few hours. He must register somewhere and when he registers he must have a passport. If not, he is in the hands of the police at once.

In Italy—and other Continetal countries—it is impossible for the foreigner to dodge anonymously about the country, passing here as Mr. Brown and there as Mr. Jones. The police will want to know at once who this Mr. Jones is who has not appeared elsewhere on their records.

All this puts no hardships at all on the well disposed foreign visitor. His hotel or lodging house host attends to the routine. The tourist can go about Italy with no bother with the police so long as he keeps himself properly located in whatever town he is staying. He will actually have in Europe much more liberty than a citizen has in the United States, but he must always be on the records.

Something like this could be very useful in these United States, where we now foolishly give ourselves little or no chance to know whether aliens are here rightfully or wrongfully or what they are up to.
